The time was, not so many years ago, when the traveling salesmen for the supply houses, what few of them were on the road, were burdened in their peregrinations with nothing more than a bundle of photographs. Nowadays, however, the traveler must needs carry some big trunks full of samples, spread them out in attractive array in a big, pleasant room at the leading hotel and undertake the task of coaxing the already overloaded buyer in to see them. Frequently the salesmen travel in pairs. The illustration shows a display of samples in a St. Louis hotel, by W. W. Randall and M. A. Leganger, representing the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. J. M. Keller.

Mrs. J. M. Keller, the wife of J. M. Keller, one of the pioneer florists of Brooklyn, N. Y., died August 21 at Elka Park, in the Catskills. Funeral services were held at the home of her son-in-law, M. Jordan, on Sixty-sixth street, Brooklyn, Monday, August 24.

Nelson Hyde.

Nelson Hyde, the 18-year-old son of H. A. Hyde, of Watsonville, Cal., died Monday, August 10, following an operation for appendicitis. He was in a critical condition when the operation was performed, as peritonitis had set in.

He was born in Santa Cruz, June 30, 1896, and came to Watsonville with his parents in 1897. He left school in his last year of high school to assist his father in the florists' business. The funeral was held August 12 at the family residence.

NEWS, NOTES, AND COMMENTS

Shell Creek, Tenn.—In addition to their good crop of evergreens, R. C. Grogan & Co. have some fine carnation and chrysanthemum plants, which will soon be coming into bloom.

Swampscott, Mass.—E. G. Blaney, while serving in his capacity as member of the fire department, in answering a call a short time ago, strained the ligaments in his knee. He is recovering rapidly, however, at his home, on Norfolk avenue.

New Britain, Conn.—Carl Lorenzen is one of those whom the war has marooned in Europe. He is in Hamburg, visiting his sister, and planned to sail from that port August 6 on the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria. He is beyond the war age limit.

Grand Island, Neb.—A heavy hail storm here on the evening of August 21 inflicted damages amounting to about $2,000 each at the ranges of Edward Williams and John Ellsworth. The former considers himself lucky, as he is carrying insurance in the Florists' Hail Association.

Washington, D. C.—In the Washington Times for Sunday, August 16, F. H. Kramer used his cable correspondence with a Holland bulb grower, in which he ordered a large batch of hyacinth bulbs at bargain prices, as copy for a triple-column advertisement, the burden of which was that Kramer's prices will remain the same despite the war.

Danville, Ill.—August 20 was the date of the first annual outing of the Danville Florists' Club, held at Barlow park, near Alvin. The trip to the park was made in automobiles, and a live program of sports, including swimming, boating and a ball game, made the day pass quickly. One of the enjoyable events of the outing was the dinner served by the florists' wives.

Leominster, Mass.—George M. Kendall, one of the largest growers of vegetables under glass in this part of the country, is moving his large house, 85x400 feet, from the land of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Co., on Main street, to his own land on Nelson street, where his other large houses are located. The railroad company notified Mr. Kendall that the land was wanted for other purposes.

Cedar Falls, Ia.—The company formed by the merger of the Joseph Bancroft Co. and the Bancroft Rose Co., reported in the August 6 issue of The Review, will be known as Joseph Bancroft & Son, Inc. Incorporation papers have been filed, which call for a capital stock of $50,000, of which $35,000 is to be paid in by October 1. H. W. Johnson is president and George H. Bancroft is secretary of the concern.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The installation of a No. 6 Kroeschell boiler is attracting attention at the range of the Wm. Scott Co., of this city.

Waterville, Me.—Charles Carter has opened a store at 154 Main street. At the formal opening, Thursday afternoon, August 13, souvenirs were given to the public.

Haverhill, Mass.—Frank Leith, proprietor of the greenhouses on Primrose street, has been spending a few days in Providence, R. I., where he attended the outing of a Scottish clan.

It took me six months to grow the plants, but it took The Review only one week to sell them.

CHAS. A. MOSS,
Spartanburg, S. C.

Aug. 11, 1914.

Owensboro, Ky. — Three attempts have been made to enter the store of the Nanz Floral Co. in the last two weeks, two of which were successful. Only articles of small value were taken, however.

Little Rock, Ark.—J. B. Hurst, of Tipton & Hurst, left Europe two days before war was declared between Austria and Servia and reached home before he learned of the mix-up abroad. Mr. Hurst spent two months touring the principal countries of Europe.

Spring Valley, N. Y.—A. S. Burns has added five more houses to his range this summer, planning to use the entire place, as heretofore, for lily forcing. Mr. Burns is the largest lily grower in America, buying for his own use more bulbs than some use who are considered larger jobbers. The cut blooms are shipped to commission houses as far west as St. Louis.

Reading, Pa.—At the meeting of the Retail Florists' Association, August 6, plans were made for the autumn flower show, which will be held at Rajah Temple. The entertainment committee is arranging for an outing to be held the latter part of September, probably at Heller's park, Spring Valley.

Benton Harbor, Mich.—The Central Seed & Bulb Co. has disposed of all Norway spruce stock, but not in the manner in which it was intended. The Big Four railroad set fire to 1,400 evergreens of this firm, all in fine condition. E. S. Thompson says, "We expect our pay, but would rather have the trees."

Seattle, Wash.—Simon Swanson, formerly with the Rahn & Herbert Co., Portland, Ore., has rented the greenhouses at 4015 Densmore avenue, known as the Brown greenhouses. Mr. Swanson is growing some chrysanthemums for fall and has a good lot of cyclamens and other flowering plants and ferns started.

Springfield, Ill.—At the executor's sale of the estate of the late Arthur C. Canfield the property at South Grand avenue and State street brought $30,160. Hembreiker & Cole, who have leased the range for some time, purchased the greenhouses and business for approximately $20,000, and the remaining twelve lots were bid in for $10,000 by Charles Sullivan.

Syracuse, N. Y.—The flower exhibits at the New York state fair, to be held here from August 31 to September 5, are expected to be of a high class. The prize list shows eighty-six classes open to professionals, with liberal cash prizes. The American Gladiolus Society offers a silver and a bronze medal for the best exhibits of fifteen varieties of gladioli, three spikes each, correctly named.

New Haven, Conn.—At the meeting of the New Haven Horticultural Society August 11 John H. Slocombe had an excellent exhibit of dahlias and gladioli. Of each of these there were about eighteen seedlings shown, which attracted much attention. Mr. Slocombe is in a fair way to win the Lord & Burnham Co. gold medal for the greatest number of points gained at the fortnightly meetings of the society.

Kankakee, Ill.—In connection with the Schafer greenhouses, a store has been opened on Court street, which will be in charge of Peter Schafer, with Clara Schafer as bookkeeper and cashier. At the opening, held August 13, gladioli were given to visitors and 2,500 were disposed of in this way. The interior of the store is enameled white, with white latticework, which is easily decorated with natural or prepared materials.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

Incorporated by Act of Congress, March 4, 1901.

Officers for 1914: President, Theodore Wirth, Minneapolis; vice-president, Patrick Welch, Boston; secretary, John Young, 53 W. 28th St., New York City; treasurer, W. F. Kasting, Buffalo.

Officers for 1915: President, Patrick Welch, Boston; vice-president, Daniel MacRorie, San Francisco; secretary, John Young, 53 W. 28th St., New York City; treasurer, W. F. Kasting, Buffalo.

Thirty-first annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., August 17 to 20, 1915.

RESULTS.

We give them. You get them. We both have them.

FOLLOWING the precedent set at Baltimore, Minneapolis and Boston, the Californians will be justified in sending the S. A. F. back east in care of the same man as president who takes it west as vice-president. And they can do it.

THIS surely has been a good summer—not one important failure in any branch of the trade. Perhaps this is due to the greater attention now being given to credits, but, on the other hand, the good luck may be due to business being better than usual.

THE S. A. F. convention really marks the opening of the autumn season. After the convention the store men get busy. Any incomplete remodeling or redecorating must be finished at once. Supplies ordered for autumn delivery will be coming in early in September—and any purchases that have been postponed must be attended to at once.

WAR'S ALARMS.

Cycas leaves come from Japan, in a dried state, but the Germans are extremely handy at preparing them for florists' use. Probably we shall not be able to import prepared leaves this year, but Americans have learned how to turn out a good article. The big dealers have picked up all the present available supply, but Japan will send more dry leaves in the course of time.

Gold letters, such as hatters and florists use, come from Germany. There are a lot of letters still in the hands of the supply houses, but no immediate prospect of getting any more.

Ruscus in the bleached state comes from Italy. Some houses dye it here—with German dyes—while others import the dyed article from Germany. There seems little chance of the German ruscus getting here before Christmas and if the raw material arrives from Italy, how about the dyes? It is said there are practically no stocks of dyes in this country. To show to what a bulk the ruscus now runs, one of the jobbing houses that does its own dyeing here states that it has twenty tons of ruscus on hand and forty tons more ordered from Italy.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Waco, Tex.—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed by M. W. Needham, proprietor of the Waco Nurseries, in the Federal court August 18. His liabilities were given as $18,440.52 and his assets as $2,725, with exemptions amounting to $2,695.

SPRAY FOR RED SPIDER.

Referring to the query of R. M., headed "Red Spider on Hardy Phlox," in The Review for July 30, I wish to say that if he will use the spray the formula for which is given in the article on "Spray for Tarnish Bug," in The Review for August 13, he will have no further trouble. Use the spray as directed, and then give another spraying three days later, using as much force on the spray pump as possible. In order to get the best results, the plants should be as dry as possible before they are sprayed.

Do not dissolve the cyanide indoors, as the fumes are injurious to the health. For this reason, if the spray is used in the greenhouse, the ventilators and doors should be open while the spraying is done. In preparing the spray, dissolve the three teaspoonfuls of powdered cyanide of potassium in one quart of boiling water, and add one pound of brown sugar; after mixing these thoroughly, add two gallons of cold water. The spray can be used in any compressed air sprayer. A. Hallett.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

The market gives only slight evidence of the fact that this is the closing week of summer. There is a steady improvement in the demand, but nothing to indicate that in a few days it will be September and time for the market to awaken to ten months of activity. The schools will open in about a week, but that does not seem to be the stimulating factor it once was. In the early days of the business it was a common remark that the opening of the schools brought the flower buyers home and started trade for the season. Now it seems to take weather that is too cold for automobiling.

If the flower buyers had come home a little earlier than usual this year, the market would have been ready for them. Rose crops, especially, have come on earlier this year than usual. The end of August never saw this market so well supplied with first-class roses. To be sure, the stems, with few exceptions, are not yet long, but the flowers are of excellent summer quality and the supply is considerably ahead of the needs of the hour. Beauties have been abundant all summer. They still are. The shorts are not quite so plentiful as they were, for the growers have been cutting from the young plants for several weeks. There can be no complaint this season of lack of variety in the rose offerings. The market never before has offered a choice of so many good varieties. Taking the offerings as a whole, there probably still are as

FANCY AND NOVELTY
ROSES

OUR SPECIALTY IS STOCK A LITTLE BETTER THAN THE REST.

THE crops are coming in earlier than usual and we now are in a position to supply first-class stock in all varieties—the standard sorts grown a little better than most men grow them, and the novelty roses that your customers will be calling for as soon as they see them—don't let it be at the "other fellow's" store. See the list for prices: ☛

BEAUTIES

We shall be glad to keep you supplied with good Beauties—any length. We ALWAYS have large cuts of Beauties and you can get them here every day in the year. The stock is grown by Beauty specialists—men who grow nothing else. This week we have a big cut from young plants—plenty of short and medium stems.

VALLEY

We always have Valley—the famous Chicago Market Brand.

ORCHIDS

You can get here as many fine Cattleyas as you need.

FANCY LILIES

These are home-grown Lilies, true Giganteums, grown from perfectly healthy bulbs. They will reach you in excellent condition and make money for you. Can supply in quantity. Also can furnish Rubrums and Auratums of fine quality.

ASTERS

Our late Asters are quite out of the ordinary. Grown under irrigation, these Asters are the best in market. White, pink, lavender. Try some. You'll want more. Of course we have short Asters, too, for work.

GLADIOLI

FANCY FERNS

By ordering of us you can get all the Hardy Cut Ferns you need. Our stock is good; we never ship anything but the best on the market.

many Killarneys as all other varieties combined. This includes the various Killarney types except Killarney Brilliant. This rose has been largely planted for a novelty and is coming in nicely, but the space given to it is only a small fraction of the total space growers give the original type of Killarney. White is not so heavily planted as a few years ago. Mrs. Shawyer has given an excellent account of itself this summer. Maryland still is liked by some who grow summer roses, but many have dropped it and given the space to Shawyer. Sunburst is more abundant than it ever has been before; the growers have planted it heavily; it is more abundant than Ward, but the latter will come into its own as soon as the demand for corsage work picks up. Bulgarie is selling well; and there seldom is an accumulation, for the public likes the color. Milady will be a strong competitor of Richmond this season, but this is not the time for any special demand for red. Hadley does not yet cut any figure, though available in small quantities. Mrs. Russell continues in favor; ever since the new crop came in it has been the best selling variety on the list.

The market still is well supplied with gladioli, although the receipts perhaps are not quite so heavy as they were before the growers awakened to a thorough realization of what the stock was bringing. America continues to be the best seller and it is so plentiful that it leaves little chance to work off the less desirable varieties. King also goes well, compared to the general run of stock. The aster season is on the wane. Lilies continue equal to all requirements. The call for orchids is beginning to pick up a little, but August has not given the prices usually obtained for fine cattleyas. Valley is not pressing for a market and comes nearer realizing regular prices than anything else on the list. Here and there a bunch of short-stemmed carnations is seen, the first pick indoors. A few Golden Glow chrysanthemums come in, but the supply is erratic and the demand even more so.

With cut flowers so plentiful and cheap, there has been less use than usual of green goods the last few weeks. Galax and ferns have both felt the effect.

Various Notes.

At Libertyville Schuman & Kohout have their place all in Killarney, White Killarney and Richmond roses. The houses were all replanted this spring, so that the summer cut has not been so heavy as last year, when the stock was carried over. Kyle & Foerster merchandise the cut.

At Zech & Mann's F. F. Benthey says Ophelia is giving a good account of itself at the New Castle establishment of Benthey & Co. The true character of the flower is not shown by the summer cut, but the color and fragrance are there.

A. L. Randall comes over from his place near Benton Harbor, Mich., to spend a day at the store every week or so. Merchant Randall says summer business is holding up well, sales generally running ahead of last year, and Farmer Randall says agricultural conditions were seldom better.

John Poehlmann comments that the Mrs. Russell rose must be much more fully developed than other varieties before cutting, but that this does not impair its keeping quality; rather the reverse, for it is proving to be a splendid warm weather shipper.

his concern this season are due, not so much to a larger number of orders or a larger number of houses built, but to the fact that the growers are building better houses than ever before.

The primary election September 9 will be interesting. For the democratic nomination for president of the county board there are nine candidates, one of whom is Peter Reinberg. For the democratic nomination for sheriff there are seven candidates, one of whom is J. A. Mendel. The trade hopes to see both win places on the ballot.

At the George Reinberg establishment the work of drying off the old stock is going on, the cut of new roses being sufficient to supply the demands at the store.

sale business does not get half the attention it deserves.

Albert Sawyer, of River Forest, is devoting more attention to real estate and building business than to asters this summer. His field of the Astermum is not so large as usual and, instead of shipping to local commission houses, his daughter, Anna Grace Sawyer, expects to use most of the crop in her retail store.

E. C. Amling says that the reason the cut flower business has not been good of late is that the weather has been so favorable that the people are living outdoors. "Give us a little bad weather to drive the people into their homes again," says Mr. Amling, "and you will find that the flower business will pick up promptly."

At the store of Kennicott Bros. Co. E. E. Pieser pointed to some fine pots of Golden Glow with the remark that it was no use getting them in during August; people don't want mums until frost.

The Weiss & Meyer Co., Maywood, has doubled its plant at Maywood this season. It will all be in Beauties. John Michelsen says planting was begun in the new houses last week.

After having made a month's automobile tour to New England, Wm. A. Peterson has been spending his week ends at Winona Lake, Ind., where Mrs. Peterson is active in a young women's club.

After the convention at Boston, A. L. Vaughan and wife went to Hatfield, Mass., where their daughter has been visiting for a fortnight, to spend a few days with W. E. Lynch and family. After devoting many years to the cut flower business in Chicago, Mr. Lynch is now growing tobacco on a farm in the valley of the Connecticut.

N. J. Wietor says that the early mums never have paid, in the experience of Wietor Bros. Golden Glow is no longer grown in quantity. On the other hand, the firm has benched 40,000 plants of Bonnaffon and 30,000 plants of Chadwick, none of the newer sorts having been found to compare with these old favorites when it comes to putting dollars into the cash drawer. Mr. Wietor says that pompons paid well last season in spite of the lower prices and that they have been planted in increased quantity this year.

Arthur F. Keenan, who is a rather close student of business conditions, says that the summer has not been much different fom any other, from the point of view of south side retailers.

Miss Nettie Parker, with the Chicago Carnation Co., and Miss Olga A. Tonner returned August 24 after a three weeks' outing in Wisconsin.

One of the standing complaints in the market has been of the difficulty for the sales end to keep in touch with the producing end in the country. The Reichling brothers have solved this difficulty. The elder brother is in charge of Peter Reinberg's greenhouses and the younger brother is in charge of the store. Every day they have a conference over the telephone, the principal purpose of which is to post the store as to what is coming into crop.

"In luck with the times," expresses our position exactly. We were very fortunate in ordering our stock early enough to have it arrive here before war broke out in Europe. In our warehouses a full line of florists' baskets of the latest designs and finishes are waiting your order. Samples are displayed in our salesrooms and you are invited to call and inspect them.

A Word About Prices

It is not our intention to raise our prices as long as it is possible to keep them down. Just as long as our line remains unbroken you are entitled to the lowest price, but when stock begins to shorten it will be necessary to advance our prices.

Mr. Spencer figures that the additional quantity of flowers has resulted in no additional money for the trade, prices having fallen in about the same proportion as the supply increased.

BALTIMORE.

The Market.

Business during the last week has been practically at a standstill. There is any quantity of stock to be had at the buyers' prices. Gladioli are still plentiful, but the majority of them are rather poor. Good asters are not overplentiful, but small ones are to be had by the thousands and many of them find their final resting place in the rubbish heap. Roses of the Killarney class are a glut. The weather has been exceedingly warm and dry, and outside stock, such as dahlias, is likely to be a failure. Some parts of the city have had only one or two good rains since the season began.

Club Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Baltimore Florists' Club was held Monday, August 24. The weather was quite warm, and as a number of regularly attending members had not arrived home from Boston, the attendance was light. The committee on the star spangled banner float was unable to report and the matter was deferred until Monday, August 31, when this week's meeting will be continued. It is hoped that there will be a large turnout next Monday night, as it will be an important business meeting. This float presents a golden opportunity for the florists of this city to get together and do something in the way of making a display worthy of the club and trade in general. Don't forget the date, Monday, August 31, at the club rooms, 8 p. m. sharp.

The Gardeners' and Florists' Club will be represented in this parade, but that does not hinder anyone from making an individual entry. The decorated auto parade will be another good opening. The committee that has this particular parade in charge recently sent out an edict that no machine decorated only with bunting or flags would be permitted to enter; at least one-half of the decorations must consist of flowers. Prizes amounting to $2,500 are offered to the winners and are surely worth making a try for. W. F. E.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

New crop Beauties are the leading feature of the market; to them may be added Golden Glow chrysanthemums, and so too may tuberoses. The rose crop seems a little lighter in the hybrid tea varieties. The new season's carnations are appearing here and there to strengthen the rather weak remains of last season's crop. Asters are temporarily slackening. Gladioli are less plentiful. Cattleyas are scarce, but they can be had by scurrying around. There are plenty of lilies and valley. The demand has been poor, with occasional little runs of business here and there.

The Seed Situation.

Charles H. McKubbin, speaking for Henry A. Dreer, Inc., takes a hopeful view of seed conditions brought about by the war in Europe. Of course no one can tell just what the effect would be should the struggle continue indefinitely. Assuming, however, that the war will not be of long duration, it is fair to suppose that a large part of the seed crops now ready for harvest will be saved. Even should the men go to the war, it seems probable that the women and children will make an effort to save the crops on which so much labor has been expended and on which so much depends. The seed farms of France and Germany are not in the immediate vicinity of the armies, making it more likely that the harvest may be saved. While we depend largely on Germany for certain fine strains of seeds, particularly of vegetable seeds, it would be possible to get most of these seeds elsewhere. The fact that we still have six weeks before it is necessary to make up the seed catalogues will give the seedsmen a chance to find out where they stand in the meantime. Today it seems more than likely that the English and French grown seeds will reach us safely, while the German seeds may be harvested and held in safety until later.

BERGER BROS.

A Rose Slip.

George Craig, who has just returned from the Boston convention, has shown me a neat little rose slip intended for the guidance of the buyer for a retail store. This slip appears to have been prepared for the Chicago market, some of the names printed upon it, such as Rostand, Ophelia, Black Beauty and Chicago, being nearly unknown here. The names are printed in the middle, with spaces ruled off on the left for quantities and on the right for prices. The sizes of the type for the different varieties are rather startling; Mrs. Taft, Stanley and Mock appear in exceedingly large, bold type, while Mrs. Charles Russell and Mrs. George Shawyer are in type so small as to seem insignificant by comparison. Franklin Ely, of Henry F. Michell Co., discussing the seed situation, said that he believed that flower seeds would suffer little from the war, for the present at least. This week's seeds have come from England and from Italy through the mails, while Germany remains unheard from. We depend on Germany for some of our best flower seeds and for some vegetable seeds. Of most of these seeds there is enough in this country for immediate needs, the danger lying in the future in the event of wanton destruction.

William J. Muth announces that contracts have been closed by the King Construction Co. for the erection of one house, 20x100 feet, for J. E. Wade, of Mendenhall, Pa., to be used for tomatoes, and two houses, each 25x100, for L. H. Dedner, Manoa, Pa., to be devoted to carnations.

Robert Q. Shoch describes his defeat in the fat men's race at Boston last Friday by Charles E. Critchell, of Cincinnati, with the equanimity of a thoroughly good sport. Not a shade of sourballedness appeared in his voice as he told of his first walloping.

Charles Henry Fox expects to sail for home on the St. Paul, August 22.

Verona & Steinhoff, of New York city, expect to open their flower store in the N. Snellenberg & Co. department store September 5.

The Market.

Extreme dullness is reported in all lines. The weather has been warm, with cool nights. The local wholesale markets still are loaded with stock of everything in season. A great deal of stock was dumped last week, especially roses and common asters. There was a fair call for cut stock some days, but only in light colors. Outdoor flowers continue to dominate the market, with gladioli, asters and single tuberoses as leaders. The gladioli and tuberoses are good, but the bulk of the asters are of only ordinary quality. In roses there is an abundance of all varieties, the supply exceeding the demand. Beauties and Russells seem to be the best sellers, with the latter, when good, crowding the Beauties in demand. Killarneys and Wards constitute the bulk of the rose stock coming in. There also is plenty of Richmond. Carnations are not so numerous now and the demand for the best of them is good. Easter lilies seem to be in oversupply. The market quotations on these are low. Sweet peas, valley and orchids are scarce.

Everything in greens is in good supply, with the demand equal.

The few who attended the S. A. F. convention last week are back again, and report a great meeting and a most enjoyable week at the hands of the Boston florists. Our old friend, Dan MacRorie, who was elected vice-president of the society, will give us a great time in San Francisco next August.

A good rain fell August 19, which gladdened the hearts of our growers. Though the downpour did not last long enough, it did a world of good to all outdoor stock.

Zorn & Gaertner, of Saginaw, Mich., are consigning their stock to the W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co. A lot of extra good asters, as well as some good gladioli, have come in. These meet with a good call at top prices.

D. Ferry Lomason, representing D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit, Mich., was in the city recently checking up the season's business, which he found to be about thirty per cent better than last year.

John T. Milliken, of Crescent, Mo., now has 75,000 feet of glass planted in roses, carnations and lilies, from which he expects a great cut this fall and winter. William Mehl is superintendent, Carl Sampson is foreman and George Schmidt is rose grower. The Smith Co. will handle the output this season.

A. Y. Ellison is no longer in the employ of F. J. Foster. Mr. Ellison has nothing to report as to his future plans.

M. Le Vine, representing Lion & Co., New York, called on the trade last week with a nice set of samples of the latest ribbons.

ENTOMOLOGIST'S REPORT.

Permit me to call your attention to a few troubles, which, though fortunately still uncommon, may at any time cause considerable damage.

General Injury from Mites.

The common red spider, Tetranychus telarius Linn., of the greenhouse, often causes considerable damage to plants outdoors, particularly coniferous trees and shrubs.

Choice specimen trees on the lawn and in the nursery are now frequently sprayed with kerosene emulsion, soap and water, and nicotine solutions to kill the red spider.

A sister species, the 2-spotted mite, Tetranychus bimaculatus Harv., also greatly injures chestnut and other broad-leaved trees. Both are worse in dry seasons, as wet weather is unfavorable to mites. Nevertheless, during the present season in Connecticut, with an almost unprecedented amount of rainfall, certain kinds of mites have flourished outdoors.

These mites are not insects, but belong to the family acarina, and, like the true spiders, have eight legs and belong to the order arachnida. Many of the mites are pests of plants and animals.

Mite Attacking California Privet.

A short hedge of California privet in my own garden this season was attacked by a mite of the genus phyllocoptes. Apparently it is a new species, and it is doubtful if any mite has been previously recorded from California privet unless, perhaps, red spider.

Nothing unusual was noticed on this hedge in 1913, but the first growth in 1914 had peculiar, slender shoots with narrow leaves curled backward. On examining them with a hand lens, the under side of each leaf was found to be literally covered with small, elongated, crawling mites.

Up to July 1 apparently all terminal leaves on this hedge were infested and curled. On my return from a vacation late in July the hedge presented a changed appearance, as a number of the stronger shoots had the normal appearance, and the mites had disappeared from all the leaves.

Mite on Florists' Stock.

A mite, Tarsonemus pallidus Banks, attacking cyclamens, chrysanthemums and snapdragons, was first brought to my attention November 12, 1912, when an assistant who was inspecting imported stock at a florist's in Bridgeport, Conn., brought to the laboratory some chrysanthemum blooms which, though freshly cut, had many dead and brown petals scattered through them. These blooms were carefully examined by both botanists and entomologists, and the only parasites found were numbers of small, white or transparent mites at the bases of the petals. These mites seemed to be the cause of the trouble.

December 12, 1913, another assistant, while inspecting imported stock at a private place in Hartford, was shown cyclamens which had produced no blooms, with leaves badly curled and buds distorted. These plants were also attacked, especially the leaves and buds, by this same mite, T. pallidus. Later, other infested cyclamen plants were received from Branford, Conn.

January 5, 1914, a New Haven florist brought to my laboratory some snapdragon plants, with leaves badly curled. His whole crop for the season was threatened. The plants were badly infested with Tarsonemus pallidus. Now these mites have a primitive respiratory system and it is often difficult to kill them by fumigating, even with hydrocyanic acid gas. Consequently I arranged to carry on some spraying experiments in his greenhouse to control this pest, and January 7 B. H. Walden and Q. S. Lowry, two assistants, made the first treatment.

These treatments were repeated January 14, 22 and 30. Some of the plants were left untreated as checks; some were sprayed with a tobacco preparation sold as "Black Leaf 40," in two dilutions, one teaspoonful in one gallon, and one teaspoonful in one and one-half gallons of water; the remainder were sprayed with fir tree oil in two dilutions, two ounces in one gallon and three ounces in one gallon of water.

To the tobacco preparation, naphtha soap at the rate of one pound to twenty-five gallons of water was added, for a spreader.

Evidence from these tests seems to show that this pest may be controlled by spraying the under surface of the leaves with the stronger mixtures herein mentioned, of either fir tree oil or "Black Leaf 40." The mites entirely disappeared from the treated plants, but continued to cause injury on the check plants even though they were cut back.

I am indebted to Nathan Banks, of the bureau of entomology, for the identification of these mites.

White Ants and Geraniums.

Another pest which may become serious is the white ant. May 23 I received from a Hartford florist a letter describing trouble with bedding geraniums, Pelargonium zonale, or other species, in the field of a customer in New Rochelle, N. Y. More than 200 plants had been ruined by some insect which tunneled out the inside of each stem and root. The plants, of course, wilted and died.

As I failed to recognize the trouble from his description, I asked for specimens, and in due time received a stem from one of these plants, together with some of the soil in which it was grown. White ants were the cause of this trouble. They had devoured the entire inside of the stem and main root, leaving only a thin layer of the woody tissue and bark.

The insects received were all immature and have not yet been specifically identified, but probably belong to the genus termes.

Termes flavipes Kollar is our most common species, and often breeds in woodwork near the ground, such as construction timbers of bridges, trestles, buildings, fences, etc. We have even found it in old stumps, in the board walks of greenhouses and the strips of wood along the edges of tar walks.

At New Rochelle, however, the white ants could not be traced to any woodwork, but seemed to be all through the soil. It may, therefore, be a different species. There are several destructive kinds in the tropics and at least six species in the southern United States. On a visit to the Bussey Institution, Forest Hills, Mass., July 7, I was shown a geranium stem which had been hollowed out by white ants in exactly the same manner as those in New Rochelle.

A possible remedy is carbon bisulphide used in the soil in the same manner as for ordinary ants, but many tests must be made of various materials before any treatment can be recommended.

PAGES OF RETAILERS' CARDS

THIS department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

Gentlemen:

During the past year I paid you $18.20 for a half inch advertisement in the Retail Florists Department of The Review. I received through this small advertisement, from January 1, 1913, to December 31, 1913, orders to the amount of $566.00. They came by mail and telegraph from New York to San Francisco and from New Orleans to Minneapolis. Since I allowed the senders 20%, the record is as follows:

Total value of orders	$566.00
Less 20% allowed senders.. .. .	113.20
Net value of orders..... .:.	453.80

Here is an addition of $453.80 in business which could not otherwise have been obtained and at an expense of only $18.20.

Since my advertisement appeared only in The Review it goes to show what the retail florists through the country lose if they do not use this medium of advertising. It also goes to show that The Review is not only there with a big "R" but that it has three more big "R's" - Readers - Reliability - Results!

Yours respectfully,
J. J. Beneke

The Market.

Rain fell nearly every day last week, doing great good to outdoor stock. Asters, gladioli, sweet peas, candytuft, montbretias, etc., were all benefited by the wet weather. The drought of the preceding few weeks had been especially detrimental to asters. Gladioli are flooding the market and are cheap. The quality of the stock is excellent, but, owing to the business depression, it is difficult to move any quantity. They are used principally for funerals. Japanese lilies are abundant and are useful in design work. Harrisii lilies are finding a place in the list of summer flowers. Roses held up wonderfully during the trying weather of last week and are of excellent quality. The summer crop of Mrs. Aaron Ward is beautiful. Mock makes a good summer rose; so, also, do Russell and My Maryland. Bulgarie is fairly good at this writing, but Milady is a little off color. American Beauties are really fine, but there is not much of a market for them; the price has kept up during the hot weather. Asters are beginning to mature and the quality is excellent. The firsts, with large flowers and long stems, are bringing a good price.

Snapdragons, scabiosas, montbretias, candytuft, larkspurs, mignonette, etc., still are finding favor with the flower buyers. Pond lilies and lotus flowers are a drug on the market and find their way to the refuse barrels, despite the strong effort to dispose of them. Cattleyas are in fine condition. Lilies of the valley still are sold at the same figure, but it is expected that they will increase in price because of the scarcity of pips, since it is generally understood that the crops in Europe have been neglected and therefore will be a failure, necessitating an advance in the price of valley for the fall and winter. Boston ferns are beginning to sell as fall approaches. They are in excellent condition and the price is firm.

Various Notes.

Miss Ruby Marks has returned from Canada and is now at Angola, on Lake Erie.

Thomas Tobin has returned from Angola, where he has been spending his vacation.

Felix Alberts recently had a pretty arrangement of Boston ferns in boxes, which were placed outside his display window. Red gladioli were placed among the ferns here and there, making a pleasing effect. The window itself was filled with cream-colored gladioli, in jars and baskets.

Edward Slattery is to take a trip soon, visiting New York, Philadelphia and other eastern points.

William Palmer is enjoying his vacation, according to the letters he writes from time to time for his entire force to read. These letters are humorous and help to cheer the boys, who are working hard (?) during the warm weather.

August 14, a basket of large fish arrived from Conesus lake for friends of Henry Krauss, at Anderson's. They were nearly all perch, but those who received them said they never tasted any better.

Miss Anna Louise Faul is on a trip up the lakes, stopping at the principal places along the route.

Jerry Brookins, of Orchard Park, is producing some fine asters in pink, lavender and white, with long, firm stems.

These bring a fancy price. He is growing a few My Maryland roses this summer.

The King Construction Co., of Tonawanda, is erecting two greenhouses, each 25 x 100, for Mrs. Alice A. Erckert, of the Elmwood Floral Co. She reports business as good for this time of the year.

Michael J. Bloy, of Detroit, Mich., paid a short visit to this city en route to the convention in Boston.

Joseph Streit is growing some excellent asparagus strings of the Lutzii variety, which find a ready sale. His Boston ferns are in splendid condition for the fall trade.

Harold Taylor will go on a western trip about September 1. He will stop at Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and Kansas City. His engagement has been announced. E. C. A.

BOSTON.

The Market.

Convention week found cut flower trade at the lowest point of the year. It was as dead as the proverbial door nail. The market had a more or less deserted appearance the whole week, as salesmen and growers were more interested in the convention than in the market. It cannot be truthfully said that the week following the S. A. F. gathering sees any improvement, although asters, which have been the dominant feature for some weeks, were seriously damaged last week by several thunder storms and good flowers move a trifle better. The arrivals, however, are still far too unwieldy for the light demand. Gladioli surely were never such a glut, and, when sold at all, the prices are ruinously low. It is a safe bet that fewer gladioli will be grown here next season.

Roses are somewhat less abundant, but as about all the crop is from the present season's planting, the quality is only mediocre on the whole. Russell, Cardinal, Mock, Ophelia and Shawyer sell as well as any varieties. Several growers are sending in carnations of the new season's crop. These realize low prices, as they compare unfavorably with asters. Lilies are abundant and of fine quality, with light sales. For valley the call continues small. Dahlias, cosmos, buddleias, helichrysums, statice and a variety of other flowers are seen, but for all of these there is little sale. A small supply of gardenias is still available. Cattleyas are in greater numbers than the market requires. For green stock the call is light.

Convention Notes.

It was too bad that convention week should have been selected by the weather man for more thunder storms and uncomfortable weather than we had during the whole of the preceding part of the summer. The copious rains were much needed, but it was a pity they spoiled in some measure the pleasure of visitors.

The thunder storm which burst just as the 12:40 excursionists left the steamer at Nantasket was the most severe of the present summer. The Rockland house management had made plans to serve dinner in a large tent, but the torrential rain made this impossible.

While shore dinners are fine for those who like them, it was noted that large numbers of visitors left lobsters untouched. A somewhat more varied bill of fare would have been appreciated by many.

With pleasant weather on the morning of the harbor trip, the Rose Standish would have undoubtedly carried her full complement of passengers, which is 1,800.

Without wishing in any way to cast reflections on any members of the various Boston committees, William J. Kennedy certainly stood out above all others for the tireless way he worked during the whole convention. As chairman of the ladies' reception committee he did his work so admirably that the ladies presented to him a gold ring as a token of appreciation.

Some of the sports were unavoidably left over. It is hoped that the weather will permit their being pulled off at Frisco a year hence.

At Fort Warren, where the sports were held, there is a resident population of 150. The twenty-five children are daily taken by boat to Hull, on the mainland, to school.

President Wirth's plea for a new and broader title for the S. A. F. is appreciated here, where years ago the necessity for it was expressed in no uncertain tone. The S. A. F. can never be anything more than a strong trade society.

During the reading of A. E. Thatcher's paper on "What the S. A. F. Should Do for the Private Gardener," the writer counted three florists present, showing the keen interest taken by the trade in the O. H. tail of the dog.

The ladies' outing to the north shore was enjoyable for all who made the trip without mishap. At least three cars never got beyond Danvers, Mass., and most of the occupants were glad to get home via steam or electric cars. There were 374 ladies on the auto outing.

There were about 1,000 at the president's and ladies' S. A. F. receptions, August 18 and 19. In spite of the intensely humid atmospheric conditions, dancing seemed to be popular. Mrs.

W. W. Edgar and P. M. Miller were specially courageous to give such a fine exhibition of the Highland schottische while the spectators were kept busy mopping their brows.

William Sim's notable display of gladioli at Horticultural hall was admittedly the finest exhibit seen at any of the exhibition halls. Whatever Mr. Sim takes in hand he grows to perfection.

Seeing that the S. A. F. had voted to meet in Frisco a year hence, the National Association of Gardeners voted to do likewise, and will hold a summer meeting there. The convention comes in December in Philadelphia.

A large number of visitors were guests of the management of Fenway park August 19 and saw the Boston American league team inflict a double defeat on the Chicago White Sox.

Various Notes.

William H. Diehl, of Penn's, whose accidental drowning was reported in last week's Review, was interred at Forest Hills cemetery, Jamaica Plain, August 22. There were many funeral souvenirs from his former fellow employees and others.

There will be an exhibition of children's garden products at Horticultural hall September 5 and 6. The annual dahlia and fruit show comes September 12 and 13.

Among the awards made at the exhibition in Horticultural hall August 18 to 20 were: William Sim received a gold medal and cultural certificate for gladioli. Silver medals went to John Lewis Childs and B. Hammond Tracy for gladioli. Jackson Dawson received a certificate of merit for a collection of ericas. The following received honorable mention for their displays: Old Town Nurseries, R. & J. Farquhar & Co., Eastern Nurseries, T. C. Thurlow's Sons, Mount Desert Nurseries, F. J. Rea, W. W. Edgar Co., E. B. Dane, W. N. Craig, Mrs. Frank Merriam,

The Boston Coöperative Market will hold its annual auction sale of stalls September 5. This auction will undoubtedly be the most successful yet held by this market, which has had great success since moving to its present location.

The fine specimens of phalænopsis from the MacRorie-McLaren Co., at Mechanics hall, were all bought by F. J. Dolansky, of Lynn. Mr. Dolansky says he never had a grander lot of Cattleya Trianæ than he now has. He still cuts a few dozen gardenias daily.

John McFarland, of North Easton, has 3,500 poinsettias coming on in fine shape for the holidays. Charles Norberg, his grower, who has been on a visit to Sweden, is expected home this week.

Mann Bros. are cutting a fine lot of Buddleia variabilis magnifica, a splendid flower for use in funeral souvenirs. They also have a nice assortment of everlastings.

Peirce Bros., of Waltham, are cutting a nice lot of Killarney Brilliant, Ophelia and Ward roses. They report a good demand during the convention for their paper pots.

H. F. Calder, of Norwood, through Mr. Leibmann, is disposing of some magnificent asters with 24-inch stems. The variety is Vick's Branching.

McAlpine & McDonald now have particularly good Crimson Queen, Ward, Killarney Queen and Double White Killarney roses. From Gustave Olson, of Woburn, they have really superb asters.

About 200 private gardeners accepted the invitation of R. & J. Farquhar & Co. to visit their nurseries August 19. The number would have been much greater had not the session of the N. A. G. come the same afternoon.

Galvin's displays of nymphæas from Washington, D. C., have been attractive the last few days.

Mock, Cardinal, Sunburst and Killarney Queen roses with splendid stems for so early in the season. Their roses are always of exceptional quality.

George Cartwright, treasurer of the Boston Flower Exchange, says that the Exchange will not have any auction sale of stalls this year. This will be an entirely new procedure here.

Penn is making a feature of nephrolepis in one-half of the store this week. The duck farm continues its successful run.

The Boston Cut Flower Co. reports a good trade in funeral work last week. They entertained many visitors from a distance during the convention.

Charles Holbrow, of Brighton, returned on the steamer Laconia, which reached New York August 18, and was greeted by many friends at the convention. He said that he had splendid weather while away and saw much of horticultural interest in England.

The Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Boston will hold its next meeting September 15. An attractive program is being prepared.

W. N. Craig.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

The last two or three weeks have been good for outdoor crops. It is surprising how the stock held out through the dry weather and then came out like magic as soon as the rain came. The rains were heavy enough so that the ground was wet through, and those who cultivated at once will have moisture for some time yet. There has not been a drop of rain for over two weeks, however, and the ground that was not well tilled is as dry as before. This has made it particularly hard on those who are trying to get their fall bulbs into the ground. A larger area of bulbs will be grown here this season than ever before, and there is a desire to plant early, as they then mature better. Dahlias, gladioli and tuberoses will be next to a failure here this season unless we have much more rain this fall than usual and a late fall as well. The first gladioli are now ripe and ready to dig. They should be prime stock for forcing.

The new so-called red sunflowers offered by some of the seedsmen, while not really red, are certainly desirable. I saw one that was pure maroon, and others that had all the colors that one is used to seeing in gaillardias. If they can be made to come more true to color they will make good cut flowers, as they have good stems and are graceful and not too large. One striking feature was that there were all shades, even pure yellow, on the same plant. I am informed that there was no trace of any red color till the hot weather came, the early blooms being all yellow.

A pretty fair supply of summer roses is coming in and lilies are plentiful. There are a few carnations and asters, but they are of inferior quality. White and pink althæas are being used freely in design work and they do well for the body of this kind of work.

Various Notes.

I visited several of the growers last week and found things in good shape for the fall crops. At the Joy houses I was pleased to see that they had flanked the front of the houses with cannas. They are looking well, too. Here I saw the new canna, Firebird, in full bloom. The bloom is certainly ahead of anything that I have seen of its color, but unless it does better at other places than it does here, it is not likely to be popular as a bedder, because of the lack of good foliage. The leaves are crinkled and have a tendency to curl too much to give the best appearance. The Joys have several acres of second-crop potatoes that are looking better than any I have seen this season. In their mum houses thousands of the plants already have 3-foot and 4-foot stems, well leaved out to the ground. It looks as though they were to have another season of exceptional quality in mums.

At Geny Bros.' store it was a surprise to see the great improvement occasioned by a new coat of paint throughout. In the workrooms new and convenient furnishings have been provided. They had two heavy runs of funeral work in the last few days and their stock was well cleaned up.

J. F. Corbitt's houses are in good shape. He is propagating geraniums more heavily this season than ever before. A part of his houses are planted with chrysanthemums, which are doing well.

McIntyre Bros. have things in good shape at their houses. They are propagating their new geranium heavily again this season. They say business has held up pretty well this summer.

Hillcrest School Farm received word this week from Holland that their bulbs were packed and awaiting the sailing of a steamer, but that there was no way of knowing when a boat would leave. The firm is getting along rapidly with the new irrigating plant.

...THE...
Chrysanthemum
By Arthur Herrington
Formerly president Chrysanthemum Society of America.

The most complete and comprehensive work on the cultivation of the chrysanthemum that has yet been published in America. Its scope and character may be gleaned from the list of contents, which comprises chapters on composts; planting; benches, boxes or pots; general cultural details; crown and terminal buds; feeding, its object and application; care of the buds; exhibition and judging; specimen plants, plants in pots; raising from seed and hybridizing; sports; hardy chrysanthemums; chrysanthemums for south and west; insect pests and diseases; classification and selection of varieties for special purposes; history of the chrysanthemum, etc. The book will be welcomed for the lucid, comprehensive, as well as the practical character of its contents. Handsomely illustrated. 168 pages, 5x7 inches. Price 50c postpaid.

WE have disposed of nearly 100,000 carnation plants this spring. Please discontinue the ad in The Review. The plants were fine, but we think much of the success in moving so many of them was due to your valuable paper.—The Florex Gardens, North Wales, Pa.

I WAS flooded with a tremendous torrent of orders for my tomato plants, until that rushing stream, which lasted for three consecutive days, swept away every plant I had in the house, numbering tens of thousands. All of it came through The Review. You have no competitor.—H. J. Potomkin, Muncie, Ind.

10-inch pots, made up, beautiful plants, $5, $6 and $7.50 each
12-inch and 14-inch, made up, beautiful plants, $10, $15 and $20 each

Every retail store and grower should feature Crotons this Fall and Christmas. We know our stock will please you and your customers.

CROTON PUNCTATA

One of the finest and most satisfactory varieties for basket work and centers of ferneries.

2½-inch pots .....$ 8 per 100; $ 75 per 1000
3 -inch pots .....$20 per 100; $150 per 1000
4 -inch pots .....$25 per 100; $225 per 1000
8 -inch pots, made up.....$18 and $24 per doz.

CROTON NORWOOD BEAUTY

This variety is one of the best of our seedlings raised three years ago, and we are now in a position to offer same in quantity and at very reasonable prices. This variety has an oak-shaped leaf and is brilliantly colored red, yellow and orange.

4-inch pots, heavy.....$6 per doz.; $40 per 100
5-inch pots, heavy.....$12 per doz.
6-inch pots, heavy.....$18 per doz.

CROTON CHANTRIERII MAJOR

One of the best of the French introductions. Very large leaf; brilliantly colored red and yellow.

4-inch pots.....$6 per doz.
5-inch and 5½-inch pots, $0.75, $1, $1.25 and $1.50 each

CROTONS (NARROW-LEAF TYPE)

Delicatissima, Golden Thread and Florence

These varieties are indispensable for table decoration and we predict a great future for them, as nothing surpasses them for use in artistic arrangement.

2¼-inch pots, heavy.....$25 per 100
4 -inch pots, heavy.....$50 per 100
5 -inch pots, heavy.....$0.75 and $1 each
6 -inch pots, heavy.....$15 and $18 per doz.

The new special Croton combination that we have prepared for this Fall trade is in a white cedar box, 12 inches square, 6 inches deep, covered with birch bark, and trimmed in brown. The ivy used is the small leaf variety. The crotons are of very high color, artistically arranged and are well established. We are sure these will prove to be excellent sellers. $7.50 and $10 each.

NEW SEEDLING VARIETIES.

Our new Seedling Crotons, some of which we disseminated in June, 1911, are varieties that should be in every grower's and private person's collection. They are far superior to many of the older varieties of Crotons and the types range from narrow to very large leaf.

We particularly call your attention to our set of thirteen, named after the "Thirteen Original States," which have won highest honors wherever shown.

4-inch pots, strong plants, $3 each; $30 per doz.; $200 per 100
6-inch and 7-inch pots, larger plants, $3.50, $4 and $5 each

DRACAENAS

There is no variety of foliage plant as attractive as the highly-colored Dracaena. The small and medium sizes can be used to great advantage in making up the popular Christmas baskets, while the large specimens have always been in great demand for decorative purposes. We are now growing more Dracaenas, in greater variety, than any firm in this country.

DRACAENA GODSEFFIANA

Green and white leaf, very hardy; fine for baskets.

2¼-inch pots.....$10 per 100
3 -inch pots.....$15 per 100
4 -inch pots.....$25 per 100

DRACAENA MASSANGEANA

The variety with the golden stripe down the center of the leaf. This handsome plant is the best of all Dracaenas for the house. We have an exceptionally large stock, well colored and of the very highest quality. We have the largest and finest stock in this country.

4-inch pots, heavy...$7.50 per doz.; $50 per 100
6-inch pots, heavy.....$15 and $18 per doz.
8-inch pots, heavy.....$2, $2.50 and $3 each
10-inch pots, heavy.....$3.50, $4 and $5 each

DRACAENA FRAGRANS

Plain green leaf.

4-inch pots.....$5 per doz.
6-inch pots.....$6 and $9 per doz.
8-inch tubs.....$18 per doz.
10-inch tubs.....$3 and $4 each

DRACAENA BRONZE BEAUTY

This variety was offered three years ago with Dracaena Mandaiana by the introducer, Wm. A. Manda, and is the strongest-growing Dracaena we have. Although not as highly colored as Dracaena Desmetiana, we have found it wonderfully durable as a house plant. We offer splendid specimens.

2½-inch pots.....$12 per 100
4 -inch pots.....$35 per 100
5 -inch pots.....$50 per 100
6 -inch pots.....$9 and $12 per doz.

150,000 NEPHROLEPIS (IN VARIETY)

We are the largest growers of Nephrolepis Ferns in the country in the following varieties; in fact, we are the headquarters for them. The demand increases each year, and it is our aim to have every variety of Nephrolepis, in every size, every day in the year.

NEPHROLEPIS TODEAOIDES

London Fern. A good, strong grower and one we think of very highly.
2¼-inch pots.....$6 per 100; $50 per 1000
4-inch pots.....$20 per 100; $180 per 1000
6-inch pots.....$6 per doz.

9-inch and 10-inch tubs, $24, $30 and $36 per doz.

NEPHROLEPIS ELEGANTISSIMA IMPROVED

This variety is a greatly improved Elegantissima and shows no tendency to revert to the Boston. This will prove a valuable addition to the crested varieties.
2¼-inch pots.....$6 per 100; $50 per 1000
4-inch pots.....$20 per 100
6-inch pots.....$6 per doz.
8-inch pots.....$12 and $15 per doz.
Larger plants.....$2, $2.50, $3 and $3.50 each

NEPHROLEPIS SCHOLZELI

This is an ideal crested Fern, holding the same relation to all other crested varieties that the Scottii holds to the old Boston.
2¼-inch pots.....$6 per 100; $50 per 1000
4-inch pots, heavy....$20 per 100; $180 per 1000
6-inch pots, heavy.....$6 per doz.; $45 per 100
6-inch pots, heavy.....$9 per doz; $70 per 100
8-inch, ¾-pots.....$12 per doz.; $90 per 100
11-inch tubs.....$24 and $30 per doz.

NEPHROLEPIS ELEGANTISSIMA COMPACTA

A dwarf, compact form of Nephrolepis Elegantissima, each plant making an ideal shape.
2¼-inch pots.....$6 per 100; $50 per 1000
4-inch pots.....$20 per 100
6-inch pots.....$6 per doz.
8-inch pots.....$12 per doz.

NEPHROLEPIS ROBUSTA (NEW)

Place orders at once for Nephrolepis Robusta. The Silver Medal Fern at the National Flower Show, winning over all competition. We claim this variety to be the finest of all crested Nephrolepis, being exceptionally fine in large sizes. It is the strongest grower of all the Nephrolepis Ferns, never reverts and every plant is symmetrical and salable in all sizes.
2¼-inch pots, strong plants, $15 per 100; $125 per 1000
4-inch pots, strong plants, $25 per 100; $200 per 1000
6-inch pots, strong plants...$50 and $75 per 100
8-inch Azalea pots, heavy plants, $12 and $15 per doz.

10-inch ¾ pots.....$18 per doz.
11-inch tubs.....$2, $2.50 and $3 each
13-inch tubs, specimen.....$4, $5 and $6 each

NEPHROLEPIS SMITHII

The greatly-improved Amerpohlii. It is a compact form, much finer than Amerpohlii and does not break down in the center. The fronds are carried on wiry stems. This variety will have a wonderful sale up to a 6-inch pot, being particularly showy for basket work.
2¼-inch pots.....$10 per 100; $90 per 1000
4-inch pots.....$25 per 100
6-inch pots.....$6 and $9 per doz.
8-inch pots.....$12 and $15 per doz.

NEPHROLEPIS TUBEROSA PLUMOSA

This beautiful fern is quite distinct from all of the other varieties of the Boston Fern in so much that it has been raised from the Japan species Nephrolepis Tuberosa, which type is much hardier than the Exaltata.

The fronds are long and narrow, the pinnules beautiful plumose, which are of light color, giving the fronds a beautiful effect on account of the two distinct shades as well as its graceful waviness, and will be found a great and distinct addition to collection ferns.
2¼-inch pots.....$10 per 100; $90 per 1000
4-inch pots.....$25 per 100; $225 per 1000
6-inch pots.....$50 per 100
6-inch pots, heavy.....$9 per doz.
8-inch pots, heavy.....$15 per doz.

NEPHROLEPIS BOSTONIENSIS Wm. K. Harris

The finest variety for large plants, being a great improvement over the old Boston.
2¼-inch pots.....$6 per 100; $50 per 1000
4-inch pots.....$20 per 100; $180 per 1000
6-inch pots.....$6 per doz.; $45 per 100
6-inch pots, heavy.....$9 per doz.; $70 per 100
8-inch pots.....$12 and $15 per doz.
11-inch tubs....$2, $2.50, $3, $4, $5 and $6 each

NEPHROLEPIS BOSTONIENSIS HARRISII

A dwarf type of the Nephrolepis Harrisii and excellent in all sizes from 4-inch plants up.
2¼-inch pots.....$6 per 100; $50 per 1000
4-inch pots.....$20 per 100; $180 per 1000
6-inch pots.....$6 per doz.; $45 per 100
7-inch pots, heavy.....$9 per doz.; $70 per 100
8-inch pots.....$12 and $15 per doz.
11-inch tubs.....$2, $2.50 and $3 each

ASPARAGUS PLUMOSUS NANUS

Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, Lester L. Morse, San Francisco, Cal.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O. Thirty-third annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., June, 1915.

ONION will not be a full crop anywhere this year, but there is little concern over the fact; there probably will be enough.

WORD comes from Rocky Ford that the cantaloupe that was replanted after the spring hail is in a fair way to make a crop of seed.

AFTER the way beans cleaned up last spring it is to be regretted that the best information affords nothing better than a moderate prospect for this year's crop.

WESTERN growers of sweet corn are counting confidently on good crops. An early frost is about all they have to fear. It has been a good summer for the Nebraska seed growers.

WILLIAM KOOPEMANS, manager of the nursery department of the Farmer Seed & Nursery Co., at Faribault, Minn., recently returned home after a visit of several months in Holland.

RALPH M. WARD, who recently returned to New York after a trip to Japan, says the average crop of Formosa lily bulbs has been a million and a half, while the 1914 crop exceeds two millions.

J. S. ABEL, of the Amarillo Seed & Nursery Co., at Amarillo, Tex., has thirty acres of Sudan grass, which he is growing for seed. He believes firmly in the possibilities of this crop and expects to do a profitable business with the seed from his ranch.

A LARGE part of the stock necessary for the 1915 congressional free seed distribution has been contracted for in England and France. Possibly the government seed shop is more in need of prompt shipment than is the average commercial seedsman. It is within the possibilities that the war may be a large factor in causing a discontinuance of the free seed farce.

AMERICA A DUMPING GROUND.

With reference to the suggestion made in this department of The Review for August 6, to the effect that the United States might be called on this year to absorb more than its usual part of the crop of Dutch bulbs, it begins to seem that America this year will be the dumping ground for all trade articles the rest of the world finds itself unable to deliver to customers in the countries that are at war. The records show that the shipments of French bulbs to the United States this season are far heavier than last year, and the Hollanders are, some of them, almost hysterical in their efforts to find buyers here for the bulbs usually shipped to Europe. Also now comes the word from Japan that England, a large user of giganteum, is canceling orders, with the result that there will is OUR month. Our most cherished month for vacation; our best month for business. Best, because in it we lay the foundation for our spring and summer sales. We grow Snaps largely for retail trade and have the bulk of our plants so timed as to flower from Easter until July, with a bumper crop at Memorial. The accompanying picture, which was taken Memorial week, will show what we mean and how well we do it. Though our crop has been heavy we have never had enough Snapdragon blossoms to meet the demand at Decoration time. Then closely follow the important months of June and July, when indoor blossoms are scarce and outdoor flowers have not appeared. It is here that SEPTEMBER SOWING of Silver Pink comes to our rescue and gives us many timely dollars.

TO DO THIS TRICK

we sow seed in September. The simple rules that we follow are given in our free cultural directions. If you need a word of proof read the following extracts from letters received this week:

"Your S. P. Snaps are certainly fine. I could have sold TEN times as many blossoms."
F. C. Dowd, Madison, Conn.

"This is four times that we have purchased your 7 pkts. for $5.00. Want more; big demand. Rush seed to us."
Hammerschmidt & Clark, Medina, O.

Price of seed, $1.00 per trade pkt., 3 for $2.50, 7 for $5.00, postpaid for cash. Plenty of plants in October.

G. S. RAMSBURG, SOMERSWORTH, N. H.

be no market save America. The Japanese probably will relieve the situation to some extent by holding back and replanting the smaller bulbs, which will be desirable also from the fact that the larger sizes have been relatively scarce the last few years.

PAPER WHITES A PROBLEM.

What to do with the surplus of Paper Whites is a problem that is perplexing some of the big bulb dealers. There are big lots of bulbs that are not so easy to dispose of as one might expect. Ordinarily the selling season would run along for some time, but this year buying has fallen off, because of war's alarms. It seems a little difficult to advertise the surplus at a cut price almost before those who have paid regular prices get their shipments unpacked, for there are sure to be recriminations and it also is a question how deep a cut would be necessary to move the stock in the present unsettled state of the markets for all bulbs. Also, there is the possibility that the demand may revive at a little later date and clean up the unsold stock at regular prices.

FRENCH BULB RECEIPTS LARGE.

As was predicted in this column last week, with the arrival of the steamer Germania from Marseilles August 16 the receipts of French bulbs reached a total which exceeds that of either last year or the year before. This is, barring unforeseen circumstances, the last of the big shipments of these bulbs for this season. In previous years occasional small batches of bulbs have come after the large shipments have been received, so that it may be expected that the present total will be further raised, but only to a small extent. It is certain, therefore, that there will be no scarcity of French bulbs in this country this year. Anxious moments may be reserved for other subjects more in doubt.

Sweet Peas of C. W. Curtis, Irondequoit, N. Y.
Raised from Boddington's Quality Seed.

BODDINGTON'S "QUALITY" CHRISTMAS-FLOWERING

Sweet Peas

WE ARE SUPER-HEADQUARTERS

All true stocks of Winter-flowering Sweet Peas will again be scarce this season. The winter-flowering Spencer types are almost a total failure, owing to the exceptional season in California this spring, and through the ravages of Aphis we regret that we are unable to offer any seed, with the following exceptions. Our advice to intending planters is to order at once. Note revised prices.

The Sensational Australian Spencer Winter-flowering Sweet Pea, Yarrawa

We have been fortunate enough to secure a small quantity of this wonderful new Spencer Winter-flowering Sweet Pea from the raiser, Arthur Yates, of Sidney, and now offer it for the first time in America. It is far superior to the prevailing Spencer types—the flowers being exceptionally large and well fluted and waved; in color it is almost a duplicate of Countess Spencer, a delightful light soft rose, which lights up beautifully at night. We offer this original stock till sold, for trial, at $1.00 per trade pkt.; 3 trade pkts. for $2.75.

ROSE QUEEN "ROSE QUEEN" is Orchid-flowering, borne on long stems, extremely free and early and of pink color most attractive; is a decided acquisition, and, like all meritorious novelties, is sure to be in demand wherever grown. Prices: Trade pkt., $1.00; 3 trade pkts. for $2.75; 1 oz., $12.00.

ANITA WEHRMAN A fine, clear lavender, with three to four flowers to stem, and has been grown with 20-inch stems, holding the length longer than is usual with any other winter-flowering variety. Prices: Trade pkt., $1.00; 3 trade pkts. for $2.75; 1 oz., $12.00.

BIG SHIPMENT OF DUTCH BULBS.

After an adventurous voyage, during which she was four times hailed by British cruisers and twice received shots across her bows, although all her lights were burning, the Holland-America steamer Nieuw Amsterdam, from Rotterdam, reached New York August 18, with nearly 3,000 cases of Dutch bulbs aboard. This is the first of the large lots of these bulbs which are now due to come in rapid succession, according to the experience of other years, and as the Holland-American line is now running on a regular schedule, there should be no difficulty so far as transportation is concerned. The consignments brought by the Nieuw Amsterdam were as follows:

SEED CROPS IN CALIFORNIA.

"Sweet peas and beans are the main seed crops that are grown in Lompoc valley," said Edwin Lonsdale, resident manager of W. Atlee Burpee & Co., at Lompoc, Cal., in commenting on the prospects for this season's seed crops August 13. "Sweet peas turned out better than at one time we expected, and there will be really good crops, though no threshing yet has been done. Still, judging from former years, the yields will be equally good, and in many cases superior.

"There are a good number of seed beans grown in Lompoc valley in addition to what are known as commercial beans. Seed beans means principally Kentucky Wonder, which is a favorite variety here, because it generally—it might be said always—does well and yields bountifully. At this stage of their growth they really never did look better than they are looking today, and a bountiful yield is looked forward to, by both interested and uninterested parties."

"We shall be short on some varieties of sweet peas this year, especially

DUTCH BULBS

P. HOPMAN & SONS, WHOLESALE BULB GROWERS. HILLEGOM, HOLLAND

Beg to inform that, owing to the fact of being 25 years one of the best known growers of bulbs for our friends in England and on the Continent, where bulbs are now, through the war, practically unsalable, we are bound to sell our bulbs to another part of the world, which only can be the U. S. A. We, therefore, offer the undermentioned bulbs of extra fine quality to the buyers in the U. S. A., hoping you will give us a chance to sell these bulbs in your country.

These bulbs were all reserved for our friends in England and Germany, so you never will buy such fine stuff at such low prices, and as no expenses of traveling, etc., are appended to these prices, you may be sure that you will get the most value for your money. Our cultures extend over 85 acres and are in the very best condition.

Our prices are for cash with order, less 5% discount. The best manner to pay is postal order, from which you may deduct the expense of sending the money by this way.

grandifloras, while on some varieties of Spencers we shall have a surplus," is the report of L. D. Waller Seed Co., of Guadaloupe, Cal. "Nasturtiums look like a fair crop, and we shall have a surplus of some varieties of small flower seeds."

FROM THE SEAT OF WAR.

How far the European war interferes with the business of continental concerns may be seen from the following letter received by H. Frank Darrow, the New York importer, from the firm of Vilmorin-Andrieux & Co., the seed firm of Paris:

"Owing to the general mobilization of the army and to the present condition of affairs, suspending all business traffic on our railroads, we are not in a position to execute any orders for the present. The disorganization of the mail may also prevent us from answering inquiries.

"Four hundred men of our staff, out of 700, have been called to join the army, but we hope that after the present period of interruption of business traffic is over, which may be towards the end of this month, it will be possible for us to resume, at least in some measure, our relations with our correspondents."

CLARK ON SEED CROPS.

"Our expectation is a pretty fair crop of peas," reports Arthur B. Clark, president of the Everett B. Clark Seed Co., who is inspecting the company's Michigan and Wisconsin crops. "We believe a few sorts, particularly some of the early varieties extensively used by the seed trade, will come out somewhat short. Aside from these, we expect deliveries will be either full or at a high percentage.

"If our friends across the water persist, as it seems quite certain they are determined to do, in settling their differences by the medieval manner of blowing out one another's brains instead of by the use of the agencies which have been built up for the employment of reason in such crises, we may see, and it quite looks to us that we shall see, higher values. If the threshing returns, which we are just now commencing to receive, indicate that we are going to be blessed with a few bushels surplus of peas, we feel that they will prove not unwelcome property.

"Beans on the average made an exceedingly good stand, a fairly strong growth, and podded well, except in certain sections where the drought interfered with the podding. Our Wisconsin crops suffered most in this last respect, as they did not get sufficient moisture at a time when they most seeds are all grown by myself and are offered in the following mixtures and separate colors:

22—KENILWORTH STRAIN—The flowers are of perfect form and substance: many of the immense flowers are from 3½ to 4 inches; it is a striking collection of beautiful colors and markings, rich with shades of red, brown, bronze, mahogany and many others too numerous to mention. Light, Medium or Dark Mixtures.

24—KENILWORTH SHOW—An extra fine strain of large flowers; the immense flowers are of circular form and great substance; a beautiful collection of colors and markings.

26—KENILWORTH CUT FLOWER MIXTURE—Is a distinct class by itself, surpassing all other strains as a cut flower or for exhibition purposes, for inside or outside growing; the large flowers are carried erect above the foliage on heavy stems, 7 or 8 inches long, in the most graceful manner, and stand the hot, dry weather well.

28—MASTERPIECE—A remarkable type; the curled, wavy petals giving the flower a double appearance, large flowers of great substance, on long, strong stems.

30—GIANT THREE AND FIVE BLOTCHED PANSIES—A superb mixture. Flowers large and of circular form and of great substance. The display of coloring is unsurpassed. A combination of almost every shade of rich velvety colors, reds are particularly conspicuous; the petals being distinctly marked with three or five large dark blotches.

NEW SEED NOW READY

All sorts and mixtures, except the new Pansy Princess, are $5.00 per oz.; $1.25 per ¼-oz.; 5000 seeds, $1.00; trade packet of 1000 seeds, 25c; any 5 pkts., $1.00. Please order by number.

PRINCESS

20—The New Upright Pansy

This strain is entirely distinct from all others. It is absolutely compact, upright growing, and extremely weather-proof, enduring many storms without damage to its flower. The flowers are mostly blotched and frilled like the Masterpiece, of good form and heavy velvety texture, on heavy stems carried well above the foliage. Attractive by the brilliancy of its colors.

500 seeds, 25c; 1000, 50c; ¼ oz., $2.50; 1 oz., $10.00.

needed it. On the other hand, our crops in Michigan—and that seems quite odd for Michigan, too—have suffered from excessive moisture, and also from the destructive diseases which always beset a crop of beans, but this year to a worse degree than usual. However, it often seems to us that the seed trade must get tired of the hard-luck stories in connection with crop reports, for it seems as though there were a never-ending string of mishaps and hardships, and we think the seedsmen who are not right next to the growing end feel inclined to subject to a high rate of discount anything and everything in the nature of a pessimistic report. For this reason, if for no other, we strive to avoid bearing too hard on the dark side of things. Nevertheless, as a matter of hard, cold fact, nature does serve up a pretty good number of hard blows in the form of capricious weather conditions, diseases, and what not, and any of the trade who come tolerably close to the soil in their attempt to wrench from it something of value will be broad enough to acknowledge that this is a fact. So, if we are honest, we have to say that in our opinion we cannot this year have a full crop of beans by a long margin, bare as the market is and however much a full crop may be needed. The writer feels that there is a good prospect for making a better crop than we had last season. However, that says little, when you consider what last season's crop was. Furthermore, it is going to take favorable weather for harvest; that is, these excessive rains must cease from now on if we are going to do even that well.

"One cannot talk definitely this early, of course, but we do know already that some varieties are bound to be quite short in supply. We have simply come to recognize this with respect to those varieties and to hope for the best with regard to the others."

MONTANA PEA CROP.

"Owing to the rank growth of vine on late varieties of peas in Gallatin valley, the acreage here this year on those sorts has been considerably lessened," says William A. Davis, head of the W. A. Davis Seed Co., of Bozeman, Mont., in speaking of the pea crop in that section. "The growth of vine has not been as great on any variety as in previous seasons, but all are podding and filling fairly well, with the exception of the early, large-podded sorts. The maturing season has been hot and dry; consequently seed will be rather small, but of good sample and vitality. Some of the later crops have been prematurely ripened, but milling and hand-picking will remove the imperfect seed. Harvesting is well under way and threshing about to begin. With continued favorable harvest weather the average returns should equal those of previous seasons."

BODDINGTON'S GIGANTIC PANSIES

Can be produced only from the giant strains. Our CHALLENGE PANSY seed contains only the giant self-colors, the giant striped and variegated and the giant blotched, etc., all carefully mixed in proportion. You could not buy better seed if you paid $100 per ounce. Our Challenge Pansy seed during the past season gave unprecedented satisfaction, and every order booked last year was duplicated and increased this year. All the testimonials received mentioned specially the high grade of flowers—color, form and size of the individual blossoms. This year, by adding improved types, intending customers can absolutely rely on a duplication of this season's success with increased satisfaction. Our "mark" for this strain is "Challenge," and it is all the word denotes.

Pansy—Boddington's "Challenge"—All Giants

This mixture contains all the finest Giant strains—of the leading Pansy Specialists in the world—the Giant self-colors, the Giant striped and margined, and the Giant blotched, etc., all carefully mixed in proportion—the finest that money can buy—the finest your money can buy. NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Club Meeting.

The New Orleans Horticultural Society held its regular monthly meeting August 20 at the Association of Commerce building. President P. A. Chopin and Secretary C. R. Panter were at their respective places and a fair number of members was present. After the regular routine work was completed, the holding of a spring show was discussed, as the buildings for the proposed state fair during the month of November will not be finished this fall. After some debate President Chopin urged the members to come in force to the next meeting, in September, fortified with plans and suggestions for a show in the spring of 1915. The only real difficulty is the obtaining of a suitable place within the business thoroughfare at the time wanted. The florists have the material and know how to grow the stock wanted at the right time.

The importation of French and Holland bulbs and plants for the coming season was discussed. All expressed the hope that hostilities in Europe would find an early ending and the various ports be opened for commerce.

Peter Chopin, C. W. Eichling and R. Eichling took part in a discussion as to the advisability of planting cold-storage lilies of all kinds for summer crops. The first and last named stated their belief that it was only a waste of time and money.

C. W. Eichling brought a fine young araucaria and was awarded ninety points by the judges.

This society is cosmopolitan in character and it must be stated that the best of good fellowship existed during and especially after the meeting.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

WHAT TO GROW.

Allow me to thank you, though late in so doing, for your valuable suggestions on "Plants for a Hot, Dry Climate." I again want to call on you for advice. It has been with envy in my heart, but with no malice, that I have read from time to time in The Review the notices from advertisers in such words as these: "Please discontinue my ad; all sold out for this season." I also want to be an advertiser in your successful advertising medium, and, when success is assured, I would not want to write to discontinue my ad, but would rather ask you to quote yearly rates, so that I might sell the large quantities that I would expect your medium to dispose of for me.

But what shall the line of plants be, for which there would be a steady demand nearly all the year around? I have the proper soil, in the California "frostless belt," and have plenty of land to raise outdoor cuttings in soil, thus ensuring stronger and healthier plants than from sand-rooted cuttings.

Among the easiest plants to propagate here, in our dry, hot air, are geraniums. In what months is there generally the best demand for these? What varieties are now sought after, outside of the old standbys, such as Ricard, Nutt, Grant, Poitevine, Berthe de Presilly, Jean Viaud, Mme. Recamier, etc.? I should like to confine myself to half a dozen or not over a dozen varieties and to work up a steady trade on these by sending out only strong, large-rooted cuttings and unrooted ones. Here, in California, it is a case of "stick them in the ground and see them grow"—too rank, perhaps. It might seem as if geranium plants and cuttings were overdone, judging from the number of advertisers having them for sale at extremely low prices. But would not field-grown cuttings, six inches high, with strong bodies, be of greater value, bringing quicker results, than the little 2-inch or 2½-inch pot plants at the same price? Any pointers you can favor me with will be reciprocated when you have started me on the road to success by aiding me to advertise in your valuable medium.

J. E. W.

One of the most frequent questions asked of men in the trade is, "What can I grow to make money?" The querists seem to lose sight of the fact that if we knew just what to grow and could be sure of selling it, we might all be rich. Men who have been in the business in southern California for years are still guessing as to what they will grow. There is always a good demand for well grown stock of almost any kind, geraniums as well as any other, but it would be folly to advise anyone what to grow.

There is always the element of chance in the growing of any sort of stock and what pays well one year may be overdone and profitless the next year. According to the writer's observation, geraniums of the ordinary zonale types have not been a particularly good line locally this season, but they may be better next year. What are known as Lady Washington geraniums, or pelargoniums, have been more in demand than zonales, and thus the game goes. It is a gamble to a great extent, but it is pretty safe to say that good stock at the right price, and advertised properly, seldom misses a market.

H. R. Richards.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

Another quiet week has to be recorded, with but little funeral work or other business. Retailers, however, are keeping up nice shows in their windows, which ought to entice what little transient trade there is. A large supply of every kind of flower is on hand, so patrons have a good selection to choose from. The indoor roses are good for the season and the outdoor ones are especially fine, as the comparatively cool weather produces more substance in the flowers than is usual at this time. The blue delphiniums make attractive window displays; so, also, does the showy Iris Kæmpferi, one of the best and most attractive summer flowers. Centaureas are fine in every way and their lasting qualities make them especially useful for keeping up a good show. Dahlias are good for display, but only a few are sold.

Nurserymen report quiet times; nevertheless, the demand is better than is usual at this season. Every year shows the need of more stock being lifted and either boxed or potted for summer sales. People who are fond of their gardens, but have little horticultural knowledge, ask for plants when they see them in bloom in other places, and if the sales are not made then, they are lost. Cold storage bulbs of Lilium giganteum are almost sold out, but the new L. Harrisii stock is taking their place. There is a good demand for vegetable plants.

Various Notes.

Paul Miller, of the cut flower department of the Los Angeles Flower Market, has gone to Wheeler Springs for his vacation. C. Morton and Fred Sperry are still on the job, but take side trips occasionally.

H. N. Gage, of the H. N. Gage Co., is starting this week on a trip to San Diego, Arizona and adjoining territory, drumming up orders for the fine stock he is now getting in from the Montebello nursery. Cecile Brunner roses from under glass are much superior to the outdoor stock here, this firm having one house devoted entirely to this variety.

The trial grounds of the Germain Seed & Plant Co., on the Whittier road, are exceedingly attractive now to the large number of automobilists and others who use this much-traveled road. Cannas, phloxes and tigridias are particularly fine at this time.

Darling's Flower Shop is becoming noted for its fine window displays, Mr. Darling having picked up many good ideas in his European trip, which he is using now. The display of ribbons and chiffons is magnificent here.

Henry W. Turner has been laid up for a few days with a severe cold, his doctor fearing a case of pneumonia if he kept about. Mr. Turner is so used to an active life and getting through about two men's work that he makes rather a bad patient, and I was glad to hear just before writing this that he was feeling better.

The Germain Seed & Plant Co. has disposed of its east side nursery to Henry J. Gilbert. Mr. Gilbert is well known in the trade here and much liked by all. He is a hustler and knows his business, two things that go to the make-up of a successful nurseryman, and he will doubtless make good here. Increasing facilities at their holdings on the Whittier road formed the reason the Germain people sold out. All will wish Mr. Gilbert success in his new venture.

week was particularly brisk, there being ample funeral work and a good, steady transient trade.

We still see a heavy supply of Lilium rubrum; in fact, there have been more cut rubrum lilies this year than the market has been able to use. Fortunately, however, they bring a good retail price. Carnations are still plentiful, but sweet peas are on the wane. Cattleyas are much sought; in fact, it is almost impossible to secure any quantity of good blooms. Amaryllis has been arriving in great quantities in the last three days, but it is not particularly good as a cut flower, its best use being for conventional funeral work.

From now on until after the world's fair the retail florists should reap a harvest, and there is no doubt that that will be the case. The crops in every part of the state are larger than they have been for many years. The seed crops in the Sonoma valley and also in the southern part of the state are phenomenal, and there is no question that the results of the bountifulness of California will be felt as soon as some of this raw material is turned into gold.

A great deal has been said about the depression which would be brought about by the European war, but we cannot at this writing see that any such depression is attendant. The matter of Holland bulbs has been a question of much discussion, but should we be barred from bringing in bulbs, we would suffer no great hardship. We have an ample supply of home-grown stock that is quite as fine as the Holland stock and in many instances better.

Various Notes.

Work at the world's fair is progressing with remarkable rapidity, and the conflict abroad will in no way prevent our exposition from being the finest that has ever been given to any people anywhere.

A great deal of interest was centered about Boston during the last week, as ever one connected with the trade was anxious to know whether or not San Francisco would be successful in secur-

MONROVIA

For several years this has been the best seller on the Los Angeles and other local markets, and I have decided to offer it to the trade as long as the stock lasts at $5.00 per ounce.

Monrovia begins to flower when only about one foot high and continues to bloom profusely until it reaches 8 feet high outdoors. It will make a splendid greenhouse variety, as the buds do not drop under any conditions. The color is a deep purple outside, inside heliotrope, and it is unquestionably the finest winter-blooming purple in existence. The seed has been carefully reselected from large pods only. It was gathered in April and May in the foothill section, and is consequently mature and of high germinating power. It is an exceptionally stout grower and throws long stemmed flowers all through the season, four to six flowers to the stem. This offer will be withdrawn as soon as present stock is exhausted.

The Market.

Business is fairly good for the season and shows a decided improvement as compared with its condition a few weeks ago. Good roses are scarce and in good demand. Some outside roses are coming in, but their quality, as might be expected after such a long dry season, is not extra. Carnations are not any too plentiful and a stiffening of price took place this week. There is more old stock in the houses this year than ever before, so that there should be no great shortness of supply before the young plants come into bearing, as is usually the case. Asters are now the popular flowers, and of these there is a fair supply in the inferior grades. Those of the best quality, as usual, are scarce and bring good prices. Gladioli are plentiful, but large quantities are used, so that there is no glut of them. Lilium rubrum is not selling so well as usual and auratum is not much grown.

Lily growers for Easter received consignments of bulbs direct from Japan this week.

Various Notes.

Gus Bjorkman was up in Vancouver, B. C., last week. Business there, he says, is much demoralized on account of the war.

bloom one day and he rushed into the house and asked his wife whether she had seen the Countess of Shaftesbury. She replied, "Yes, I saw her portrait in the paper. She had twins."

The prescription for exterminating the tarnish bug, printed in last week's Review, is being diligently used by growers of mums in this locality. Some means of coping with this pest is urgently needed. The cutworms have also proved a serious evil to growers this year; possibly the remedy for tarnish bugs may help to destroy the cutworms also.

Rain is badly needed for all outside crops. We have had a phenomenally warm summer, the temperature for the year being over 400 degrees in excess of the average. While there has been only a deficiency of three-fourths of an inch in the average rainfall, most of the rains came in January; since June there has been scarcely a shower.

Harry Risdon has returned from a vacation spent in the Olympic mountains. He has the whole of his space occupied by a late planting of tomatoes.

The Market.

There has been practically no change in market conditions, except that an almost total lack of funeral work has caused stock to accumulate in most of the stores. Sweet peas are holding up fairly well, considering the hot, dry weather. Gladioli are in full crop and are of excellent quality, especially America and Mrs. Francis King. Carnations and roses are about as usual. Rubrum and auratum lilies are arriving in quantity and the quality is all that could be asked for.

Few of the growers are regretting the probable lack of bulbs this year, believing that the absence of bulbous flowers from the market will make a better demand for roses and carnations, in which there is more real profit.

Various Notes.

Peters Bros. have their new houses under cover and planted with carnations. All indications point to a most successful and profitable season ahead.

The Spokane Florist Co. and Henry Reimers have been featuring effective window displays of rubrum and auratum lilies.

Although several of the florists are vitally interested in the European war, thus far but one has actually responded to the call to arms. Ed. Connuville, who has been employed as decorator and florist at the Hotel Davenport, left last week, accompanied by two cooks from the same establishment. They expected to take passage from New York and will serve in the French army, in which Mr. Connuville holds an officer's commission.

A. J. Burt has received word that a part of his bulbs have arrived in New York and are now on their way across the continent. He has a number of azaleas, kept over from last winter, which are in fine condition, so the possible shortage of new stock from Belgium will not be felt so strongly.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

THE Graham Nursery Co., at Mechanicsville, Ia., is erecting an up-to-date storehouse with a large cellar, to replace the buildings lost in the fire of July 10.

S. IMURA, president of the Alvin Japanese Nursery Co., at Alvin, Tex., has been spending his vacation in Japan. He and Mrs. Imura are expected to return this week.

AUGUST 12 was the wedding day of Albert W. Liefgreen, manager of the El Paso Nursery Co., at El Paso, Tex. Miss Catherine A. Burns, of Denver, was the bride.

REPORT of the petition in bankruptcy filed by M. W. Needham, proprietor of the Waco Nurseries, at Waco, Tex., will be found under the heading "Business Embarrassments" in this issue.

THE extension of the line of the Toledo, Ottawa Beach & Northern railway to the Greening Nursery Co., just south of the city limits of Monroe, Mich., is expected to be a business bringer for the nursery concern.

THE prediction is made by some of those who hope it will not prove true that the prices of Holland nursery stock will go down under the weight of heavy fall shipments, whatever French and English stock may do.

A GREENHOUSE, 25 x 100 feet, has just been erected at Yule's Landscape Nursery, 145 North Thirty-third street, Lincoln, Neb. The John C. Moninger Co., Chicago, furnished the material. At this nursery hardy flowers, shrubbery and ornamentals are grown.

FROM recent business experiences W. E. Fryer, proprietor of the Dodge County Nursery, Mantorville, Minn., has come to the opinion that the fall and spring trade will suffer from the European war if it continues long, from the financial stringency if from nothing else.

THE nursery business is evidently looked upon by those outside the trade as a more profitable one than some of those who are inside will admit it to be. As evidence, one might cite the names of wealthy men who have invested their money in this line. The latest is William J. Moxley, the man whom butterine made a congressman, who paid $9,000 for the Phoenix Nursery Co., at Delavan, Wis. The nursery is well stocked and has an established business. Ex-congressman Moxley has a summer home on Delavan lake and naturally has an interest in the town.

You may discontinue our advertisement, as we are through with our spring shipments, but we will give you another order for fall, as THE RESULTS from the one for spring HAVE BEEN VERY SATISFACTORY.—Franklin Davis Nursery Co., Baltimore, Md., May 19, 1914.

WALNUT trees are the specialty of S. Maingueneau, proprietor of the Sunset Nurseries, near San Jose, Cal., and his success with grafting this stock has come from long experimentation. It is said that 11,000 trees in his nursery represent ninety-six per cent of the scions that were set. Mr. Maingueneau looks forward to a good season.

MONTANA LAW A DEAD LETTER.

Supreme Court Decision Voids Act.

In knocking the bottom out of the Montana inspection law, which forbids any person to engage in the business of importing nursery stock, etc., into the state without first obtaining a license, for which a $25 fee is to be charged, the Montana Supreme Court decided several interesting points affecting such laws. The decision was handed down in the case of Welch vs. Dean, 141 Pacific Reporter 548. The first point decided in the case is that although power to regulate interstate commerce is vested in Congress, "the several states have reserved to themselves the police power, and any reasonable regulation exercised under that power may be enforced against one engaged in interstate commerce whenever he transacts his business in this state, even though it might interfere indirectly with such commerce. But, under the guise of enforcing police regulations, the state may not exact impossible conditions to the right to engage in such business, or impose burdens which amount directly to a regulation of it." The main point decided in the case is that defendant, the state horticulturist, was not justified in refusing to issue certificates of inspection covering a shipment of nursery stock which was made by plaintiff from Shenandoah, Ia., to Chilcott, Mont., although plaintiff had not taken out a license as required by the law above mentioned. This decision proceeds upon two distinct grounds: (1) There is nothing in the law which justifies refusal of a certificate of inspection because applicant may not have taken out a license. (2) No license is necessary because the law fails to provide where the same shall be obtained. The Montana Supreme Court says on these two points:

Inspector's Authority Limited.

"In the present instance, the inspector was in error in refusing the plaintiff proper certificates of inspection, for two reasons:

"1. The inspector is a creature of statute, and the measure of his authority must be found in the statute. Section 1924 makes it his duty to attach a certificate of inspection to each lot or bill of trees, grafts, plants, scions, etc., if the same be found free from any and all diseases and pests, as designated by the state board of horticulture. In this he has no discretion to exercise. His duty is imperative. The failure or refusal of plaintiff to take out a license or provide a bond furnished no excuse whatever for the inspector's refusal to grant him proper certificates of inspection. In other words, the failure of plaintiff to obey the law, if such it was, did not justify the inspector in violating it.

"2. But the inspector was in error for the stronger reason: The statute above, so far as it relates to a horticultural license, is one of the curiosities of the law. Section 1935 forbids anyone engaging in the business of selling fruit trees or other nursery stock in this state or importing them into this state, even for his own use, and to the extent of a single dollar's worth, without having first obtained a license therefor and paid a $25 license fee; and yet the legislature neglected to make any provision whatever for issuing the license. However great the desire of this plaintiff may have been to comply with the mandate of that section, he could not have done so, for no one is authorized to provide the license, to sign it, or to issue it. No one has authority to accept the $25 fee, and there is not even a suggestion as to what disposition is to be made of the fee if collected. It is perfectly apparent that it was not the legislative intention to control this matter by the general license statute, for that statute deals only with the classes of licenses enumerated therein, and the horticulture license is not one of them. * * * Since there is not any provision of law under which the plaintiff could have procured a license, to require him to have one as a condition precedent to his right to have proper certificates of inspection is tantamount to denying him the right to do business in this state altogether, even though his stock meets all the requirements imposed by law or the regulations of the state board of horticulture."

Speaking of the clause of the law which requires an applicant for a license to file with the state horticulturist a bond in the sum of $1,000 to conform to the laws of the state, the Supreme Court said:

"If the bond mentioned in section 1936 was required as an independent act, serious question as to the sufficiency and validity of the statute governing it might arise, but apparently it is exacted only as one step in the process of procuring a license and must stand or fall with the license."

S.

DENVER.

The Market.

Business continues dull in most of the flower stores. Some are occasionally busy with funeral work, but trade on the whole is quiet. Good gladioli are arriving in large quantities and are being used by the stores in window displays. Dahlias are good and find a ready market. The supply of asters is equal to the demand, but they are not as good as expected.

Various Notes.

Fred Wilke, of the Park Floral Co., and Ben Boldt, Jr., went dove shooting at Littleton, August 16. They had good luck, returning with forty doves, all the law allows for one day's shooting.

The Barteldes Seed Co. has rented a store room at 821 Fifteenth street, in which the firm expects to open an up-to-date retail seed store about September 1.

George C. Brenkert surprised everyone by going to Colorado Springs August 19 and getting married. His many friends in the trade offer him and his bride congratulations and best wishes.

The Boldt-Lundy Flower Shop attracted a good deal of attention August 21 and 22 with a window display of night-blooming cereus. These plants are something of a novelty here, being the only ones in Denver with the exception of a few plants at the city park greenhouses. R. S.

GLEN COVE, N. Y.

The monthly meeting of the Nassau County Horticultural Society was held August 12, in Pembroke hall, with President H. Gaut in the chair.

Special prizes for the fall shows were received from the following firms: Weeber & Don, Bon Arbor Chemical Co., Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Harvey S. Ladew and Mrs. Bucknall.

Alfred Lewenden and Allan Jenkins were elected to active membership, and Mr. Partridge, Glen Cove, was made an honorary member.

The judges for the monthly exhibits were T. McCarthy, H. Macdonald and V. Cleres and the awards were as follows: Collection of six kinds of vegetables, F. Honeyman first and W. Noonan second; honorable mention to Joseph Robinson for Ailsa Craig onions, to F. Titus for Globe artichokes, and to John Lewis Childs for gladioli.

The exhibits for next meeting, September 9, will be twelve mixed asters, twelve mixed gladioli and one muskmelon.

Peerless Pink

The great Peerless Leader of ALL Carnations

More profits from Peerless than any other. Seven and one-half blooms per plant, October 1 to January 1, at average of 3c equals 22½c per plant—12½c more than the cost of the plants, which is $100.00 per 1000. We allow you to try the variety and pay for it January 1. Enchantress will not average more than three blooms per plant during the same time.

Why grow varieties that do not pay you good profits? You cannot make a mistake. We guarantee Peerless to be all we claim for it or it will not cost you anything. Clean, healthy plants, $12.00 per 100, $100.00 per 1000.

ST. PAUL, MINN.

The Market.

Business last week was stimulated considerably by funeral work. Nearly all retailers are pleased with the summer business. Stock is good, especially the outside stock. The cool nights have kept the plants in excellent shape. The reopening of Robert street has helped the retailers, as most of the stores have had reopenings, and these called for plants and in many instances for cut flowers.

Various Notes.

Holm & Olson have their place torn up at present. The large show-box in the front of the store is being relined and generally overhauled. This firm is well satisfied with business.

L. L. May & Co. report business good for the summer, and as this is vacation time with them and some of the employees are away, the at-home crowd is kept busy. Miss Middleton, of this firm, has returned from her vacation, which was spent in Chicago and on the lakes.

The O. R. Eckhardt Co. is busy with out-of-the-city trade. The incoming stock is plentiful and the quality is the best.

The Snelling Floral Co. has completed the planting of the houses with violets and a few mums to occupy the space in the first part of the season. This firm is well pleased with the plan of growing only one variety of flowers and growing them well.

J. Hoffman reports business fine, consisting principally of funeral work. This firm has an excellent showing of novelty baskets in the windows this week.

N. C. Hanson's place is rapidly assuming a finished appearance and the new houses are nearly all planted.

Albert Clausen, of Albert Lea, Minn., and J. Clarine, of Faribault, Minn., recently spent a few days in this city. E. R. Chappell, of Portland, Ore., was a caller on his way to the coast.

O. J. Olson and Le Roy Cady were St. Paul representatives at the Boston convention.

C. R. F.

AUSTIN, TEX.

The flower growers south of Houston have cut off our shipping trade in daisies and tuberoses, at one time a good daily business; hence, some of the growers will abandon this line and put their irrigated land in other crops.

Olaf Olson's experiment in growing carnations all summer under half glass and in ground benches is a good success.

W. M. Hall's lath-house grown gladioli sell readily, though out of season for this section.

FIELD-GROWN
Carnation Plants

WE grow Carnations, nothing but Carnations. Our stock is of such quality as can only be produced by a specialist. By sending out only such plants as we would be willing to bench ourselves, we have built up a trade in field plants second only in importance to the growing of cut flowers. By growing our stock on the same piece of ground but two years in succession, and by liming our field lightly each year, we have practically eliminated stem-rot and other diseases on our place. We dig carefully, give liberal count, and pack to ship anywhere in the United States.

The Market.

Business has been better during the last week than it has been for some time. There were a number of large funerals which helped to swell the total sales of the week for some of the trade. Carnations are still out of the market. The old crop is a thing of the past and the new cut has not yet come in. True, there are a few new carnations on the market, but the stems are short and the blossoms small, and the quantity received is so small that it is negligible. Asters are scarce and are generally in poor condition. The long spell of dry weather, with no rain to speak of, has seriously affected the crop and will make the season not nearly so profitable as it should be. Roses have shortened up considerably, but the supply, with the possible exception of red roses, is still equal to the demand and the quality of the stock in general is fine. The Mrs. Charles Russell rose is somewhat off crop.

Sweet peas are nearly gone, but the stock on the market is in good shape and is cleaning up every day. Gladioli are on their last legs, but the cut is still moving fairly well. The supply of valley is shortening up, but the stock is in good shape and no trouble is experienced in cleaning up the entire cut.

Various Notes.

F. H. Holton, after attending the Boston convention, left immediately for New York and other eastern cities.

W. H. Oberg, with the W. L. Rock Flower Co., of Kansas City, Mo., was in Milwaukee for a short while last week. Mr. Oberg passed through Chicago on his way east and could not resist making the short trip necessary to visit our city.

H. V. Hunkel is now the owner of a brand-new Hudson Six. The new car is a beauty.

Mrs. Ida Baumgarten, who, with Miss Zemmler, has been on an extended trip through the west, returned to this city August 20.

A. Hare, with the Holton & Hunkel Co., who has been away on a vacation for the last two weeks, has gone to Cincinnati, O. Some of his relatives, who reside in that city, are in the war zone in Europe, and Mr. Hare wants to be on the ground when word is received as to their safety.

Mrs. S. C. Nichols, of Racine, Wis., visited the trade here August 20.

H. J. S.

Groton, Mass.—H. Huebner was heard from just before the war in Europe broke out. At that time he was in Stuttgart, Germany.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

Local growers are suffering terribly from the enormous damage caused by the heavy rains which fell here continuously last week. Asters and gladioli are lying flat on the ground and some of the finest blooms of the season are covered with mud. Though the rains have done much good to the lawns, the flower beds in some sections are practically ruined. With some good, settled weather, they may begin to look better in a few days. In consequence of the rain storms, outdoor-grown flowers have not been plentiful, but the poorness of trade makes large quantities unnecessary. Business during the last week has been slow. Little is seen or heard of in the way of large orders. Funeral work has kept some stores fairly busy, but, generally speaking, that department of the business is quiet.

Out-of-town shipments of good stock arrive daily, and, considering the sultry weather, it reaches here in fine condition. The variety is not large. Easter lilies are good, but at present there are few calls for them. Some good Kaiserin roses are on the market, with good stem and foliage. The Mrs. Taft rose is soft and not particularly desirable at this time. The Killarneys are not overtempting. Sweet peas are scarce articles just now; the rain did not come soon enough and the vines have dried fast. Gladioli are plentiful, but do not bring as good prices as they are worth. Asparagus and other greens are meeting all requirements.

Various Notes.

Charles Gow has been spending his vacation in Canada, visiting Toronto and other points of interest. With the Rochester industrial exposition close at hand and with the return of many of our best customers from the summer resorts, business should soon begin to pick up. That is what we are looking for, anyway.

Several prizes have been awarded to Jacob Thomann & Sons, of this city, for their Rochester White gladiolus, but the most recent one was that of first prize at the Boston show. Eight years ago this firm started experiments with the purpose of growing a first-class white gladiolus. Three years ago they believed they had succeeded, but the stock has been sold only locally, being distributed by James Vick's Sons. In Boston a bed of 1,000 Rochester Whites has been made in one of the parks. The firm of James Vick's Sons was also represented at the Boston convention by an unusually fine display of asters. H. J. ARAUCARIA

OUR SPECIALTY

WAR ABROAD will make the Araucarias scarce this fall and winter. But look, it won't affect Godfrey Aschmann. Why? We were not afraid to invest thousands of dollars in importing the plants in the spring of 1914, hence we do not care for the war, and are prepared to fill all orders—4 houses are filled with the choice ARAUCARIA EXCELSA. We are again able to fill all orders. 5½ and 6-inch pots, 2, 3, 4, 5 years old, 14, 15, 20 to 25 in. high, well established, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50. EXCELSA GLAUCA and ROBUSTA COMPACTA, large plants, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00.

PALMS.

BELMOREANA and FORSTERIANA, bushy, stocky plants, new importation, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50. K. BELMOREANA, single plants, bushy, 5½-inch pots, 50c, 60c and 75c; made up of three plants, bushy, 5½ and 6-inch pots, 50c, 60c and 75c. FORSTERIANA, single and made up, 5½-inch pots, 50c, 60c and 75c.

COCOS WEDDELLIANA, 3-inch, 15c, 18c and 20c.

CYCAS REVOLUTA, or Sago Palm, 6, 7, 8-in. pots, large leaved, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 to 10 leaves to a plant, leaves 25 to 30 in. high, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00.

Gladiolus Show.

The gladiolus show of the Lake Geneva Gardeners' and Foremen's Association was a great success from the points of view of quality and variety. As it came so quickly after the midsummer and sweet pea exhibitions, the number of exhibitors was not so large, but sufficient exhibits were staged to fill the large hall to advantage.

The competition for six varieties, five spikes of each, and ten varieties, three spikes of each, was quite keen. The class for the best collection of gladioli, for which the Kunderd medals were offered, brought out a fine lot of seedlings and standard varieties. In this class N. W. Harris, J. J. Krupa, gardener, staged 132 varieties. Some beautiful varieties of Kunderd's primulinus hybrids and ruffled types were shown by several exhibitors.

Conspicuous varieties exhibited were: Kunderdi Glory, Mrs. Frank Pendleton, Chicago White, Ida Van, Pride of Goshen, White Glory, Governor Hanley, Mrs. A. E. Kunderd, Lily Blotch, Little Fawn, Peace, War, Niagara, Panama, Rochester White, Attraction, Corsaire and Mrs. Francis King.

Following is the list of awards:

Best collection, one spike each—N. W. Harris, J. J. Krupa, gardener, first; Mrs. F. T. A. Junkin, A. Johnson, gardener, second.

Ten varieties, three spikes each—Mrs. F. T. A. Junkin, first; N. W. Harris, second.

Six varieties, five spikes each—J. J. Mitchell, A. J. Smith, gardener, first; E. F. Swift, R. J. Sampson, gardener, second.

Six dark pink—Mrs. C. Seipp, E. Johnson, gardener, first.

Six red—Mrs. C. Seipp, first; N. W. Harris, second.

Six any other color—Mrs. C. Seipp, first.

The following special exhibits were awarded special prizes:

Tomato, Buck's Tresco—J. J. Mitchell.

Display of phlox—N. W. Harris.

Table of miscellaneous flowers and plants—J. H. Moore, A. Martini, gardener.

Collection of asters—T. J. Lepens, R. Niles, gardener.

Greenhouse Heating.

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

PLANNING A SMALL HOUSE.

I am planning to build a small greenhouse for mixed plants. I have a small hot water, sectional boiler, supposed to have a capacity for 300 square feet of radiation. It is forty-seven inches high and the fire-pot is 11x13. The smoke pipe is seven inches in diameter. The boiler is tapped for 2-inch pipes. I want to build the house as large as the boiler capacity will permit. How large should I build it and what would be the best width? How should it be piped? The location is western Pennsylvania. I have a lot of 28-inch window sashes that I should like to use in the sides of the house. F. W. H.

If the boiler is large enough to handle 300 square feet of radiating surface, it will heat a greenhouse containing from 600 to 900 square feet of glass. In other words, it would heat a greenhouse 12x 50 feet to 40 degrees, or a house 12x30 feet if the temperature has to be kept at 60 to 63 degrees. However, the letter states that the boiler has a grate 11x13 inches. This is less than one square foot, and I would not consider that such a heater would handle more than 200 feet of radiation at the outside, unless it is magazine-fed or has frequent attention.

The window sashes can probably be used to good advantage in the side walls. If a house twelve feet in width is built, it can be heated by running a 2-inch main on each plate and three returns of the same size underneath, on each side. They would provide a temperature of 50 degrees, with glass in the side walls. For 60 degrees use one more return on each side of the house.

THE COAL MARKET.

In this week's coal market there are two distinct and striking aspects, two features that stand out in marked contrast. One of these contrasting phases is the continued and even increasing discussion of the probable effect of the European war on the future development of the trade; the other phase is the evident determination of the coal men to make the best possible use of present opportunities, without permitting the war excitement to continue to exert its distracting influence. "American business people," it is said, "have finally come to their senses and realize that our internal trade can be good, regardless of untoward appearances of our export business. It is the concentration upon the home business and the determination to make it profitable which is giving increased activity in many lines."

Partly on account of this sensible state of mind, and partly on account of the natural increase of coal buying at this season, the coal market shows a decided change for the better. "The trade," says a leading coal journal, "shows an improvement in every department and prices are steady to firm. By the middle of the week the point had been reached where the demand at Chicago was in excess of current supply and some sales agencies sent to their eastern mines orders for increased shipments. The price of smokeless mine-run did not advance sharply, but it is

Two Men—Two Pieces of Iron—Two Boilers

THIS ad. is solely for the man who has 30,000 square feet of glass or less. It has to do with the question—"Which is best, a wrought iron tubular boiler or a cast iron sectional one?"

Before getting into the discussion, let us right at the start make a fair and square statement.

Only for ranges above 30,000 square feet of glass does the wrought iron boiler become economical. For ranges up to and below 30,000 feet, the Burnham Cast Iron Sectional Boiler has been proven over and over again to be decidedly the most economical.

Cast iron conveys the heat directly through it, into the water, much more rapidly than wrought iron. To prove this fact to be a fact, we took a piece of each kind of iron, two feet long, one foot wide, and a quarter of an inch thick. These were held over two alcohol lamps having exactly the same size wick and flame. In 15 seconds the wrought iron plate was so hot at its edges that it had to be dropped, while the cast iron one was excessively hot directly over the flame, and the edges still not at all uncomfortable to hold.

This simple little experiment showed beyond all argument that wrought iron first conveys the heat along its surface before it goes through it, while cast iron instantly transmits the heat directly through it, where the heat is applied. All of which explains exactly why Cast Iron Boilers heat up more quickly than wrought iron. Also, why when once heated, it takes less to keep them heated.

So much for the heat conveying side—now for the lasting qualities.

If you put a piece of wrought iron under a powerful magnifying glass, you would see that its formation is in long shreds quite like a Shredded Wheat Biscuit. It is plain to see that rust will have an easy time attacking, and quickly eating into, such iron.

Now look at the cast iron and you will find it is such a compact mass of closely fitted granules, that it is next to impossible for the rust to get down into the metal. Which, in turn, accounts for the fact that cast iron will scale over only slightly with a thin film of rust and then stay that way for years and years.

Now you see why wrought iron boilers rust out so soon. And why they must be retubed so often at such an expense.

You must now freely admit that the arguments are on the side of the cast iron boiler.

But all cast iron boilers are not greenhouse boilers.

The only cast iron boiler made especially for greenhouse work is The Burnham.

So the next thing for you to decide is—do you want "just a cast iron boiler," or a cast iron greenhouse boiler, made especially for greenhouse work?

Yes, we can ship promptly.

a fact that the minimum price was advanced quite radically. The lowest price named this week, even on off-grade coal, was $1.25 for Pocahontas and New River, while the major companies had no difficulty in getting $1.40. One reason for this, of course, is the beginning of buying on the part of real estate agents, who must supply apartment houses with their fall tonnage of coal. There is an exceptional demand for lump and egg. Premiums of 10 and 15 cents per ton have been offered freely, but the demand is now heavily in excess of supply."

As to the amount of discussion on the war and its relation to the coal trade, no better evidence is needed than the large space devoted to this branch of the subject in the principal coal journals. The authority already quoted summarizes the matter as follows: "Nothing has happened in years which has concerned the coal trade so vitally as the sudden cessation of coal shipments from Europe to South America. Few things have so influenced business prospects as the great likelihood that the United States will have to step into that market and supply, for an indefinite period, its needs for coal. If the war prove to be a sharp, decisive conflict of short duration, our South American expansion would be merely a flurry, taking on the nature of a speculative venture which could have but small consequences. If, however, the period of the war is protracted and comes to cover many months, we shall by the time it ends be so readjusted in our relations at home and so firmly seated in our position in South America's trade that it must amount to a definite business departure.''

PIPING FOR ONE NEW HOUSE.

I am adding one greenhouse, 34x150, and I wish to heat it to a temperature of 60 degrees in zero weather. The hot water boiler which I shall use for heating the new house has openings for 4-inch flows and 4-inch returns. What will be needed in the way of heating pipes, flows and returns, to maintain the required temperature in this Indiana climate? F. P. C.

The letter does not state the amount of glass, if any, in the walls of the house, but, if the walls are entirely constructed of wood or concrete, I would suggest the use of two 3-inch flows located upon the plates, and three 2½-inch flows, one to be located about three feet under the ridge and the other under the purlin plates, or about halfway between the ridge and the plates, in an even-span greenhouse. In the way of returns, about fourteen 2-inch pipes will be needed. These can be distributed as evenly as possible upon the walls and under the benches, using the largest number of pipes in the locations where they will be most needed. Use an additional flow pipe for every two feet of glass in the walls. In case the end of the house is much exposed, one or two pipes could be run in each direction from the middle of the end, and down the sides. They could be supplied by the flow pipe under the ridge.

CANNOT GET ENOUGH HEAT.

I wish to get some pointers on heating one of my houses. The house is 29x110 and runs north and south. It is ten feet high to the ridge and five feet high to the eaves. There is glass in the south wall, but the north wall is solid. We have put in two 2-inch flows and eight 1¼-inch returns, but it is difficult to keep the temperature on cold nights up to 45 degrees, where we wish to hold it. We are located in central Colorado. We have a thirty-five horse-power steam boiler. Do we need more piping, and how should it be arranged? W. J. P.

With the amount of radiation at present in the house, there should be no difficulty in maintaining a temperature of 45 or even 50 degrees, in a climate where the mercury drops occasionally to 10 degrees below zero, but if the temperature reaches 20 degrees below zero outside, and especially if the house is much exposed, it would be advisable either to put in more pipe or to carry more steam pressure. The latter might be all that is required, as the location is probably considerably elevated.

The letter gives no indication of how the system is working or how it is arranged. If the water backs up in the pipes, it may be due to the fact that the water level in the boiler is too near the level of the returns, in which case I would advise putting in a steam trap. While I have no data from which to determine the real cause of the trouble, I feel sure that, if the present radiating surface will not maintain a temperature of 45 degrees in zero weather, with a steam pressure of five pounds, the trouble is due to the method of installation rather than to the amount of radiation.

A GREENHOUSE BOILER THAT FAIRLY SHOT INTO FAME

Here is the boiler that is making the most wonderful greenhouse heating record in the world. Florists and gardeners who have used other makes are constantly giving the Kroeschell Greenhouse Boiler the highest praise.

QUICKEST WATER HEATER IN THE WORLD

The large combustion chamber in the Kroeschell Boiler enables the gases to expand and fully ignite before reaching the tubes or flues. This feature is entirely lacking in firebox boilers and cast iron sectional boilers.

Unlike Cast Iron Boilers, which cannot be depended upon to carry their ratings even when crowded with hard coal, "the Kroeschell" again excels because—every Kroeschell Boiler is honestly rated and guaranteed to carry the glass and pipe capacities stated in our catalogue to 60 degrees at 15 below zero. Any kind of fuel can be used. Our ratings are easily maintained with the cheapest grades of coal.

OVER 1500 CAST IRON BOILERS were replaced by the Kroeschell Hot Water Boiler during the past six years. It is a common occurrence for a Kroeschell Hot Water Boiler to replace two to four cast iron boilers at a single place; this is the CENTRAL HEATING SYSTEM PLAN, and has saved many florists hundreds of dollars per season in fuel alone, besides a big saving in labor.

The Marysville Floral Co., of Marysville, O., installed a No. 4 Kroeschell Boiler in 1905. Previous to this time they used cast iron boilers. The following letter speaks for itself:

"Has the Kroeschell given entire satisfaction? Yes! We had two cast iron boilers, but yours proved by far the best. Your boiler has already outlasted the two cast iron boilers by five years, and all the expense that we have been put to was a smoke dome."

The Market.

Business is decidedly quiet, more so than it has been at any time this month. The retail department literally is "closed for repairs." The one saving fact is the county fair faker business, which has developed into a good cut flower outlet. Beauties and teas are all fine. Carnations are seen only occasionally. Asters of all grades are plentiful. Choice, fancy varieties of gladioli can be had at one's own price. Lilies are moving at fair prices. Rubrums and valley are abundant. Dendrobium formosum is offered in quantity.

Various Notes.

The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. is busy shipping carnation plants from the field. This is the first season this company has made special preparation to supply the trade.

Albert Lorch, of Allison Park, has his houses about all planted and says his carnations look fine and should produce good stock.

John Wyland is busy planting carnations and adding improvements. Special mention should be made of the beautiful plantings of flowers about his home and Lake Viola. "Uncle John" Wyland loves flowers and he shows it.

Henry Menschke, of Castle Shannon, is in the midst of heavy work. Three houses are being completed, a new heating plant is well under way and a refrigeration plant is being considered. The product of this range is sent to the Ludwig Floral Co., in the north side.

P. S. Randolph & Sons are finishing their new addition of plant houses.

A carload of Pittsburgh conventionites is already predicted for the 1915 convention at San Francisco.

Visitors were: E. Hichle, manager for J. W. Dudley & Son, Parkersburg, W. Va., who stopped over on his way home from the convention at Boston; J. W. Furrow, of Furrow & Co., Guthrie, Okla., who spent a few days with our prominent growers, and Miss Florence Nies, with Miss M. Schneider, of Johnstown, Pa.

Edward Ashcroft and William Colligan are again on duty after two weeks' vacationing. T. P. L.

SAGINAW, MICH.

The Market.

Trade in all lines continues normal for summer. Outdoor flowers are about ruined as a result of the heavy rains last week. Asters, the main crop, are not expected to do much more this season. Gladioli are the finest we have had in years, due to the soakings they have had from time to time. All are busy housing carnations, which are a picture of health in this vicinity.

Various Notes.

The next monthly meeting, August 31, of the Saginaw Bay City Floricultural Society will be with C. A. Hawley, at Vassar, Mich. A large attendance is expected.

The Wm. Roethke Floral Co. has all its cement benches finished and is busy planting roses.

Grohman the Florist will soon be cutting some nice carnations that were benched from pots in June.

The Stevens Gladioli Co. has had good results with outdoor sweet peas. This concern has no gladioli to speak of; the fire of last March took all the bulbs, and what were bought do not compare with the millions the company had in store.

Zorn & Gaertner's asters are about all ruined by the heavy rains of last week, some 80,000 plants in all.

Chas. Frueh & Sons have had an unusually large amount of funeral work this summer.

Desner & Fisher's houses are all filled; repairing and painting have full sway now.

J. B. Goetz Sons are about through planting their 35,000 carnations. After that their attention will be taken up with the winter's coal supply. Their rose cut is growing daily, but the supply is not equal to the demand.

John Marsh, of Bay City, lost over 3,000 lights by hail on the night of August 18. Gee.

Orange, N. J.—A patent has been issued to A. Eichhorn, 81 Essex avenue, for an invention which, "with a view to preventing the breaking or cracking of glass panes under the expansion and contraction of the metal framework of a greenhouse, provides for so arranging the pane-carrying bars with respect to the metal framework that the bars are approximately wholly out of contact with the latter, but firmly secured thereto. The isolation of the wood from the metal is advantageous, for the life of the wood is greatly prolonged."

PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

Not much can be said concerning trade conditions in this city and vicinity, for there is comparatively little activity in the florists' business. Funeral work is about all that is keeping things moving. Flowers are abundant, especially outside blooms, and in consequence prices are well down. The Market.

The supply in the market continues large and is easily able to take care of all demands upon it. Last week's demand showed little, if any, improvement over the market of the previous week, although it was bright in spots. The flowers are of pretty good quality. Prices are not high. More choice asters are coming in than a week ago. They have a fair sale. A good assortment of the shorter grades, which find a rather indifferent call, are offered. Gladioli receipts continue large and are excellent in quality. Lilies, too, are plentiful and good. The cut of roses is still far more than sufficient for immediate requirements and, as a result, only the best have any kind of a market. The receipts of long American Beauties are rather limited, but are apparently adequate for immediate wants. The short and medium grades are plentiful. Both Lilium auratum and rubrum have at the best only a fair market. Hardy hydrangeas and dahlias sell slowly. The supply of greens is adequate for present needs.

Various Notes.

Miss Edith Kyrk and her mother are taking a two weeks' trip through the east, where they expect to stop at New York, Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

C. E. Critchell has been receiving some excellent medium and short-stemmed American Beauties.

William Mayhall has joined the force at E. G. Gillett's. Mr. Gillett's wire-work department has been exceedingly busy during the last fortnight.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gardner, of New Castle, Ind., spent the first half of this week in this city.

The Bloomhurst Floral Co., at Lockland, is sending the first of its new cut of carnations to the Cincinnati Cut Flower Exchange. The stock would be a credit to the growers even later in the season.

Visitors include Ellis Woodworth, of the Sefton Mfg. Co., Chicago; M. Anderson, of the Lebanon Floral Co., Lebanon, O., and Mr. Morichard, of the Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia.

SHOWING 'EM WHO YOU ARE

Beautiful home grounds are a form of advertising that amply repays the Retail Florist for time and expense spent thereon

DID you ever happen upon a sign-painter whose name was so intricately and so artistically drawn upon his plate-glass window that you immediately said, "That's the man to paint my new sign"? Or, on the other hand, did you ever meet a doctor who had such a bad cold that you didn't trust him to cure your attack of pneumonia? The idea in both instances was that the man who could do best by himself would most likely serve you best. That is the reason that physicians strive to look fat and healthy, and the reason why sign-painters use all the flourishes of which they are capable when they cover their shops with signs—to show the public how good in their particular line they are.

Of course, there are doctors who are sallow and peaked, and sign-painters who do not paint any signs at all over their own doors, but neither of these kinds of men is prosperous. The late William Scott gave some remarkably good advice in that housewifely metaphor of his, "Wash all you've got, and hang out all you wash," the inference being that the neighbors will judge the size of the linen closet by the quantity of washing on the line.

The Advertising Card of a Belleville, Ill., Florist.

Making a Showing.

It is a good plan for the florist to follow the same principle and make as good a showing as possible in those things by which his professional ability is judged. One of the most important of these is the florist's own home grounds. Here is the florists' opportunity to show the passing people how skillful they are; yet there are some florists' residences which look as though their owners spent their entire time somewhere else. Perhaps that is the idea they wish to convey—that they have so much business they cannot bother with such ordinary things as the grass on their lawns. If so, they are on the wrong track. The business should be running so smoothly that the proprietor can spare time enough to take pride in his own grounds.

There are many florists—and the number should be larger—who use all the advantages of their horticultural knowledge and resources to set the mark of the neighborhood in the matter of well-kept home grounds. They preach home beautification by their own practice. When the discussion of the "home beautiful" comes up, their places are referred to as illustrations and examples.

Profit in It.

There are many who do this merely for the sake of personal pride and enjoyment, but they come to realize that there is money in it. As a form of advertisement, so far as effectiveness is concerned, beautiful home grounds are second to none. Those who see what fine grounds Florist So-and-so has at his home conclude that he is the man to go to for advice when they are putting in some plants on their own grounds. They also come to believe that the man who takes such pains to have his home look well will take particular pains with their daughters' wedding decorations or their friends' funeral flowers; at any rate, they reason, he will probably do better than the florist not far away who does not take the trouble to sow grass seed enough or use water enough to keep the lawn green.

There is more in it than this, too. If a person, while walking down the street, notices a residence surrounded by grounds better kept and more beautiful than any others in the neighborhood, he naturally inquires, at first opportunity, who lives there. Surely it is some prominent or wealthy person who keeps up his grounds like that; and all of us take a peculiar kind of pride in knowing something personally about prominent or wealthy people, even if it is no more than where they live. The mind is made ready to remember the name of the prominent person, and though the inquirer may be a little disappointed at first to find the owner is some one about whom he sees little in the papers, yet he will, because of that unconscious preparation, remember the name, and when he passes the florist's store on the street car, he will remark to the friend with him that the proprietor has an exceedingly pretty place over on This-or-That street. It may not be long before he is ordering flowers from the man with the beautiful grounds; the two are not so far apart as they at first seem.

Developing Business.

The man benefits himself and his trade most who not only strives to get present business for himself but tries to develop new business. And the latter is one of the most important things achieved by the florist who sets the pace for his town or his neighborhood in the matter of beautiful home grounds. The love of beauty is as natural to human beings as the desire for food; but the appreciation of some kinds of beauty, like the desire for some kinds of food, comes as the result of the working of external forces. It takes a poke in the back to make some people know they would like to have flowers, plants and trees in their yards, but after they once get them, they will be back for more and become the florist's most regular patron. The poke in the back is often administered mentally by the sight of a home surrounded by grounds such as these people would like to have.

Education in one line, too, brings learning in another. The person who is aroused to the use of flowers and plants in his yard will soon want flowers inside the house in the winter. So, indirectly, a florist may gain a permanent patron, whom he could not have reached by any amount of direct advertising.

How It Works.

It is a common thing in a big city to see the residences near a florist's well planted with flowers, shrubs and trees, when his own place is overflowing with these things. The effect of an example is strong, and missionary work, like charity, begins at home. In a small town the same rule holds good, and one place may be a good flower-buying community, while another, no larger, may be a poor one, merely because of the difference in the florists in the two places. One is a good missionary, by means of beautiful home grounds, etc., while the other, in his hunt for business, probably loses sight of the surest way to get it.

One florist who does not fail in this regard is Gust. W. Grossart, of Belleville, Ill. Mr. Grossart considers his home grounds, a view of which is given on the preceding page, an excellent advertising card, and spares no pains to have his place look as well as possible. So full of plants, shrubs and trees is the yard that one can hardly see the house; but while abundance reigns, there is no overcrowding. Mr. Grossart has done his best to remedy that of which he complains: "One sees so many florists' homes poorly taken care of and not kept as they should be, to set an example for the public to see and follow."

STEVIA FOR WINTER CUTTING.

When should stevia from 2¼-inch pots be benched for winter cutting? When should we do the heaviest cutting? When must the plants have the last pinching to branch them? Do they succeed better in pots or benches?

H. & C.

Stevias, if only in 2¼-inch pots now, will not make large plants for winter blooming. They can be grown either in benches or pots. The latter are better in many ways, as they admit of hastening or retarding the flowering season more easily. Stevia comes in season in November. It is at its best during December and January, but can be retarded until March if necessary.

C. W.

BLACK HOLLYHOCKS.

Are there any varieties of black hollyhocks? I have a black seedling that is fine. I have never seen black hollyhocks advertised, and would like to know if this is something new, or if the black is common. Mine is an early, continuous bloomer, and hardy.

C. W. R.

There are occasional hollyhocks with dark maroon flowers, almost approaching black in color. In fact, they are not infrequently classed as black. The color you have is not by any means new.

C. W.

INSECTS ON DAHLIAS.

I am enclosing some leaves of dahlias that are doing badly. There seems to be a small white insect on them that looks somewhat like white fly, and also a little, long, green insect that resembles the green aphis, but is much longer and runs when the foliage is moved. We are much disturbed by these pests, as we have about forty or fifty varieties of dahlias, some of them extra fine. Will you kindly advise us what remedy to apply? We have lost a great many young cinerarias with something of the same kind.

C. D. J.

I could not see any of the insects referred to on the leaves forwarded. If these insects do not eat the foliage, it would be best to use a contact spray, such as nicotine, whale oil soap, kerosene emulsion, Aphine, or fir tree oil. More than one application may be necessary to get rid of them. If you find the foliage being eaten, add some poison to the spray. Spray when the foliage is dry, and sufficiently early so that the foliage will be dry before nightfall.

WHITE GRUBS IN SOIL.

Will you please tell me of an effective means of destroying grub worms in the soil? Is there any composition available for incorporation in the soil? If so, please state parts and quantities, also whether the mixture can be applied to the soil while the plants are in the bed.

F. W. A.

Sterilization by steam is, of course, the best way to destroy not only all insect, but also fungoid life. As it may not be available in your case, I would suggest the use of carbon bisulphide in the compost. This costs about 75 cents per pound can at retail. A single can will sterilize a cord of compost thoroughly. All you have to do is to bore holes here and there with a stout, pointed stick, pour in some of the carbon, and immediately close up the holes. The gas from the carbon is penetrating and destroys all soil pests. It is more effective when the soil is moist than when dry. If you go over your compost in this way you will have few grubs left. The carbon can be used with perfect safety on crops planted in beds or benches. Make holes four inches apart each way; pour a teaspoonful of carbon in each, always remembering to cover the holes quickly. I have used carbon bisulphide in this way for years and have never found it to injure any crop. Be careful not to use any matches while applying the carbon, as it explodes rather readily. In addition to carbon bisulphide, there are manufactured preparations for destroying soil pests.

The grubs you have are probably the larvæ of the June bug or May beetle. Eggs are usually laid in clods of cow manure, and you will frequently find this manure simply alive with the pests. On lawns, rolling with a heavy roller will kill a large proportion. Robins and skunks are fond of them, also. If kainite and nitrate of soda are applied to land when it is plowed up, and are harrowed in, large numbers will be destroyed. Lime is also objectionable to the grubs.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Watertown, N. Y.—Morse F. Hart, who formerly conducted the florists' business of Hart & Hart, in this city, has filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District court. He has liabilities of $5,218 and practically no assets, as insurance amounting to $2,000 and household goods valued at $150 are both exempt.

Libertyville, Ill.—According to reports current in this section, the Meredith Flower & Vegetable Co. is in financial trouble and as a result the large greenhouse which the company started to build at Union Grove will not be completed, at least by the present company. A number of Union Grove people hold stock in the concern and it is thought that the company can be reorganized and put on a paying basis. The books of the company are said to be badly muddled.

Houston, Tex.—Charles Ehlers filed a petition of voluntary bankruptcy in the Federal court August 26. According to the petition, assets greatly exceed liabilities, the latter being only $3,715, while the resources are placed at $5,420. However, stock in trade forms $1,500 of the assets. A list of ninety-nine small local accounts due is attached to the petition. The largest creditor is the firm of Van Zanneveld Bros. & Philippo, of Sassenheim, Holland, with $649 due. For taxes the state is due $15, but this is a preferred claim. Wages, also preferred, are placed at $200, while other preferred debts total $2,000. The unsecured claims amount to approximately $1,500. Among the assets are $100 for household goods, $3,000 real estate, $700 accounts receivable and $120 for horses, other animals, vehicles, implements, etc.

Rockford, Ill.—W. H. Burrows expects to build a house, 24x250, this autumn.

Miltonia St. Andre.

A NEW MILTONIA.

The accompanying illustration of Miltonia St. Andre, a variety not yet in commerce, is reproduced from a photograph supplied by Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J. It is said to be a cross between Miltonia Rœzlii and M. Bleuana. The illustration shows the flowers so well that extended description seems unnecessary.

ACHILLEA PERRY'S WHITE.

A hardy plant novelty that has attracted much attention in Great Britain and is coming to the notice of the trade in this country is Achillea Ptarmica Perry's White, introduced by the late Amos Perry, proprietor of Perry's Hardy Plant Farms, at Enfield, Middlesex, England. A field of this plant at Enfield is shown in the illustration. This achillea is used as a border plant and proves to be well adapted to this use. It has also been found to be of value for cut flowers for padding, or filling in decorative and design work. The flowers are over an inch across and have broad, overlapping petals, making them quite fluffy. They are a pure snow-white and in every way are a great improvement over the old Pearl.

In the two years in which Perry's White has been before the trade in Great Britain it has won much favorable comment and received awards of merit from societies whose mark of approval is valued. At its first appearance, September 10, 1912, it received an award of merit from the Royal Horticultural Society. In 1913 it won awards of merit from the Glasgow Horticultural Society and the National Hardy Plant Society and a first-class certificate from the Royal Caledonian Society.

DAISIES FOR WINTER.

What varieties of daisies are the best to plant inside for cut flowers? How will Shasta daisies do in the winter? H. F. D.

The only daisy grown to any extent in winter is Chrysanthemum frutescens, known as the Paris daisy, or marguerite. Of this, there are white and yellow forms, each of which will flower moderately in winter and abundantly in spring and early summer. The Shasta daisies are of no value whatever for winter flowering. There are several white forms of the marguerite. Mrs. Sander and Queen Alexandra are popular recent acquisitions. The yellow form, Etoile d'Or, sells better in the market as a cut flower than the white varieties. Two or more varieties of this are offered in the trade. Marguerites, to flower freely in winter, must be grown in pots, boxes or shallow benches. If given unlimited root-run they will make excessive growth, but will bloom sparsely. C. W.

PAPER WHITE NARCISSI.

We want to grow Paper Whites this winter. Will they do well in a carnation house? Should they be kept wet while under the bench or after taken out? What kind of soil is best suited for them? How many flower shoots does a good-sized bulb throw?

W. D. M.

Paper White narcissi will do well in a carnation house temperature. A suitable soil is one consisting of two-thirds well decayed fibrous loam and one-third old and well decayed cow or horse manure pressed through a rough screen; also add some sand. The flats used should be four to five inches deep. The bulbs need not be entirely covered. Water the flats well after planting, then allow them to get moderately dry between waterings. Once the flats are full of roots, however, a copious supply is necessary; also some liquid manure as the spikes advance. Good bulbs throw two to three spikes each. Small and inferior bulbs usually only produce a solitary spike. C. W.

JERUSALEM CHERRIES.

Will you please tell me how to handle Jerusalem cherries? Do you pinch back in order to have them in blossom for Christmas? What is the botanical name of them? What soil do they require?

C. W.

The botanical name of the Jerusalem cherry is Solanum Capsicastrum. You need not pinch back the shoots at any time. You want the plants in fruit rather than in flower for them to be of any commercial value. They can either be grown in pots plunged outdoors or planted out in rich soil and potted up in September. They require good soil; two-thirds loam and one-third cow manure would be suitable. Feed the plants liberally once the pots are filled with roots. C. W.

Sweet Peas

TIME REQUIRED TO BLOOM.

If properly handled, how long does it take sweet peas to bloom from the planting of the seed? I refer to flowering them in a greenhouse, in late winter and early spring. H. P.

If a sowing is made of the winter-blooming Spencers about November 1, they will commence to bloom in eleven to twelve weeks. Sown in August, they will start to flower fully three weeks earlier. I have had some of the old winter-blooming grandifloras show flowers in six to seven weeks under glass. The winter minimum should be 48 to 50 degrees, although 5 degrees cooler before flowering is all right. C. W.

LENGTHWISE OR CROSSWISE?

We have been growing winter-flowering sweet peas for the last five years, and the rows always run north and south and are four feet apart. Our house runs east and west and we plant the rows across the bed, which is fourteen feet wide. Some time ago a florist told us that we should plant them lengthwise in the bed, making the rows run east and west. We have always had good peas, and thought that when planted across the bed they got more sun. J. E. & S.

By all means, plant your sweet peas lengthwise rather than the narrow way of the house. The peas will not only do better, but will look vastly better and will be more economically cared for. Allow five feet between the rows. Some growers run them more closely, but five feet is better than four, and you can run some quick-maturing crops between the rows if you wish, until the peas shade them too much. We have tried growing sweet peas both ways and have found the lengthwise rows by far the best. C. W.

ORIGIN OF WINTER SWEET PEA.

As Told by A. C. Zvolanek.

"In the fall of 1902 an English friend, who had always admired my winter-flowering sweet pea, sent me about seventy seeds of the new Countess Spencer. Being well informed of its merit, I sowed it at once in the greenhouse, and in early May the first flower opened. I was simply amazed at the magnificent flowers. As the seed had not been fixed, I obtained from these original seventy seeds nine different varieties, all of wonderfully wavy shape, colored blue, lavender, white, red, orange, yellow, rose and a few variegated. At once I began to hybridize each color on my best-selling winter sweet pea, and within a week the whole greenhouse was full of nothing but tags, showing the records of the crosses. I must have made at least 5,000 crosses during that first week. The seed of each cross I kept separate, and sowed the following fall. None of these crosses changed into the winter type, notwithstanding the fact that the Spencer pollen was used in the majority of cases on the Christmas-flowering plants. Knowing from my former experiences that the best results are obtained in the second and third generation, I was quite delighted with my work, for I now had proof that the crosses had been successful. When these began to bloom, all being from the nine distinct colors, I could count nearly thirty, and most of these had changed the color of the winter varieties upon which they had been applied.

First Winter Spencers.

"The next year I sowed the seed again, and about thirty per cent came up as the common winter type, ten per cent as the true winter Spencer and twenty per cent as the winter Unwin, or improved grandiflora, while the rest remained the late flowering type. Now I had the three different types of sweet pea—the winter-flowering Spencer, the late-flowering Spencer and the improved winter grandiflora. In all three types there has been a wide range of colors. As the winter-flowering Spencers came into bloom I gave all my attention to selecting each color, partly recrossing it with the best late-flowering Spencer, as this lot has contained the most beautiful colors and shapes. Sowing all three types again, there lay a surprise for me in the improved winter grandiflora hybrids. As I had not done any additional crossing on this type, all my attention being centered upon the winter Spencers, the improved grandiflora changed about thirty per cent in the winter Spencer, and not one plant in a thousand reverted to the late-flowering type. They have remained the same to this day, only varying occasionally in the coloring.

Tendency to Revert.

"It was different with the winter Spencer which came in the second year, and of which I had expected the most. Being sown with the rest, they revert nearly fifty per cent to the late-flowering type, and only in the fourth and fifth generation do they become the true winter bloomer, and then they still change color occasionally. The third lot of the late Spencer hybrids remained the late-flowering type in the third generation; only a few have since sprung into the winter type, but they have increased steadily in range of colors, so that by 1906 I counted sixty distinct colors. I have since done nothing with this lot, planting only a few every year to keep it alive.

Anton C. Zvolanek.

Newly Erected Range of James L. Denmead, Former Banker, Marshalltown, Iowa.

"After this I devoted my entire attention to selecting the best-selling colors of the winter-flowering Spencers. My places in Grand View and Bound Brook, N. J., were too small for so many varieties, so I sent all the seed to California, where it might be propagated quietly. This was quite necessary, as both my places are every year visited by many hundred florists, who are anxious to obtain something new in the winter sweet pea, and if they had seen the magnificent flowers there, they would have done almost anything to obtain some of the seed.

On California Seed Fields.

"My California place was the ideal spot in which to work quietly, without being bothered by experts. In 1909 I planted over six acres for seeding purposes alone. In 1910 I planted these extensively in my greenhouses in Bound Brook, N. J., and allowed the doors to be opened for inspection. Hundreds of florists came for thousands of miles around to see the flowers, and I shall never forget the expression on their faces when they saw these flowers first. In March, 1911, I exhibited some of the flowers at the second national flower show, in Boston, and they were one of the chief attractions. One seedsman at once offered me $100 for a single ounce of the seed, and one English florist offered a high price, but I refused to sell any of the seed. Of course neither knew it, but at that time I already had many acres in California planted with this same variety of sweet pea.

BANKER TURNED FLORIST.

When the close atmosphere and confined quarters of the cashier's cage and the germ-laden banknotes that he handled every day in his capacity as cashier of the First National Bank of Marshalltown, Ia., proved too much for James L. Denmead's health, he turned, after due deliberation, to the florists' trade as the line of business which would afford him a life in the open and at the same time support him in that style of living to which he had been accustomed with his banker's income—a strong compliment to the financial standing of our trade. He had been born and raised in Marshalltown, a town of about 15,000 inhabitants, and that seemed to him to be the best place to launch into business. So, last spring, he prepared his plans, and the John C. Moninger Co., of Chicago, furnished the material for a range of four houses, which may be seen in the accompanying illustrations. There is a house for roses, 28 x 120; one for carnations, 28 x 100; one for general stock, 28 x 100, and a show house, 18 x 56. In addition, there is a smaller house for propagating, 15 x 35. Prospects for a live business have been so encouraging thus far that Mr. Denmead has just opened a store in the downtown district, at 125 East Main street. The combination of an up-to-date range and an ably managed store seem to point to a future prosperity for the proprietor not less than what would have been the lot of a bank cashier.

PASSIFLORA INCARNATA.

Under separate cover we are mailing you a branch of a hardy vine we have found growing in the open here in Oklahoma. We should be pleased to have you give us the name of this vine through The Review and tell us whether it has, or would have, any commercial value. E. F. C.

The specimen of vine is Passiflora incarnata, which occurs as far north as Virginia and is commonly called Maypop. It is native in South America as well as in the southern United States, and dates from 1629, but does not seem to have attained much prominence in cultivation. Dow describes it as "a perennial sending up annually a number of herbaceous shoots."

Bailey states that it is "a weedy plant, but offered by dealers in native plants," and that "the strong herbaceous vines will make a fine cover for arbors and verandas." Henry A. Dreer, Inc., includes it among the passion flowers listed in the firm's catalogue.

POOR EXPRESS BUSINESS.

Everyone who is so dependent on the express service as are almost all florists will appreciate that it is necessary that the express companies derive enough revenue to pay a profit to the stockholders, else they will follow the lead of the United States Express Co., which quit business. Consequently it is important to note that the remaining companies are losing steadily, with the parcel post as a competitor and the Interstate Commerce Commission rates in force. For instance, here is the showing made by the American in the last ten months:

		Decrease
Total receipts operation	$37,505,598	$2,392,398
Express privileges	18,461,858	734,476
Total operating revenue	19,043,739	1,657,922
Total operating expenses	19,343,422	208,279
Net operating revenue	299,683	1,449,642
Taxes	313,282	747
Operating deficit	612,965	*1,450,389

SOIL FOR CARNATIONS.

Can you give me any information about the proportion of wood ashes I should use in soil for growing carnations and geraniums? Could you also give me a good formula for soil for these plants? S. J. T. & S.

If you desire to use the wood ashes on your carnation benches, I would suggest that you apply them later on, when you will be better able to determine whether the plants really need them. Wood ashes are valuable for stiffening the stems or for sweetening the soil. If neither of these is needed, then to apply wood ashes would be quite superfluous. If you are preparing a compost for potting young carnations later on, or for geraniums, I would suggest that you mix in about an 8-inch potful of wood ashes to each barrowload of soil. There is little danger of getting in too much if the ashes are allowed to become thoroughly incorporated with the soil, but there is no need of adding more than enough to accomplish your aim, and the quantity recommended will do as much good as double the amount.

Without knowing the texture of your soil, it would be impossible for me to give you a formula for mixing a compost. A safe rule would be to take the same soil as you use on your benches for the young plants. If it is inclined to be too heavy, then add rotted manure and sand in such proportion as seems necessary. The young plants like a soil in which the young rootlets can work freely. A. F. J. Baur.

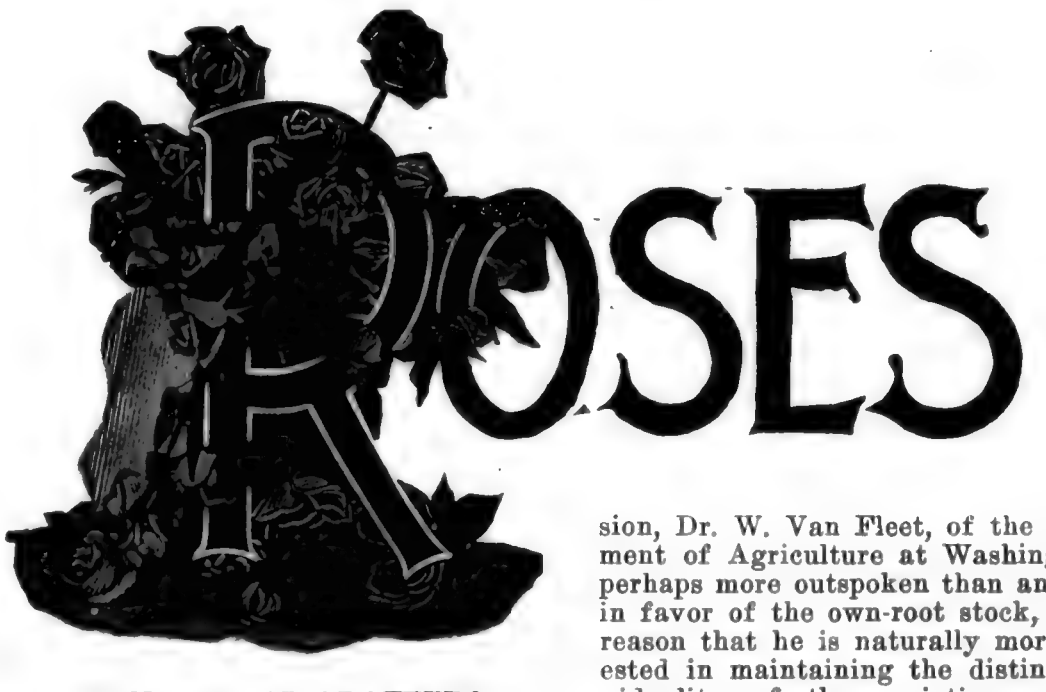
BAD CASE OF LEAF-SPOT.

We are mailing you under separate cover two of our carnation plants. These were planted during the week of August 3. They were in fine shape when we planted them, but now they seem to have a disease that we cannot stop.

The plants we are sending you were cleaned off nicely five days ago and were apparently in good shape. Please let us know through The Review what is the best thing for us to do.

N. F. C.

If all your plants are as badly affected as the ones submitted, I would advise that you pull up the whole lot and replant with healthy stock. Even if you have no plants of your own to replace them with, it would pay you better to lay out the necessary money to buy them. It is not yet too late to plant carnations and expect a good winter crop, providing the plants are in good condition and receive good care. To try to doctor up these diseased plants, badly affected as they are, would be both wearisome and unprofitable. It would take the best part of the season to get them in any kind of condition and you could hardly expect any returns from them until toward spring.



The disease affecting them is the common carnation leaf-spot. This is brought on by too much heat and moisture, caused no doubt by excessive spraying right after the plants were benched. Should you decide to try doctoring up these plants, I would suggest that you pick off all the bad leaves and then spray the plants heavily with Bordeaux mixture. Repeat the application in ten days, and again two weeks later if deemed necessary. Keep going over the plants every few days and remove any newly affected leaves. A. F. J. Baur.

HINTS ON TRANSPLANTING.

Many growers do not like to bench carnations in dry weather, and will wait for a rain. In this I believe they are greatly mistaken. It has been my custom for many years, when transplanting seedlings, to prepare for it by allowing the plants to become quite dry for a day or two. Then, when planted and given water, they straighten up quickly and remain erect. The reason is apparent. This season I lifted carnations in an unusually dry time, dipping the roots in water as lifted. I never before saw plants recover so quickly. In three days they showed no sign of the shift.

I grow carnations in an old garden plot, in which the soil settles firmly. The plants have always done well, with practically no stem-rot. The benching soil, being composted sod, is loose and lively. It occurred to me that if the plants outdoors enjoyed a firm soil, they would also enjoy firm soil inside. To accomplish this, I take great care to firm the soil immediately after planting, before watering. I have a 10-pound bar with a 2-inch disk on one end. With this I pound the soil firmly between the plants, and as close to them as possible. The results have been highly satisfactory.

An experience of thirty-eight years in growing plants prompts me to say that a large majority of florists, in potting, do not firm the soil as they should, in the bottom of the pot, where needed. S. C. Templin.

OWN-ROOT OR GRAFTED?

An Interchange of Opinions.

The Garden Magazine has recently been conducting, in its columns, a symposium or interchange of opinions on "the ever new yet old question: Are budded rose plants really better than own roots?" As might be expected, the majority of the participants in the discussion agree in the belief that grafted or budded plants are decidedly preferable, especially for the commercial grower, except in the case of certain varieties of roses which have vigorous root systems of their own. But, as might also be expected, a good deal of doubt and disagreement are shown as to just what sorts should be included among these exceptional varieties, which flourish well on their own roots. Hence, even after as much enlightenment as possible has been derived from the views expressed in the symposium, there is still plenty of opportunity left for debate.

Among the contributors to the discussion, Dr. W. Van Fleet, of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, is perhaps more outspoken than any other in favor of the own-root stock, for the reason that he is naturally more interested in maintaining the distinct individuality of the varieties, and less interested in the quick production of marketable flowers, than is the ordinary commercial florist. Yet even Dr. Van Fleet admits that "of course there are rose varieties, and fine ones too, that do not form sufficient roots when propagated by cuttings or layers to make vigorous plants, and these are best budded, grafted or inarched on congenial stocks, such as Manetti, multiflora, briar or Rosa laxa."

As Viewed by Mr. Eisele.

Another contributor to the discussion is J. D. Eisele, of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, who recommends the use of the grafted or budded stock by amateurs as well as commercial growers. His article reads as follows:

"With the many years' experience which we have had in growing roses, both on own roots and on grafted or budded plants, we, in every instance, give preference to the budded stock, as it produces not only stronger plants, better flowers and more of them, but, when properly planted, it is longer lived.

"While there is no perceptible difference with some of the stronger-growing hybrid perpetual, Wichuraiana, rambler and similar sorts, there is a vast difference in choicer and more delicate varieties. This is particularly noticeable in the hybrid tea class.

"Not only the great percentage of hybrid tea roses, but also some of our choicest hybrid perpetuals, make practically no growth when planted in the garden on their own roots, except in such favored localities for rose growing as on the Pacific coast and in some of the gulf states. But, even in these favored localities, not only the commercial grower but also the amateur, who has had any experience at all, gives preference to the budded stock.

"The average amateur has an abhorrence for budded or grafted plants, and a greatly exaggerated fear of the possibility of wild suckers starting from the stock on which the choicer varieties are budded. This danger of suckering, while always possible, by the use of suitable types of stocks, properly prepared, is reduced to a minimum, and the occasional wild shoot which does appear is so distinct in appearance that any amateur, who is sufficiently interested to plant a choice rose, will readily recognize it and remove it as soon as it appears.

"At little cost every amateur can settle this much agitated question for himself. Take any one or all of the following list, selected at random from varieties recommended in every American catalogue as being excellent bedding or garden roses: Caroline Testout, Jonkheer J. L. Mock, Killarney, Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, Lady Ashtown, Mme. Jules Grolez, Mme. Leon Pain, Mme. Ravary, Prince de Bulgarie, General MacArthur, La France, Duchess of Wellington, My Maryland, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Lady Alice Stanley, Mrs. Wakefield Christie-Miller. Secure a strong 2-year-old, own-root plant from a reliable source, at the same time procuring a good 2-year-old budded plant; plant the two side by side, and we are certain that, long before the season is well advanced, you will be convinced of the superiority of the budded stock and will plant only budded plants when obtainable."

PRUNING HARDY ROSES.

Should rose bushes be cut back low each fall, or should the new shoots be left on to bloom the following year?
L. H. D.

These should be pruned in spring. In the case of hybrid perpetuals, such as Paul Neyron, Druschki, Mrs. John Laing, Ulrich Brunner, Clio, Jacqueminot, etc., cut back strong canes to three or four eyes of the previous year's growth. Weaker shoots should be headed to one and two eyes. Remove weak and dead wood entirely. In the case of teas and hybrid teas, such as the Killarneys, Rhea Reid, Caroline Testout, Mrs. A. Ward, Bessie Brown, Viscountess Folkestone, Maman Cochet, etc., cut out all dead and weak wood and merely cut back the ends a little on the stronger canes. Rambler roses should only have dead and weak wood cut out. After they have flowered is the time to remove all the canes which have flowered. Cut these close to the ground, allowing the shoots starting from the base to come up. These produce the flowering canes for the following year. C. W.

THE WOMEN YOU MEET

MRS. A. H. AUSTIN.

LEADERS of the modern "feminist" movement have much to say about the ability of women to conduct business successfully without help from men. Of course the women have such ability; the hosts of women in the florists' trade are abundant proof of that. But the trade furnishes convincing evidence, also, of the still more pleasing fact that husband and wife can manage a business together harmoniously and remuneratively. As to the gladiolus business of the A. H. Austin Co., at Wayland, O., Mrs. Austin apparently deserves all the credit for the success of the business in its early stages, for she took entire charge of her field of gladioli while Mr. Austin cared for the rest of the farm, and she conducted the business in her own name for some years after it had grown to large proportions. Now she and her husband constitute the firm and the business is still increasing.

OUTDOOR ROSES IN MICHIGAN.

Which are the best varieties of roses to grow outdoors here, in south-central Michigan? I wish particularly to get pink, red, white and yellow varieties that will be hardy in this part of the state. Will the greenhouse varieties do?
J. G.

Where extreme hardiness is desired, some of the hybrid perpetual roses, such as Gen. Jacqueminot, will be most satisfactory, but even these varieties should be heavily mulched.

Under favorable conditions in south-central Michigan the hybrid tea roses can be grown successfully, and among those adapted for outdoor culture are several of the leading greenhouse varieties, such as Killarney and White Killarney; also Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, which is white with a tinge of lemon. Other sorts are Caroline Testout, a fragrant, full pink sort; Capt. Christy, flesh pink; La France, pink, blooming early and late; Mme. Abel Chatenay, dark rosy carmine, and Gruss an Teplitz, a brilliant red, constant blooming sort. Mrs. Aaron Ward, coppery orange, changing to creamy white, is a promising new sort.

For bedding purposes the Baby Rambler has its place, and Dorothy Perkins will also be found useful, as will Crimson Rambler, which of course is especially desirable as a climber.

When roses are planted outdoors they should have a rather firm soil, containing some clay. Not only should they be heavily mulched each fall to prevent the deep freezing of the ground, but a thick mulch will afford some protection to the stems and branches. If in an exposed location, any sort of protection or barrier which will hold the snow over the plants will be helpful. T.

VIOLETS A SECOND YEAR.

Can Princess of Wales violets be carried over a second year with good results? I have a bed that was used for cuttings in June and is looking fine now. The plants have no runners. Can this bed be fertilized and grown for blooms this winter with good results? I can let the bed freeze if that will help. C. W. R.

The Princess of Wales violets will not do nearly so well a second year. The flowers will run smaller, and the color, also, will be paler. If you have no other plants, I would use them, but you will find the young stock will produce much finer blooms. If your climate is not too severe, keep the violets outdoors all winter, protected with leaves, meadow hay or straw, laying some brush or light boards on top to keep the covering in place. If the ground is free from stagnant water, the plants should winter all right and give a good spring crop to follow the greenhouse stock. C. W.

PHŒNIX FROM SEED.

Please inform us where we may obtain Phœnix Canariensis seeds and also tell us the right way to plant them for best results. B. & H.

Seeds of Phœnix Canariensis are offered by several of the large seedsmen, though it is possible that there may be some shortages in palm seeds, owing to the irregularity of transatlantic shipments during the war in Europe.

These seeds may be sown either in 6-inch pots or in flats, in light soil, the seeds being covered to a depth of half an inch. Water them in thoroughly and keep them moist, placing the pots or flats in a partly shaded greenhouse. If the seeds are fresh they will germinate in a few weeks, and may remain in the seed pots until the second leaf begins to push up, when they should be potted off. W. H. T.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

Trade conditions seem to be much the same as at last writing; the weather has improved, but business is practically dead. Outdoor flowers have recovered somewhat since the heavy rains of a week ago, but the growers say the asters are much later this year; that is, of course, the later varieties. Quantities of hardy phlox, verbenas, gladioli and candytuft are shipped in and are sold quite readily. Good cosmos is on the market and the first chrysanthemums have arrived. Roses in all grades and varieties are arriving in fine condition; some especially good Kaiserin are seen. Gladioli are plentiful; the best sellers are America and Rochester White. Carnations are not good or plentiful. Asters, of which we have received large shipments, are not what they should be and have to be cleared at low prices. Sweet peas are still quite scarce. Good Boston, Whitmani and Piersoni ferns are seen in many of the stores.

Various Notes.

E. R. Fry is kept fairly busy these days at his fruit farm. The florists' business is not overbrisk.

Miss B. Bossler, of the Lord & Burnham Co., commenced her vacation September 1 and is visiting friends in Schenectady and New York.

Salter Bros. displayed a beautiful vase of yellow chrysanthemums last week at their East Main street store.

Henry P. Nenn's window, which was chiefly of palms and ferns prettily arranged, was brightened by an artistic basket of zinnias of many colors.

J. Berg and Milton Alexander.

At a flower carnival held at Spencerport, N. Y., the judges were George Arnold, manager of the seed department of James Vick's Sons, at Greece, N. Y., and vice-president of the Rochester Florists' Association; J. M. Dickinson, local nurseryman, and H. E. Rogers, local florist.

James Vick's Sons held their annual picnic Saturday, August 29, which was quite successful. Good weather prevailed. About 100 were present and spent the day in games, rifle shooting, etc. After a hearty dinner most of the crowd went around in autos and trucks visiting and inspecting the trial grounds, which are coming along in good shape. The firm expects a much larger average than in any previous year. The store business is rather dull, as is expected at this season. Bulbs are arriving and catalogues are being mailed. H. J. H.

MILWAUKEE.

The Market.

Business has not been quite so good during the last week. In the previous week there was a little spurt in funeral work, but when that ceased, the lull in business became more apparent than ever. New carnations, though shown on the market, were not of sufficient quantity to make any change in market conditions. Asters are still scarce, but their quality is improving and this makes it possible to clean up every day's cut. Roses are still shortening up, on account of the recent cool nights. The supply, while not nearly so large as in the last month, is still large enough to take care of the demand. Snapdragons are coming in, but the supply is inadequate. Gladioli have shortened up considerably and are moving satisfactorily. They are of fine quality for this time of year.

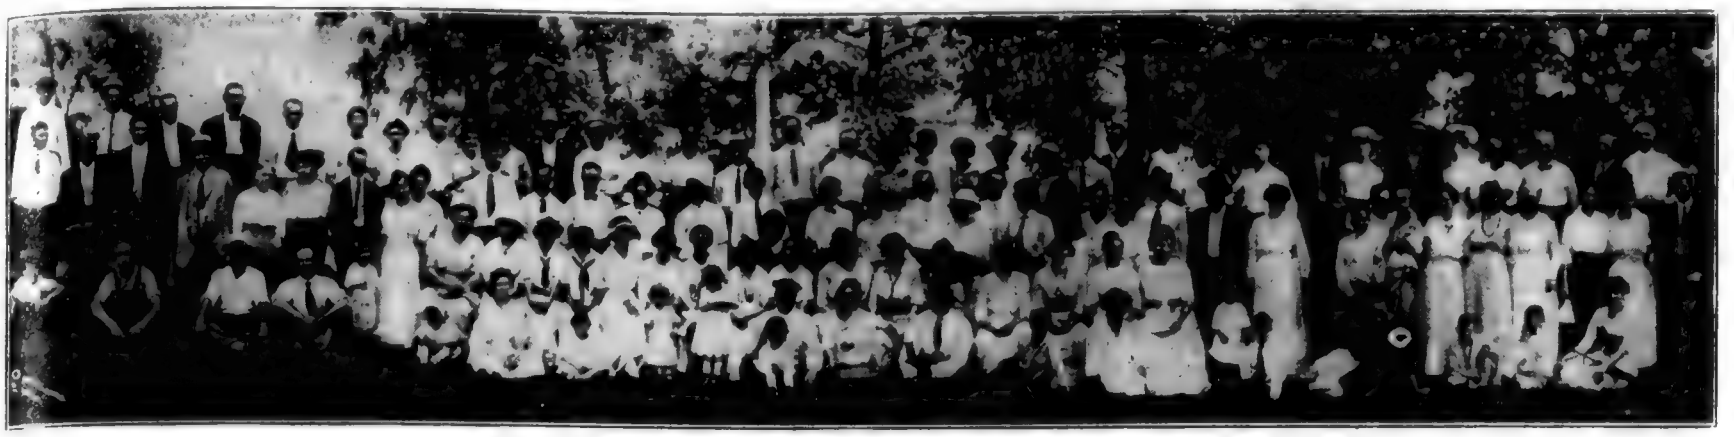
The demand for both Easter lilies and rubrums has increased to a marked degree and, although the supply is not noticeably diminishing, the entire cut is being cleaned up daily. Valley is scarce. Owing to the doubt as to next year's supply, the trade seems determined to use all it can while it can obtain a supply. As growers are holding back to some extent, this has a tendency to clean up the cut as soon as it appears on the market.

Various Notes.

The Heitman-Oestreicher Co. is now cutting some extra fine asters. These are greenhouse-grown and are finding favor with the trade wherever seen.

Patrick Cudahy, whose new greenhouse plant is just about finished, is already cutting some fine roses for the market.

Gustave Totske, the north side florist, is busy remodeling his greenhouses.



Miss Schneider, with the Holton & Hunkel Co., returned August 24 from a two weeks' vacation. Albert Hare, with the same firm, returned to his duties August 31, after being away for three weeks.

Milwaukee will have the annual Wisconsin state fair again this year, although there was some talk of locating it in some other city. The fact that the buildings are already in our city helped to keep the fair with us. The fair grounds were visited by a tornado about two months ago, and the result was that a number of buildings, fences, etc., were demolished, with a loss of about $100,000. The grounds were also devastated recently by a fire. Among the buildings destroyed was the Agricultural building, in which the horticultural exhibitions have been held. It is hoped that the fair board will be able to provide a suitable place for a horticultural display. H. J. S.

KANSAS CITY CLUB'S PICNIC.

At noon Wednesday, August 26, all the florists of Kansas City, save a few retailers, closed their doors, to take part in the first annual outing of the Kansas City Florists' Club, which was held at the nurseries of M. E. Chandler. Special street cars, decorated with banners, carried the party to Kinney Heights. Just as the cars started, bouquets of roses, donated by the George M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co., Henry Kusik & Co. and T. J. Noll & Co., were thrown into the crowd of people watching the departure, causing much excitement. From Kinney Heights automobiles and trucks carried the florists out to the grounds of M. E. Chandler.

The program for the afternoon was in the hands of G. K. Parker and Fred Fromholdt, respectively president and vice-president of the Geo. M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co. Dick Parker, salesman for Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago, arrived in time to put up some good prizes and act as judge in the contests. The sports commenced with a baseball game between the Has-beens and Willbes, which ended with the score 6 to 6 at the end of the fourth inning.

Through the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Chandler, a bountiful table was spread, to which the 150 guests present sat down with a will. After the awarding of about $100 worth of prizes, votes of thanks were tendered Mr. and Mrs. Chandler for their hospitality, Dick Parker for his work and prizes, the committee of the club for its successful efforts, and the various firms for their contributions of prizes. G. Holsinger, of Holsinger Bros., Merriam, Kan., invited the club to his firm's nurseries for the annual picnic next year. The evening closed with music by Field's orchestra and Mr. Chandler's victrola, and dancing, William Biedermann calling the old square dances in fine style. The next day those who did not go were sorer than those who entered the sack race, and next year a record outing is assured. Among the out-of-town guests were Dick Parker, of Chicago; P. G. Brackenbury, of Pleasant Hill, Mo., and Mrs. Hugh Seales, of Birmingham, Ala.

The prize-winners were as follows:

Men and women's horseshoe pitching contest—Mrs. C. E. Thomas and Mr. Coffee, first; Mrs. G. K. Parker and A. E. Adams, second; Miss Gladys Clemens and Fred Fromholdt, third.

Men and women's sack race—Miss D. Biedermann and Mr. Wilson, first; Miss L. Biedermann and George Holsinger, second; Mrs. G. K. Parker and R. A. Hunting, third.

Men and women's watermelon eating contest—Miss Hazel V. Cope and Charles Robinson, first; Miss L. Biedermann and Wm. Biedermann, Jr., second.

Men and women's free-for-all race—Miss Hazel V. Cope and George Holsinger, first; Miss R. S. Barnes and W. J. Barnes, Jr., second; Miss D. Biedermann and Mr. Warling, third.

Men and women's baseball throwing contest—Mrs. B. Adams and Mr. Jarrett, first; Mrs. C. E. Thomas and Mr. Coffee, second; Mrs. J. H. Boyd and Mr. Wilson, third; Miss Hazel V. Cope and W. J. Barnes, Jr., fourth.

Fat men's race—Mr. Wilson, first; G. Holsinger, second; Fred Fromholdt, third; J. Holsinger, fourth.

Ladies' peanut race—Miss Goldie Flynn, first; Miss R. S. Barnes, second; Miss D. Biedermann, third.

Boys' and girls' race—Miss Hazel Cope and George Couch, first.

Men's flat-foot jumping contest—Russell Hardy, first; J. W. Barnes, second; Mr. Jarrett, third.

Men's tree-climbing contest—Chas. Redmon, first; Wm. Biedermann, Jr., second.

Men and women's tug-of-war, twenty on each side—Captains Fred Fromholdt and Mrs. W. J. Barnes.

BRATTLEBORO, VT.

Business has been quiet for the last few weeks, principally funeral work, but the season that closed with the completion of the bedding work was an excellent one, the call for plants and cut flowers showing a steady increase. There are two good florists here and none for a considerable distance in three directions, so that their trade covers a rather wide if thinly populated territory.

C. E. Allen has been in the florists' business here since 1868, having started when he was only 17 years of age. During his forty-six years at it Mr. Allen has seen many changes in the flower trade. In his early years there were few florists in the west and he did a considerable wholesale business with those starting and a mailing plant trade all over the country. As florists multiplied through the west his distant trade fell off, but the local and Green Mountain trade increased, so that he is today doing more business than ever. About half of his glass is new and practically the whole place is equipped with one-piece concrete benches. Concrete is one of Mr. Allen's specialties. On his property of thirty acres he has a fine gravel bank and some time ago he began the manufacture of concrete blocks for building purposes. He has a building on the place in which a force of men work constantly at this and many of the newer houses in the town are of his handiwork. Incidentally, he makes it a practice to put up one dwelling each year for sale or rent. In the greenhouses there is the usual great variety of stock usually found on a place that caters to a general local trade.

Carl Hopkins, who is town clerk, started in the business only a few years ago. His greenhouses are so far from the center of trade that a year or so ago he opened a store on the main business street, which has helped him materially, many people buying flowers who never did when they had to go to the greenhouses for them. Mr. Hopkins has the assistance of his wife and daughters.

A steady increase in business is expected, as the town is rich and growing rapidly for New England. The population now is about 9,000 and the banks carry about $13,000,000 of deposits, a record not frequently duplicated throughout the entire United States.

VIOLETS A SECOND YEAR.

Can Princess of Wales violets be carried over a second year with good results? I have a bed that was used for cuttings in June and is looking fine now. The plants have no runners. Can this bed be fertilized and grown for blooms this winter with good results? I can let the bed freeze if that will help. C. W. R.

The Princess of Wales violets will not do nearly so well a second year. The flowers will run smaller, and the color, also, will be paler. If you have no other plants, I would use them, but you will find the young stock will produce much finer blooms. If your climate is not too severe, keep the violets outdoors all winter, protected with leaves, meadow hay or straw, laying some brush or light boards on top to keep the covering in place. If the ground is free from stagnant water, the plants should winter all right and give a good spring crop to follow the greenhouse stock. C. W.

PHŒNIX FROM SEED.

Please inform us where we may obtain Phœnix Canariensis seeds and also tell us the right way to plant them for best results. B. & H.

Seeds of Phœnix Canariensis are offered by several of the large seedsmen, though it is possible that there may be some shortages in palm seeds, owing to the irregularity of transatlantic shipments during the war in Europe.

These seeds may be sown either in 6 inch pots or in flats, in light soil, the seeds being covered to a depth of half an inch. Water them in thoroughly and keep them moist, placing the pots or flats in a partly shaded greenhouse. If the seeds are fresh they will germinate in a few weeks, and may remain in the seed pots until the second leaf begins to push up, when they should be potted off. W. H. T.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

Trade conditions seem to be much the same as at last writing; the weather has improved, but business is practically dead. Outdoor flowers have recovered somewhat since the heavy rains of a week ago, but the growers say the asters are much later this year; that is, of course, the later varieties. Quantities of hardy phlox, verbenas, gladioli and candytuft are shipped in and are sold quite readily. Good cosmos is on the market and the first chrysanthemums have arrived. Roses in all grades and varieties are arriving in fine condition; some especially good Kaiserin are seen. Gladioli are plentiful; the best sellers are America and Rochester White. Carnations are not good or plentiful. Asters, of which we have received large shipments, are not what they should be and have to be cleared at low prices. Sweet peas are still quite scarce. Good Boston, Whitmani and Piersoni ferns are seen in many of the stores.

Various Notes.

E. R. Fry is kept fairly busy these days at his fruit farm. The florists' business is not overbrisk.

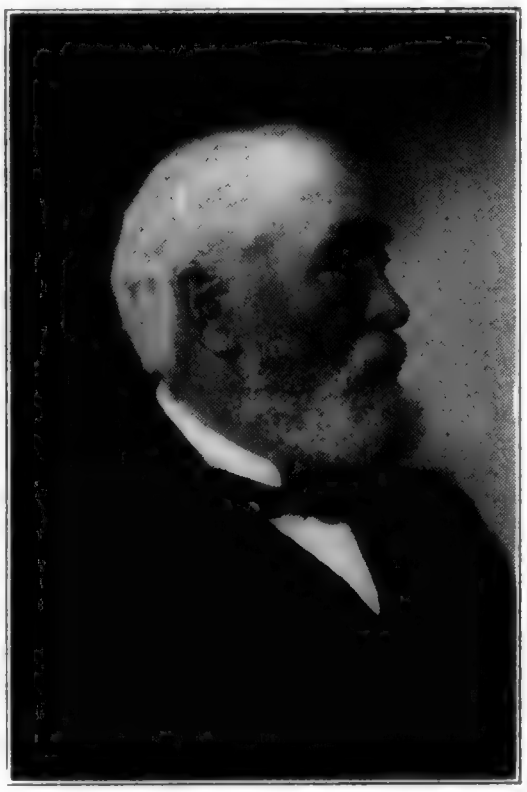
J. M. Brunson.

J. M. Brunson, the pioneer florist of Paducah, Ky., died August 25, of Bright's disease. He was 74 years of age and had resided in Paducah about a quarter of a century. He was born at Kenton, O. In 1891, with his son, Carroll L. Brunson, he established the florists' business now conducted at Paducah by John Van Aart. C. L. Brunson was the leader in the business until his death, May 16, 1912, the firm being known as C. L. Brunson & Co., and in October, 1912, J. M. Brunson sold to Mr. Van Aart and retired. The business had become one of the largest and most successful in that part of the state.

Mr. Brunson's only surviving relative is a brother, H. C. Brunson, of Cumberland Falls, Ky.

George Dickson.



European trade papers now coming to hand carry long notices of George Dickson, head of the firm of Alexander Dickson & Sons, Newtownards, Ireland, who died August 13 at the advanced age of 83 years. As the originator of Killarney, Liberty, Mrs. Jardine, Melody, Irish Fire Flame and many others, his fame was world-wide and his work was of practical value to every American florist. The following is condensed from a Belfast paper:

"George Dickson was not only a rose specialist—he was an all-round horticulturist of exceptional ability, and his name is associated with many varieties of garden vegetables, which his skill and patience in the art of selection and development enabled him to bring to the highest degree of perfection. The rose gardens and nurseries of Newtownards, if more famous, are not more useful or more beneficial to the horticultural world than the seed trial grounds which were their neighbors. Both the horticulture and the agriculture of County Down owe much to the Newtownards establishment in conjunction with the extensive seed trade which the firm carries on in Belfast and Dublin.

"Mr. Dickson's father was a native of Scotland who settled in the north of Ireland and founded the firm which subsequently acquired a national reputation under the title of Alexander Dickson & Sons. Skill in horticulture, and especially in rose culture and development, is hereditary in the Dickson family. George Dickson inherited it from his father, and has transmitted it to his sons. The late Mr. Dickson was a man of great business energy. In the establishment of an extensive American business he several times visited the United States, while his trade connection with England was of colossal proportions. Some years ago he turned the concern into a private limited company, of which he remained chairman until his death.

"Personally Mr. Dickson was esteemed by all who met him, either commercially or socially. The great rosarians, home and foreign, have shown from time to time a respect for his character which was not less than their admiration for his genius. The Royal Horticultural Society conferred upon him their highest honorary distinction. In Newtownards, which was his home through a long lifetime, there was no more popular or esteemed personality. A kindly, genial man, a good neighbor, and a friend of the poor, his death, full of years though he was, will be an even sharper loss to the Ards district than to the horticultural world."

At the time the Dean Hole medal was voted to Mr. Dickson, W. Atlee Burpee wrote for The Review: "While relieved from active work by his sons, he is still greatly interested in the annual introductions of the firm of which he has so long been head. Mr. Dickson has been certainly fortunate in having the assistance and hearty cooperation of his six sons. Of these sons Alexander Dickson and George Dickson are now the hybridizers and growers of new roses at Newtownards; Thomas Dickson is manager of the farms, while Andrew Dickson is manager of the rose gardens at Dublin. Hugh Dickson, so well known as an expert both in sweet peas and culinary peas, is manager of the seed business. The legal end of the business is under the able control of Gordon Dickson, solicitor in Belfast, who a few years ago protected the right of the name Alexander Dickson by securing letters patent for the distinctive name 'Hawlmark' as applied to roses, plants and seeds."

George Dickson.

BALTIMORE.

The Market.

During the last week no large volume of business was transacted, but a slight improvement over the preceding week was noticed. Asters have slightly decreased in quantity and the outside stock has been bruised and battered by almost a week's steady rain; the prices are about average. Roses continue a glut and thousands are put on the streets. Gladioli are being offered at any figure, with few buyers, and the wholesale houses have any quantity on hand. Valley and Beauties were in better demand than usual; in fact, the business of the week showed more activity in the better grades of stock than for some time. Short carnations from the indoor crop have begun to come in, but are in competition with asters and are finding a poor sale. Lilies, both Easter and rubrum, are plentiful, with a poor demand even at low figures. Greens are abundant, with the demand slightly increased.

Club Meeting.

The adjourned meeting of the Florists' Club was held August 31, Vice-president Hamilton in the chair. The outing committee, through its chairman, F. C. Bauer, presented its final report, which showed a balance of $16.38 in favor of the club over and above all expenses. The committee that entertained the Pittsburgh delegation en route to Boston also presented its report, which was accepted and the committee was discharged with the club's thanks.

The main topic of the evening was whether the club should make a display in the Star Spangled Banner centennial parade. It developed that the sentiment was in favor of making a display, but the majority of those present thought the time too short to get a creditable display together.

The matter of inviting the American Rose Society to hold its next annual meeting in this city was brought up and action deferred until the first meeting in September. A letter was read from Richard Vincent, Jr., inviting the club to attend the annual dahlia show at White Marsh during the last week in September. The club decided on Tuesday, September 29, as the official club day, as the Washington Club will hold its annual outing there on that date.

Various Notes.

Pierce & Co. have on exhibition, in their store window on Charles street, a miniature colored model of their new store which is now under construction at Charles and Hamilton streets.

J. J. Cummings cut some of the first mums of the season last week. They were of the Golden Glow variety, of which a large lot will be ready for cutting shortly.

Halliday Bros. have almost finished the greenhouse they are having erected on their place near Monkton. As soon as this one is completed, another will be erected adjoining it.

Martin Reukauf, of Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, and George Herrmann, of A. Herrmann, New York, called on the trade here last week. Both gentlemen report that immortelles are a scarce article and that the majority of those who have been depending on them for Christmas work will have to choose a substitute from a number of different articles, any of which may permanently cut into the sales of immortelles during the coming years.

Sheboygan, Wis.—J. E. Matthewson is building an extension, 27½x150 feet, at his range on the Upper Falls road.

NEWS, NOTES AND COMMENTS

Old Forge, Pa.—Clark, the Florist, has completed the planting of the high school grounds and is figuring on the contract for planting the new city park.

Asbury Park, N. J.—P. A. Petersen reports a busy season, with plenty of stock. Hotel business was affected by the late spring, and the florist depending largely on it during the summer suffers also.

Columbia, Mo.—L. C. Wheat, trading as the Wheat Floral Co., is starting in business here with a greenhouse 20x60. He plans to have everything in readiness by September 15, when the university opens.

Exeter, N. H.—The Rustic plant basket, made of alder or birch wood, is a sideline which has proved profitable to John R. Perkins. He recommends them for any kind of use and for any kind of plant.

Ashland, Mass.—C. W. Brown's field of gladioli and dahlias has been an eye-catcher for the passengers on the Boston & Albany railroad since mid-August, for the show of color has been fine. A propagating house has been added to the equipment.

Minot, N. D.—Geo. Valker is preparing to enlarge his range, putting up one house 27 x 100 and one 27 x 150, with a cross house 21 x 110, to be finished by October 1. Arthur E. Meyer, formerly at Lincoln, Neb., has taken the position of grower and foreman at Mr. Valker's range.

Springfield, Ill.—Hembreiker & Cole, who recently purchased the A. C. Canfield greenhouses, have remodeled the range and opened a new office on the corner of State street and South Grand avenue. Miss Dora F. Meredith, who was employed for a number of years by Mr. Canfield, has resigned her position with A. C. Brown to become the manager of the store.

Westerly, R. I.—Conrad Schultz specializes in carnations. Enchantress is still ahead as a staple variety. Beacon, Benora, Princess Dagmar, Mrs. Ward, Matchless and White Perfection are also grown. Geranium Helen Michell is quite satisfactory. It did not have the proper showing last season, being in many instances overpropagated. It is quite free and a splendid bedder.

Spring Valley, N. Y.—A. S. Burns, who is said to force more lily bulbs than any other one florist in the world, has found considerable inconvenience in carrying his cold storage stock in New York. Therefore he has this summer put up a mechanical refrigeration plant of his own and will hereafter store his million bulbs on his own place, where he will have everything under complete control.

Springfield, Ill.—Hembreiker & Cole are erecting a brick boiler room and stack at the range on Glenwood avenue. The work is to cost $2,500.

Bemidji, Minn.—A. E. Webster will erect a greenhouse, 24x60 feet, to replace his old one, which is to be torn down shortly. He expects to have it ready by September 15.

Austin, Minn.—A. N. Kinsman has finished planting his two new houses. He has 15,000 carnations, 20,000 rose plants, and a larger number of chrysanthemums than before. All the stock is in first-class condition.

S. M. MERWARTH & BROS.

Aug. 28, 1914. Easton, Pa.

San Antonio, Tex.—The San Antonio Florists' Club is planning to hold a large local flower show in the early part of November; the exact date will depend to a large extent upon the weather during October and the first weeks of November. Cash prizes will be awarded for amateur exhibits, and the florists of the city will be invited to make large displays.

Nevada, Mo.—The greenhouses of the Edris Floral Co. were turned back to the former owner, F. R. Roe, August 24. Howard Edris is now running a greenhouse establishment at Girard, Kan., and his father, Perry Edris, has gone to Oskaloosa, Ia., to engage in the real estate business. Mr. Roe will conduct the business under the name of the Nevada Greenhouses. Andrew Dygard, who came here recently from Waterloo, Neb., is foreman.

Le Mars, Ia.—Rocklin & Lehman, the Sioux City florists, are opening a branch store here. William Newman, of Sioux City, will have charge.

Joplin, Mo.—On florists' day at the rose show of the Country Club, H. A. Hall took first prize. Troutman's Flower Shop made a most artistic display, which was not entered in competition.

Sullivan, Ind.—Harry Richmond, of Terre Haute, who has conducted a flower store here for some time, has acquired property on West street, on which will be erected a greenhouse. Mr. Richmond and his wife will make their home here.

Sturgis, Mich.—The hail storm which visited this town August 23 caused about $300 damage at Vogt's Greenhouses. J. W. Vogt says one of the hail stones, which were the largest he ever saw, measured nine and one-half inches in circumference.

Battle Creek, Mich.—Philip J. Foley, of the Foley Greenhouse Mfg. Co., Chicago, was in town last week conferring with S. W. Coggan in regard to the erection of a greenhouse, 42x150 feet, which the latter finds necessary to take care of his rapidly growing business.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—Fred C. Higley is stocking his three greenhouses, 30x150 feet, just erected by the Lord & Burnham Co., at 508 East Thirty-third street, St. Elmo. Mr. Higley is doing a wholesale and retail business under the title of the Fred C. Higley Floral Co.

Terre Haute, Ind.—Fred G. Heinl, of John G. Heinl & Son, has sent out post cards bearing a colored view of the interior of Heinl's Flower Store, at 129 South Seventh street, telling the trade that he is home from the convention, after a good time, and is now ready for business.

Bridgeport, Conn.—Brooklawn Conservatories, of which Julius Reck is the proprietor, are making additions to the houses, following a successful season. At this establishment fine America, Brenchleyensis and Mrs. Francis King gladioli are being cut and are selling at a good figure.

Ashtabula, O.—The Lake Shore Greenhouse Co., recently organized by E. J. Harvey, A. T. Ullman, R. C. Young, T. Jeffords and P. C. Remick, has secured options on land on Samuel street, and plans to put up about an acre of glass this year. It is hoped to have this ready for the spring cucumber crop planting, and next year the glass will be doubled. A packing and engine house, 36x100, is being planned and work on this will start at once.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

Incorporated by Act of Congress, March 4, 1901.

Officers for 1914: President, Theodore Wirth, Minneapolis; vice-president, Patrick Welch, Boston; secretary, John Young, 53 W. 28th St., New York City; treasurer, W. F. Kasting, Buffalo.

Officers for 1915: President, Patrick Welch, Boston; vice-president, Daniel MacRorie, San Francisco; secretary, John Young, 53 W. 28th St., New York City; treasurer, W. F. Kasting, Buffalo.

Thirty-first annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., August 17 to 20, 1915.

RESULTS.

We give them. You get them. We both have them.

FIELD-GROWN carnation plants are selling unusually well this year, in spite of the fact that the supply seems to be larger than generally had been expected.

GENERAL business conditions are immeasurably better in the middle west than in any other section of the country. This is a farmers' year and the west is full of farmers.

THE mails from England and Holland are coming through in about the usual time. A number of letters written in those countries August 17 and 18 reached The Review August 31.

BRITISH trade papers are recommending that all growers in doubt as to a market for their stock turn their glass into vegetable crops, which will serve an economic purpose if it does not result in a profit during the war.

WITH the right wing of the German army occupying Ghent there seems remote prospect of receiving this fall any of the stock that usually is imported from Belgium. Azaleas and bay trees are about the only items that will be seriously missed.

THE preliminary schedule of the international flower show, to be held at New York March 17 to 23, 1915, now is available in pamphlet form. Anyone desiring a copy will receive it by addressing John Young, secretary, 53 West Twenty-eighth street, New York.

A SUBSCRIBER reports having received a circular "from some person offering to send for a dollar a system of accounting for greenhouses." The subscriber adds: "We mislaid the circular and do not seem to find anything like it in the 'Bible.' Have you any idea who it was, or can you direct us to something similar?" Perhaps some reader will be able to supply the information wanted.

HONORABLE MENTION.

Not a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper. Among those who have this week enrolled themselves for more than one year in advance are:

TWO YEARS.

Frandsen, E. H., Independence, Mo.
Maier, C. F., Denver, Colo.
Moss, Isaac H., Baltimore, Md.
Jaenicke, A., St. Louis, Mo.

The Review stops coming when the subscription runs out. The new green notice with the last copy tells the story; no bills are run up; no duns sent.

ANOTHER JUDGE'S REPORT.

At the S. A. F. convention in Boston there were four sets of judges and the report of one of the boards failed of record with the rest. It was as follows:

"We have examined the bolted steel purlin clamp exhibited and used in the construction of John C. Moninger Co. greenhouses, and after carefully considering the good features of this fitting, we do recommend that a certificate of award of the highest mention be given to the John C. Moninger Co., Chicago and New York, for this fitting. This fitting is made for any sized pipe, and is of steel, galvanized. This bolted clamp fitting takes the place of the old style split tee, and is a great improvement. The pipe support is placed directly underneath the pipe purlin and the split fitting goes around the pipe purlin and down on the sides of the support. A bolt then passes through the split fitting and the pipe support. When this bolt is tightened and considering that the pipe support is close to the purlin, there is no possibility of the support swaying. The fitting cannot loosen and thus makes a tight clamp."

The report is signed by W. H. Siebrecht, F. H. Traendly and J. A. Manda, judges.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

Business has been extremely quiet, and yet some houses state that their sales for the last week of August exceeded the sales for the similar period of last year, and many others report business about the same as usual.

The supply of stock is not so heavy as it was earlier in the season and it is the general opinion that there would be interesting results should there be only a moderate increase in the present light demand. It is the general report that city trade is less active than usual, but that shipping business is proceeding at fully as active a pace as ever is the case in the opening days of September. Years ago it was considered that the active season opened September 1, but of recent years the trade in the larger cities has not opened before October 1.

The Chicago market never has had so many good roses at this time of year. The stock is excellent almost everywhere and the list of varieties is longer than it ever has been before. Pink predominates; a half dozen pink sorts are offered in quantity, with only one white variety available in only moderate numbers. Red and yellow also are offered in greater quantity than white. Mrs. Russell continues the most popular variety on the list and it is said that it is

We Offer You Home-grown

LILIES

Stock in Perfect Condition for Shipping

THESE home-grown Lilies are true Giganteums, grown from perfectly healthy bulbs. They will reach you in excellent condition and make money for you. Can supply in quantity. Also can furnish Rubrums and Auratums of fine quality.

FANCY ROSES

We are in a position to supply first-class stock in all varieties—the standard sorts grown a little better than most men grow them, and the novelty roses that your customers will be calling for as soon as they see them—don't let it be at the "other fellow's" store. See the list for prices:

BEAUTIES

We shall be glad to keep you supplied with good Beauties—any length. We ALWAYS have large cuts of Beauties and you can get them here every day in the year. The stock is grown by Beauty specialists—men who grow nothing else. We have a big cut from young plants—plenty of short and medium stems, as well as plenty of the longest.

Golden Glow Mums, good stock, ready at $1.50 to $2.00 per doz.

VALLEY

We always have Valley—the famous Chicago Market Brand.

ORCHIDS

You can get here as many fine Cattleyas as you need.

ASTERS

Our late Asters are quite out of the ordinary—the best in market. White, pink, lavender. Try some. You'll want more. Of course we have short Asters, too, for work.

GLADIOLI

We do not handle the mixed stock dumped on the market by growers of bulbs. Our Glads are grown by specialists who grow for cut flowers only and who start with the right varieties, grow them right, cut them right and pack them right. Plenty of America, King and Augusta.

FANCY FERNS

By ordering of us you can get all the Hardy Cut Ferns you need. Our stock is good; we never ship anything but the best on the market.

affecting the salability and price of Beauties. There continue to be more Beauties than the market really needs. The prices all summer have been too low.

Carnations again begin to be a factor. There are considerable quantities of field-grown flowers and the new crop from under glass has increased to a point where it is to be reckoned with. Of course the cut under glass is short in stem, but the flowers are good. Some of the late varieties of asters now offered in increasing quantities are of really excellent quality and the low grade early and mid-season sorts have practically passed out. Gladioli are less abundant but still more than equal to the demand. Prices appear to be all that can be expected under the circumstances.

One of the principal problems with the wholesalers at present is how to merchandise the large receipts of lilies at prices which will make it possible for the growers to break even. August 31 the storage spaces of several wholesalers were seen each to contain from 2,000 to 5,000 lilies, in the afternoon after most of the day's business had been done and after the views of practically every buyer had been met. The lilies are fine and it seems strange that buyers do not seek the opportunity to use them in quantity at the prevailing quantity prices. Rubrums also are abundant.

Nothing new is to be said of cattleyas; they are not in heavy supply, but the usual late summer demand has not developed. The effort to raise the price of valley has not yet met with much success. Although no one knows when new pips will be available, only small quantities of the finest stock can be sold at 5 cents, there still being plenty of good valley sold at 4 cents and even 3 cents because the buyers will pay no more for it. Chrysanthemums now are available in considerable quantity. The yellow is Golden Glow and the few whites are Smith's Advance. There are varying reports as to the demand, some houses saying the mums are hard to sell, while others report that the buyers are beginning to look for them. Cosmos is plentiful and good. Dahlias are scarcely in evidence.

Dutch Bulbs Burned.

The International Forwarding Co. has abandoned a carload of Holland bulbs received via the B. & O. R. R. in a damaged condition. While on the Philadelphia & Reading road the car caught fire and the contents was more or less injured. Some of the cases were quite badly charred, while others show no mark of fire. The bulbs look good, but it is the opinion of some of those who have seen them that no one would care to take a chance on the stock, knowing what it has been through. There are ninety-six cases in the lot, once worth, possibly, $3,000, as the car contains narcissi, tulips and hyacinths. The bulbs were a combined shipment from C. J. Speelman & Sons, Sassenheim, consigned to the forwarding agents at Chicago, here to be split up and shipped to the buyers. Some of the parcels bear marks indicating that they were to be used near Chicago, but the majority appear to have been destined to Lincoln and other Nebraska points. They are now in the B. & O. freight house and probably will be sold at auction.

Various Notes.

A. Henderson writes interestingly from Paris, where he arrived August 10. His experiences of European travel include a military escort in cases where it was thought he might be an emissary of one of the warring powers. In company with W. B. Van Eyck, of Van Gelderen & Co., Mr. Henderson was placed under military arrest at Boskoop, but the Chicagoan was escorted back to Rotterdam. He says he found the trade firms in Holland, France and England still doing business and that shipments will, in most cases, come forward with only slight delay. Mr. Henderson met Julius Roehrs, of Rutherford, N. J., in London, and L. C. Bobbink, of the same town, in Amsterdam. A cablegram from Mr. Henderson stated he expected to leave Liverpool August 28 on the Calgarian, arriving at Quebec September 3.

It usually is a serious matter to vote twice at any election. However, it will not only be safe, but florists are urged, to vote twice for Peter Reinberg at next Wednesday's primary election. Mr. Reinberg is a candidate for president of the county board and must also be chosen a member of the board, so that every voter has the privilege of voting twice for the florist. One vote is the best we can do for J. A. Mendel, florist candidate for sheriff.

Frank P. Cleveland has retired. His successor in business is John B. Wright, who will continue the office at 115 South Dearborn street. Mr. Cleveland has been in business as a real estate and investment broker for many years and has accumulated a comfortable fortune. He has acted as the agent for buyer or seller in the transfer of a large number of greenhouse properties throughout the United States and retires with the reputation of having dealt squarely in every instance.

Rapid progress is being made in the erection of the new store of James Kolar, at 5136 West Twenty-fifth street. Mr. Kolar expects it will be ready for occupancy by October 1.

Sam Pearce is said to be cutting approximately 2,500 Easter lilies per day.

August Lange is quoted as saying that his store has handled more flowers and as much money as usual in August but that the profit has not been up to the mark of previous years.

Oscar Metz is planning to put up a 1-story store at 5523 Harper avenue, next door to his present location. It is to cost about $2,500.

E. C. Amling, who generally is recognized as conservative, says he considers the outlook unusually bright. "However others may feel," said Mr. Amling, "I am confident the approaching season will be the best in the history of our business."

Frank Garland, at Des Plaines, is awaiting the arrival of nearly 100,000 Dutch bulbs bought of a Holland house. He has his greenhouses planted with roses, carnations and mums, but is cutting practically nothing at present.

John Zech says that he will without fail be present when President Welch calls the S. A. F. to order in San Francisco next August.

chrysanthemums for practically six weeks.

While A. L. Vaughan was visiting W. E. Lynch, at Hatfield, Mass., last week, the two paid their respects to the late E. H. Hunt, who lies in the little graveyard there.

E. E. Pieser states that Kennicott Bros. Co. is receiving large consignments of Easter lilies from A. S. Burns, the New Yorker who holds the record as the world's largest lily grower.

John Degnan, at Winterson's Seed Store, says both Paper Whites and Romans continue to sell unusually well because of the anticipated spring scarcity of valley.

James Kidwell's right arm came out of splints August 31 after four weeks of confinement there. He broke the bone cranking an automobile. The arm will be in a sling for at least another fortnight.

After the convention at Boston, Paul Klingsporn went to Philadelphia for a week's visit with relatives.

D. F. Simonds, of the Ogden Floral Co., 1917 West Harrison street, is visiting in Springfield, Ill.

A. C. Rojahn, at Oak Park, has begun to cut his mum crop. The first Golden Glow, last week, were good enough to bring $2.50 per dozen.

N. J. Wietor says the summer, while quiet, has nevertheless been the best in the experience of Wietor Bros., due to good cuts right along.

John Muno, 2464 Touhy avenue, is again seen on the market after recovering from an attack of sciatic rheumatism.

The Chicago Carnation Co. reports an unusually good season on field-grown carnation plants.

Joseph Papacek and wife, 3250 West Twenty-sixth street, have returned from a two weeks' outing at Lake Geneva, Wis.

G. Swenson's new winter-blooming sweet pea has been registered under the name Selma Swenson. A small quantity of the stock has been sold this year, but it will not be generally distributed until next season.

That cosmos is selling quite well is the report of Charles Erne, who adds that Erne & Klingel have been receiving it in limited quantities for the greater part of the month of August.

John Mangel's stand in the entrance to the Field office building now has been open for two weeks and adds materially to the attractiveness of the entrance to the building. The business done has not yet become large, but Mr. Mangel anticipates a prosperous season there, as an excellent class of people frequent the building.

Pathe's Weekly is showing a moving picture of a half dozen Chicago florists who were having a jolly time at the Boston convention. In the picture are John Zech, G. C. Weiland, Paul Klingsporn, P. W. Peterson, Matt Mann and a number of others from the west.

The nursery and landscape business has developed to such an extent with the C. Pfund Co., of Oak Park, Ill., that it has been decided to dispose of the retail flower store now conducted by the company.

An unusual and unexpected increase in shipping is keeping all hands busy in the shipping department of the Geo. Wittbold Co. This concern now has three large establishments to draw from: one at Des Plaines, one at Edgebrook and the one on Buckingham place.

James B. Foley states that President French has appointed George Asmus, H. N. Bruns, J. C. Vaughan, August Poehlmann and H. B. Howard as a committee of the Chicago Florists' Club to recommend ways and means of contribution to the Smith memorial fund.

Hoerber Bros. say they expect to have this season the best crop of carnations in the history of the firm. The young stock will be ready to cut the latter part of this month.

A slight illness kept Frank Hagen, of the George Reinberg force, home the first part of this week.

A. W. Hammer, who worked for a considerable time for W. J. Smyth and for a shorter period for C. A. Samuelson, as greenhouse and plantsman, was found dead in the bathroom adjoining his apartment August 30. His employment with the florists included the time he was working his way through Northwestern medical college and he became a physician. He was 33 years of age. His wife died three months

NEW YORK.

The Market.

Delightfully cool and seasonable weather, the returning multitude from Europe and the rapid improvement in the quality of the roses and carnations now arriving, lead us to hope that the worst is over in the cut flower market. The flood of gladioli is receding, the accumulations of the month of August have been carted away and the market can handle the reserves with some certainty of fair returns. There are not so many asters. Among those arriving, some splendid stock is seen and appreciated by the buyers, but the short-stemmed and common flowers find no outlet. Not only have the masses of asters and gladioli been unsalable, but the wholesalers have had to pay large sums to the expressmen to have them carted away. Tons of these flowers during August have perished, with absolutely no returns to the growers. As to quality, there has been no complaint, but the retail demand has been nil, and even the selected stock has been hard to move. Better results are certain during September.

Indications of life in the market were observable August 29, and while no encouraging advance in prices was noticeable, the demand was wider and a change for the better in the retail business was made inevitable. A sudden demand for valley at the end of the week was a surprise to many and good stock advanced to $3 per hundred. It will be no wonder if this price is maintained. Lilies, however, show no signs of recovery. At the week's end $2 per hundred was the high quotation and I saw many sold under this figure, some good stock even as low as $10 per thousand.

Orchids of many varieties are abundant and the specialists say there is not enough stability in values to give an arbitrary top or bottom.

Fairly good carnations from the new planting are beginning to arrive and another week will see a great sufficiency, no doubt, with satisfactory quality. Roses are already abundant and prices remain at the same low level as given a week ago. Some Double White Killarney sold as high as the special American Beauties. The best of these, even in small lots, did not sell at over $10 per hundred.

There seems to be but one topic of general interest and that is the European war and its probable effect upon the florists' business during the coming season. From a bright and hopeful outlook the change to uncertainty is most marked. Almost every nationality has its adherents in the list of New York florists and the wordy war in this city can be better imagined than described.

THE REAL TRUTH

AN impression seems to be abroad that our firm has offered Dutch Bulbs in general at 50% below 1914 catalogue prices, which impression is not at all based upon facts. The real facts are these, viz.: We are one of the largest growers of Hyacinths in Holland, exporting largely to Germany, Russia and England, mainly what is known as "Top Root," or "Exhibition," Hyacinths, and owing to the unfortunate conditions existing at present in the named countries, our market has been necessarily curtailed, and consequently the undersigned made special offers in this country, which apparently brought about the impression above named.

We have a general line of first quality bulbs to offer AT FAIR PRICES. Write us about your needs.

The Market.

Notwithstanding the fact that the weather last week was cool, business has been dull. There is a great accumulation of stock of all kinds. Enough rain fell to keep outdoor stock in good condition. There is a big supply of asters, gladioli, snapdragons, etc. At this writing, asters are good and bring fair prices. These are used for all purposes. Gladioli keep coming into the market in great quantities, but prices remain firm. Roses show the effects of the cool weather and are much better in color and firmness of stem. Japanese lilies, in pink and white, are plentiful and are put to all sorts of uses. Harrisii lilies are abundant, but have little demand.

Boston ferns and palms are good. The fall demand for them has begun to make itself felt. About the middle of September fall trade will begin in earnest.

Various Notes.

Miss May French, of Mark Aitken's establishment, Springfield, Mass., was a visitor August 27. She expressed herself as having been much pleased with Buffalo flower shops and said much in praise of them. She was returning from Toronto, where she spent her vacation.

The Buffalo florists who attended the Boston convention all had a big time and enjoyed the reception at the Copley Plaza hotel and all the other entertainments. They did not complain of the rain, which spoiled so much of their pleasure.

W. H. Oberg, of the W. L. Rock Flower Co., Kansas City, Mo., was a visitor here last week. He also spent a day at Niagara Falls.

Frank J. Mahoney is spending a week's vacation with his parents at Rochester, N. Y.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., of Cromwell, Conn., is sending some extra fine cattleyas to this city.

S. A. Anderson motored to Toronto, Canada, where he is a judge in the flower department of the Toronto fair, September 1 to 14.

A new red rose has made its appearance here. It is the Francis Scott Key, an exquisite, velvety-petaled rose, with beautiful shadings of light to deep red. It has a good, firm stem and fine foliage, and makes a splendid summer rose. It bids fair to become a great favorite here.

J. Thomann & Sons, of Rochester, N. Y., are shipping some excellent Rochester White gladioli to this market. They are pure white, with large, fine flowers, and bring a fancy price.

Robert and David Scott visited Cromwell, Conn., August 22, and inspected the establishment of A. N. Pierson, Inc. Joseph Streit was also with the party.

Palmer's branch store recently had an artistic window display of yellow and white gladioli and Asparagus Sprengeri. They made a splendid show.

The Lancaster, N. Y., flower show, held August 13 and 14, was a great success. Barney S. Myers, Fred Wise, of East Aurora, and C. F. Guenther, of Hamburg, were the judges. There were some fine exhibits of sweet peas, asters, gladioli, nasturtiums, etc. Professional florists were excluded from exhibiting.

S. A. Anderson's window display last week attracted large crowds. It consisted of individual vases, labeled with neat cards, containing globe amaranth, Scotch heather, liatris, salpiglossis, statice, helichrysum, Montbretia formosa, delphinium, etc. The background was made up of large gold vases of yellow and white gladioli, with a vase of pink here and there. It was an unusual display.

During her vacation, Miss Helen Loebig acquired the gentle art of walking. Some days she walked five miles. There's a reason.

The Wm. Scott Co. is putting in a new boiler at the greenhouses at the corner of Main and Balcom streets.

Flowers continue to be plentiful, with little improvement in business. There seems to be no let-up on the quantities of asters, gladioli and Beauties coming into this market and, as to quality, we never have received better. Roses are meeting with better sale and the few new varieties arriving are bought up quickly. Lilies are good, with the supply equal to the demand. Garden flowers of nearly all varieties are a glut on the market. A few carnations have made their appearance, but with short stems. The retailers report business exceedingly dull.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

The market is probably as bad as at any time during the summer. There is no life to the demand. When business is summed up for the ten weeks or so from June 15 to September 2 it has been larger in the aggregate than of yore, but it takes more flowers to do the business and there is waste, at times considerable. There are no features to the market worth recording and, as there are many other things of more than usual interest, it is better to pass on to them at once.

The Bulb Situation.

The European war has brought about a condition in the bulb market of Holland and, to a lesser extent, of France and of Italy, so unusual that it is worthy of detailed description. When the war broke out July 29 the dealers in this city became anxious regarding their imports and the prices thereof. Early in August it was thought that it would be safer to cancel all bulb orders and take chances in the open market. This idea was based on the knowledge that the German market, one of the largest for Dutch bulbs, was practically closed; that the French and Russian markets were likewise eliminated. There only remained the English and American markets to absorb the stock. Since then the English market also has been badly demoralized. The term "closed" does not mean that the Dutch bulbs cannot reach Germany and the other warring nations, but that there is no demand for these bulbs, owing to the war. After some thought it was decided to allow the import orders to stand, notifying the Holland firms that, should their bulbs intended for other countries be dumped on this market, then the price in New York at the time of delivery would rule instead of the price agreed upon. The Holland exporting firms promised to do all in the power to protect their American customers, knowing full well that a break in the market here would mean serious disaster to them. There was a plan on foot whereby it was proposed that the Dutch government devote a sum said to be 15,000,000 guilders, or about $6,000,000, to be used for the purchase of the surplus bulbs, the amount to be repaid by the firms growing the bulbs at the rate of ten per cent per annum for ten years, the bulbs so purchased to be destroyed or used for stock. The early arrivals of Dutch bulbs have been received in fine shape. The stock has not all reached this country yet and whether there will be the feared avalanche or not is uncertain. The difficulty in transportation and the knowledge that the ground has been pretty thoroughly covered will, it is hoped, keep away those bulbs that were intended for Europe.

The French bulb situation is different. The Romans, Paper Whites and freesias were shipped before the war and arrived in good time. The French trumpets, by which is meant Narcissus trumpet major, have not come and are not likely to come now. The finest Lilium candidum, grown in the north of France, will be missing this year. The candidums grown in the south of France, less desirable, are believed to be all right, while the odds and ends of bulbs, such as alliums, rose-colored Romans, Italian Romans, etc., are expected later.

dently anticipate a bad cut flower market next winter, for they are offering their bulbs here in preference to taking chances on their flowers at home then.

Mr. Reid's Return.

Edward Reid arrived on the St. Paul August 30, after a trip far more strenuous and thrilling than he or anyone else anticipated. The early days were spent at and near his old home in Belfast, Ireland, where the beauties of the Emerald Isle and the kindness of kin were a source of keen delight to Mr. Reid and his family. Sweet peas there made our fine Spencers seem like seconds and daisies were of enormous size. The start for Paris was cut short by the war, so London took its place. Then came the exciting part: stranded Americans returning from the continent in numbers; no money for anybody and no certainty of getting any; transportation arrangements for getting home canceled and a general air of suspense everywhere. Mr. Reid spoke highly of the work of the American relief committee. He finally secured passage for his family and himself and as he stood on the bow of the vessel as it approached the beckoning statue of Liberty in New York harbor, he said feelingly, "Young woman, you will have to look the other way if you wish to see me again."

Club Meeting.

At the meeting of the Florists' Club September 1, convention experiences were given by Fred Hahman, Harry G. Betz and Adolph Farenwald that were followed closely. Edward Reid gave a graphic account of his visit to Britain. Nominations for officers for next year were made as follows: President, George Burton; vice-president, Charles H. Grakelow; treasurer, George Craig; secretary, David Rust. This, of course, is equivalent to election.

The Condition Abroad.

As an illustration of the condition of affairs in Germany and the situation confronting the supply men of the country, we quote from two letters received by the M. Rice Co., one from one of its connections abroad and the other from its shipping agent:

"Everything is in a state of war. We have no money, so it is impossible to discharge our workmen. Won't you please send us at once the amount of our last bill? Our customers in England, Russia, Austria, Holland and Belgium are also suffering as are we in Germany, and we therefore have only to appeal to our good American friends and beg you to kindly give us your quick support."

"I have already written you it is not possible at this time to make any shipments from Hamburg or Bremen. My questions addressed to the steamship companies in Antwerp and Rotterdam have not been answered, so I am sorry to state that it is not possible to forward any of your goods. If the opportunity should be presented later, I shall certainly notify you. I regret exceedingly it is not possible to do anything for you at this time."

Various Notes.

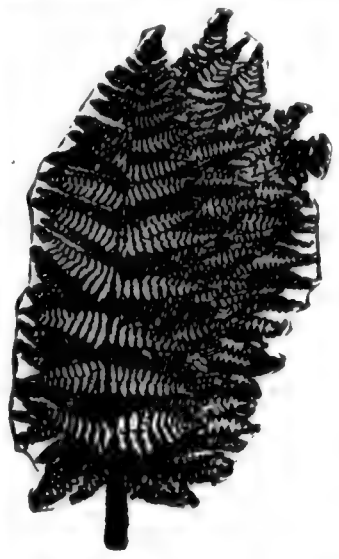
new flower store at Twelfth and Market streets September 4.

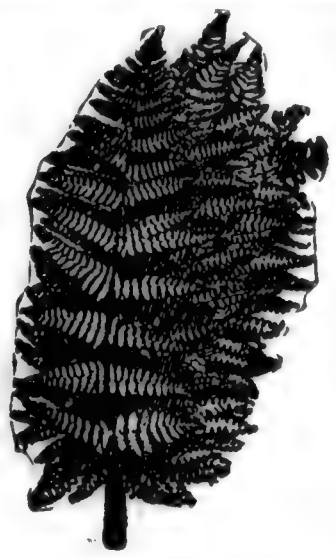
Charles Henry Fox was detained in London by the illness of Mrs. Fox.

David Fuerstenberg has returned from Atlantic City.



Harry Bayersdorfer wishes his friends to know that no effort or expense is being spared to gather florists' supplies that will meet their needs. He is doing everything in his power to coax stock here from Europe, as well as to make it in this country.

Van Waveren & Kruijff, of Sassenheim, who have for some time maintained American headquarters in Philadelphia with John Van Aalst as resident manager, have opened a store at Ninth and Market streets to retail Dutch bulbs. Phil.



WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

But little can be said of the business done during the last month, for the usual August dullness prevailed, but the stores are now preparing for what is expected will be a busy fall, and optimism prevails. Notwithstanding the heat and the many rainy days of the last two weeks, there is plenty of good stock of local production to be had at prices, as a rule, fixed by the purchaser. American Beauty roses were never better at this time of the year than they now are—fine, clean stock, at from $1 to $3 per dozen. There has been an added demand for roses of the 2-cent and 4-cent grades and some call for the better qualities. Gardenias of the old crop are still to be had, while the new crop is already in sight. Better asters than those now obtainable were never seen in the national capital. Old crop carnations are still to be had and are fairly good, considering the heat. New crop carnations are making their appearance in limited quantities and are promising. Gladioli and other summer flowers are practically offered without price.

Various Notes.

A large number of florists availed themselves of the opportunity of seeing the sights of the national capital on their return from the Boston convention and a number of these were entertained by the local florists. Among them were Harry Papworth, of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gorly, of St. Louis; William Currie, Jr., of Milwaukee, Wis.; the Misses Matilda and Bertha Meinhardt, of St. Louis; G. Weiland, of Evanston, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Coles and Miss Coles, of Kokomo, Ind., and Charles L. Baum and A. J. McNutt, both of Knoxville, Tenn.

Donald C. Malcolm, of Gude Bros. Co., is spending several weeks on a trip to Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Rochester and other New York state cities.

Everyone interested in the destruction of the army worm is requested by the United States Department of Agriculture to look out for army worm moths with one artificially-colored wing. The department's entomologists are catching army worm moths where they are plentiful, coloring one wing each, and then liberating them in the same territory, so that they may determine whether these moths fly directly west or north, and how quickly and far they will spread. C. L. L.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

A general rain has done a great deal of good. The outdoor stock is about all in the houses, although there are a few carnations that have been held till new houses could be finished. There has been less building here this summer than for some time, everyone feeling that it was wise to await developments. Inside, the mums that are intended for pot plants are potted up and the sweet peas for the early cut are up and growing well. Pansy seed has not been sown, as we have great trouble with damping off till the weather is a little cooler. As we have growing weather all winter, it is not desirable to sow early, except a few to use as cut flowers.

We are especially pleased with the way the roses and carnations that are to be relied on for the winter cut are looking. They seem to be in the pink of condition in most of the houses. We have seen little valley this week and this item promises to be scarce with us soon. As it is one of the best money makers here, there is some speculation as to what can be used to take its place.

Various Notes.

Geny Bros. are having a monopoly of the early sales of Paper Whites and Chinese lilies, having the only bulbs that have reached the city as yet. These items are great sellers here at retail.

The Joy Floral Co. has a heavy cut of really good asters, grown indoors.

Haury & Sons have beautiful window decorations, mostly pot ferns of first quality, and asters.

McIntyre Bros. have their houses and grounds looking about as well as we have ever seen them.

The houses at the Mt. Olivet cemetery are full to overflowing with stock for the early fall sales. The mums are especially good, and will be among the first on the market.

Miss Bessie M. Harrison, of the Joy Floral Co., is visiting relatives in Detroit. Miss Lillian Joy is in the store again. She, with T. S. Joy and Mrs. Frank Hoen, have just returned from a trip, first visiting relatives in Oshkosh, Wis., then making a tour of Yellowstone park and the west, returning by way of Chicago, where they spent a week.

Joe Brown, of Lischey's Gardens, has his houses in good condition. He has done some of the rebuilding that he put off last season on account of his ill health. F. B.

market and there is hardly enough call to take up a substantial part of the offerings. Naturally, prices are low and the aggregate weekly sales are not high. Asters and gladioli continue to come in heavily and only the best find any kind of a market. The same is true of roses, including American Beauties. Lilium giganteum, too, is plentiful. Valley enjoyed a strong call last week. Carnations were in moderate demand. Other offerings include rubrum lilies, dahlias, a few hydrangeas and cosmos. The supply of greens is more than adequate for requirements.

PAGES OF RETAILERS' CARDS

THIS department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

Gentlemen:

During the past year I paid you $18.20 for a half inch advertisement in the Retail Florists Department of The Review. I received through this small advertisement, from January 1, 1913, to December 31, 1913, orders to the amount of $566.00. They came by mail and telegraph from New York to San Francisco and from New Orleans to Minneapolis. Since I allowed the senders 20%, the record is as follows:

Total value of orders	$566.00
Less 20% allowed senders.. .. .	113.20
Net value of orders..... .:.	453.80

Here is an addition of $453.80 in business which could not otherwise have been obtained and at an expense of only $18.20.

Since my advertisement appeared only in The Review it goes to show what the retail florists through the country lose if they do not use this medium of advertising It also goes to show that The Review is not only there with a big "R" but that it has three more big "R's" - Readers - Reliability - Results!

Yours respectfully,
J. J. Beneke

The Market.

I wish it were possible to write something cheerful about market conditions, but truth forbids. I have not in the last decade seen business so demoralized through the whole month of August, and the last week was even worse than its predecessors. The bottom seems to have completely dropped out of about everything. Roses are in a woeful condition, being almost unquotable. One consignment of 4,000 realized $8, and many could not be sold at all. In American Beauties, heavy calls for one or two large funerals helped prices a little. Short-stemmed carnations are coming from a few growers, but they realize little and compare unfavorably with asters, which are in enormous supply and of superb quality.

Gladioli have had a terrible black eye of late; at $10 per thousand there were thousands unsold. For valley there has been a fair call, but lilies have been decidedly druggy. Chrysanthemum Golden Glow has made its appearance earlier than it is really needed. Cattleyas are less plentiful and move a trifle better. Bouvardia Humboldtii is arriving in small quantities. I have also noticed some eucharis spikes. There is little demand for green stock.

The present condition of the wholesale market could be vastly relieved if some method could be adopted whereby the general public could be admitted on certain days for, say, a couple of hours, and be given an opportunity to purchase the flowers which daily go in big quantities to the rubbish barrels. The subject should be seriously considered by the directors of the wholesale markets. Surely a clearance at even low cash prices would be preferable to absolute waste.

Various Notes.

Among the more noteworthy exhibits from the trade at the summer show of the North Shore Horticultural Society, at Manchester, Mass., August 26 and 27, were a magnificent collection of gladioli from William Sim, a group of gladioli from B. Hammond Tracy and a fine display of lilies and hardy herbaceous perennials from R. & J. Farquhar & Co.

Donald Carmichael, of Wellesley, brought in the first Golden Glow chrysanthemums of the season August 27, and they were of splendid quality.

William H. Elliott is home again, looking well after a trip to the Maine woods for rest. Among his roses, Kaiserin, Miller and Killarney Queen are specially good.

A. F. Barney, of the T. J. Grey Co., returned August 29 from his vacation, spent at Fitzwilliam, N. H. Peter M. Miller starts on his vacation September 4. He will visit Newport, R. I., and Kennebunk Port, Me.

Galvin's report funeral business as good. Quietness prevails in other lines. They had as a visitor during the convention Miss McNamara, of Omaha. Her grandfather embarked in business with the elder Galvin, founder of the firm, nearly seventy years ago.

James Wheeler has his carnations in fine shape this season. At present he is busy erecting a neat dwelling house for his son, Frank, who is soon to enter the ranks of the newly weds.

tural Society has the schedule for 1915 ready for the press. One excellent change will be the awarding of prizes each day for table decorations at the large exhibitions.

Penn's had a special nephrolepis sale last week and cleared out almost every plant. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Penn returned from their vacation August 29. John Eisman, of the staff, left August 29 for a vacation in New York state. This winds up the vacation season here. I noted some handsome funeral designs here August 29 for the funeral of F. B. Sears, vice-president of the Shawmut National Bank.

James S. Philbrick, of Woburn, is marketing a splendid lot of America and Mrs. F. King gladioli. It is a thousand pities to see such splendid spikes practically given away.

In H. R. Comley's window, August 29, I noted some nice Bouvardia Humboldtii, Cypripedium insigne in pots, well flowered, fancy caladiums in variety and Scotch heather.

Frank H. Houghton will occupy a fine new store on Tremont street, under the Park street church, on or about October 1. Extensive alterations are now being made on this site, one of the best in the city.

John W. Foote, of Reading, is one of the earliest shippers of new-crop carnations. He has good Beacon and Pink Delight.

The Welch Bros. Co. reports August as a somewhat dull month, with the shipping trade below that of other years, due in a large measure to financial troubles consequent on the European war. They are receiving quantities of extra good asters, gladioli, roses and valley, among other flowers.

The Boston Flower Exchange has abandoned the annual auction sale of stalls and, in lieu of this, has divided the stalls into three classes, with rents respectively of $7, $5 and $4 per month, giving stall holders a lease for three years.

Zinn, at his Park street store, is making a special feature of colchicum, or autumn crocus bulbs. He has a nice display of Cattleya Harrisoniæ in his window.

The overwhelming glut of cut flowers at this time, which chokes the wholesale markets now, and which, with the European war and partial demoralization of business, may last for some time, is a serious matter for growers and salesmen alike. Increased production all along the line, accompanied by decreased buying, is responsible, but it has seemed to the writer, whose views coincide with those of many salesmen, that it would be a vast benefit to the growers and would in no wise injure the retailers if, on certain days and during certain hours, the general public were permitted to come in and clean up flowers which would otherwise be a dead waste.

Growers have no cause for worry on Dutch bulb supplies. Local dealers have received advices that most of their orders are already sent. French bulbs are about all here, but arrivals of palms, azaleas, etc., from Belgium are likely to be practically nil. Dutch bulbs are now being offered for shipment from Holland at low prices, owing to the cancellation of orders from European countries at war.

A large exhibit of products from children's gardens will be staged at Horticultural hall September 5 and 6.

The Boston Coöperative Market's annual auction sale opens at 9:30 a. m., September 6, and promises to be the best ever. The market is being made spick-and-span for the occasion.

The Boston Cut Flower Co. reports a good number of funeral orders, with little doing in other lines.

A recent call at the convention garden found it in vastly better condition than at the time of the convention. The general public is visiting it in large numbers. I think it would be a good plan for the local management to place sign posts at the nearest stopping places for Chestnut Hill and South

Huntington avenue cars, telling passengers where to reach the garden most conveniently.

P. J. Donahue, of the Boston Rose Co., is receiving a grand lot of long-stemmed Hadley roses from the Montgomery Co., South Hadley. Mr. Donahue says the rose market is in an unprecedentedly bad state.

Field-grown carnation plants are more abundant here this season, although they are rapidly cleaning up. The plants average double the size of those a year ago.

August proved a cooler month than normal, with about an average rainfall, the latter all coming at the tail end of the month. The week following the convention we had five delightful, clear, crisp days, in marked contrast to the humid conditions preceding them.

J. W. Simpson, of Woburn, is a good grower of everything he takes in hand and his asters are this season of superb quality.

Carter's Tested Seeds, Inc., reports a heavy call for lawn grass seed. The company's beds in the convention garden have brought them many orders.

A committee from the Massachusetts Horticultural Society visited a number of leading estates in Lenox and Stockbridge, leaving Boston August 24.

W. N. Craig.

ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

Last week was a good one for the growers, with plenty of rain and cool weather. More rain fell last week than had fallen previously in the entire summer. This caused the outdoor stock to look its best, but did not help the retail business any. The wholesalers, too, say the demand last week was light, but stock in general looks much better. Prices on all grades of stock were low, as the demand was only for first-class stock, which was as cheap as the low grades generally are. A good deal of dumping had to be resorted to in the ordinary classes. The market still is in a crowded condition and heavy shipments are looked for this week. Asters have been much stimulated by the recent rains and will be in heavy supply. Single tuberose stalks also are expected to crowd the market. Gladioli are as plentiful as ever. America and all light colored stock sell well. Kings are abundant, with slow demand. Clematis paniculata is now coming in; the first consignments always sell well. Dahlias are coming in and a heavy crop is expected this season. Roses, including Beauties, Russell, Ward and all varieties of Killarney, are plentiful; the bulk of them have short stems but excellent blooms. Carnations are not so numerous and the majority have short stems. Easter lilies are plentiful and the demand slow. Everything in greens can be had at any time.

Various Notes.

The meeting of the St. Louis Florists' Club will be held September 10, when the installation of officers will take place. This meeting will be held on the grounds of the Sanders Nurseries, on the Hanley road, near Olive street. The newly elected, as well as the retiring officers, hope the members will come out in full force. The meeting will have some interesting features. Ex-presidents Ammann and Young are named as installing officers.

Oscar Kuehn, head of the wire shop of the W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co., won the first prize for the best amateur photograph of the Railway Exchange building. The prize, a $60 kodak, was offered by the Famous Barr Co. department store.

St. Louis Water Co. from depriving him of water until a disputed water bill can be settled. Mr. De Wever states that he used 631,050 gallons of water from July 22 to August 27, but the company makes a claim for more.

The St. Louis Seed Co. has received its fall bulbs and expects to fill all advance orders to the letter. Vice-president August Hummert got back from his eastern trip August 31 and says he is ready for the fall trade to open.

Charles C. Young, manager of the cut flower department of C. Young & Sons Co., with his family, returned last week from a ten days' trip to St. Paul, Minn. Mr. Young says his firm now is ready for the fall and winter season.

Oliver K. Sanders, who has charge of the retail store of the Sanders Nurseries, on Clara avenue, spent a week in the Ozarks with his family. Frank Sanders says they expect a busy season in nursery stock, as the dry summer killed many plants at the private places in the west end.

M. F. Widmer, of Highland, Ill., was a visitor last week. He reports that his new houses are completed and planted. He bought supplies while here and will make an exhibit at the county fair, which is being held at Highland this week.

All the growers in and around Kirkwood have completed their new additions and planting. The few cool nights last week caused them to give their heating systems the "once-over." The coal bins, too, are being filled up for early use.

Frank Windler, of the Windler Wholesale Floral Co., is supplying his friends at home with souvenir postals of interesting places in the east. He expects to reach home next week.

Walter Weber, who has charge of the greenhouse range of the H. J. Weber & Sons Nursery Co., expects his usual good crop of roses and carnations this fall and winter. His stock is always classed among the fancy.

houses are being overhauled and repainted and will be seen in their new dresses early this month, ready for a season's hard grind.

The lawns and flower beds at the different public schools are in perfect condition. Hugo M. Schaff, the head of this department, said it took hard work to get these results, on account of the long dry summer.

Paddy Patton has been talking so much war of late that the negro porters close by address him as "Kernel." Boss Smith says he guesses they think Paddy is a nut.

August 28 marked the twenty-fifth anniversary of the death of Henry Shaw, the founder of Shaw's Garden, now known as the Missouri Botanical Garden.

War talk has been eliminated from the wholesale houses along Pine street and baseball substituted, with all the bosses and the help pulling for the Cardinals to win the National League pennant. They are joined every morning by the retailers.

The large beds of Salvia Bonfire are a great attraction at Compton Hill park. The lily pond, too, is given marked attention, with its lilies of various colors. These are the hobbies of Phil. Giebel, head of this park.

The wholesale houses' early closing will come to an end September 13, when the regular hours will again be in force. The time limit was longer this year.

The Lady Florists' Home Circle will hold its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. John L. Koenig, 3511 Clarence avenue, September 9. Interesting reports of the recent convention will be heard.

E. T. Flanagan & Sons, of Belleville, Ill., have offered their entire stock of gladioli, bulbs, peonies and dahlias for sale. They will lease the grounds for five years and are making preparations

The Market.

Business has not shown much increase, although several weddings came last week. Sweet peas have shown an improvement in quality, as have asters. Gladioli are now at their best and are used extensively in funeral work. Many old faces are missed in the greenhouses and stores, as it is the vacation season. While most florists are busy housing their carnations, several are commencing to think about their supply of coal for the winter.

Various Notes.

J. J. Kelley, of Valley Falls, has received his supply of kentias and says they are of excellent quality.

Samuel Colitz, of the Rustic Flower Store, Woonsocket, reports a busy week with funeral work.

At the flower show at Central Falls August 29 and 30 the judges were Charles Stone, Howard Carlton and Walter Arundell. The principal exhibitors and prize winners were J. Martin, J. W. Ellison, W. Standing, T. Ha-

STEAMER SAILINGS.

As reported in detail in last week's Review, transatlantic transportation has been partly resumed. In addition to the Cunard, Anchor, White Star, French and Holland-America lines, mentioned last week, the American, Atlantic Transport, Red Star and White Star-Dominion lines have now announced the restoration of their service. The following sailings have been scheduled, with the distinct understanding, of course, that they are subject to change without notice:

...THE...
Chrysanthemum
By Arthur Herrington
Formerly president Chrysanthemum Society of America.
The most complete and comprehensive work on the cultivation of the chrysanthemum that has yet been published in America. Its scope and character may be gleaned from the list of contents, which comprises chapters on composts; planting; benches, boxes or pots; general cultural details; crown and terminal buds; feeding, its object and application; care of the buds; exhibition and judging; specimen plants, plants in pots; raising from seed and hybridizing; sports; hardy chrysanthemums; chrysanthemums for south and west; insect pests and diseases; classification and selection of varieties for special purposes; history of the chrysanthemum, etc. The book will be welcomed for the lucid, comprehensive, as well as the practical character of its contents. Handsomely illustrated. 168 pages, 5x7 inches. Price 50c postpaid.

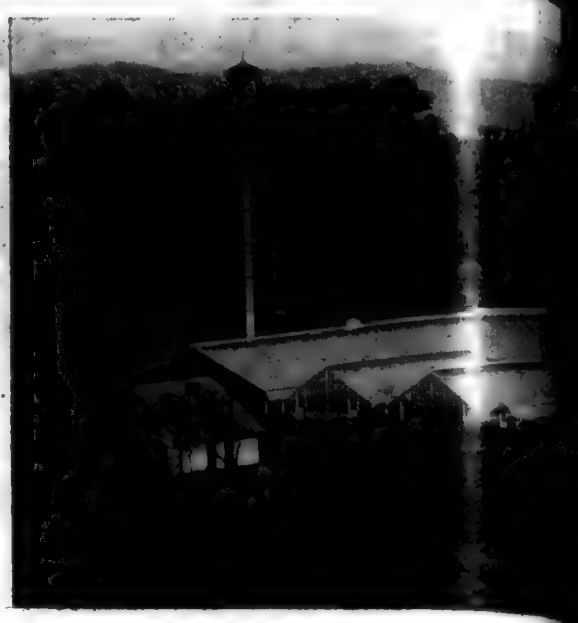
The entire truss and rafters from eave to eave were all hot riveted together at our Irvington factory and shipped in a big automobile car. With the posts in position, think of the erection time it saved to be able, with one operation, to lift the combined rafters and truss in place and bolt the rafters to the gusset plate at the eave.



The double angle iron arch of the truss starts at the eave on one side and continues over to the eave on the other side.

The post is Guaranteed Wrought Bar Iron—the same kind that has been for over thirty years, and still is, in several of F. R. & P. M. Pierson's L. & B. houses at Scarboro, N. Y.

Looking at the post endwise, you plainly see the double gusset plates which bolt the rafters to the post, as well as the angle irons of the truss curve riveted on each of the rafters.

President, Lester L. Morse, San Francisco, Cal.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O. Thirty-third annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., June, 1915.

VAN WAVEREN & KRUIJFF, of Sassenheim, Holland, who have for some time maintained a permanent headquarters in Philadelphia, have opened a store in that city to retail Dutch bulbs.

THE north of France candidum crop is reported to be in warehouse, shipment having been delayed because of the war. With Germany at the gates of Paris, there is no knowing when shipment can be made.

THAT the situation may not be so critical as has been thought is indicated by the fact that in this issue of The Review two English wholesale seed houses are advertising that business with them is proceeding much as usual.

ARTHUR B. CLARK has returned to the headquarters of the Everett B. Clark Seed Co., at Milford, Conn., after having spent the latter half of August at the company's branch at East Jordan, Mich., where A. E. Cross is superintendent.

ARNOLD RINGIER, secretary of the W. W. Barnard Co., who has been confined to his home at Chicago for the month of August with a serious attack of neuritis, now is greatly improved and hopes to be back at business within a few weeks.

A CHARTER has been issued to the Brokenstraw Valley Seed Co., of Youngsville, Pa., with a capital stock of $40,000. The incorporators are E. D. Stewart, of Warren, Pa.; G. Brooks, of Lottsville, and J. H. Hokanson, M. F. Jobes and F. A. McDowell, of Youngsville.

THE vicissitudes which had attended the voyage of the Germania, with its cargo of 5,036 cases of French bulbs, were not ended when the boat docked in Brooklyn August 16, for the consular invoices and other papers necessary for the entry of the cargo had miscarried. The government extended the Germania's time for forty-eight hours at a time until nearly two weeks had elapsed, but finally a considerable part of the cargo had to go into bonded warehouse, which increased the cost of the bulbs $1 per case.

IN spite of the haste with which the Dutch bulbs, lifted in June, were dispatched at the end of July and first part of August, the quality of the stock appears to be excellent. It seems to be cleaned, cured, sorted and packed as well as ever.

It now seems probable that larger quantities of European seeds than had been expected will be delivered this season. Many parcels have arrived by mail during the last fortnight and there are indications that transportation is gradually opening for the bulkier articles.

REPORTS filtering in from Europe indicate that the various peoples from whom we draw seed supplies are slowly settling down to an acceptance of the war basis and that regular business is being resumed after such a fashion as is possible with half the workers gone with the armies.

ACCORDING to the report of Ratekin's Seed House, at Shenandoah, Ia., the concern's present growing crops of seed corn are in excellent condition, fully two weeks ahead of last year's in growth and maturity. If present favorable conditions continue to about the middle of October, full deliveries will be made on all or almost all varieties.

FRENCH bulbs from Holland! Perhaps it has happened before, but not often. Some of the Paper Whites and Romans now being delivered reached New York by way of Rotterdam, having been originally sold to Holland houses to fill English orders. When the English orders were canceled the only available market was America and the bulbs were promptly reshipped.

HOLLANDERS GOT REAL BUSY.

Correspondence that has come to hand in the last few days tells of the way the declaration of war was received in Holland. Apparently the bulb exporters were ahead of us in appreciating that the great conflict was inevitable and they promptly realized that it would have serious consequences. Holland had harvested the best bulb crop

DUTCH BULBS

P. HOPMAN & SONS, WHOLESALE BULB GROWERS, HILLEGOM HOLLAND

Beg to inform that, owing to the fact of being 25 years one of the best known growers of bulbs for our friends in England and on the Continent, where bulbs are now, through the war, practically unsalable, we are bound to sell our bulbs to another part of the world, which only can be the U. S. A. We, therefore, offer the undermentioned bulbs of extra fine quality to the buyers in the U. S. A., hoping you will give us a chance to sell these bulbs in your country.

These bulbs were all reserved for our friends in England and Germany, so you never will buy such fine stuff at such low prices, and as no expenses of traveling, etc., are appended to these prices, you may be sure that you will get the most value for your money. Our cultures extend over 85 acres and are in the very best condition.

Our prices are for cash with order, less 5% discount. The best manner to pay is postal order, from which you may deduct the expense of sending the money by this way.

ELLIOTT AUCTION CO.

42 Vesey Street, NEW YORK, N. Y.

ESTABLISHED IN 1850

Will offer, September 15, a large consignment of Dutch bulbs along with foliage stock. The bulbs are extra fine and are of following varieties: Hyacinths, single, Grand Maitre, Gertrude, Rose Amaranth, La Grandesse; Tulips, B. Van Thuyll, B. Morrow, La Reine, Yellow Prince, Keizerskroon, Murillo; Narcissus, Von Sion, G. Spur, Bic. Victoria.

in years and was ready to do a banner season's business. The stock was practically ready for shipment when the war came. The way the bulb exporters responded will go down in history. Every available hand was turned to packing and shipping and the celerity with which great quantities were dispatched exceeds everything in the previous records of the trade. By the time the cases were ready to move, the railroad had been taken over for military purposes and emergency conveyances were necessary to move the bulbs from the warehouses to Rotterdam. It was in this that the greatest difficulty was encountered, but canal boats, wagons and motor trucks all were called into service. How difficult and costly the work was is shown by the carriage charges assessed against some of the shipments that arrived last week. One importer who received a shipment with freight from Hillegom found that it cost nearly twenty-five per cent more to bring the 115 cases the short distance from Hillegom to Rotterdam than it did the long journey from Rotterdam to New York.

After a considerable part of the bulbs had been rushed to Rotterdam by whatever means was available, it appears that the railroad again began to handle freight in a more or less regular way, so that the shippers now expect to move practically the entire crop.

THE WAR SCARE IN HOLLAND.

The full extent of the war scare in Holland probably can not be appreciated in the United States, but some idea of the seriousness of the situation can be gathered from the statement current in Europe that it is proposed "to destroy one-third the crop" of bulbs in Holland. The following is summarized from the Gazette de Holland:

"The bulb growers are to be paid lower wages, and it is proposed to destroy one-third of the crop. It is certain that the war will do much damage to this branch of industry, yet whether this will be in the same proportion as in other businesses may be doubted. If we turn to the figures for last year we find that the total export amounted to 24,960,900 kilograms. It is expected that the exportations to Great Britain, Germany, Russia, France and Belgium will be considerably smaller, yet the export to America will probably be not less than 5,000,000 kilograms—last year it was nearly 5,500,000 kilograms—and to Scandinavia and Denmark will go another 2,000,000 kilograms, which, with 1,000,000 added for all other countries, makes an aggregate of 8,000,000 kilograms. From these figures it is clear that a third of last year's total will still be exported.''

A letter from Alex. Henderson, of Chicago, who was in Holland early in August, states that the bulb exporters were ''greatly discouraged'' and had, in fact, ''already proposed to the Dutch government to destroy 15,000,000 florins' worth of bulbs provided the government would advance the money for a period of five years.'' Mr. Henderson adds, however, that ''this may not prove necessary, as I understand they are again able to ship to England, which will take a big lot of their stock.'' It also is reported that the Holland Railway Co. has announced that the line has been reopened into Germany and that consignments will again be accepted for that country.

CLOVER AND VETCH PRICES.

Prices for imported crimson clover and hairy vetch seed have recently shown such a marked upward tendency that specialists of the Department of Agriculture fear that the cost of these seeds, of which Europe is the chief source, will interfere with the increasing use of these leguminous cover crops.

Before the present European conditions arose, crimson clover seed was selling at from $4 to $5 per bushel. Up to August 15 there was a scarcity of this seed in the United States, owing to the fact that the receipts from Europe were smaller than usual. The prices then advanced to from $7.50 to $9 per bushel. Since that date importations have continued to arrive, until there is now more imported seed available for fall seeding than there was in this country a year ago at this time. This seed, according to the department's information, was all imported at approximately the same price as that sold for $4 to $4.50 per bushel in the early part of the season. The present high price, therefore, is regarded by the department as unwarranted from the standpoint of the supply and the import price of the seed. Some dealers are continuing to sell at the former price, but these are exceptions.

KEEPING THEM DOWN.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has directed the Texas & Pacific railroad to refund $104 to Luke B. Babin for overcharges on moss from Louisiana to Chicago, and the Southern Pacific railroad to refund $76 to Northrup, King & Co., of Minneapolis, for overcharges on seed from Coyote, Cal., to Minneapolis.

SNAPS

THERE are many kinds of snaps in the world—some soft, some hard; some warm, some cold; some bad, some good, and some better; some light, some dark, and some between—but the snap that has the strongest hold on the nation is our famous Seedling Silver Pink. It is known the world over and its praises are sounded from every quarter. Its color is that soft, silvery shell pink that so well fits into any occasion and is everywhere demanded. It is unlike common snapdragons, in that it makes more rapid growth and produces twice the number of blossoms. From the day that the seedlings break soil until blossoming time, development is so marvelous that plants are never seen twice in the same stage. It is a hustling, money-making SNAP. Follow our cue and get a batch started in September. They will give you a raft of spring blossoms and a BUMPER CROP at Memorial Day, when flowers are flowers.

New crop seed, $1.00 per trade pkt., 3 for $2.50, 7 for $5.00. Postpaid, for cash. Cultural directions free.

Will have plenty of seedling plants for October delivery. Better send your order. The price is only $4.00 per 100, $35.00 per 1000.

EFFECT OF TRADE CUSTOMS.

In the Interpretation of Contracts.

The principle that a contract for a sale of commodities in a particular trade is presumed to have been made with reference to a prevailing custom or usage in that trade, on any essential element of the transaction which is not covered by express agreement, was applied by the Wisconsin Supreme Court in a case involving a contract to buy seed. (Gehl vs. Milwaukee Produce Co., 81 Northwestern Reporter 666.) It was decided in this case that where a contract for a sale of clover seed was silent as to the place of delivery, it was open to the purchaser to show the existence among seed dealers of a custom to deliver at the purchaser's store, and that the seller in this case knew of this custom. This was a suit to recover damages for claimed breach of a contract to buy specified quantities of seed. Plaintiff, the seller, refused to make delivery at defendant's store, but tendered a warehouse receipt for the seed called for by the contract, which defendant refused to receive. Thereupon plaintiff sold the seed elsewhere at less than the contract price and claimed the right to hold defendant for the difference. In sustaining defendant's contention that the contract was governed by a local trade custom requiring the seller to make delivery at the buyer's place of business, the Wisconsin Supreme Court said:

Defining What is Ambiguous.

"A uniform trade custom is readily accepted by the courts to define what is ambiguous or is left indeterminate in a contract, where both parties have knowledge of the custom, or are so situated that such knowledge may be presumed, for the reason that the majority of such transactions are had in view of the custom, and the agreement on which the minds of the parties actually met will thereby be carried into effect. * * * Where the custom is proved to be known to both, it may even add terms to the contract. * * * Where the custom is general, it will

is quite an item when you total it all up; and in order to save you something Horseshoe Brand Giganteums are now delivered direct from Yokohama to the following cities:

NEW YORK	BOSTON	CINCINNATI	HOUSTON
CHICAGO	OMAHA	MINNEAPOLIS	SEATTLE
PHILADELPHIA	BUFFALO	GRAND RAPIDS	PORTLAND
PITTSBURGH	TORONTO	LOUISVILLE	SAN FRANCISCO

There are cold storage facilities in each of the above cities, suitable for lily bulbs, and so you can have your bulbs stored near home, thus saving time, freight and the condition of the bulbs. At present we still have a limited surplus in each of the above cities, so if you wish to get deliveries near home, order soon. Besides patronizing industry in your immediate locality, you save money on the freight, get prompt deliveries and assist us in securing the necessary quantities to make such deliveries in carload lots from Japan. Every order helps—we take as much care of small orders as we do of big ones; we appreciate your business.

The prices are the same in all cities excepting coast cities, which are $1.00 per case lower. And we are ready any time to increase the number of cities for distribution points, if the buyers will combine and give us enough business to permit it.

YOU CAN SAVE MONEY—AND YOU CAN HELP A GOOD THING ALONG

Not How Cheap, but How Good.

DUTCH BULBS COMING FAST.

Not only are the bulbs from Holland arriving, but they are piling up rapidly. Last week two shiploads arrived, trebling the receipts for the season to date. These were by far the largest shipments received up to this time, and will probably be followed by one or two shipments equally large this week. It

ONE TON OF SWEET PEA SEED

Our warehouse is now full and rather than add a storage expense we will sell at the greatly reduced price of $65.00 per 100 pounds, or 75c per single pound, our famous Spencer Unwin mixture, the regular wholesale price being $1.00 per pound.

This is a Rare Opportunity for Dealers to Stock up.

We also have 500 pounds of Giant Grandiflora Mixture which we will sell at 45c per pound. Actual wholesale value is 75c per pound. And 400 pounds of the following named varieties at 70c per pound:—

Dorothy Eckford, fine white.
King Edward, good red.
Lovely, beautiful shell pink.
Daybreak, rose color.
Lady Hamilton, lavender.
Frank Dolby, lavender or sky blue.
Captain of Blues, blue or violet.
Navy Blue, dark blue.
White Wonder, double white.
Georgeous, salmon pink.

Best results are obtained by planting Sweet Peas in the fall of the year.

is of interest to note that the receipts so far this season are nearly twice as large as they were at the same time last year, and the shipments last year were earlier than in previous years. There are three possible reasons for this: Either the crop was earlier this year—although previous advices were to the effect that it was later; or the Hollanders are making the regular season's shipments more rapidly than usual, in order to get the bulbs away from the seat of war as quickly as possible; or a larger quantity is to be sent to the United States this year than has been shipped here in previous years. The large receipts thus far may be due to one of these causes or to a combination of them, but, in view of the statements previously made in these columns in reference to this subject, it will readily be seen that the last is probably the most potent cause of the high total of the receipts to date.

My Original Winter-flowering Orchid or Spencer Sweet Pea

revolutionized the cut flower market last winter. It has brought higher prices than the best carnation, from the start to finish. They will be more sought for this year.

On account of the War, I will not take any chances to ship many of my foreign orders. This will enable me to send all American orders in full of the following varieties, besides having some to spare:

Pink and White Orchid, White Orchid, Mrs. A. A. Skach (clear pink), Orchid Beauty (dark rose), Venus (white, pink blush), Mrs. M. Spanolin (white), Mrs. Jos. Manda (light pink), all, 1 oz., $4.00.
Lavender Nora, the best and largest clear lavender in cultivation, 1 oz., $1.50.

Winter-flowering Spencer Mixture.

This consists only of the best light pink, pink, white, salmon, lavender and very few dark. Every commercial grower should plant at least one house of these, and he will be taking no risk. 1 oz., $3.00; 4 oz., $10.00; 1 lb., $30.00. Ask for special prices on 10 lbs. or more.

You need one ounce of the Winter Orchid Sweet Pea seed for 100-foot row.

TOMATO LEAVES DISEASED.

I am sending some leaves from indoor tomatoes, showing different stages of a disease. Please tell me what this disease is and give a remedy for it, if possible. My crop is almost ruined and I would like to guard against this in the future. W. W. M.

The leaves were greatly discolored when received, and it is not easy to tell what the trouble is. It may be mildew, or some other fungoid affection, from the numerous blotches. Probable causes of the trouble are too rich soil and too much atmospheric moisture. Either one would start this trouble, while the two would make its spread more rapid. Maintain a dry atmosphere, never spray the foliage of your plants nor damp down the floors; keep the plants moist at the root, and, to prevent the necessity of too frequent watering in hot weather, give the beds a good mulch of old manure. For mildew use sulphur. For any other leaf disease, Bordeaux mixture is a good spray. It may be late now to apply either remedy, but if another season you follow the foregoing suggestions you should have no trouble. Also, do not grow tomatoes in the same soil unless after the rotation of some other crop.

C. W.

TROUBLE WITH CUCUMBERS.

What is the matter with my cucumbers in the greenhouse? Many of them have attained the length of an inch or a little over when they turn yellow and dry off. The foliage is greatly speckled, a yellowish to deep brown, and a large proportion of the lower leaf stems, even some branches, turn yellow and dry off. In former years I noticed these same symptoms, but in so small a degree that I did not feel concerned about them. The seed was recommended as a superior greenhouse variety, and this is my first trial of it. My cucumbers have received about the same treatment as in former seasons. The soil was in fair condition and was not used last season, but before that had been used for four seasons. The plants looked healthy when set into the benches, the vines grew vigorously and the foliage was somewhat more dense than formerly. Throughout the season the temperature during the daytime was warm, with little excessive heat, but the nights were uniformly chilly, not a single night requiring open ventilators. In former years I have had satisfactory crops, but this season the cucumbers are panning out poorly.

J. B.

I think it probable that your plants have been affected by club root as well as leaf blight. Cucumbers will do well one season and possibly a second year in the same soil when no other crops are grown in it. Large growers do not have occasion to change their soil and manage to secure excellent crops year after

BODDINGTON'S GIGANTIC PANSIES

Can be produced only from the giant strains. Our CHALLENGE PANSY seed contains only the giant self-colors, the giant striped and variegated and the giant blotched, etc., all carefully mixed in proportion. You could not buy better seed if you paid $100 per ounce. Our Challenge Pansy seed during the past season gave unprecedented satisfaction, and every order booked last year was duplicated and increased this year. All the testimonials received mentioned specially the high grade of flowers—color, form and size of the individual blossoms. This year, by adding improved types, intending customers can absolutely rely on a duplication of this season's success with increased satisfaction. Our "mark" for this strain is "Challenge," and it is all the word denotes.

Pansy—Boddington's "Challenge"—All Giants

This mixture contains all the finest Giant strains—of the leading Pansy Specialists in the world—the Giant self-colors, the Giant striped and margined, and the Giant blotched, etc., all carefully mixed in proportion—the finest that money can buy—the finest your money can buy. A florist who has grown it said: "Why don't you call it Defiance?"

1914 NOVELTY ☛ PANSY

SIM'S GOLD MEDAL MIXTURE

Was awarded the First Prize and Gold Medal at the International Horticultural Exhibition, held at the Grand Central Palace, New York City, April, 1913. This splendid mixture is the result of years of painstaking selecting on the part of Mr. William Sim (renowned for Sweet Peas), Cliftondale, Mass., and we are offering seed from the originator for the first time.

Trade pkt., 75c; 3 pkts. for $2.00; ⅛ oz., $3.50.

Boddington's Quality "English" Pansy

A superb strain of highly-colored flowers in great variety and immense size.

Our Mr. Bunyard, while visiting the Royal International Exhibition in London, was much impressed with these blooms, and strongly recommends this mixture to florists.

Trade pkt. (500 seeds), $1.00; ½ trade pkt. (250 seeds), 50c; ¼ oz., $2.25; ½ oz., $4.25; oz., $8.00.

year when they sterilize their soil annually. I do not think it is possible to keep either cucumbers or lettuce perfectly healthy year after year unless this is done. I do not believe the variety is at fault at all. The one you mention on the separate sheet is an excellent and much valued forcing variety, giving great satisfaction. If you had any club root on your plants a previous year, remember that the spores will persist in unsterilized soil, ready to seize on the first host plant appearing. The speckling and yellowing of the leaves is, no doubt, blight, due in large measure to violent variations between day and night temperatures. A little fire heat on all nights when the outside thermometer falls to 60 degrees would make the atmosphere in your houses more buoyant and prevent the spread of this blight. C. W.

BLACK FLY ON CUCUMBERS.

Can anything be done for cucumbers infested with what is called the black louse? H. H.

By black louse I presume you mean black fly or aphis. Fumigation with any of the tobacco papers will kill this. It may also be destroyed by a nicotine spray or by any of the many soap and other special sprays. C. W.

Tacoma, Wash.—The Evergreen Florists have opened a retail store at 937½ South C street, adjoining the entrance to the Y. W. C. A. rooms.

Portland, Ore.—Articles of incorporation have been filed by the German Floral Co., with a capital stock of $1,000. The incorporators are William Wesenberg, Otto Reuble and Karl Bamme.

Tacoma, Wash.—At the fourth annual show of the Tacoma Dahlia Society prizes for the best floral exhibits were won by the Smith Floral Co., the Evergreen Floral Co. and Mrs. C. S. Coffin, of Vashon, in the order named. Prizes were won by George Lawler, for gladioli; George Sheffield, for dahlias, and the Mitchell Nursery Co., for perennials and roses.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

Business was wonderfully good last week, considering the season. There has been a decided improvement along all lines and the better class of stock has been called for in almost every case. While the stores are still full of asters, gladioli, centaureas and other flowers of the cheaper grades, retailers have had a merry time trying to fill their orders for roses of the best quality, good carnations, orchids and lily of the valley. All these latter items have taken a decided rise and there is every indication that business from now on will be better. During September we usually look for the hottest weather of the year, and should this materialize, the outdoor flowers will suffer. In this case there will be a much more spirited demand for indoor stock, and, at least until the chrysanthemum season opens, prices should stiffen considerably. Having got over the initial scare of the war, growers are placing their orders freely for all classes of stock and inquiries for future deliveries were never better at this season. The principal houses dealing in imported stock will doubtless have to face a serious loss along some lines, but every misfortune has its bright side and much overgrown stock will be cleaned up this year. There are practically no pot plants in the market just now, with the exception of coleuses and various types of nephrolepis. Green goods are plentiful and of good quality.

Various Notes.

The arrival of The Review, and with it the news that the S. A. F. convention was to be held in San Francisco next year, created quite a ripple of excitement. Already the various organizations are planning excursions to the northern city and these will doubtless take place at the time the national society meets there. The Angel City will not be behindhand in its welcome to brother florists from the east and middle west. Practically the whole of the trade in this city consists of men who had their training farther east and all are looking forward to the renewal of old friendships, with the big shows as special attractions for all.

George W. Smith, formerly of the well known firm of Howard & Smith, and Jacob Dieterich will enter into partnership in the nursery business. Mr. Dieterich has many acres of fine land in Montebello, covered with high-class nursery stock, for which he has a splendid outlet at his city salesyard. Mr. Smith's long experience in business will be an added asset for the new firm and it is pretty safe to prophesy great success for it.

In a letter from Leon De Stoute, written from Belgium, August 15, it transpires that he has been pressed into service as a hospital orderly, while Mrs. De Stoute has taken service as a nurse in one of the army hospitals; so it does not look as though the firms he is representing will get much nursery stock this year.

John Gordon, manager of the store of Wolfskills' & Morris Goldenson, is spending his vacation at Balboa.

R. W. Saakes opened his new store, at 810 South Broadway, August 26. The scheme of decoration is green and gold and he has a most attractive store.

G. W. Bridgford is sending in excellent flowers of that fine pink rose, William Shean. Something in the soil at Eagle Rock seems to bring out the best points of the roses so well grown by this experienced florist.

H. N. Gage returned from a successful business trip to San Diego and other southern points August 25.

W. W. Felgate, of Sierra Madre, has been showing some especially fine zinnias. The flowers are gorgeous in color, extra large and unusually double. Mr. Felgate buys only the best seed and carefully selects his own varieties for seed saving, in this way greatly improving his strains. He also has some remarkably fine colored single asters. It is difficult to account for the lack of interest shown in these beautiful flowers, for they are far ahead of the double types in elegance and richness of color.

August would not usually be considered a good month for lifting large quantities of big cannas, but, as showing what may be done with care, a big consignment of the well known William Boffinger was removed for a special order from the nursery of the Germain Seed & Plant Co. to the new grounds of the Selig zoo. Owing to the skillful treatment by Albert Youngermans, the superintendent, these plants never looked back and are now great masses of scarlet, near the new animal houses.

W. Wern, manager of Wright's Flower Shop, has returned from his vacation, looking as though the change had benefited him. Partly owing to Mrs. Wern's ill health, they chose a rambling auto trip this year, making their headquarters at San Diego. Mr. Wern speaks highly of the climate and roads and reports a most enjoyable time.

While one never likes to make comparisons, it is doubtful if there is a more attractive store in this town than that of the Freeman-Lewis Co. During the quiet season the whole store has been remodeled and repainted, and the walls are entirely covered with mirrors. Back of the icebox, also, there is a large mirror, which apparently doubles its size and the amount of stock. Mr. Freeman says they have been able to renew their lease on advantageous terms; hence the somewhat lavish expenditure. He reports an exciting time during his vacation, one result of which is a budding mustache.

Business in general remains slow. Aside from funeral work, there is little going on. An occasional wedding order brings welcome relief to the monotony of keeping shop with little business. principal flowers asked for; as a result, carnations are something of a drug. Chrysanthemums made their first appearance last week and are good for this early season.

Various Notes.

Olsson & Bernson have some chrysanthemums sufficiently advanced so that they expect to be able to market them within a few days.

The writer had the pleasure of inspecting the new improvements at the store of the Hoyt Bros. Co., under the guidance and at the invitation of Manager Samuel Younkin. While the room occupied is not a really large one, the orderly and complete arrangement of shelves, balcony, tables and drawers permits the compact and handy display of a larger stock than is generally seen even in much larger stores. Mr. Younkin, who planned and superintended the work, is certainly to be complimented on the results obtained.

Miss Winifred Doyle is again at her desk in the bookkeeping department of A. J. Burt's store, after a six weeks' vacation spent on the coast. L. B. Hill, of the same store, took a few days' fishing and camping trip up in the mountains last week.

The Spokane Florist Co. reports that, considering the season, business has been good. The firm is preparing for a big wedding in the early part of September.

The first chrysanthemums of the season, which were seen here last week, were grown by P. Leavey and were contracted for in advance by F. L. Ziegler.

NEW SWEET PEA
MONROVIA

For several years this has been the best seller on the Los Angeles and other local markets, and I have decided to offer it to the trade as long as the stock lasts at $5.00 per ounce.

Monrovia begins to flower when only about one foot high and continues to bloom profusely until it reaches 8 feet high outdoors. It will make a splendid greenhouse variety, as the buds do not drop under any conditions The color is a deep purple outside, inside heliotrope, and it is unquestionably the finest winter-blooming purple in existence. The seed has been carefully reselected from large pods only. It was gathered in April and May in the foothill section, and is consequently mature and of high germinating power. It is an exceptionally stout grower and throws long stemmed flowers all through the season, four to six flowers to the stem. This offer will be withdrawn as soon as present stock is exhausted.

none too plentiful. Asters are arriving in fairly liberal quantities, but several growers are badly off for first-class blooms, on account of the depredations of the tarnish bug. Gladioli are good and plentiful, and lilies are in evidence in most of the stores. Funeral work was heavy last week.

Various Notes.

Herman Wenzel has acquired the lease of the flower store at Broadway and Pine streets. He was for several years employed by the Queen City Floral Co. In his decision to launch out on his own account he has the best wishes of all in the trade.

Andrew Matthiesen is the proud father of a bouncing boy, who arrived last week.

Gus Bjorkman has taken a lease of the Ballard Greenhouses from M. G. Buckley and entered into possession September 1. This place is in a fine location for retail work and has always had a good reputation for the quality of the flowers grown there. "Cap" Buckley will be much missed by the trade, but, as he is not leaving the neighborhood, his smiling face and cheery voice will still be with us occasionally. We all wish him and Mrs. Buckley good times in their well deserved retirement.

John Holze accompanied a party of Tacoma florists on a trip up Mount Rainier on Saturday and Sunday, August 22 and 23. He reports a glorious time and says it is about the only really peaceful place on the face of the earth.

George Gordon Beavan, who has been employed by the Burdett Co. for some time, returned to his native country, England, last week, having volunteered for service in the war.

ORIGIN OF WINTER SWEET PEA.

Injury from Drought and Heat.

"For the 1911 crop I began to accept many orders from different places, for by the beginning of May of the same year the fields in California promised a large crop. Everything was in bloom when three extremely hot days came and burned all the flowers, so that when the time came for threshing out the seeds I obtained only about double the amount of seed I had planted. Because of these three hot days I had lost at least $30,000. The year 1912 was unusually dry and the seed became badly mixed, so that I could only sell a few of my special kind of seed in a mixture, just to let the florists become acquainted with the new variety.

"In 1913, April 5 to 12, was held the international flower show in New York. April 10 was especially set aside for the sweet pea exhibit. There was a large gathering of florists from various places, who came either to exhibit flowers or to see what was going on. In all there were 163 distinct varieties of sweet peas exhibited in over a thousand vases. Of these 163 varieties, I had originated 161 myself. Of course, there were about six varieties exhibited under different names, for instance: Snow Bird (Watchung), Winter Stella Morse (Jack Hunter), Flamingo (Christmas Red), and several others which have simply been renamed.

The Orchid-flowering Type.

"The first named winter orchid-flowering sweet peas were introduced in 1913. As the seed crop was again short—only about twenty per cent of the average yield, on account of the dry season—I was obliged to cut down every large order. By doing this I was able to send some of the seed to nearly 3,000 florists.

"We now have over eighty distinct varieties of the winter orchid-flowering sweet pea. Of course no one will wish to have so many varieties at once, as twenty-five or thirty colors are all that a commercial grower can properly attend to.

"Just as, in the past, many seedsmen simply renamed many of my original winter sweet peas, there is now a tendency on the part of some to contend that they have themselves originated some of the winter-flowering type.

"I have just been reading in one of our trade papers of one florist in England, another in Australia, who have the same stock; but after examining the account closely, I find that both obtained the seed from me in 1911 or 1912. Neither one of them has anything new.

"It is strange that, notwithstanding the fact that both foreign and American trade papers are well informed concerning this new orchid-flowering type, there is still one paper which tries to make its readers believe that there are better types of the winter-flowering orchid sweet pea than mine. If this were true I would gladly extend my congratulations to my rival."

Hancock, Mich.—The York flower store is to be moved from the Hockin building to the Gallaher store, and a number of improvements are being made in preparation for the change.

Rocky Ford, Colo.—A. Nelson, of the Rocky Ford Floral Co., has broken ground for a large greenhouse. The small house opened for business here in an experimental way proved a decided success.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

A LARGE frost-proof house for tree storage, 60x80 feet, is being erected by George D. McKisson, proprietor of the Fairmont Nursery, at Fairmont, Minn.

F. T. RAMSAY, of the Austin Nursery, Austin, Tex., was one of the speakers before the Texas Dry Farming Congress at its meeting at Hondo, August 20. His subject was "Horticulture: Figs and Pecans."

LATEST figures give the number of licensed nurserymen and dealers in the state of Wisconsin as 200. This includes growers of small fruits and of orchard and ornamental trees, and their nurseries range in size from one-quarter of an acre to eighty acres. Fifty outside nurseries, located in ten other states, have licenses to sell stock in the state.

THE dependence of the nursery trade of this country upon the warring nations of Europe is shown by the fact that out of 3,779,041 growing trees imported in one year, 1,782,255 came from France and 849,245 from Germany. Of the fourteen other countries from which nursery stock was imported, the only one which sent a considerable quantity, comparatively speaking, was Holland, whose shipments here numbered 690,632. The greater part of the tree seeds which this country imports come from Germany and amount to several tons.

SOUTHERN ASSOCIATION MEETS.

Seventeenth Annual Convention.

Although a great deal of work and pleasure was crowded into the two days of this year's meeting, making the convention a most enjoyable and profitable one, it was decided at the seventeenth annual meeting of the Southern Nurserymen's Association, at Chattanooga, last week to devote three days to the program next year. The place selected for the 1915 convention is Hendersonville, N. C., and the dates are August 26 to 28. The officers chosen for the coming year were the following:

President—Milton Moss, of Huntsville, Ala.

Vice-president — Ray Simpson, of Monticello, Fla.

Secretary-treasurer—A. I. Smith, of Knoxville, Tenn., reëlected.

The election took place Thursday afternoon, August 27, on the steamer Chattanooga, on which the fifty members of the association who were present took a boat ride up the river to the lock and dam. The previous sessions took place at the Signal Mountain Inn, an excellent meeting place, about thirty minutes' car ride from the city of Chattanooga.

You may discontinue our advertisement, as we are through with our spring shipments, but we will give you another order for fall, as THE RESULTS from the one for spring HAVE BEEN VERY SATISFACTORY.—Franklin Davis Nursery Co., Baltimore, Md., May 19, 1914.

Interesting Program.

The program included a number of interesting papers, which led to discussion on the part of those present, and proved to be quite profitable. W. T. Hood, of Richmond, Va., who was down for an address on "The Nursery Business of the Present Compared to the Past," was kept at home by the pressure of business and could not deliver his paper. The program in full was as follows:

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 26, 10 A. M.

Call to order by president.
Invocation.
Address of welcome, mayor of Chattanooga.
Response, Harvey M. Templeton, Winchester, Tenn.
President's annual address, J. R. Mayhew, Waxahachie, Texas.
Appointment of committees.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 26, 2:30 P. M.

"Why Are We Here?" E. W. Chattin, Winchester, Tenn.
"The National Association," President Henry B. Chase, Chase, Ala.
"In What Way Are Our Associations Rendering Most Efficient Service?" Milton Moss, Huntsville, Ala.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 26, 8:00 P. M.

"The Relation Between the Scientists and the Nurserymen," Dr. E. Lee Worsham, Atlanta, Ga.
"Status of Uniform Inspection Campaign," Prof. G. M. Bentley, Knoxville, Tenn.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 27, 10:00 A. M.

"Shade Trees for the South," R. C. Berckmans, Augusta, Ga.
"Are Nurserymen Growing Too Many Varieties?" Robt. Chase, Chase, Ala.
"Why Such Confusion in Names?" E. W. Chattin, Winchester, Tenn.
"Pedigreed Trees—What is There in It?" A. I. Smith, Knoxville, Tenn.
Adjournment for luncheon.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 27, 2:30 P. M.

"Can a Permanent Retail Mail-order Business Be Built Through Advertising Alone?" O. Joe Howard, Pomona, N. C.
"The Safest Method of Selling Nursery Stock."—General discussion.
"Diseases of Peach, Especially Stop-Back, and Remedies," John A. Young, Greensboro, N. C.
Report of committees, election of officers and selection of place for next meeting.

CALIFORNIANS GETTING READY.

Committee meetings to make arrangements for the annual convention of the California Association of Nurserymen, to be held at the U. S. Grant hotel, October 15 to 17, are occupying the time of San Diego nurserymen. With the assistance of a number of public bodies of the city, they hope to make this year's meeting the best on record. Plans for October 17, the day of recreation, include a visit to the Panama-

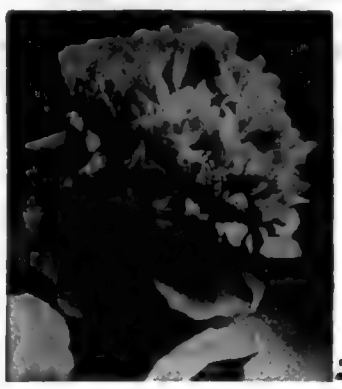
PARK SUPERINTENDENTS ELECT.

Hold Sixteenth Annual Convention.

Business sessions of conventions on board river boats are becoming popular, perhaps because by this means a full attendance is insured through the absence of distractions. It was on board the steamer Albion, en route from Newburgh, N. Y., to West Point, that the election of the American Asscciation of Park Superintendents, assembled for the sixteenth annual meeting, was held, with the following results:

President—Gustav X. Amrhyn, of New Haven, Conn.



Vice-presidents—Herman Merkel, of New York city; John W. McLaren, of San Francisco; Charles Haible, of Newburgh, N. Y.; John Henderson, of Montreal, Canada; Carl M. Fohn, of Colorado Springs, Colo.; J. H. Prost, of Chicago.

Secretary-treasurer—R. W. Patteroll, of Seattle, Wash.

As the result of the hard work of the three men of that city who came clear across the continent to attend the meeting of the association, San Francisco was selected as the meeting place for 1915.

Sight-seeing the Object.

Little other business came before the association. Secretary Mulford passed out cards to the members, on which are to be entered descriptions of the flora of their parks, so that when they are turned in an index to the plants, trees and shrubs of the parks of the country will be in the hands of the association.

The greater part of the time of the four days, August 24 to 27, was given over to sight-seeing. The homes of Andrew J. and Charles Downing and the various estates designed by them, at Newburgh, were visited, as well as the various places of historic importance in the vicinity. Mount Beacon, the estate of the late E. H. Harriman, Tuxedo Park, West Point and various other places near by were visited, either by boat or automobile, and a grand reception and dance was tendered the visitors on the evening of August 25 at the factory of the Coldwell Lawn Mower Co., the entire sixth floor of which had been cleared and decorated for the occasion. The last day, August 27, was spent in taking in the sights of New York city, including Central park, the Bronx gardens, the Brooklyn park system and Coney Island. The successive days of sight-seeing proved strenuous for some of the members, but all enjoyed the meeting.

MAIL RESTRICTIONS.

The Postoffice Department has issued an order placing restrictions on the mailing of certain plants and trees. It provides that within the area covered by quarantine order 17, issued July 23, coniferous trees or parts of trees and decorative plants of the area quarantined for the gypsy moth by that order may be accepted by postmasters for mailing only when for transmission within such quarantined area and when they do not exceed the limit of weight prescribed by law for fourth-class matter.

Forest plant products, field-grown plants and plant products for propagation of the area quarantined for the gypsy moth, and deciduous trees or shrubs and parts thereof of the area quarantined for the brown-tail moth, on the movement of which restrictions are placed by the quarantine order mentioned, may be accepted for mailing to any point outside the quarantined area only when accompanied with a certificate of a representative of the Department of Agriculture to the effect that they have been inspected and found free from the gypsy moth and the brown-tail moth, and do not exceed the limit of weight prescribed by law for fourth-class matter. Where Is His Araucaria?

Where are his Araucarias? In his greenhouse growing,
Tier after tier, in lustrous beauty clothed;
Shining with blue tints, or delightfully glowing
As green sea waves on which the sunshine flowed.

Is there another touch as nice as Aschmann shows?
Another who has learned so well to call their best
Up into charming form, whose beauty glows
Before our eyes in gracious radiance dressed?

ARAUCARIA
OUR SPECIALTY

WAR ABROAD will make the Araucarias scarce this fall and winter. But look, it won't affect Godfrey Aschmann. Why? We were not afraid to invest thousands of dollars in importing the plants in the spring of 1914, hence we do not care for the war, and are prepared to fill all orders—4 houses are filled with the choice ARAUCARIA EXCELSA. We are again able to fill all orders. 5½ and 6-inch pots, 2, 3, 4, 5 years old, 14, 15, 20 to 25 in. high, well established, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50. Peerless Pink

The great Peerless Leader of ALL Carnations

More profits from Peerless than any other. Seven and one-half blooms per plant, October 1 to January 1, at average of 3c equals 22½c per plant—12½c more than the cost of the plants, which is $100.00 per 1000. We allow you to try the variety and pay for it January 1. Enchantress will not average more than three blooms per plant during the same time.

Why grow varieties that do not pay you good profits? You cannot make a mistake. We guarantee Peerless to be all we claim for it or it will not cost you anything. Clean, healthy plants, $12.00 per 100, $100.00 per 1000.

DETROIT, MICH.

The Market.

Business has been good for this time of the year. The greater part, of course, has been funeral work. The market is well supplied with good stock, but remains nicely cleaned up of all first-class stock. Roses are of good quality—good stems, foliage and color. Asters have been good and appear to be more popular than in past years, no doubt because more choice varieties are available.

The first dahlias have made their appearance and all indications point to a good supply of this flower. Last fall was the first time that really good dahlias were available in this market; that is, the supply could be depended upon and orders accepted accordingly. The local growers who cleaned all the foliage and buds off the stem, leaving only the one bloom, find their stock gives the best satisfaction in regard to keeping. Many excellent gladioli are on the market, especially America, which is more popular than ever before. Many poor spikes are also seen, but do not meet with a ready sale. Lilies are plentiful and selling readily.

Various Notes.

Harry Breitmeyer was expected to return from Europe August 31. Frank Danser, also of John Breitmeyer's Sons, is still in Europe. Word was received from him from Germany about a week ago, saying he was well, but could not state when he could return.

Norman Sullivan was badly deceived by a man of about 35 years of age who gave his name as Ben Sangencamp, of St. Louis. He was a rather heavy-set man, and appeared to know the retail end of the florists' business well, claiming that he had formerly been in the employ of Frey & Frey, of Lincoln, Neb. Mr. Sullivan needed the services of such a man, and as trade was quite dull, left the store in his charge over Sunday, returning Monday morning to find Mr. Sangencamp had decamped with all the money in the store, about $25 to $30. It appears that he was in the store Sunday until about 3 p. m., when he locked up and left for parts unknown. Any information leading to his arrest will be greatly appreciated by Mr. Sullivan.

M. Bloy is the proud possessor of a handsome new 6-cylinder Packard touring car.

B. Schroeter had the store decorations for the opening of the new shoe department in the Kline store and disposed of considerable stock as well as using many plants.

A number of retail store windows have been appropriately decorated this week for the G. A. R. reunion, which has been held here. Some of the firms were called upon to carry out elaborate table decorations at the hotels. John Breitmeyer's Sons and E. Fetters came in for the cream of this work. H. S.

The Market.

Trade is still quiet here, but a little more brisk than it was, with plenty of stock to go around. Most of the carnations are housed, and a good part of them are starting to bloom. Some good stock is coming in, but of course the stems are rather short. It will only be a short time, however, until they will be first-class. Roses are good for this date and some really fancy stock is to be seen. Bulgarie, Kaiserin, Killarney and White Killarney are the main varieties. Beauties are quite plentiful and the demand fairly good. The quality is about all that could be desired at this date.

Gladioli are quite plentiful and the demand for them fairly good. Asters are dwindling; a few late ones are coming in, but most of them are over now, and we shall have to fall back on the old stand-by, carnations. Silver Pink snapdragons are coming in again, but the stems are rather short now and it will be several weeks before they are just right. Valley has been a little scarce, with the demand light. The state fair has created a demand for palms, ferns, etc., for booth decorating.

Various Notes.

The Columbus Floral Co. is cutting some good roses and Beauties and is also cutting some carnations.

The Munk Floral Co. reports business fair, with a good supply of stock.

The Livingston Seed Co. has been cutting some fancy asters under canvas and is making a good display of fancy gladioli.

The Fifth Avenue Floral Co. is cutting some good carnations. The large rose house is not furnishing any cut at present, but the stock looks fine.

The Market.

August has held its own, and up to the present there are no signs of any bad results accruing from the unfortunate conditions obtaining in most parts of the northern hemisphere. By the middle of September we shall be better able to judge what this awful upset is going to do for Canada; in the meantime everybody is sitting tight and holding on. Several of the men formerly employed at the Dale Estate have gone into camp at Quebec, and some of them by this time are already on their way to the war zone.

Bulbous stock has not yet arrived, but as it is on the way, it is confidently hoped that the shipment will come safely through. The bulb house started last fall is now in complete readiness for the bulbs, which will receive better treatment than has been possible in any previous season.

The asters grown this season have been superior stock, but unfortunately sweet peas, over which a great deal of time and trouble had been taken, suffered from disease and proved a heavy failure. The 2½-acre range of violet houses were planted last week and the stock of 100,000 plants goes into winter quarters in the best condition.

Carnations should be blooming freely in another three weeks, and the outdoor plants are meeting a ready market throughout the Dominion, on account of their healthy qualities.

Roses are coming in a little earlier this season, and it seems a long time since such excellent flowers have been placed on the market. The stems are long and strong, and the blooms are perfect in every way. All the new varieties are showing pleasing results, and the only cause for regret is that they have not been planted in sufficient quantities to meet the demand.

FIELD-GROWN CARNATION PLANTS.
We grow carnations, nothing but carnations. Our stock is of that quality, as can only be produced by a specialist. By sending out only such plants as we would be willing to bench ourselves, we have built up a trade in field plants second only in importance to the growing of cut flowers. By growing our stock on the same piece of ground but two years in succession, and by liming our field lightly each year, we have practically eliminated stem rot and other diseases on our place.
We dig carefully, give liberal count, and pack to ship anywhere in the United States. Large, strong plants. 250 at 1000 rate.

Bailey's Standard Cyclopedia of Horticulture.

First volume just off the press. Remaining volumes will be issued as soon as possible. The following are a few of the features to be found in this new work:

KEY TO IDENTIFICATION OF PLANTS.

This is a device to enable one to find the name of a plant. The name thus found is quickly referred to under its alphabetical location, where full information will be found in regard to it.

SYNOPSIS OF PLANT KINGDOM.

This is one of the most important features of the new edition. It constitutes a general running account of the classes, orders and groups of plants, with a brief sketch or characterization of 215 of the leading families comprising those that yield practically all the cultivated plants. These family descriptions give the botanical characters and the number of genera and species and the ranges.

THE GLOSSARY.

This is an analysis of all technical terms that are used in the work and in similar works.

TRANSLATION AND PRONUNCIATION OF LATIN NAMES.

In Volume I is inserted a list of between 2,000 and 3,000 Latin words used as species—names of plants, giving the English equivalent or translation and the pronunciation.

ILLUSTRATIONS.

There are 24 colored plates, 96 full-page sepia halftones, and more than 4,000 engravings which serve as guides in the text.

CLASS ARTICLES.

Special effort has been made to secure the best cultural advices for the plants requiring peculiar or particular handling.

GENERAL INDEX.

The final volume will contain a complete index to the entire work, enabling the reader to locate volume and page of any subject he has in mind. With the Index, Key, Synopsis and alphabetical arrangement of the Cyclopedia, any reasonable question asked by the consultant will receive a ready answer.

This work consists of six large quarto volumes, more than 3,600 pages, 500 collaborators, approximately 4,000 genera, 15,000 species and 40,000 plant names. Price, $6.00 per volume; $36.00 per set. Can be paid for one volume at a time.

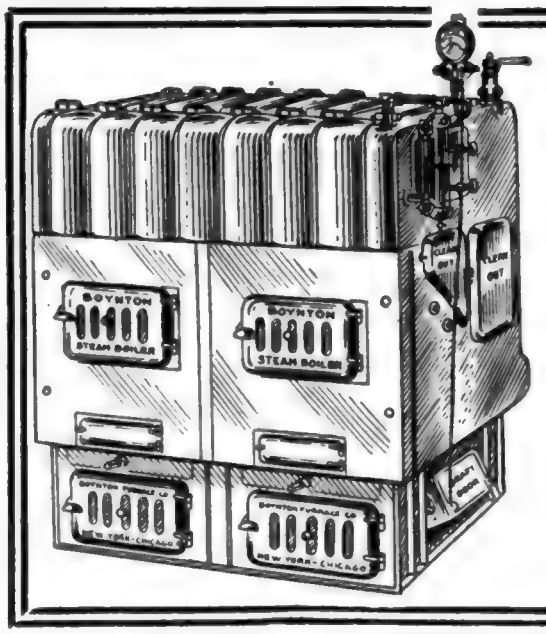
Greenhouse Heating.

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the Editor of this Department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. But please do not ask The Review to make a choice of apparatus for you. The greenhouse heating equipment advertised in this paper is, we believe, the best for the trade to buy, and each article the best in the special field of its adaptation.

BETTER USE 2½-INCH FLOWS.



I am about to pipe a carnation house, 26x130 and six feet high at the sides. I shall use hot water heat. Please inform me how much pipe will be needed to heat such a house to a temperature of 50 to 60 degrees in zero weather. I have a lot of 2-inch pipes on hand; could I use these for flows and how many would be required? Or would it be better to use larger pipes? How many 2-inch returns should be used? What size of main will be needed? There is a 6-inch opening in the boiler. This is a new departure for me, as I have always, heretofore, had steam heat. I am located in southwestern Michigan. H. E.

To heat a greenhouse 26x130 feet, to 60 degrees, with not to exceed four feet of glass in each wall, will require five 2½-inch flow pipes. One should be upon each plate, another on each of the purlins, and the fifth about three feet under the ridge. In addition to the flow pipes there should be ten 2-inch returns, two of them located on each wall and the others under the benches. This will allow two returns for each flow. The use of a 6-inch main flow would give the best results, but a 5-inch pipe for the flow would answer.

It is not advisable to use 2-inch pipe for the flows, in houses more than 120 feet long, unless the boiler is at least four feet below the returns or a generator is attached, as the use of two 2-inch returns for each flow would make rather more radiation than could be carried to advantage.

THE COAL MARKET.

Though the future effect of the European war on the foreign market for coal is still shrouded in uncertainty, there is no uncertainty as to the present situation in the home markets, for the increasing activity in the ordinary channels of the trade is plainly discernible. Even if there were no unusual circumstances to act as a spur to the coal business, there would of course be a natural increase in sales at the approach of autumn, and this natural increase is undoubtedly stimulated now by the prospect—by the possibility, at least—that the foreign demand may soon reduce the quantity of available fuel and cause a rise in prices. It may still be safe, even under such conditions, to postpone the filling of the coal bins, but men of average prudence and foresight are not likely to take the risk. They are not taking the risk, but are taking every possible precaution as to their fuel supply and are consequently creating a stir in the formerly sleepy coal market. And florists, of course, are supplying a large share of the stimulus, for florists can least of all afford to be indifferent about the winter's fuel.

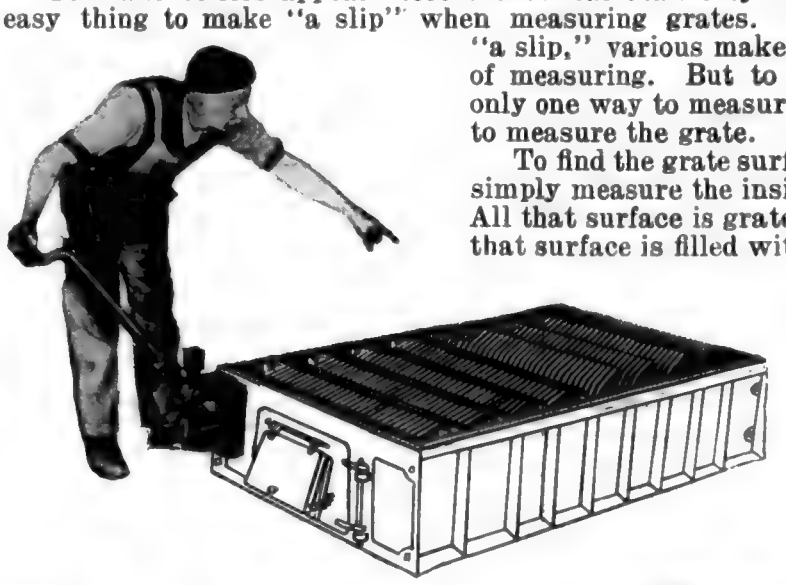
With reference to the florists' favorite fuel, a Chicago writer for the Black Diamond reports as follows: "There has been a definite shortage of smokeless lump and egg. The price has risen all through the summer and now a firm price is $2.25 f. o. b. the mines. Likewise the mine-run situation has strengthened. Up to now, there has been a steady accumulation of that coal at tidewater, but within the last few weeks vessels have been loading. This makes room for a larger movement to the eastern seaboard and this is subtracting coal from the west. The western demand has improved. The two things taken together have had a decided influence in advancing the minimum price and now even the off-grade coals are selling for $1.25, while the producers of standard coal are having

The Truth About Grate Measurements and Ratings



Based on the amount of grate space that the fire covers, combined with the amount of water heated to a certain temperature, in a certain length of time with a certain charge of coal—boiler ratings are figured out.

To make boilers appear more economical than they really are, it's a very easy thing to make "a slip" when measuring grates. To avoid the look of "a slip," various makers have various ways of measuring. But to our notion, there is only one way to measure a grate, and that is to measure the grate.

To find the grate surface on any Burnham, simply measure the inside limits of the base. All that surface is grate surface, because all that surface is filled with the fire.

We tell you this, so you may know just as much as we know about it; so you can, if you wish, prove to yourself that Burnham Boilers are honest, rated from the bottom up.

When we say a Burnham will heat so many feet of radiation, it will heat so many feet.

Burnham grates shake half at a time, making them shake half again as easy. We were the first greenhouse boiler makers to make half shaking grates.

A wrench, a screw driver and two men are all you need to set up a Burnham.

no difficulty in getting $1.40. There has been quite a lively demand for nut coal, which is selling strongly at $1.75.''

ADDING A CARNATION HOUSE.

Last fall we received instructions from you for the heating of one greenhouse, and the plan you suggested worked excellently; so we will now ask you to give us your idea as to the piping of a new carnation house that we are putting up. Enclosed you will find a sketch of the houses. The new house is to run in the same direction as the other one, north and south, and will be 25x112. The walls will be seven feet high to the gutters and will contain four feet of glass over three feet of concrete. We wish to heat this house with the hot water boiler which is already in use for the other house, as the boiler is amply large enough for the entire space. We wish to run the new house at a carnation temperature. The new house will be divided from the other by a glass partition and will have glass in both ends. The boiler is at the south end of the houses; the north end is partly protected by a storeroom. The location is central Indiana.

R. F. C.

For heating a carnation house 25x112 feet, with hot water, in central Indiana, I would advise the use of three 2½-inch flow pipes, one of which would be placed upon each plate and the other three feet below the ridge. For the returns I would use three 2-inch pipes on each of the side walls or under the side benches, and four returns under the middle benches, the latter to be supplied by the middle flow pipe. The main returns should be of the same size as the flow pipes. For this purpose a single 4-inch pipe could be used, or the 2½-inch flow and return pipes could start at the boiler.

EXTRA BOILER FOR ROSE HOUSE.

I am heating my greenhouses with hot water, but it seems difficult to keep mildew off roses without steam heat. I am figuring, therefore, on buying a small steam boiler for occasional use in the rose house. I can buy a second-hand steam boiler, in good condition. It has been used for running a concrete mixer. It is an upright boiler, of six horse-power, and contains thirty-one 2-inch flues, twenty-nine inches long. The grate is nineteen inches in diameter and the fireplace is seventeen inches high from the grate to the flues. Can this boiler be used for heating purposes by having a hood made at the top and bottom? If so, how many feet of 1-inch or 1½-inch pipe can be connected to the boiler, running ten or fifteen pounds of steam? Would it be advisable to buy such a boiler? I am located, you will notice, in northern Colorado. P. O. H.

There should be no difficulty in growing roses free from mildew in greenhouses heated with hot water, if proper attention is given to firing and ventilating and if the radiation is ample and properly arranged. In a small house, hot water heat is preferable to steam, especially when a boiler as small as the one described is to be used for steam. With a boiler having a 19-inch grate I would not care to risk more than 200 square feet of radiating surface and would only use 1½-inch pipe for the overhead flow, putting in 1¼-

BUILT FOR BEGINNERS

WILKS BOILERS are ideal for the man who owns a small greenhouse, who does his own firing and needs a boiler that can be relied on at all times.

WILKS BOILERS are self-feeding. Fill the magazine with fuel in the evening, and an even, continuous fire will be maintained until morning without any attention.

WILKS SELF-FEEDING HOT WATER BOILERS

are built entirely of steel. Read what this user says about their lasting qualities:

We are using one of your 20x36 Wilks heaters in a 20x50-foot greenhouse, and it is giving excellent satisfaction. Has been in constant use since 1883 and seems to be as good as new.

inch pipe for the returns. The boiler should be able to heat a greenhouse 20x 50 feet, for which I would use eight 1¼-inch returns in addition to one 1½-inch flow pipe.

Of course if the radiation in the present plant is insufficient, or if it is so arranged that it does not give good results, it would be possible to help it out by putting in a few steam pipes to be used in severe weather. For that purpose the boiler described would answer for 500 lineal feet of 1¼-inch pipe, 400 feet of 1½-inch pipe, or 600 feet of 1-inch pipe.

HARTFORD, CONN.

The Market.

Business is dull. The supply of outdoor flowers is heavy and the quality is better than the average, owing to the cool summer and the abundance of rain. Only a small percentage of them are sold. The retailers are just buying about enough to make a window display. There are plenty of roses in the market, but the returns for them are small.

Various Notes.

John Coombs has completed carnation planting. He has grown his asters under cloth this summer, with fine success. His asters are among the best in Hartford. The same plan will undoubtedly be used next season.

Edward Welch has his place in fine shape for winter.

At the Whiting greenhouses carnation planting is well under way. The plants made a fine growth in the field this summer. The roses are looking well. Among the new roses being tried are Hadley, Killarney Brilliant and D'Arenberg.

Alex. Cummings, Jr., will act as superintendent of the floral department at the Connecticut state fair, at Charter Oak park, September 7 to 12.

The new range of A. N. Pierson, Inc., is about completed and the roses are all planted. W. R. Pierson escorted about thirty members of the S. A. F. to Cromwell, August 22. S. C. Hubbard, of this firm, is sporting a new Indian motorcycle. R. C. S.

PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

The Providence florists have had more than a fortnight of fairly active business, confined largely to funeral work, as several recent funerals called for large pieces. Asters continue to be the principal product of the growers, with roses in abundance and of good quality.

Various Notes.

The store of M. J. Leach & Sons, at Pawtucket, has been thoroughly renovated. One new feature is a large double plate glass window on each side of the door.

Louis J. Reuter, of S. J. Reuter & Son, Westerly, was among the visitors at the Boston convention.

Between his two greenhouse ranges and his wholesale business, Joseph Koppelman is exceedingly busy. His houses at Oaklawn are to be devoted this winter entirely to roses and Asparagus plumosus, while the new houses at Riverside are being benched to carnations, more than 25,000 plants being used. These include Philadelphia, Enchantress, Beacon, Winsor and White Wonder.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Pratt, of Longmeadow, attended the Boston convention, making the trip by automobile, after which they took a several days' trip through the Berkshires.

J. A. Budlong & Son Co., in addition to its rose and carnation greenhouses, this year has 130 acres of onions at Knightsville, on which harvesting has been commenced.

Eugene McCarron has been making extensive improvements at his greenhouses and office buildings on Hope street. He reports an unusually good business.

George L. Stillman, of Westerly, was an attendant at the convention in Boston, where he had a large exhibit of dahlias, including a number of his own varieties. W. H. M.

The Market.

Business for the month of August was an improvement over that of a year ago. One reason for it is that stock has been more plentiful and far better than it was last year. Roses are plentiful and good, and hold up well. Asters are coming in of finer quality and larger, and have commenced to bring the sale of roses down. Gladioli are still plentiful and good.

Various Notes.

Mr. Kane, of the Peterson Floral Co., is able to be about and can use his eye, which was injured several months ago.

Henry Kusik has been on the sick list for several days, but is improving. He reports business good, and always has a large stock of roses, lilies, gladioli and asters on hand.

T. J. Noll went to St. Louis for a business trip of a few days. He reports that business is increasing every month, with more customers on his list.

The Alpha Floral Co. had an attractive window last week, consisting of a globe map of the world moving around by electricity and telegrams strewn all over the window. Little flower stores dotted the map of Europe and this continent, and on them was "We ship flowers to all parts of the world."

A. F. Barbe is installing a new heating plant at his range and has done away with the old system, making a big improvement.

Chas. Laundy is busy repairing his range. He has a fine lot of pot plants at present.

An account of the outing of the Kansas City Florists' Club will be found on page 17 of this issue. W. J. B.

W. A. Toole, who grows hardy perennial plants for the wholesale trade, has assumed the management of William Toole & Son, well known as pansy specialists, and the two businesses will be combined after January 1 and continued under the name of William Toole & Son. The senior member of the firm, William Toole, will continue his work in the breeding and improving of pansies.

Present indications are that the fall crop of pansy seeds will be heavy, but every ounce will be needed to meet the rapidly increasing demand for seed.

E. H. Toole, who has been manager of the William Toole & Son business for the last two years, has returned to professional work at the University of Wisconsin, where he will make a special study of the germination and growth of seeds.

E. T. Ross and William Toole & Son are making considerable additions to their greenhouses to keep pace with the growth of business.

Carl Hoffman, who makes a specialty of Dutch bulbs, has issued a neat illustrated catalogue of twenty pages, describing his bulbs and hardy plants.

The Market.

There has been no improvement in the flower business during the last week. The market continues dull. No carnations have been seen in this market for about two weeks and it will probably be several weeks yet before the new carnations will be in bloom. Roses are short-stemmed and are being sold at low prices. Asters are somewhat scarce, as some of the growers lost nearly all of their plants by blight. Dahlias keep coming in and are of good quality. Sweet peas are poor. Gladioli are first-class and are still arriving in large quantities.

Various Notes.

NEWPORT, R. I.

It now seems an assured fact that the midsummer flower show, held jointly by the Newport Garden Club and the Newport Horticultural Society this year for the first time, is to be a permanent fixture of the Newport season. So pleased was the committee in charge of this summer's show that it was decided to repeat the show next summer about the middle of August, and an effort will be made to hold it at a place nearer the reach of the general public.

The sixteenth annual ball of the Newport Horticultural Society will be held at the Newport beach, September 8.

THE UP-TO-DATE FLOWER STORE

A place where there is no barrier between the salesperson and the customer; where service is the seller's first and last consideration

NOT in the remotest degree does the salesroom of the modern flower store resemble the store of the early days. "Counter jumper" may still be fairly descriptive of the dry-goods clerk, but it does not fit the florist.

In common with the proprietors of high class specialty shops in other lines, the up-to-date florist gradually has done away with counters until today there is no barrier between buyer and seller; salesman and customer meet on a footing of equality.

The Artistic Effect.

The elimination of counters has been the chief incident in the wonderful improvement that has taken place, in the last few years, in the general arrangement and artistic effect of our modern flower stores. Not much is possible in the way of artistic effect in a long, narrow room made still more conventional by two rigid rows of continuous counters separating the sales people and those they deal with. But when counters gave place to movable tables, and the tables were ejected, one by one, until few remained, then became easy the fine decorative effects of today.

The ice-box for the display of cut flowers is as inevitably a part of the modern flower shop as it was in the store of early days, but the counters have been displaced by a table or two, by chairs, desks, rugs, statuary and bric-a-brac. There is plenty of open space and, usually, plenty of mirrors, to heighten the effect.

Demonstration.

In the modern flower store the florist gives a daily demonstration of the decorative effects he creates, upon occasion, for his customers.

The florist is the most fortunate of those who conduct specialty shops in that his merchandise is decorative. He needs no ornate fixtures and need be at no extra expense for the wherewithal to make his salesroom attractive. Indeed, a flower store should not be too gay in its fittings, as it would detract from the effectiveness of the merchandise instead of adding to it.

Careful Thought Demanded.

Every detail of the fixtures must have careful consideration to produce a harmonious whole. From floor to ceiling, from window to wall the treatment must be well thought out. The difference between a well planned store and one that "just happened" is the difference between the man who is clothed by the careful tailor and the one who trusts to the ready-to-wear—the effect may be as good in one case as in the other, but the chances are against it.

From Parlor to Kitchen.

The flower store floor is important. So is the ceiling. And the walls. Lighting demands careful consideration. The average florist chooses light colors for his store. Although flowers show splendidly against a dark background, there is a more cheerful atmosphere where the lighter tones prevail. Good rugs are a great help in creating an air of quiet and refinement.

The salesroom of the modern florists' establishment is more like a parlor than a store. And, as no good housekeeper would for one moment think of doing domestic duties in the reception room for guests, or permitting a view into even the most immaculate kitchen, so does the florist isolate his workroom. In the best stores there is not even a wrapping table in the salesroom—stock sold from the display case must go into another room to be wrapped up; there is no paper or twine in the flower store parlor.

Of course the working facilities are just as important as the show, in an up-to-date flower store, but the two must be absolutely separate and apart. The workroom of a well kept store that has a modern front is as orderly as any part of the establishment, but it is not for the public to see. The workroom is behind swinging doors that close themselves.

At Penn's.

The accompanying illustration, showing an up-to-date salesroom, was prepared from a photograph of Penn's, in Boston, that many will recognize as having been made during convention week. Originally the Penn business was confined to this room, but it outgrew it. The store next door was added. The room in the illustration now is used exclusively as a show room and a salesroom. The only commercial note is given by the ice-box, and by the office force at work in the rear. All making up, all wrapping, everything of a mussy nature, is done in the adjoining room, the forward part of which in this case also has its ice-box and its selling space.

Where Statuary, Oriental Rugs and Bric-a-brac Take the Place of Counters.

Show Window.

Of course the show window is an important feature, at Penn's as well as at other up-to-date stores. Penn has two windows. The one in the salesroom, where decorative display is the aim, is handled along harmonious lines, while the window in the other room is used for special purposes—the display of bargain boxes or other special merchandise; for duck pond displays in summer and for any showing that will catch the eye, flag the passer-by and make talk.

THOSE LIGHT FIXTURES AGAIN.

Originality is popular, not in the sense that everyone has it, but in the sense that it is appreciated by everyone. For this reason the account of the electric light fixtures in the store of the Central Seed & Bulb Co., at Benton Harbor, Mich., which appeared in The Review for August 13, aroused the interest of a good many people. The description of these fixtures, made of 24-inch wire hanging baskets, green sheet moss and reflectors, stimulated people's curiosity, just as the sight of them in the Benton Harbor store does. But E. S. Thompson, the creator of this novelty, does not think any better description of the fixtures can be given than appeared in The Review. Of course, to make them requires a certain amount of ingenuity, and this each individual must supply. Mr. Thompson, however, for the benefit of those who are interested in this work of his, has supplied a photograph of the interior of his store. This, which is reproduced on this page, gives a fairly clear view of the fixtures he put up, as well as of one of the leading retail stores of this busy little resort town.

FLORIST'S PRIZE-WINNING FLOAT.

In the industrial and floral parade held in Council Bluffs, Ia., August 31, the first prize, a silver loving cup valued at $100, was won by the float of J. F. Wilcox & Sons, which is shown in the illustration on this page. The judges, men from St. Louis, Philadelphia and Omaha, all gave the float a perfect score.

A miniature greenhouse, with a complete boiler room and a smokestack from which smoke poured upward, was the chief feature of the float. The house was 3x9 feet and three feet four inches in height, with three benches inside, holding palms, ferns and flowers, and the float itself was 10x20 feet. Around the greenhouse was a lawn, of green sheet moss, cut up by cement walks on each of the sides and ends. At three corners were miniature flower and foliage beds. In the decoration of the float were used fifty strings of asparagus, 300 cut roses, 700 carnations, fifty American Beauties, 100 asters, 100 cut geraniums and foliage, seventy-five Sprengeri plants, seventy-five border plants, fifteen palms and twenty-five Boston ferns.

Beneath a large sign across the rear reading "Flowers to Everywhere," were packages addressed to florists in localities representing the four extremes of this country, a boost for the telegraph delivery business.

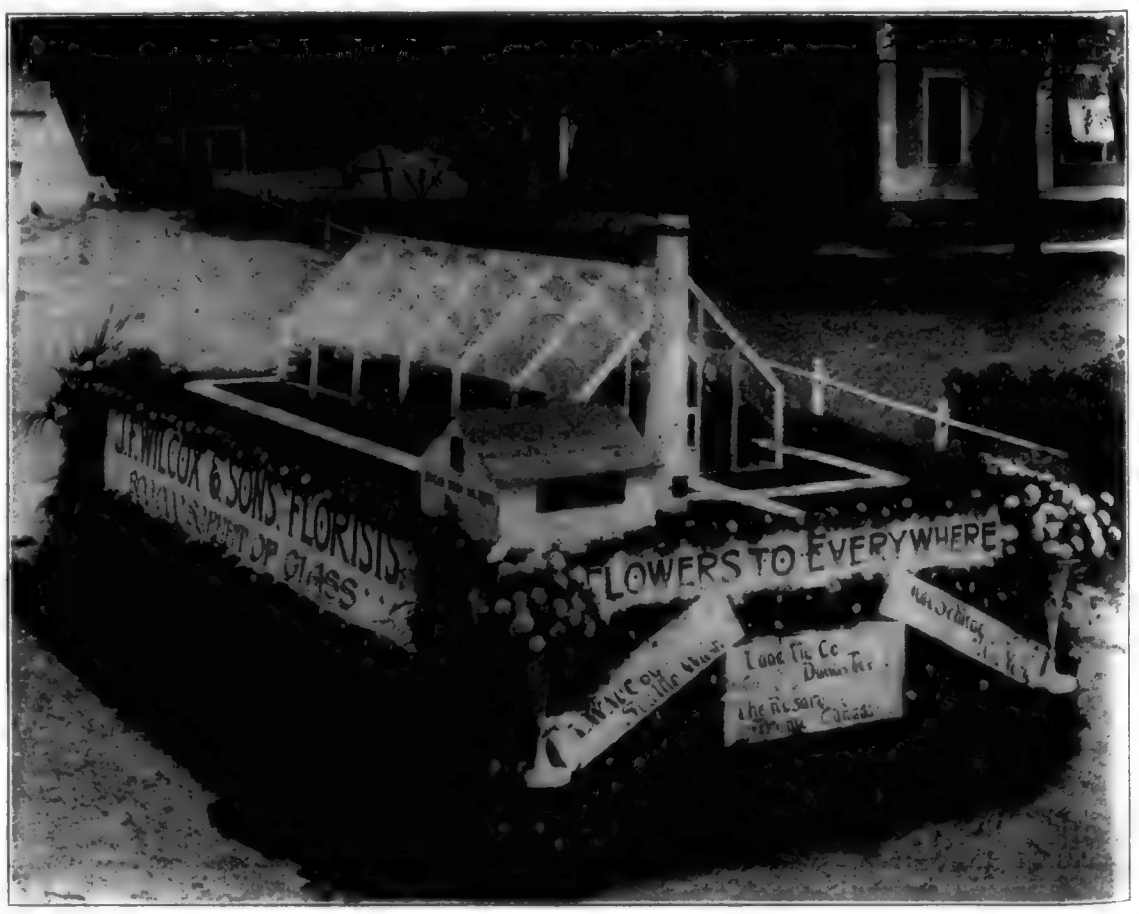
KANSAS CITY'S ROSERY.

The Rosery in Kansas City was incorporated in 1907 and store and greenhouses, near the corner of Main street and Armour boulevard, are conducted by E. D. Ellsworth, with the assistance of Mrs. Ellsworth, three store men and two greenhouse employees. Adjoining the store, which stands in an excellent residence neighborhood, is about 8,000 feet of glass. During the summer months a crop of young poinsettias, about 50,000, is grown for wholesaling, but during the rest of the year all the space is devoted to plants to be retailed through the store. The illustrations on page 13 show the unique, pergola-covered store front and also one side of the interior. Careful attention is paid to the window display, which always is attractive, and the interior also is kept as neat as wax.

W. J. B.

STRAIGHT TALK.



The question of credits and collections is agitating the trade in England the same as in America, the tendency everywhere being for wholesalers to grant credit less freely and to insist on more prompt payment. Summing up the whole argument, Beckwith & Son say in a letter to the Horticultural Advertiser:

"It would be much better if the trade supplied no retail florist without first taking up trade references, or, in the case of beginners, strictly cash with order.

"Ignore all touching and carefully composed letters, and above all never be caught by the easy trick of paying the first one or two small accounts promptly, when credit has been given without references, as trouble will usually come with the first big order.

"We do an extensive business with retail florists, but make few bad debts, as we invariably ask for and take up trade references or require cash with order.

"When a cheque is sent with order it is usually a good precaution to take a Float Representing Wilcox & Sons in a Council Bluffs Industrial Parade.

Street Front at E. D. Ellsworth's Place, The Rosery, at Kansas City, Mo.

note of the bank on which it is drawn. Observe if the person signing the cheque is the same as the one having goods. Then ask your own bank manager to ascertain from the other bank if the individual is a satisfactory client and whether he actually meets the cheques he draws.

"It is always an additional safeguard before giving credit to obtain a special report from one of the firms who specialize in this class of work.

"If after adopting these necessary precautions you make a bad debt, you will find yourself in company with the best firms in the trade, and that the reason for non-payment is misfortune or other unforeseen cause, but when you make bad debts without using the suggested safeguards you will invariably find the list of creditors made up of firms adopting the same easy but careless system as your own."

WOOD FERNS FOR WINTER USE.

Please let me know when I should cut the fancy wood ferns for winter use and how I should take care of them so as to make them keep well into the winter. I cut a few hundreds now and then and put them right in cold water, but they are not there over a week before they turn yellow and spoil. I keep them in a dark place. W. A.

The ferns should be cut as late in the season as possible, before frost, and packed away in a cool and damp place. If they are packed away on damp moss, and covered with a thin coating of the same material, they usually keep well, provided the temperature is kept low enough to prevent heating.

W. H. T.

WATERING WHEN SUN SHINES.

Do you approve of watering flowers when the sun shines upon them?

F. A. P.

Certainly, I approve of watering plants whenever they need it, no matter whether the sun shines or not. In greenhouses many crops are greatly benefited by sprayings overhead on hot, sunny days. The old idea that it would never do to moisten foliage when the sun shone on it was long ago exploded. You have probably seen thunder storms come on days of intense heat, with drenching rains, and have seen the sun come out in full brilliancy a few minutes later on the dripping plants. Did you ever find them burned, or injured in any way, unless hailstones accompanied the thunder? As to watering plants outdoors during hot weather, I believe the best time to do it is in the morning or evening; less is lost then by evaporation. In using sprinklers, from 6 p. m. to 6 a. m. is the time when the plants receive the most real benefit, but pot plants and bench crops must have water irrespective of whether the sun shines or not. C. W.

GIGANTEUMS FOR EASTER.

Easter in 1915 falls eight days earlier than this year, the date being April 4. Kindly state when one located in central New York should plant giganteum lily bulbs to have them in bloom for Easter? W. E. J.

Plant not later than November 15; give a temperature of 55 to 60 degrees after planting and, after growth has started, maintain a minimum of 60 degrees. Of course the bulbs can be flowered in somewhat less time by using more heat, but too much forcing is not desirable. C. W.

ANTIRRHINUMS IN BENCHES.

Will snapdragons grow in six inches of soil in raised beds and bloom in a night temperature of 45 to 48 degrees?

L. F. C.

A minimum of 45 to 48 degrees will be just right for antirrhinums. They do not need six inches of soil. Make it four and one-half to five inches and you will have the roots under better control. For a winter crop, raised benches are much superior to solid beds for snapdragons. No time should be lost in benching these plants if you want a winter crop. C. W.

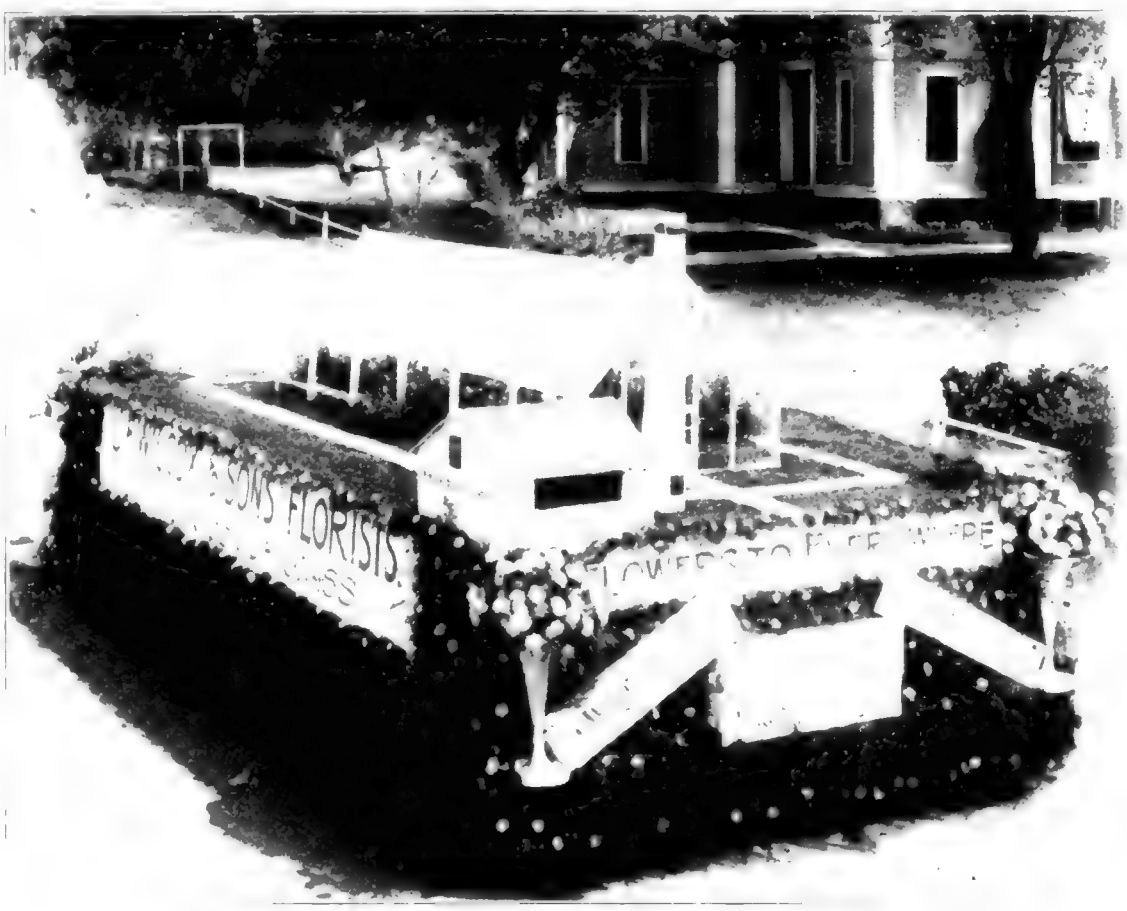
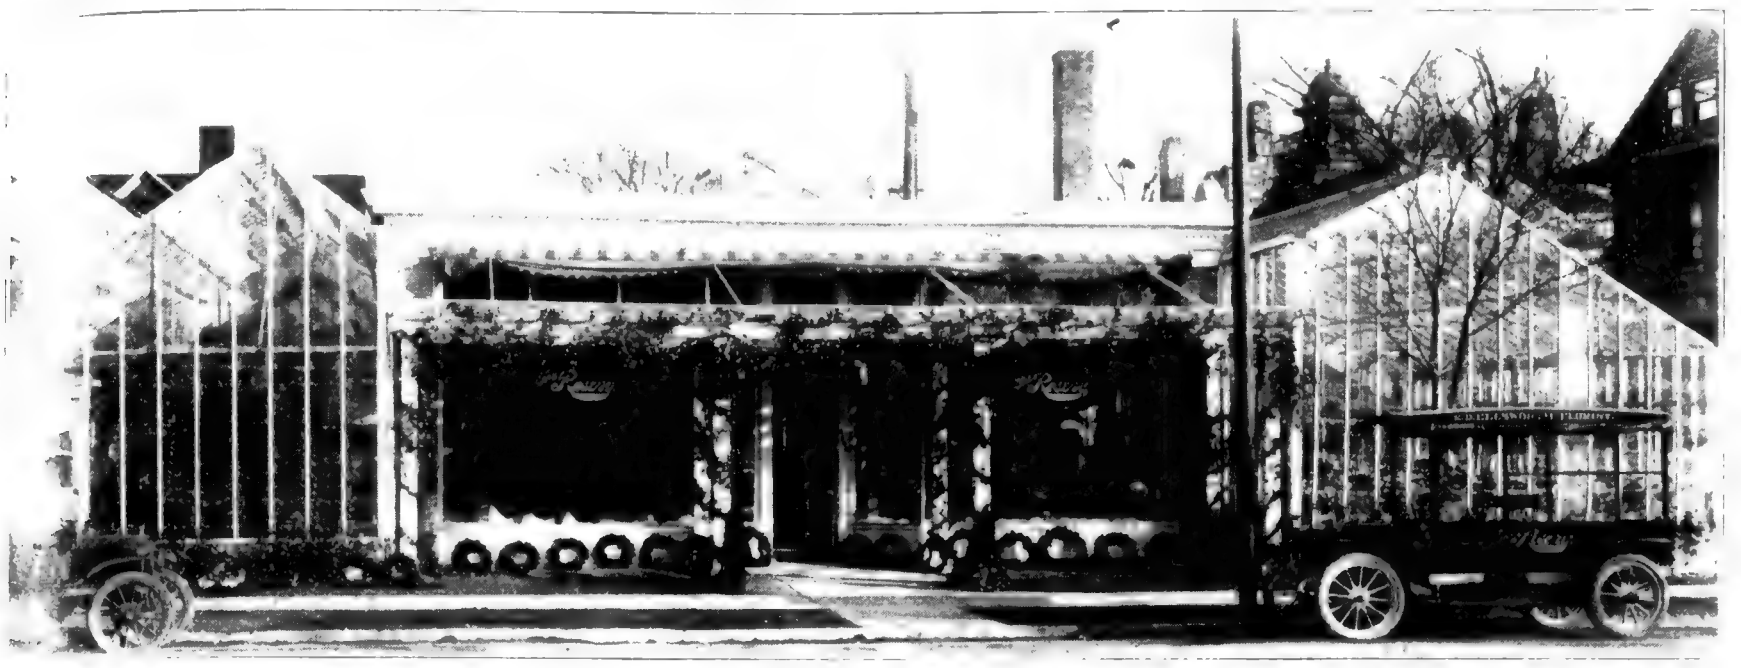
STRAIGHT TALK.



The question of credits and collections is agitating the trade in England the same as in America, the tendency everywhere being for wholesalers to grant credit less freely and to insist on more prompt payment. Summing up the whole argument, Beckwith & Sons say in a letter to the Horticultural Advertiser:

"It would be much better if the trade supplied no retail florist without first taking up trade references, or, in the case of beginners, strictly cash with order.



"Ignore all touching and carefully composed letters, and above all never be caught by the easy trick of paying the first one or two small accounts promptly when credit has been given without references, as trouble will usually come with the first big order.

"We do an extensive business with retail florists, but make few bad debts, as we invariably ask for and take the trade references or require cash with order.

"When a cheque is sent with order it is usually a good precaution to take nly, I approve of watering whenever they need it, no matter the sun shines or not. In ases many crops are greatly ed by sprayings overhead on hot, ays. The old idea that it never do to moisten foliage when n shone on it was long ago ex- . You have probably seen thun storms come on days of intense heat, with drenching rains, and have seen the sun come out in full brilliancy a few minutes later on the dripping plants. Did you ever find them burned, or injured in any way, unless hailstones accompanied the thunder? As to water ing plants outdoors during hot weather, I believe the best time to do it is in the morning or evening; less is lost then by evaporation. In using sprinklers, from 6 p. m. to 6 a. m. is the time when the plants receive the most real benefit, but pot plants and bench crops must have water irrespective of whether the sun shines or not. GIGANTEUMS FOR EASTER.

Easter in 1915 falls eight days earlier than this year, the date being April 4. Kindly state when one located in central New York should plant giganteum lily bulbs to have them in bloom for Easter? W. E. J.

Plant not later than November 15; give a temperature of 55 to 60 degrees after planting and, after growth has started, maintain a minimum of 60 degrees. Of course the bulbs can be flowered in somewhat less time by using more heat, but too much forcing is not desirable. C. W.

ANTIRRHINUMS IN BENCHES.

Will snapdragons grow in six inches of soil in raised beds and bloom in a night temperature of 45 to 48 degrees? L. F. C.

A minimum of 45 to 48 degrees will be just right for antirrhinums. They do not need six inches of soil. Make it four and one-half to five inches and you will have the roots under better control. For a winter crop, raised benches are much superior to solid beds for snapdragons. No time should be lost in benching these plants if you want a winter crop. C. W.

A LESSON OF THE WAR.

The Review has received the following communication from a reader at Los Angeles, whose signature is, unfortunately, illegible. However, the thought is so pertinent that the letter is printed:

"The last two weeks The Review has been full of war talk and many people in the trade seem to be all as mad. Now, why haven't we all we need in our own vast country? And if not, why haven't we? I have seen araucarias twenty feet high and palms the same, but still araucarias and palms come from Belgium, and there they do not grow in the streets, as they do here. Why not have our own nurseries? And for all the rest of the needed stock it will be the same. There is enough land, enough money, and thousands of unemployed men. Therefore, take the lesson war gives—grow your own stock.

EXTERMINATOR FOR ANTS.

We noticed in The Review for August 27 an article on white ants as a pest to geraniums and other plants. The writer has been fighting these pests and, until recently, with poor results. The fact is they were so numerous they attached themselves to everything we were sending out. They ate up our flower seeds and tomato seeds; in fact, there was nothing immune from their ravages. Our seed trays and pans had to be set up on stilts and a contrivance fixed so the ants could not get into the seed. All of this precaution had to be taken or all of our work would be ruined.

Nor did our trouble end when plants went into the field, as the ants were there ready for the plants. This was a different kind of ant. The ones that troubled us in the houses were both the small black and the small red variety. The ones we found in the field were the large red ones, and they are bad neighbors and awfully destructive. They make many large beds and will destroy everything in a radius of from sixty to eighty feet. We used to pour on coal oil, gasoline and bisulphide of carbon and would then apply a match to the hole and, after it had burned a minute or so, we would cover the hole with soil. This killed out a great many of the pests, but only gave a partial relief; in a few days they seemed to be as numerous as ever.

We finally found a powder manufactured in Fort Worth, called Talbot Insect Exterminator. We used this powder in our greenhouses; sprinkled it along the edges of the bench and in our packing shed, and we soon found that we had a fine remedy and truly an exterminator, as the name implies. If the ant gets one foot into the powder, it seems to be all that is necessary. The acid in the powder and the formic acid in the body of the insect combine and set up hydrofluoric acid, which spreads over the body of the ant, which closes the breathing cells. The ant dances the tango and cuts all kinds of antics and in about fifteen to twenty minutes he is dead, but while he is affected he travels and every ant he meets and embraces is affected and in this way the whole colony is exterminated.

This powder will kill all kinds of insects in the same way, and, strange to say, while it kills by contact all membraneous insects, it is non-poisonous and may be used in your homes, in the ice-box and in the bread-box and cupboard, but it must not be placed in damp places.

I write this in the hope it may help some of the fraternity to rid themselves of these pests.

THE ASTER GROWER'S TROUBLES.

The summer of 1914 will be one to be remembered here in New Jersey all right. No rain in the latter part of May and during all of June prevented the setting of asters in the field until July. The result is short plants and stems. Blooms are now about normal in size, but fewer in number.

Yellows and black stem are not uncommon in the field, and increase the amount of roguing necessary to grow good seed, but we must have it even if we have to sit up nights.

D. C. Lewis.

ASTERS DOING POORLY.

Will someone kindly tell me what is the matter with my asters? I have sent some of the blooms, under separate cover, for inspection. Some of the blooms only half open and the plants look as if they were burnt. I can not find anything on the roots or any aster bugs on the plants. We fertilized with hen and sheep manure and bone meal in the spring. Is the trouble caused by too much fertilizer or by the hot sun?

J. K.

I am afraid you have given your asters too much plant food. While they appreciate ground which has been deeply plowed or spaded and liberally manured with cow or horse manure, the use of hen manure is likely to be harmful. The best way to use the last named manure is to drop a little down the center of the rows when the spikes are running up, later running the hoe or cultivator over the soil. Hen manure is the most likely of the three fertilizers named to have harmed your plants. Whatever fertilizers you use, they must be thoroughly incorporated with the soil. If you mixed bone or hen manure in the hole while setting out each plant, injury was more than likely to result.

TRADE INTERESTS AT GHENT.

Just before the German invasion, Consul H. Albert Johnson, at Ghent, Belgium, sent to the State Department a report on the nursery stock and flower industry of that country, a part of which will be of special interest at this time and is as follows:

"In and about Ghent there are about 1,500 distinct horticultural establishments whose products are largely exported, the United States being one of their leading markets. The industry of growing flowers and ornamental plants, such as palms, ferns, azaleas, etc., has increased enormously in Belgium of late years and has been largely fostered by the organization of important schools of floriculture in different parts of the country, that of Ghent being one of the leading institutions of this class. The interests of this industry are especially protected by an organization known as the Chambre Syndicale des Horticulteurs Belges, having its headquarters at Ghent.

"According to the annual report issued by this association, the year 1913 proved somewhat disappointing. It was expected that, in view of the International Exposition at Ghent, which was inaugurated by one of the most important flower shows ever held in Europe, the interest in this industry on the part of strangers visiting the exposition would be largely stimulated, with the consequence that exports would be correspondingly increased. The exports, however, decreased as compared with 1912. It appears that the demand for azaleas fell below that of the previous year, with the exception of certain special varieties. In the case of palms there appears to have been little or no demand for the larger varieties, although a few plants especially cultivated for collectors were disposed of at fairly satisfactory prices.

"The demand for Araucaria excelsa was well maintained, sales having been effected at remunerative prices. Prices for bay trees remained firm, Germany continuing the best market for this class of plants. There was a brisk demand for rhododendrons, but the plants did not bud profusely. There seems to have been little demand for begonia and gloxinia bulbs, large stocks of which remain unsold, with prices at an unusually low level.

"The total exports of plants and bulbs to the United States during 1913 were valued at $314,676, a decrease of $41,233, as compared with 1912."

GOOD-BYE TO THE AZALEAS.

According to a news dispatch, strong forces of Germans from Brussels have moved in the general direction of Ghent and the Belgian seacoast. A dispatch from Amsterdam reports that Termonde, sixteen miles east by south of Ghent, has been hastily destroyed and that railway communication is interrupted.

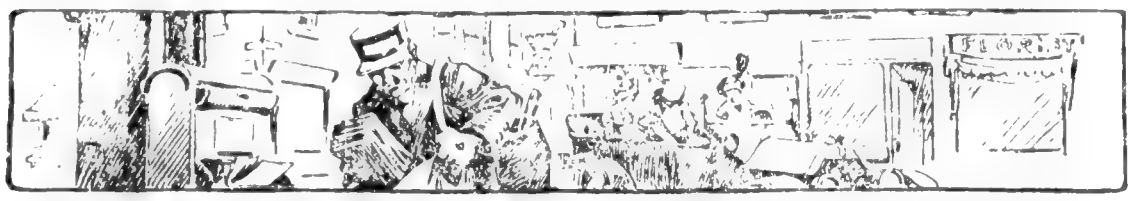
Belgium has won the respect of the nations of the world, not only in the slaughter of thousands of her best men, but in the complete wrecking of the nation in all industrial pursuits. Refugees pouring into Antwerp bring terrible stories of the devastation of the land. From end to end of the little kingdom is nothing but misery, suffering and starvation. Her lands are laid waste, mines are idle, towns have been wrecked and burned and industry is at a standstill. Public buildings have been turned over as quarters for refugees. At Ostend bath-houses are being used to shelter thousands pouring into that resort. Wives of men at the front, aged fathers and mothers and little children stream in constant procession to the cities of refuge. Among the thousands not a single able-bodied man of fighting age may be found unless in uniform.

THE FLOWER TRADE IN PARIS.

With the German army at the gates of Paris it may be surmised that the business of the florists there is not so brisk as to prevent their taking time to discuss the war news, but the following facts, compiled by M. Rolet, will be of interest as showing the normal flower trade in France.

"The Riviera trade is said to have begun in 1871. In November of that year the first consignment of southern flowers was put on the Paris market. Last year 229,271 packages, valued at over $400,000, were received during the month of February at the Paris Halles. This total included 32,000 packages of pinks, sold at 5 cents to 40 cents per dozen; 23,000 baskets of mimosa, at 60 cents to $2 per basket; 16,400 packages of violets, of which 1,000 were Parma violets, sold at 30 cents to $1.65 per package, and the rest Russian violets, quoted at $1.65 to $6 per 100 bunches; and 16,800 packages of roses, worth 10 cents to $1 per dozen. The average daily quantity of flowers sold at the Halles is now estimated at 1,000 to 1,200 baskets; the yearly value of such sales is $6,000,000, or twice what it was a few years ago.

The Halles Centrales are the most important of the ten cut flower markets in Paris, the other large center, the Marché de la Cité, being principally frequented by nurserymen and venders of plants in pots. The unit of sale varies with the flower. Roses, tulips, camellias and carnations are sold by the dozen; narcissi, fuchsias, ordinary violets, by the hundred; anemones and mignonette by the bundle ("botte"); Parma violets by the bunch; lilac, Guelder roses, etc., by the "gerbe," or sheaf. No building has so far been provided at the Halles; the flower market is, consequently, held daily on the "carreau," or open square in front of the market; but the covered passage between the fish market and vegetable market is also utilized. The hours of business are thus limited by the rule that the "carreau forain" (hawkers' square) shall be cleared at 8 a. m. in summer and 9 a. m. in winter.



"The Paris flower shops, numbering some 500, make their purchases at the Halles about 5 or 6 a. m. That is a couple of hours after the opening of the market. Towards the closing hour, flowers that will not keep are sold at reduced prices, and it is at this moment that the owners of the 600 street flower-barrows of Paris buy their stocks. There is a good deal of ill-feeling on this subject, the shopkeepers complaining that the hawkers spoil their trade, and even purposely plant themselves opposite flower shops, while the growers in the south fear that if the hawkers were suppressed or even handicapped by new regulations large quantities of flowers would be thrown away daily instead of sold, and that the poorer population, who are constant and large buyers of these cheap flowers, would thereby be deprived of a harmless luxury."

HOLLAND BULBS IN AMERICA.

The war in Europe has reopened with added force the old question of the production in this country of articles up to this time imported from the Old World. There are some people who believe that in the vast area covered by this country there is a place where every article now imported from Europe can be produced. Some believe that the bulbs that we now get from Holland and France can be grown equally well in this country, and the Department of Agriculture has spent much money in endeavoring to prove this statement. The region generally accepted as the best for this purpose is the Puget Sound country, and at Bellingham, Wash., are the trial grounds of the United States government devoted to the propagation of bulbs. The climate, tempered largely by the Japanese current, approaches that of Holland as nearly as any on this continent, and the soil seems quite fit for this industry.

Although in terms of import duties it is as far away from the United States as Holland itself, and in terms of freight rates to the leading florists' centers, in the central and eastern states, even farther away, the Holland Bulb Farm, at Royal Oak, near Victoria, B. C., is so close in miles to that part of this country where the bulb growing industry is likely to flourish most that its success may serve as an indication of what may be done on this side of the border. W. J. Van Aalst, proprietor of the Holland Bulb Farm, two views of which are shown on page 15, has been growing bulbs there since 1912 and reports the best of results. He says that for forcing, those grown there are unequaled, and for Christmas use they are even better than the French grown. He further states that the hyacinth bulbs of his section are smaller than those grown in Holland, as the former are grown in a dry soil, but that the quality is better. If the same success with these bulbs can be had on this side of the Canadian border, the reduction in price owing to the absence of duty will enable them to compete seriously with those from across the ocean.

The accompanying illustration shows the members of the working force of the Woerner Wire Works, Omaha, Neb., and their families on their annual outing, at Miller park, Omaha. The Hardy Garden

THE HARDY PERENNIAL GARDEN.

As It Looks in September.

While the hardy herbaceous border is now less attractive than in June, when a wide assortment of plants are in flower, it is more interesting in September than during the last half of July and the first half of August, when, owing to heat and drought, the flowers last but a short time. Now, thanks to copious rains, the display of flowers is varied and attractive. A large number are varieties of robust growth, although some dwarf and medium varieties are still left. Some staking is a necessity at this season; otherwise the borders will present an unkempt and tangled appearance. The hoe should be constantly plied in the borders or nursery rows where hardy perennials are growing. It is better to pull large weeds out by hand. Cleanliness and persistent cultivation will keep the plants in a good growing condition.

Late-flowering Phloxes.

The perennial phloxes are now somewhat past their best, but spring propagated cuttings are just at their best and make a beautiful show. The trusses on these are superior in size to those carried on the older plants. Probably each grower, if consulted, would give a different selection of the best twelve phloxes. I submit a list selected so as to give an assortment of the best colors, taken from 100 varieties: H. Murger, white, crimson center; F. G. Von Lassburg, pure white; R. P. Struthers, rosy carmine, crimson eye; Le Cygne, pure white; Europa, white, crimson-carmine eye; Elizabeth Campbell, beautiful salmon pink; Frau Anton Buchner, pure white; Rheinlander, salmon pink; Siebold, bright scarlet, an improved Coquelicot; Le Mahdi, reddish purple, the best blue shade to date; G. A. Strohlein, scarlet, carmine eye; Esperance, mauve, white center.

Fall is the best time to plant phloxes, the middle of October being about the best date. Fall planting insures much finer spikes than when the work is delayed until spring.

Michaelmas Daisies.

The asters, or Michaelmas daisies, are now making a grand show and will continue to bloom for some weeks. In fact, one or two sorts will persist until November. There are some beautiful hybrids of these, of English raising, which show decided improvement on the old sorts. Those who have never grown any of these newer sorts should try a few. They will be found attractive as border plants and useful for cutting at this season. Here are a dozen good asters, some rather old, others of recent introduction: Beauty of Colwall, pale blue, semi-double, height four feet; Feltham Blue, aniline blue, three and one-half feet; White Queen, pure white, four feet; Starlight, dark blue, fading pale blue; Novi-Belgii Perry's Pink, much branched reddish pink, four feet; Novi-Belgii Robert Parker, pale blue, three feet; lævis floribunda, pale heliotrope, two to three feet; ericoides Enchantress, light blue, three feet; cordifolius magnificus, large lavender flowers, three feet; Novæ-Angliæ rosea, pink, four to five feet.

Fall planting suits all the asters. They require frequent division, as they increase in size rapidly. Anyone who has never raised any from seed should purchase a packet from a really good strain and he will get a wonderful variety of beautiful forms. Seed sown in spring will produce strong blooming plants the following year.

Aconitums or Monkshoods.

The aconitums or monkshoods are tall, stately perennials, loving a deep, cool, moist soil. They do much better near the seashore than inland. I have seen rows eight to nine feet high with wonderful branched spikes, something unattainable under more arid conditions. A. Napellus, dark blue, is still the best variety, although A. Napellus bicolor, blue and white, is distinct and beautiful. A. autumnale, dark blue, is particularly adaptable to planting in shady locations. The new A. Wilsoni, from northern China, grows six feet high and carries deep blue flowers. A. Fischeri is the dwarfest of all the monkshoods, attaining a height of only two and one-half feet. Its flowers are pale blue. All the aconitums are at their best in August and September.

Japanese Anemones.

The Japanese anemones, A. Japonica, are just commencing to open their flowers. It is a wonder that more florists do not appreciate the value of these beautiful, hardy fall-flowering plants. A. Japonica alba is still, in my estimation, the most beautiful of the whole family. Its large, pure white flowers are splendid in floral designs. A. Queen Charlotte, with semi-double flowers, rich pink, four inches in diameter, is a lovely variety. A. Kriemhilde, semi-double, with narrow rose-pink petals, is also a desirable variety. Japanese anemones are among the few perennials which are liable to die out if fall planted. They are easily propagated by cutting the thicker roots in short pieces and planting these closely in a propagating bed, potting them off singly when they are making leaves and roots and gradually hardening them off.

Hardy Sunflowers.

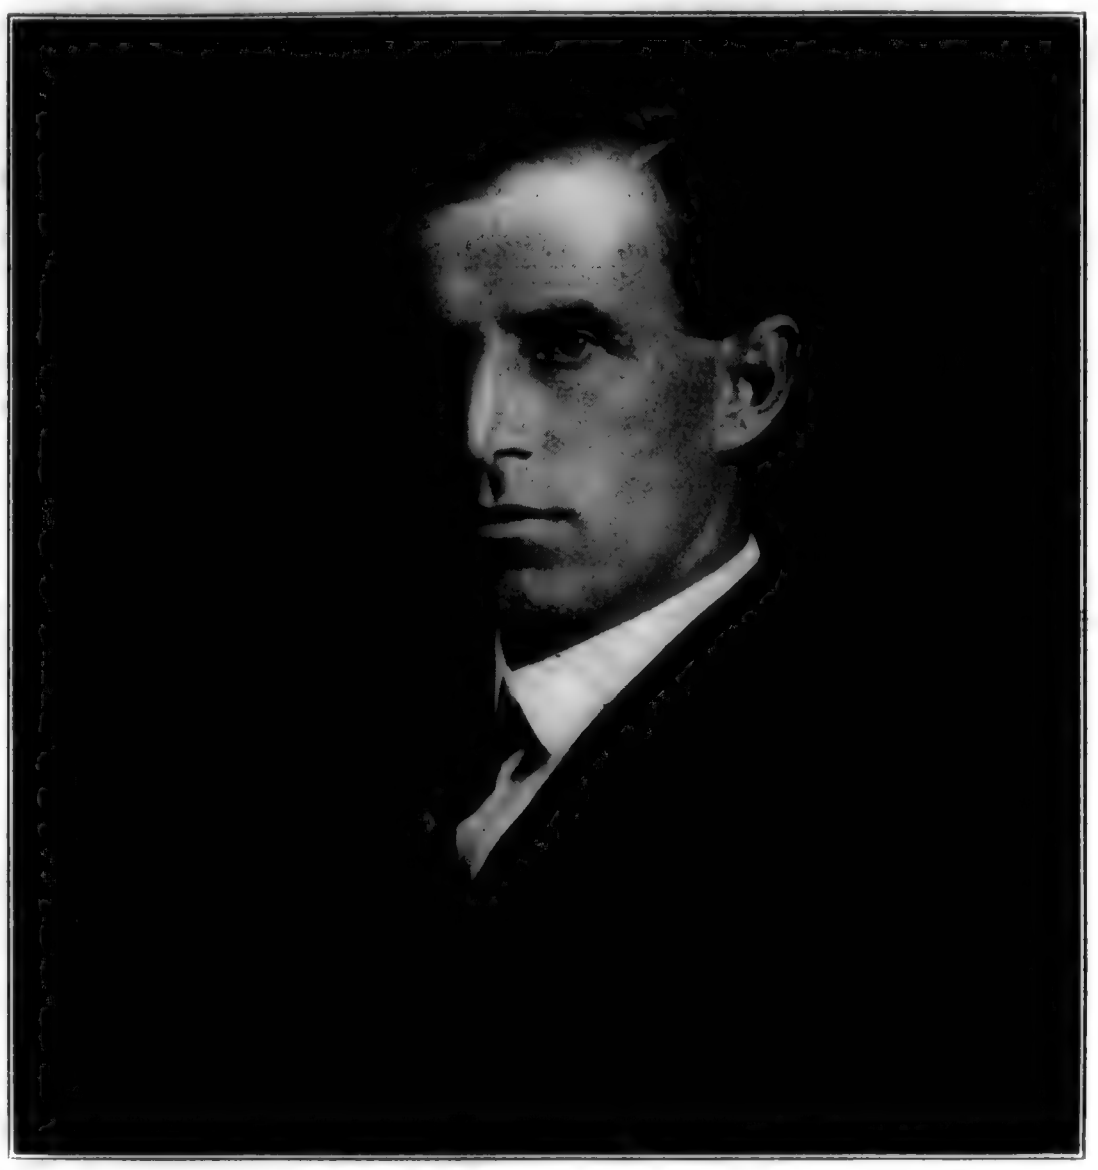
The hardy sunflowers, helianthus, are among the more prominent of the robust perennials now flowering. H. multiflorus plenus is useful for cutting. It is somewhat tender in some locations, and, unless in a warm, well drained location, it is safer to lift and store the roots in a cellar before the ground freezes up. H. orgyalis, the willow-leaved hardy sunflower, grows seven to nine feet high. It is seen at its best when grown to single stems, which are then covered with flowers almost their entire length. H. rigidus Miss Mellish is still the finest deep yellow single variety, and H. mollis the best of the pale lemon sorts. H. Maximiliani will not be in bloom for some time yet; it is usually at its best during October.

Tritomas and Goldenrods.

The tritomas, or kniphofias, commonly called red-hot pokers, are now making a grand show of their stately spikes. These are fine for the decoration of florists' windows at this season. T. Pfitzeri, orange scarlet, three to five feet high, is the best of the whole family, although T. uvaria grandiflora is by no means a back number. The tritomas are not hardy in northern sections unless it be in sandy, well drained land. They do better if lifted and stored in sand over winter in a cold pit or cellar.

The value of the solidago, or goldenrod, is not half so much appreciated here as in Europe for use in the herbaceous garden. Nothing is of easier culture, makes a better show while in flower or is more useful for cutting. One or two really fine border sorts are S. vivipara, immense heads; S. Golden Wings, five feet, fine, and for a dwarfer variety S. Virgaurea nana, only fifteen inches in height, deep yellow.

INSIST ON THE PLANT RATE.



Will you kindly inform me through the columns of The Review as to whether the twenty per cent discount from regular express rates on potted plants out of pots still is allowed by the express companies? I have been informed that since last February this discount has been withdrawn and that from that time potted plants are charged for at regular merchandise rates. If this is true it looks as though we are obliged to pay higher rates now than before on this commodity.

W. B. S.

When the companies put into effect the new express rates as prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission it ended the "general specials," as they were called under the old classification. Instead, the new classification provides for various classes, first, second and third. The first class under the present schedule includes the merchandise class of the old schedule. The second class includes the articles that were known as general specials in the old classification. The rate on second class commodities is seventy-five per cent of the rate on first-class commodities.

Not in many years has there been such a plant rate as twenty per cent discount from the merchandise rate. It is true that when plants first were given a special rate the discount was twenty per cent, but many years ago this was changed, the general special rate, which included plants, being thereafter an arbitrary figure and not a percentage of some other rate. For many years the plant rate was anywhere from eighteen to thirty-five per cent less than the merchandise rate, but since February 1 it has been an exact twenty-five per cent reduction over what articles of the first class, cut flowers for instance, would pay for the same haul.

Florists everywhere should insist that plants properly packed be carried as second class. The official classification says: "Plants, growing, not in pots or tubs, placed in boxes, the sides and ends of which are as high or higher than the plants, and slats nailed over the top, completely protecting the plants," are second class. "Plants growing, in pots or tubs, plant and receptacle crated," are first class. "Plants, growing, in pots or tubs, not crated," are two times first class. The classification requires that plants be refused when in pots or other receptacles completely boxed.

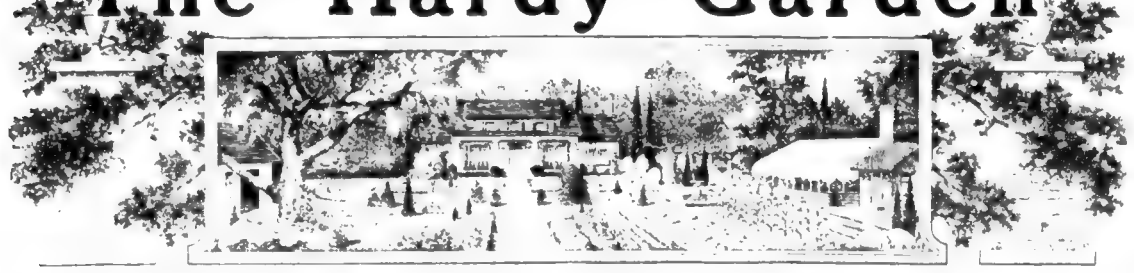
A PINK CANNA.

I have sent you, under separate cover, a canna bloom. Can you tell me if there is a canna that comes nearer being a pink? It grows two and one-half to three feet high and blooms about three weeks before any other varieties I have. The plant is always full of blossoms. It was a scarlet last year, but this year the blooms all came pink and, if it will not go back, I think I have a good canna. T. N.

The flowers were pretty well faded on receipt. The odor is good and the plant should be retained and propagated from. If it does not revert, it will be an acquisition. There are several good cannas of pink shades on the market. Some of these are C. rosea gigantea, Venus, Chamois, Mrs. A. F. Conard and Salmon Queen. C. W.

A PROGRESSIVE PHILADELPHIAN.

To disprove the popular idea of Philadelphia's somnolency, among the first who might be advanced from the florists' trade is the coming president of the Philadelphia Florists' Club, George Burton. If he felt the want of a middle name, "Progressive" would fill the bill to the dot. He is always on the move, and each year finds him ahead of the year before. For instance, last year he was elected vice-president of the Philadelphia club; this year he is the sole nominee for the office of president, equivalent to election. In business he follows the same lines, and the Beauties from his ranges at Chestnut Hill are always in the front of the procession. A little over a year ago he took over the range of his father, John Burton, but the assumption of greater responsibility did not at all slacken his forward tendency.



is the Puget Sound country, and at Bellingham, Wash., are the trial grounds of the United States government devoted to the propagation of bulbs. The climate, tempered largely by the Japanese current, approaches that of Holland as nearly as any on this continent, and the soil seems quite fit for this industry.

Although in terms of import duties it is as far away from the United States as Holland itself, and in terms of freight rates to the leading florists' centers, in the central and eastern states, even farther away, the Holland Bulb Farm, at Royal Oak, near Victoria, B. C., is so close in miles to that part of this country where the bulb growing industry is likely to flourish most that its success may serve as an indication of what may be done on this side of the border. W. J. Van Aalst, proprietor of the Holland Bulb Farm, two views of which are shown on page 15, has been growing bulbs there since 1912 and reports the best of results. He says that for forcing, those grown there are unequaled, and for Christmas use they are even better than the French grown. He further states that the hyacinth bulbs of his section are smaller than those grown in Holland, as the former are grown in a dry soil, but that the quality is better. If the same success with these bulbs can be had on this side of the Canadian border, the reduction in price owing to the absence of duty will enable them to compete seriously with those from across the ocean.

WOERNER WIRE WORKS' OUTING.

The accompanying illustration shows the members of the working force of the Woerner Wire Works, Omaha, Neb., and their families on their annual outing, at Miller park, Omaha. The day was spent in games, baseball, bathing, etc., in which all enjoyed themselves, and a picnic dinner, spread from well-filled baskets brought by the party, added to the day's pleasure.

The Hardy Garden

THE HARDY PERENNIAL GARDEN.

As It Looks in September.

While the hardy herbaceous border is now less attractive than in June, when a wide assortment of plants are in flower, it is more interesting in September than during the last half of July and the first half of August, when, owing to heat and drought, the flowers last but a short time. Now, thanks to copious rains, the display of flowers is varied and attractive. A large number are varieties of robust growth, although some dwarf and medium varieties are still left. Some staking is a necessity at this season; otherwise the borders will present an unkempt and tangled appearance. The hoe should be constantly plied in the borders or nursery rows where hardy perennials are growing. It is better to pull large weeds out by hand. Cleanliness and persistent cultivation will keep the plants in a good growing condition.

Late-flowering Phloxes.

The perennial phloxes are now somewhat past their best, but spring propagated cuttings are just at their best and make a beautiful show. The trusses on these are superior in size to those carried on the older plants. Probably each grower, if consulted, would give a different selection of the best twelve phloxes. I submit a list selected so as to give an assortment of the best colors, taken from 100 varieties: H. Murger, white, crimson center; F. G. Von Lassburg, pure white; R. P. Struthers, rosy carmine, crimson eye; Le Cygne, pure white; Europa, white, crimson-carmine eye; Elizabeth Campbell, beautiful salmon pink; Frau Anton Buchner, pure white; Rheinlander, salmon pink; Siebold, bright scarlet, an improved Coquelicot; Le Mahdi, reddish purple, the best blue shade to date; G. A. Strohlein, scarlet, carmine eye; Esperance, mauve, white center.

Fall is the best time to plant phloxes, the middle of October being about the best date. Fall planting insures much finer spikes than when the work is delayed until spring.

Michaelmas Daisies.

The asters, or Michaelmas daisies, are now making a grand show and will continue to bloom for some weeks. In fact, one or two sorts will persist until November. There are some beautiful hybrids of these, of English raising, which show decided improvement on the old sorts. Those who have never grown any of these newer sorts should try a few. They will be found attractive as border plants and useful for cutting at this season. Here are a dozen good asters, some rather old, others of recent introduction: Beauty of Colwall, pale blue, semi-double, height four feet; Feltham Blue, aniline blue, three and one-half feet; White Queen, pure white, four feet; Starlight, dark blue, fading pale blue; Novi-Belgii Perry's Pink, much branched reddish pink, four feet; Novi-Belgii Robert Parker, pale blue, three feet; lævis floribunda, pale heliotrope, two to three feet; ericoides Enchantress, light blue, three feet; cordifolius magnificus, large lavender flowers, three feet; Novæ-Angliæ rosea, pink, four to five feet.

Fall planting suits all the asters. They require frequent division, as they increase in size rapidly. Anyone who has never raised any from seed should purchase a packet from a really good strain and he will get a wonderful variety of beautiful forms. Seed sown in spring will produce strong blooming plants the following year.

Aconitums or Monkshoods.

The aconitums or monkshoods are tall, stately perennials, loving a deep, cool, moist soil. They do much better near the seashore than inland. I have seen rows eight to nine feet high with wonderful branched spikes, something unattainable under more arid conditions. A. Napellus, dark blue, is still the best variety, although A. Napellus bicolor, blue and white, is distinct and beautiful. A. autumnale, dark blue, is particularly adaptable to planting in shady locations. The new A. Wilsoni, from northern China, grows six feet high and carries deep blue flowers. A. Fischeri is the dwarfest of all the monkshoods, attaining a height of only two and one-half feet. PUBLICATIONS RECEIVED.

["Growing Bulbs for Winter and Spring Blooming," by Maurice Fuld. Published by the Knight & Struck Co., New York. Seventy-eight pages. Price, $1.]

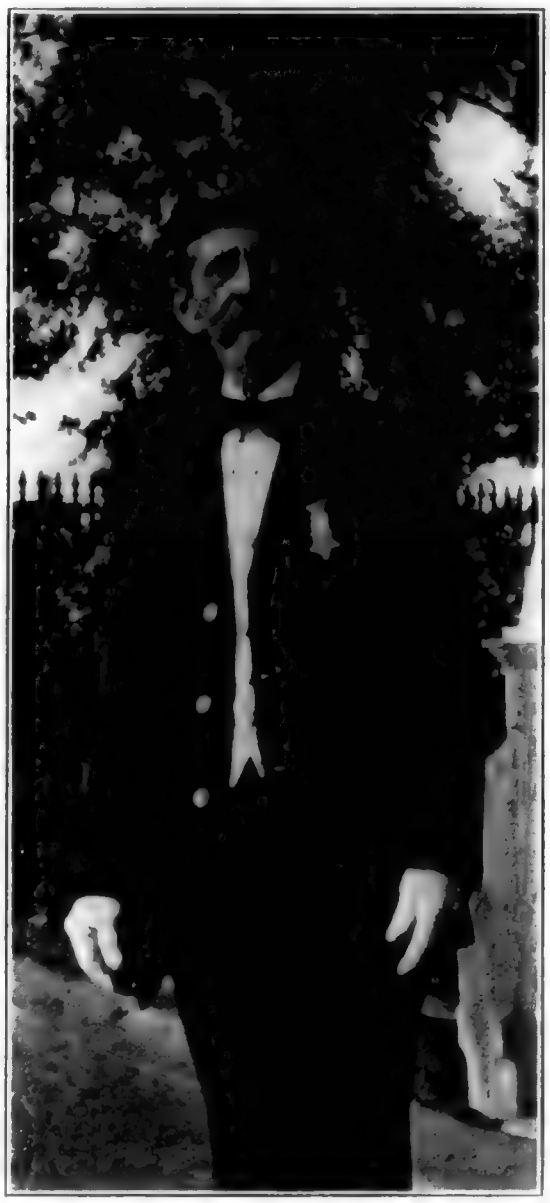
There is no room for doubt as to the fact that this book was intended for the non-commercial rather than the commercial grower, for Mr. Fuld himself states in the preface that he has "treated the subject solely for the benefit of the amateur." Yet it frequently happens that little fragments of elementary truth, essential to complete success, have escaped the attention even of the grower who is in the business for money alone, and such a book as this is not unlikely to contain some of these important, fundamental little items of knowledge. The book should be complete in its way, for the author says that he "wants it to serve those who know absolutely nothing on the subject, as well as others more experienced." The language used is clear and the matter is well arranged with a view to convenience of reference.

With his usual enthusiasm, Mr. Fuld says in one of his introductory pages: "It is my aim to make this story so attractive and so complete that those who read must try the experiment and those who try it must succeed." It would seem, then, that if Mr. Fuld has been able to make his theme as fascinating as he hoped, many practical florists might be tempted to read the book for recreation if not for solid profit.

FERTILIZERS FOR LAWNS.

What fertilizers do you recommend for lawns besides stable manure and bone meal? F. A. P.

I do not recommend the use of stable manure in any form for lawns, as it brings such a host of noxious weeds with it. If used at all, let it be quite old and well decomposed. Sheep manure, in spite of all we hear about its being kiln-dried, is weedy. A single pound taken at random by the Massachusetts Agricultural College experts was found to contain 4,600 weed seeds, some of them extremely noxious ones. Sometimes we will get a nice crop of lawn grass after broadcasting sheep manure on a greenhouse bench, which shows that it is much alive even if kiln-dried. Quite recently a representative of one of the humus companies told me confidentially that they were selling large quantities of humus to sheep manure dealers, the inference being that it was used for adulteration. Better, therefore, get an analysis of any sheep manure you buy.



Bone is a good lawn fertilizer; so, also, is wood ashes. I have used bone ash phosphate with gratifying results. All dealers in chemical fertilizers have a special brand for use on lawns. Superphosphate of lime and fine bone give lawns a good appearance. If you want to use stable manure, lay it outdoors, mix it with several times its bulk of good loam, turn it several times, throwing it into a large round pile, screen before using and you will have a good and tolerably clean fertilizer. At present, in the amateur gardening papers, humus is being boomed as a lawn fertilizer and strong claims are made for its magical effects on grass. While humus is valuable in all soils, I have found that as a lawn dressing it is worth little. C. W.

DOUBLY A VETERAN.

As well as being a veteran of the florists' trade, William J. Baker, the Philadelphia wholesaler, is also a veteran of the Grand Army of the Republic, and it is in the latter capacity that he is shown in the illustration on this page. He served in the Twenty-third Pennsylvania regiment during the Civil war, and was in the thick of the fight at Gettysburg fifty-one years ago.

TO EXTERMINATE WOOD LICE.

My greenhouses are infested with what appears to be the sow bug, a small gray bug which, when it is struck, curls up like a ball and is hard to kill. It seems that a plank or a piece of wood will bring them underneath it in any amount. Can you give me any information as to what will kill them without injury to the plants? G. R.

William J. Baker.

For wood lice, sometimes called sow bugs, mix a poisoned mash of fresh shorts, molasses and Paris green, letting the Paris green just color the mixture. Drop this about their haunts, where they will eat it greedily. They can be trapped in large numbers by putting a little dry moss in empty flower pots and laying them about their haunts. Potatoes and other root crops or squash, scooped out and laid here and there, make excellent traps. These should be picked up at least twice a day and the pests dropped into a pail of hot water. Water as near boiling as possible can sometimes be used effectively by pouring it over them where they congregate the most. C. W.

BUFFALO, N. Y.

The Market.

Business last week was dull; consequently, a large surplus of stock of all kinds is on the market. Roses, gladioli, asters and Beauties find their way to the rubbish barrels. Gladioli are inferior in quality. America is much smaller in size, both of flower and spike. Prices on these are higher, as the season for them is getting late. Carnations are poor and the supply meager. Roses of all kinds are plentiful. Taft, Ward, Russell, White Killarney, Milady and Key are all in splendid condition. Maryland is getting poorer in quality. Beauties are excellent; the cool weather of the last two weeks has given them a good color and a fall crispness, which they have lacked during the summer. There is a considerable demand for sweet peas, although there are none to be had just now. Asters are good, but there are few of the choice varieties coming into the market. Japanese lilies are still plentiful. These are used in corsage work in combination with valley, yellow statice, heather, etc. Cattleyas are rather scarce and prices high. There are a few Lilium auratum and Harisii to be had. In flowering plants there are a few celosias. These, however, are not especially good sellers, for they are not attractive.

Various Notes.

S. A. Anderson's store has been freshly painted and redecorated, both the front and the store proper. The front has been given a handsome bronze coating, which gives a distinguished tone to the floral displays inside. In the basement, two new sets of lockers have been added. One set is for the ladies and one for the men, each having an up-to-date, hygienic lavatory adjoining the locker rooms. The entire store is being put in readiness for the fall trade.

The opening of the new Hippodrome theater was attended with a big display of baskets and vases of flowers, palms, etc., in which all the downtown florists had a share. Felix Albert did the palm decorating.

James J. Karins, of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, stopped in Buffalo for a few hours on his way west. He reports that business was only fair at the Boston convention.

Wm. F. Kasting has just returned from a motor trip, which included Old Orchard, Me., the White mountains and the Adirondacks. His son, Wm. F. Kasting, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Asmus, of Chicago, accompanied him on the trip.

The store of Joseph Sangster was recently remodeled and redecorated. The woodwork is white enamel throughout and the wall covering is a soft pearl gray. Projecting shelves run the entire length and breadth of the store, making a splendid place for the display of baskets, jars, vases, etc. Two deep-set windows finished in leaded glass add a distinctive feature to the sides of the store. The same leaded glass is used in the cases used for ribbons. The tops of the counters are covered with Carrara glass, which gives the store an immaculate aspect. A Grecian seat, in imitation old ivory, adds an artistic touch to the salesrooms. An old-fashioned clock with a brass dial and round disks to mark the hour instead of Members and Friends of the Danville Florists' Club on their First Annual Outing at Barlow Park, August 20.

Roman numerals is a unique feature. The floors and windows are beautifully tiled in white and green. The indirect lighting is effective. The store is a model of neatness and one of the most modern and attractive stores in Buffalo. The owner, Joseph Sangster, is progressive and has every assurance for a bright future.

Wm. Palmer returns this week from Muskoka lakes, where he has been spending the summer.

Ed. Stroh is in the Adirondack mountains.

There is a little anxiety felt by the leading florists here about baskets, which are used so extensively for debutantes during the winter, as all the finer ones are imported from Germany. Several florists have said they would use up their stock on hand and when that is exhausted sell something else, such as old-fashioned bouquets, Beauties, etc. The war, therefore, has no terrors for them, so far as baskets are concerned. There will be a way of doing without other articles, such as bulbs, crepe paper, immortelles, etc., by substituting something else for the article required. E. C. A.

GRAND RAPIDS.

The Market.

We are having abnormally cold weather, with here and there a touch of frost on low ground. Carnations are nearly all in and attention now is being given all outside stock that either has to come inside or from which a crop of cuttings is to be made.

Business is of a summer quietness, although July and part of August were busy with funeral work without intermission. Speculation about the arrival of Dutch bulbs is being dissipated now that Paper Whites and Romans have arrived and assurances have been received that the tulips and hyacinths will be shipped soon. Some have expressed the opinion that if we did not get a Dutch bulb of any kind it would be a blessing to the trade, as customers would take something else if bulbous flowers were not to be had. Lucky indeed is the florist who has a quantity of azaleas on hand, left over from last winter. There are many in town.

There are few carnations to be had, but any number of roses and outside flowers, zinnias, delphiniums, coreopsis, gaillardias, marigolds and many other similar flowers, to all of which the flower buying public takes kindly, preferring them to roses, lilies or carnations.

The Fair Flower Show.

Last week the annual West Michigan Fair was held, closing September 7. The exhibits and concessions were fewer than ever before. The fruit and flower hall was the best and fullest on the grounds. Of flowers the exhibitors were Henry Smith, Crabb & Hunter Floral Co. and Eli Cross. As usual, the supreme effort was made on the designs, as all covet the honor of carrying off the blue ribbon on the big piece. Crabb & Hunter had a large wreath of magnolia leaves trimmed with red roses and valley on a 6-foot standard. The base was composed entirely of red roses. Henry Smith had an American flag, about 2½x3½ feet. There was a 6-inch border of white roses and maidenhair ferns around it. The groundwork was white carnations, and above this was the outline of the flag in wavy lines, white and red carnations alternating; staff, red carnations; cords, blue cornflowers; groundwork for the stars, solid blue cornflowers with a small white flower for stars. Altogether it was a most artistically made piece. Eli Cross had a fine 3½-foot broken wheel, the rim made solid with pink rosebuds, the spokes with white buds. The hub was of pink buds with four Easter lilies. Crabb & Hunter won first prize, Henry Smith second and Eli Cross third. For fancy basket, Henry Smith was first with American Beauties, Crabb & Hunter second with Sunburst, and Eli Cross third with pink buds. In plants Henry Smith captured the coveted blue ribbon with the best collection ever put up at our local show. Crabb & Hunter were second and Eli Cross third. The rest of the premiums were distributed as follows:

Palms, collection twenty-five—Henry Smith, first; Eli Cross, second.
Single specimen palm—Henry Smith, first; Eli Cross, second.
Single Araucaria excelsa—Eli Cross, first; Crabb & Hunter, second.
Collection of ferns—Crabb & Hunter, first; Eli Cross, second.
Specimen fern—Crabb & Hunter, first; Henry Smith, second.
Six Asparagus plumosus—Crabb & Hunter, first; Eli Cross, second.
Two Asparagus Sprengeri—Henry Smith, first; Eli Cross, second.
Collection Rex begonias—Henry Smith, first; Crabb & Hunter, second.
Ten fuchsias—Henry Smith, first; Crabb & Hunter, second.
Collection flowering and foliage begonias—Henry Smith, first; Crabb & Hunter, second.
Collection of tuberous begonias—Henry Smith, first.
Collection double geraniums—Eli Cross, first; Crabb & Hunter, second.
Collection single geraniums—Crabb & Hunter, first.
Collection fancy foliage geraniums—Crabb & Hunter, first; Henry Smith, second.
Collection fancy caladiums—Henry Smith, first.
Collection abutilons—Crabb & Hunter, first; Henry Smith, second.
Collection coleus—Eli Cross, first; Crabb & Hunter, second.
Collection dracænas—Henry Smith, first; Crabb & Hunter, second.
Collection crotons—Henry Smith, first; Crabb & Hunter, second.
Display of cut roses—Henry Smith, first; Eli Cross, second; Crabb & Hunter, third.
Display of American Beauties—Henry Smith, first; Eli Cross, second; Crabb & Hunter, third.
Display of gladioli—Henry Smith, first; Eli Cross, second; Crabb & Hunter, third.
Display of asters—Henry Smith, first; Crabb & Hunter, second; Eli Cross, third.
Display of dahlias—Henry Smith, first; Crabb & Hunter, second; Eli Cross, third.
Display of cannas—Henry Smith, first; Crabb & Hunter, second; Eli Cross, third.

The florists staged exhibits far superior to anything they ever put up before and we expect to see something much better next year. G. F. C.

DANVILLE FLORISTS' OUTING.

So successful was the first outing of the Danville Florists' Club that members are now looking forward to annual events of the same kind. The members and their families assembled in the square at Danville on the morning of August 20 and went by automobile to Barlow park, where the day was spent in games and sports of various kinds. The florists' wives provided a most enjoyable picnic dinner. The illustration on this page shows how the enthusiastic picnickers looked to the camera man.

GRIFFIN, GA.

The writer had the pleasure, recently, of visiting Griffin, Ga., and was much surprised at the changes that have been made at Jesse T. Ellis' place in the last year. Griffin is a city of some 8,000 or 10,000 and Mr. Ellis has the local florists' trade all to himself. He had always carried on the business without greenhouses till last fall. On calling at his place a year ago, I saw outdoor benches of carnations that were looking well and beginning to bloom and Mr. Ellis told me that he was thinking of enclosing these, but I was surprised to see the two good houses, each something like 200 feet long, that he has at present. One of them is more of a sash house, but it is well filled with chrysanthemums and pot plants. The other is filled with roses and they were a mass of blooms, too. The carnations are in outdoor benches again, and it looks as though there might be another house soon.

Mr. Ellis says, however, that he is hesitating about building, as the war has made the cotton situation uncertain. His business depends, of course, on the financial prosperity of the community, and as the cotton growers are not able to market their product at all, he is just awaiting developments.

He has about a quarter of an acre of roses in the open ground that are blooming wonderfully well. He has no need of houses in the summer as long as he can get such results outdoors. His dahlias, of which he generally grows considerable quantities, are all but a failure this season, as there has been little rain all summer and he was not prepared to irrigate them. The last two summers have proved that dahlias are uncertain in the south if there is no possibility of giving them water. Where that can be done in dry seasons, they do as well here as anywhere I have been. F. B.

CATALOGUES RECEIVED.

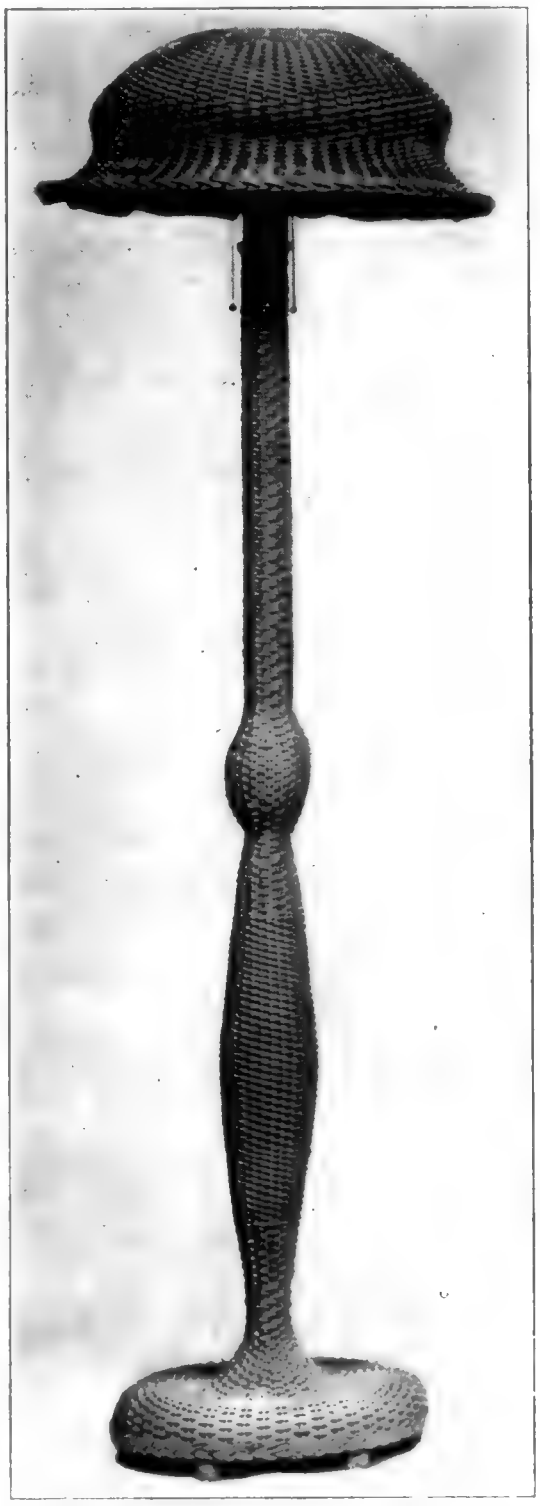
United Refrigerator & Ice Machine Co., Kenosha, Wis.—"Make Flowers Pay the United Way," a finely illustrated catalogue of florists' refrigerators, refrigerator display cases and ammonia compressors, or machines for artificial refrigeration. Among the illustrations are reproductions of photographs of the interior of florists' stores, containing refrigerators and other furnishings installed by the United Co. Other illustrations show completely equipped cooling rooms as constructed by the United Co. for prominent florists. Some of the pictures are colored, so as to indicate more clearly certain styles of finish.

Otto Katzenstein & Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Seeds of trees and shrubs, including conifers and forest-grown trees; also herbaceous seeds and roots.

H. Cannell & Sons, Eynsford, Kent, England.—List of bulbs, miscellaneous bulbous roots and plants, roses, garden requisites, insecticides, fertilizers, etc.; sixteen pages, illustrated.

Peter Henderson & Co., New York, N. Y.—"Henderson's Autumn Catalogue," a well illustrated list of seeds, bulbs, plants, roots, hardy shrubs and perennials, small fruits, implements, sashes, frames, jardinieres, fertilizers, etc.; eighty pages and colored cover.

Lord & Burnham Co., New York, N. Y.—"A Memory Jogger," an illustrated folder of unique design, showing ventilating machinery, boilers, pipe hangers, automatic headers and other greenhouse fittings.



Fottler, Fiske, Rawson Co., Boston, Mass.—Special autumn wholesale list of seeds, bulbs, fertilizers, glazing appliances, insecticides and plant stakes; sixteen pages, in convenient shape for the pocket.

Good & Reese Co., Springfield, O.—Fall wholesale catalogue, containing lists of roses, peonies, phloxes, ferns, hydrangeas, geraniums, miscellaneous plants and bulbs; forty pages, half of which are devoted to roses, with an alphabetical index of all the roses offered.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.

There were a number of professional exhibits at the New York state fair this week, and so large a display by amateurs that it overtaxed the space. There is a general demand that a new building be provided for the flowers, fruits and vegetables. Julian T. Duquette was superintendent of the flower show, with J. J. Dooley as assistant. Walter Stillman, the Rhode Island dahlia grower, made a fine exhibit, and Henry Youell, of this city, had a handsome exhibit of gladioli. James Vick's Sons, of Rochester, showed a large collection of asters, including a novelty named Imperial Salmon. Local retailers competed for the prizes for designs and the local growers set up good displays of cut flowers.

Wm. F. Kasting, of Buffalo, called a meeting of the State Federation of Floral Clubs, of which he is president, for September 2, on the fair grounds, at which action was taken in behalf of a new building for horticultural exhibits and to obtain the long delayed legislative appropriation for floricultural equipment at the state experiment station at Ithaca.

Mrs. Smith's Trophy.

MRS. SMITH'S SUCCESS.

Possibly Mrs. George W. Smith, wife of the well-known Cleveland wholesale florist, proprietor of the Cleveland Florists' Exchange, was the proudest winner in the convention sports at Fort Warren, for she proved the fleetest of the married women and became the owner of the handsome lamp shown in the accompanying illustration. The trophy was presented to the outing committee by H. Bayersdorfer, of Philadelphia, who selected it for its beauty, its value being not so considerable as to make it inappropriate among the large number of other prizes offered.

OBITUARY

Olaf Peterson.

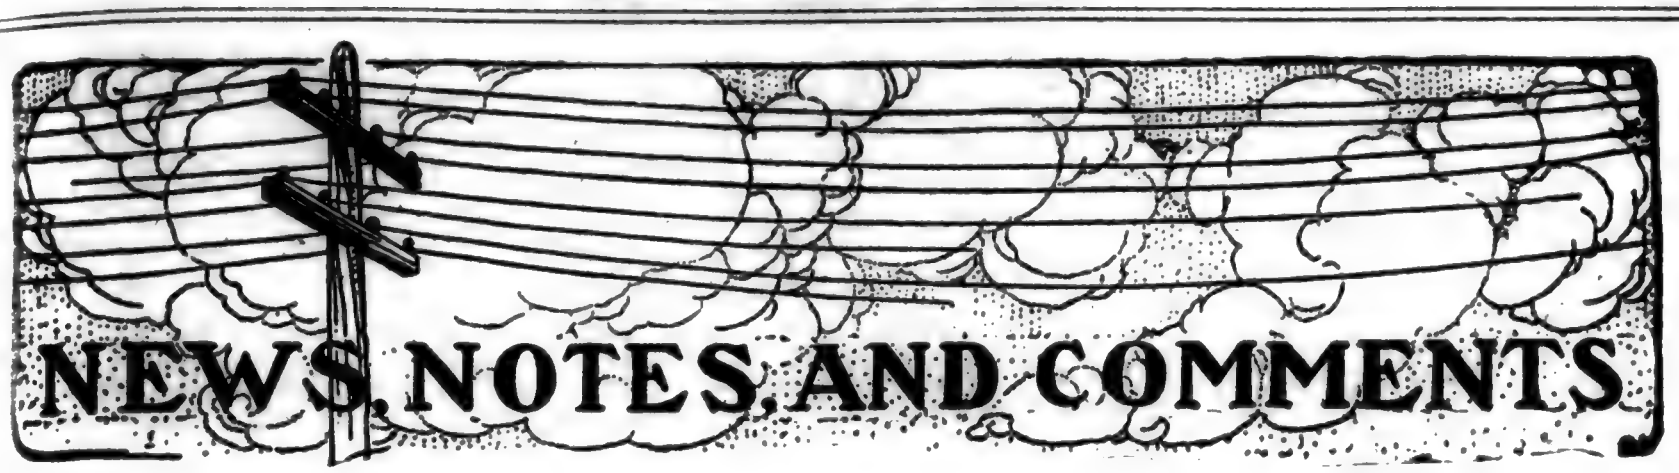
Olaf Peterson died at his home at Round Lake, N. Y., August 29, after a lingering illness. He had been a resident of Round Lake for fifteen years and his sterling qualities of character and strict attention to business made him many friends. He was a native of Denmark and his only surviving relatives in this country are his wife and one nephew. He was a member of several fraternities in Ballston.

Thomas Pepperdine.

Within a few months after he had sold the Chatsworth Greenhouses, which he had conducted for a number of years, to William Edwards, of Freeport, Ill., Thomas Pepperdine, of Chatsworth, Ill., died Monday evening, August 17. He had been quite ill for some time with bronchial trouble, but seemed to be on the road to recovery, when a sudden attack, affecting an already weak heart, caused his death. Mr. Pepperdine was born in England, April 4, 1849, and came to the United States when 19 years of age. Interment was in Forrest cemetery.

Hiram T. Jones.

Hiram T. Jones, of Elizabeth, N. J., whose physical breakdown and business difficulties recently were reported in The Review, died quite unexpectedly at his home August 26. He was a native of Illinois, born in 1855. In his early years he was in the nursery business in Geneva and Rochester, starting at Elizabeth in 1890 and doing a prosperous business until his health failed. The business will be closed out by the widow.



P. R. Quinlan.

The death is recorded of P. R. Quinlan, of Syracuse, N. Y., which took place August 27. Mr. Quinlan was born in county Tipperary, Ireland, April 6, 1846, and came to this country in 1857. His parents settled in Syracuse, and the young man completed his education in the public schools. He spent one year in the employ of Cowles & Warren, proprietors of the Highland Nurseries, and in 1862 entered the employ of W. B. Smith, for whom he became foreman. In 1886 Mr. Quinlan purchased of Smith & Powell a half interest in their business, conducting it under the name P. R. Quinlan & Co. Later extensive greenhouses were built at Onondaga Valley to supply the store in Syracuse.

Mr. Quinlan was prominent in politics and was a member of many secret societies. He was associated with Charles M. Warner in the asphalt business, the company being the Warner-Quinlan Asphalt Co., of Central American fame. Mr. Quinlan had traveled extensively. He leaves a widow and two daughters.

South Bethlehem, Pa.—Conrad Bender has nearly completed an extension to and the general renovation of his greenhouses.

Schenevus, N. Y.—S. M. Flint, who has conducted a florists' business here for several years, has sold his greenhouses and equipment to Frank Snyder, who will move them to his lot on Church street.

Wenatchee, Wash.—Mr. and Mrs. Leon J. Milot, of the Milot-Mills Co., are the parents of a bouncing boy, born September 3.

Calgary, Alberta.—W. D. Emery was married in Spokane, Wash., August 27. Beatrice MacLaughlin, of this city, was the bride.

Council Bluffs, Ia.—Industrial floats were entered by J. F. Wilcox & Sons and Herman Bros. Co. in the floral parade, August 31, in connection with the carnival.

Absecon, N. J.—The spring drought is given as the cause of this season's unfavorableness for the flower growing industry in this part of the state by Edward L. Libby.

Leroy, Ill.—Although the greenhouse and property of L. L. Fry were advertised for public sale, these were not put up for sale, but will be retained by Mr. Fry for the present.

Yellow Springs, O.—Howard Custer Brown was married August 26 to Miss Mary Alice Metzner, of Mechanicsburg. The wedding took place at the home of the bride, in Mechanicsburg.

Shenandoah, Ia.—The work of erecting the new flower store of O. B. Stevens is now in actual progress, and everything is expected to be ready for use by the time fall business becomes heavy.

Houston, Tex.—R. A. Lohaus has been appointed receiver for Charles Ehlers, whose petition in bankruptcy was reported in last week's issue of The Review. Mr. Lohaus states that the business will be continued as before.

Media, Pa.—A certificate of incorporation has been filed by Robert Scott & Son, floriculturists, with a capital stock of $15,000. There are three stockholders, Alexander B. Scott, Edward H. Schwartz and Sarah B. Scott, who hold respectively ninety-nine, fifty and one shares of stock, each of $100.

Houston, Tex.—A. E. Dosbaugh and W. Retzer are opening a business, to be known as the Gulf Florist, in the Westheimer building, at Prairie and Caroline streets. They believe that the flower business is growing so rapidly in this city that there is plenty of room for another flourishing store.

Topeka, Kan.—Spontaneous combustion was the cause of the breaking out of a fire in the coal sheds of J. M. Kessler on the night of August 31. All the service buildings were burned to the ground, causing a loss of about $1,000. No insurance was carried, as the hazard was great and the rate extremely high.

Salina, Kan.—Edward Tatro has completed his new range of greenhouses and planted them to carnations. The stock is looking well for this time of the year in Kansas.

San Antonio, Tex.—An amendment has been filed by the San Antonio Floral & Nursery Co. to its incorporation papers, increasing the capital stock from $10,000 to $15,000.

Yankton, S. D.—Additional greenhouses are being erected at the range of the Gurney Seed & Nursery Co., to take care of the company's rapidly increasing greenhouse business.

Stoughton, Wis.—Hartley Criddle is about to erect a residence adjoining his greenhouse on North Monroe street and move the old dwelling to a lot to the west, where it will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Perley Criddle.

Council Bluffs, Ia.—Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hinman moved July 31 into their new home at Twenty-seventh street and Seventh avenue. Mr. Hinman will begin shortly to build several greenhouses as the beginning of another large range.

Baraboo, Wis.—William Toole & Son have commenced the erection of another greenhouse at the range on Pansy Heights. It will be 25x50 feet. E. H. Toole, who took over his brother's interest in the partnership with his father when his brother, W. A. Toole, engaged in an independent business, has sold his interest back to his brother and will resume his studies at the University of Wisconsin, where he expects to specialize in seeds in his botanical work.

Woodsfield, O.—James M. Bishop recently purchased a 200-foot greenhouse at Warwood, W. Va., which will be moved here and erected as an addition to his range on Washington street.

Delavan, Wis.—Joseph Wright has sold his greenhouse, which he owned for nearly thirty years, to W. J. Moxley, who recently purchased the Phoenix Nursery Co. here. It is reported that Mr. Moxley intends to tear down the house and erect a new one near his nursery.

Danville, Ill.—Smiths, the Florists, will move to the store on the corner of Vermilion and North streets, in the Dale building, when the extensive alterations now being made have been completed. A new front is being put on the store and other improvements are being made.

Iowa City, Ia.—A. G. Prince is building two houses, one for carnations and one for chrysanthemums and sweet peas, as well as a lean-to for violets. This will make possible a doubling of the output of carnations and chrysanthemums over former years. Business is pretty good for this time of year, but outdoor crops are badly in need of rain.

Portsmouth, Va.—The large tract of land on Deep Creek boulevard known as the Pickering farm has been purchased by Miss Ethel Only from Frank H. Miller. Miss Only has given a contract for the erection of a $5,000 greenhouse, to be put up immediately, and expects to establish a prosperous retail business as soon as things get under way.

Kankakee, Ill.—In this country it is the French aviators who are doing damage to Germans' property. Andre Houpert, the famous French aviator, after a sensational flight here the day before, attempted an ascension September 1 and was driven by a strong wind directly toward Charles Schafer's greenhouses. He finally struck squarely against the large brick smokestack and narrowly escaped crashing into the greenhouses, gliding to the ground within ten feet of the office.

Union Grove, Wis.—With the incorporation of the Union Grove & Yorkville Greenhouse Co. the activities of the Meredith Flower & Vegetable Co., of Libertyville, Ill., in this section came to an end. The new concern is composed of the local people who were interested by the Libertyville concern in the establishment of a branch in this town. The capital stock is fixed at $30,000, divided into 300 shares of $100 each, and the incorporators are William E. Tucker, John H. Smith and John T. Gittings.

Results bring advertising.
The Review brings results.

THOSE who have valley pips in storage are holding them, either as an insurance or a speculation.

THERE is nothing that so facilitates the success of a business as does the prompt payment of its bills. It takes an effort to accumulate working capital to permit cleaning up one's obligations monthly, but it is worth all it costs.

PLANTSMEN who have had the experience of having shipments lost through the actions of a horticultural inspector outside their own state will be interested in the article, "Who Must Bear the Loss?" in the Nursery Department of this week's issue.

SHOULD the European war be of considerable duration, one of the results no doubt would be that the United States would develop a domestic supply of a large number of trade necessities for which heretofore reliance has been placed on some foreign country.

THERE are those who consider that the automobile has been the strongest obstacle to the growth of the flower business the trade has encountered in the last decade. The family with the auto lives too much outdoors to require many cut flowers during a large part of the year.

INFECTION OF THE HANDS.

I am often troubled with infection upon my hands. Do you think it comes from handling bone meal or nitrate of soda? F. A. P.

Fertilizers containing much potash will take skin from the hands. Bone meal and nitrate of soda should not affect you unless you already have cuts on your hands. Some plants, such as Primula obconica and P. malacoides, frequently cause irritation. If you have been handling these, they may be the guilty parties and not the fertilizers. C. W.

HONORABLE MENTION.

Not a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper. Among those who have this week enrolled themselves for more than one year in advance are:

TWO YEARS.

Ayres Co., S. B., Independence, Mo.
Clody, Edward, Chicago, Ill.
Melde, Henry, Eureka, Cal.

The Review stops coming when the subscription runs out. The new green notice with the last copy tells the story; no bills are run up; no duns sent.

HERE'S PROSPERITY.

It is on the big crops that the trade in the middle west pins its faith in a busy season. Nearly all crops are a record for quantity and the prices received by the farmers are excellent.

The government published, September 8, its estimate of the crops as of September 1. The comparison with the final outturn in 1913 is given in the following table:

Crops.	Sept. 1.	Final 1913.
Winter wheat.....	675,000,000	523,000,000
Spring wheat	221,000,000	240,000,000
All wheat	896,000,000	763,000,000
Corn 2,598,000,000		2,446,000,000

CHICAGO.

The Market.

With Labor day in the past we may consider that the fall season is at hand. Indeed, the arrival of cooler weather last week caused a prompt acceleration in business and September 4 and 5 were much the best days the market has experienced since the tide turned. The first three days of September were about as quiet as anything the market experienced during the summer, but this week brings a quite appreciable increase in the shipping demand. It is the general report that city trade is quiet. Although the retailers agree that the edge has been off for weeks, most of them will admit that the summer has given them about the usual financial results, it having been possible to pick up the stock needed at lower average prices than in previous years, this being specially true of Beauties and roses.

The special feature of the market at present is the abundant supply of first-class roses. The market never has had a longer list of varieties or a larger cut at this season. Heretofore the bulk of the roses have run to short stems, and there still is a plentiful supply of this grade, but the earlier planted houses now are giving some fine long stems. Russell is specially good and an excellent seller. Sunburst and Bulgarie also are fine and in good request, but not at prices one would expect to realize for such good stock. Killarneys show splendid color, almost as good as Killarney Brilliant, which is being cut in considerable quantity. Hadley is seen, but the supply is not large. Ward is not yet in the usual autumn request, because the corsage business has scarcely started. Shawyer has lost

We invite special attention to our

ROSES

A supply that deserves consideration

OUR aim for years has been to maintain a supply of roses of at least a little better quality than can ordinarily be had elsewhere. Quantity has been a second consideration to quality—but we HAVE quantity, and a full list of varieties, including:

SUNBURST

At present the finest long-stemmed stock to be found in the rose market. Ordinarily worth more money than present quotations.

MRS. RUSSELL

A large cut of medium and short stems. The best-selling novelty rose.

MILADY

The leading red. Plenty of medium and short stems.

KILLARNEY BRILLIANT

Excellent quality on short and medium stems.

BULGARIE

A splendid seller. A specially good cut of long, fancy stems.

PINK KILLARNEY WHITE

A large cut of fine stock from young plants.

MRS. WARD

RICHMOND

Fine flowers cut from young plants.

some of its lead because of the improvement in Killarney. Beauties are abundant in all lengths and there has been a marked improvement in the quality.

Each day brings an increase in the supply of carnations. This flower sells probably as well as anything on the list, because of the scarcity of good asters. Shipments from New York have begun to arrive and generally are better than the local cut of asters.

The principal change and only scarcity in the market is in valley and cattleyas. It seems that the forcers of valley made a sharp reduction, soon after the war broke out, in the number of pips started in their periodical batches and that this reduction is just now beginning to have its full effect. There has been a sharp curtailment in the supply during the last week and prices naturally are stiff. There has been no special change in cattleyas this week. The heavy crops went off some time ago, but the demand is only just beginning to awaken. Sometimes it is difficult to pick up any considerable number of cattleyas.

Easter lilies continue one of the overabundant items. The local supply is reinforced by large arrivals from distant points. There has been a considerable increase in the daily receipts of chrysanthemums and first-class Golden Glow now are regularly available, with smaller supplies of the early white, Smith's Advance. They sell fairly well. Gladioli are distinctly on the down grade, both as to quality and quantity.

The supply of green goods is equal to all requirements. There is a practically full line, boxwood having arrived.

The market observed Labor day more generally than ever before. Many houses closed promptly at 12 o'clock and most of them locked the doors as soon as the orders were out.

Muir Closes Downtown.

John T. Muir closed his store at 29 East Monroe street September 5, after having operated there for approximately six months. Before the completion of the Goddard building Mr. Muir made a lease on the store, 17x31, with basement space of 2,000 square feet, for ten years at a term rental at that time reported to be $90,000. The store was ready for occupancy May 1, 1913, but Mr. Muir, who then had two stores on the south side, did not open the downtown store for nearly a year. Since then he has sold his old stand on Michigan avenue and now will consolidate his interests at the store at Grand boulevard and Forty-seventh street. In real estate circles it is reported that following the cancellation of Mr. Muir's lease the store was rented to a postcard firm for ten years at a term rental of $75,000.

Various Notes.

H. C. Rowe announces that he will be ready to open his new store at 160 Wabash avenue by September 15.

A. L. Vaughan reports the arrival of the first of the new season's boxwood.

C. A. Samuelson has returned from a summer's trip to his orchard interests in Idaho and has tackled the fall business with renewed enthusiasm.

Alex. Henderson has reached home after an even more eventful European trip than he anticipated. War was declared while he was on the water.

P. C. Schupp reports that the first mums at the J. A. Budlong establishment are ready earlier this year than usual. He is looking for a good season, as most of the stock is shipped into the middle west.

High-Grade Floral Publicity

224 South Michigan Avenue

Chicago, Illinois

Owing to Labor day coming on the regular meeting date, the Retail Florists' Association held its session at Room 211, Hotel La Salle, on Tuesday evening, September 8. There being some misunderstanding as to the time and place, the meeting was not called to order until late, with about twenty-five members present. In the future the Hotel La Salle will be the meeting place, the first Monday of the month unless otherwise announced.

printing of the two catalogues was held up a few days because of the war, but the lists are now coming out practically without change from earlier plans.

John Mangel says that, while business now is a bit slow all around, he looks for it to pick up shortly and for an unusually good winter.

At Lincoln, Ill., Gullett & Sons have one of their big, new houses planted with roses and the second house in process of planting. The stock will be sold by the E. C. Amling Co. Next season another section of the big plant is to be erected unless conditions change radically.

C. W. McKellar says there was a prompt increase in business the minute the weather turned cool and he looks for a good season.

Fane & Klingel report the arrival, last week, of the first of the annual shipments of asters from western New York. Being of good quality, they sold well.

The annual Luxemburger schobermesse attracted the usual big crowd at Rogers Park Labor day and the Sunday before. All the florists in that section, of whom there are many, attended and three rose growers exhibited. Peter Reinberg, Wietor Bros. and Adam Zender each made displays of roses of unusually good quality for so early in the season and their table was one of the special points of interest in the show. Prizes were awarded and pretty evenly distributed.

The autumn season is open: W. J. Smyth returned September 7 from his summer home at Antioch and resumed his daily duties at the store.

At Wilmette Pyfer & Olsem have 6,000 plants of a rose they have called Red Killarney. It is a sport found on the place, but A. T. Pyfer says it is not distinguishable from Killarney Brilliant.

W. P. Kyle says that if business continues as brisk as it was on the morning of Labor day he will be quite content.

Wm. Wolf, of A. Lange's force, returned September 6 from his vacation, which began with the Boston convention and concluded with a visit to the principal cities on the way home.

Fred Liebermann, who joined the staff of Zech & Mann September 1, says it seems good to be in the market again. In the last couple of years he has been in the retail end, when he was not pitching baseball.

T. E. Waters, in the supply department of Poehlmann Bros. Co., says he returned from the Boston convention disappointed with the business done, but that the results of his exhibit have now begun to be apparent, each day bringing inquiries and orders from those who were merely lookers during the convention week.

John Sinner says a season never promised better than the present for Sinner Bros. Usually they employ eight men during the summer, but this year have had ten, with the result that they have been able to push the work instead of having the work push them.

This is the third and final month of the occupation of Orchestra hall by moving picture shows managed by Lubliner & Trinz. They are doing well and making a profit on the $5,000 per month rental.

George Walther, reporting for Englewood, says there are no changes there, "everybody hanging on tight" and finding the net results of the summer season much the same as usual.

Miss Martha C. Gunterberg is expected home next week. She has been in Maine since the Boston convention.

Charles Abbott, the Crown Point grower, is confined to his home by illness.

The A. L. Randall Co. reports a most satisfactory season in plants, which have been handled in larger quantities than ever before. Field-grown carnation plants are said to be still selling excellently.

Albert T. Hey, of Maywood, had business at Springfield September 5 and spent Sunday with J. F. Ammann at Edwardsville.

The Chicago Florists' Club will open its autumn season tonight, September 10, at the Bismarck.

The Corner Florist, 2901 Cottage Grove avenue, has reopened after being closed during the month of August. Frank F. Storck, who conducts a drug store at 2839 Cottage Grove avenue, is owner, but the shop is managed by Miss Tillie Mayr.

After having been confined to his home last week with a severe cold, Frank Hagen is again on duty at George Reinberg's city store.

K. N. Cooper, manager of the Auburndale Goldfish Co., reports that prices on imported stock have more than doubled on account of the European trouble.

MILWAUKEE.

The Market.

Market conditions show but slight improvement over what they have been for the last month. Business continues light and it is doubtful whether there will be much increase in the month of September.

Carnations are almost out of the market. The new crop is coming in, but in such limited quantities that it is impossible to fill any good sized order. The stock is short-stemmed and the flowers are small. Were there any really good carnations on the market, the stock that is now coming in would have no sale, but, as conditions are, the small cut is selling exceptionally well and bringing good prices. Roses are not so plentiful as heretofore, but the supply is still fairly large and the quality is excellent. Prima Donna, Mrs. Charles Russell and Killarney are the best sellers, although other roses are moving readily. Asters are poor, owing to the long spell of dry weather. While they are selling well, it is mostly because they are replacing the carnations and are therefore not selling on their own merits.

Chrysanthemums are beginning to be seen on the market and are certainly in fine shape. They should do much in a short while toward increasing the sales of the trade in general. Lilies are still plentiful and are moving fairly well. Valley is becoming extremely scarce and orders for them are being turned down in many cases. The real shortage will not be felt until spring, if it is impossible to import the pips this fall as usual.

rists of Milwaukee were treated to an outing under the auspices of the Holton & Hunkel Co. The trip was personally conducted by H. V. Hunkel and included an inspection of this firm's large plant at Brown Deer, Wis. The guests assembled at the Milwaukee Northern terminal, where a special car met and transported them to the greenhouses.

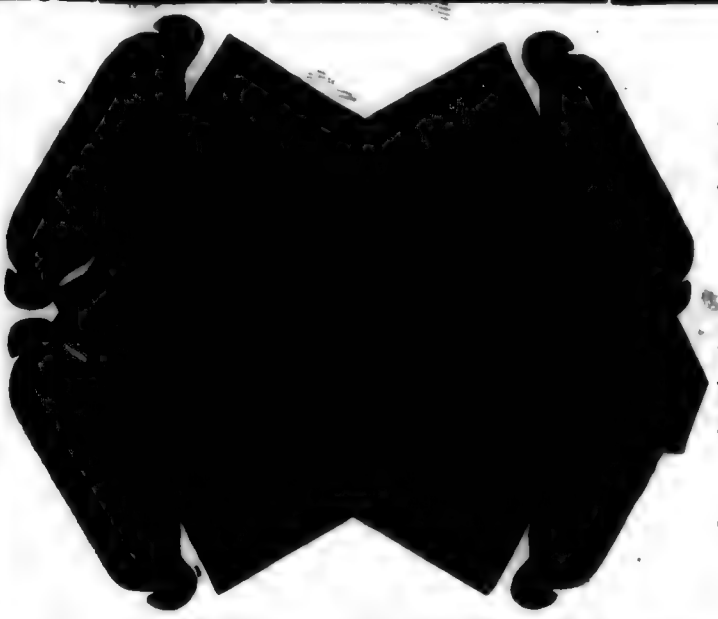
The first houses inspected were those containing Asparagus plumosus, with a large crop of asparagus seed. Next was a house of Asparagus Sprengeri and smilax, which were in fine shape. The visitors then looked over twelve big houses devoted to the growing of roses. This section was particularly interesting, as there is a fine crop of the beautiful Mrs. Charles Russell rose. These houses contain an exceptionally nice lot of Prima Donna, as well as a fine showing of Ophelia. There is also a large assortment of the other varieties, and among these is a big lot of splendid Killarney just coming into crop. Three houses are devoted to chrysanthemums and these were a revelation to the guests. The visitors were then shown twelve houses containing pot plants, such as crotons, pandanus, Boston ferns, kentias, poinsettias, genistas, etc. There were two splendid benches of adiantums and several benches of bouvardia, which were much admired. The frames were next visited and some really excellent stock of cyclamens, primulas, peppers, hydrangeas, etc., were noted. The stock in the field has done finely this year, the Skinner system of watering being used.

The boiler equipment of this establishment is strictly up-to-date and is replete with all modern improvements. There is a chimney 125 feet in height, which provides a fine draft at all times. The plant covers nearly five acres and has approximately 225,000 feet of glass.

The Holton & Hunkel Co. also has another plant in operation, which, while not as large as the ones at Brown Deer, is by no means a small place.

After inspecting this large establishment, the visiting florists were entertained at Keipper's park, where an elaborate dinner was served. After attending to the needs of the inner man, the Florists' Club held a meeting. Bowling was the main enjoyment of the evening and everyone agreed enthusiastically that there was absolutely nothing missing which would make for a good time.

Various Notes.



F. H. Holton and family have returned from an extended stay in the east.

Roy Currie returned August 31 from the convention at Boston.

William Kennedy, with C. C. Pollworth Co., is home again after spending some time in the east on a tour for pleasure and recreation. He visited a great many points of interest while away and attended the Boston convention, picking up some new ideas as well as having a good time.

Adam Zender, of Rogers Park, Ill., accompanied by his son-in-law, R. Windler, of St. Louis, recently spent two days in Milwaukee.

William Lubliner, an enterprising Grand avenue florist, is visiting Chicago. His relatives are in that city,

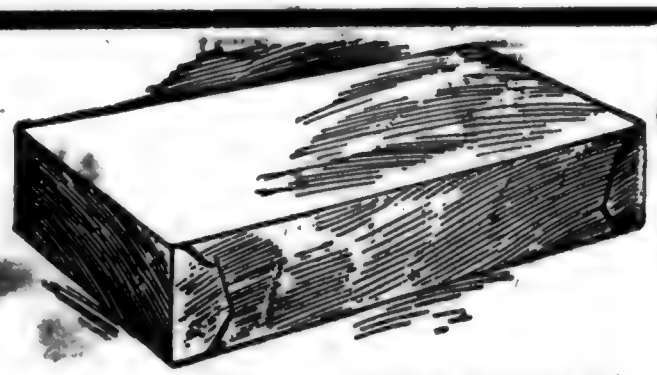
The Market.

When conditions reach their worst an improvement is bound to take place. Trade could hardly have been worse than it has been for some weeks, but rains have spoiled some outdoor flowers and the season for others is passing. It would not be thought, however, on looking over the markets, that receipts were being reduced, but gladioli are steadily decreasing in numbers and the aster tide, now at its flood, must soon recede. A year ago a killing frost September 15 helped indoor flowers, and carnation and rose men would fain see a similar visitation again.

Asters are really of grand quality; some carry 24-inch to 30-inch stems. The prices run from $1 per hundred on extra fancy stock down to a tithe of that sum, and then there is a tremendous surplus. Gladioli have seen their best days and no longer overwhelm the market. The prices rarely go over $1 per hundred for fancy spikes. Roses still are selling poorly; especially is this true of short-stemmed stock. More carnations are coming in, but the flowers are as yet small and cut little figure. Considerable numbers of Golden Glow mums are seen, but there are too many fine asters to permit the mums to sell well. Some October Frost and Bergman also are seen.

Valley sells moderately. Lilies, both longiflorum and speciosum, are much overdone and are low in price. Cattleyas are somewhat scarce. Such flowers as hardy asters, tritomas, cosmos and dahlias give the market a fall-like touch. There is not much call for either ferns or asparagus.



Market Auction.

Clear, crisp skies favored the annual auction sale of stalls at the Boston Cooperative Market, on Devonshire street, September 5, and there was a large and representative gathering of growers and salesmen. W. H. Elliott, in a short address, spoke of the improved market conditions at the new stand and hoped for a good auction sale. Those present gave him every reason to feel well satisfied, as sales were made with a decided snap that surprised some of the pessimists present. W. H. Elliott secured one roomy section for $250 premium; also an additional space for $75. L. E. Small paid $80; John McFarland, $75, and many sales were made over $60, all the best stands being soon taken up.

Over 100 stalls were disposed of and growers are in treaty for several additional ones. Several new growers are included. Everyone was much pleased with the sale. William W. Tailby made an efficient auctioneer. Walter Holden officiated as clerk. The premiums paid are additional to the rental of $25 per annum per stall.

Various Notes.

Albert Roper, of Tewksbury, has his new Hitchings house, 55x217, planted with carnations. He planted his last stock this week. He is already sending in some nice flowers. Miss Alice Coombs, his new gold medal seedling, looks particularly well.

W. D. Howard, of Milford, is growing Matchless and Gorgeous, among the newer carnations. His stock looks first-class and a few flowers are already being picked.

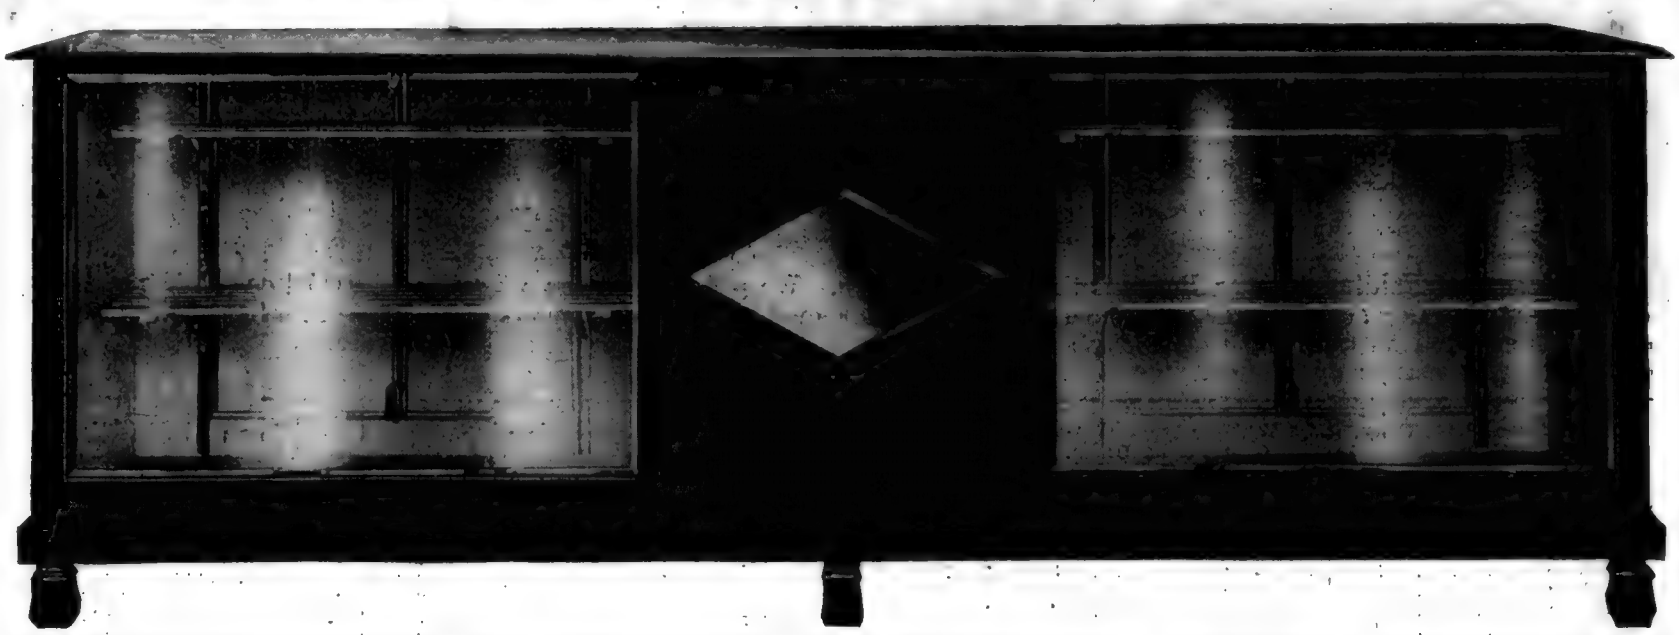
While most of the local growers who have been in the European war zone have reached America, Carl Waldecker, brother of Herman Waldecker, of Braintree, is still marooned over there. Julius Heurlin, of South Braintree, reached home September 1, on the S. S. Colombia, from Glasgow. He experienced few discomforts. Prof. C. S. Sargent, of the Arnold Arboretum, who also returned last week, spent about all his time in England and had no new experiences to relate at all, his talk being mostly arboricultural.

Among the flowers coming from the Marshall Greenhouses, of Providence, R. I., Scotch heather is particularly good; so is the Mexican poppy, or hunnemannia.

W. A. Hastings, of the Flower Exchange, is away on a few weeks' vacation. In his absence George W. Hamer makes an efficient salesman. He disposes of splendid gladioli in choice varieties from the Brooklands Gardens, Woburn.

J. J. Fee, of Jamaica Plain, has received all his Dutch bulbs and has a large proportion of them planted. Mr. Fee is one of our best growers of cold storage longiflorum lilies. In fact, he thoroughly understands the culture of all commercial bulbs.

Frank J. Dolansky showed a fine plant of the true pure white Cattleya Trianæ alba at Horticultural hall September 5. He is already cutting both C. labiata and C. Trianæ.



Among the flowers sent in by Kameyama & Serada, of Stoneham, are nice spikes of the sweet scented Amaryllis Belladonna.

The Montrose Greenhouses are having a nice cut of Sunburst, Killarney, Richmond and Dark Pink Killarney. The last named they do especially well, and buyers take it to be Killarney Brilliant.

J. K. Chandler & Son, of Tewksbury, are among the first firms to send in Chrysanthemum Golden Glow in quantity.

Mann Bros., of Randolph, our largest Dutch bulb specialists, have now received practically all their bulbs for the coming season. They are getting some nice Golden Glow and October Frost chrysanthemums.

William A. Riggs, of Auburndale, has a fine stock of winter-flowering plants in pots. His cyclamens, poinsettias and begonias are specially fine. Mr. Riggs does not expect to receive any azaleas from Belgium and is reconciled to their loss.

At Penn's, business, apart from funeral work, was somewhat quiet last week, although there always is something doing there.

H. M. Robinson & Co. say that a shortage of immortelles, cycas leaves, chiffons and baskets will soon develop, owing to Germany's foreign commerce being sealed up. They think, however, that suitable substitutes can be provided here.

J. W. Simpson, of Woburn, likes Vick's upright aster. He sets his plants 9x12 inches apart and the plants run up erectly instead of spreading out. Plenty of plants carry eighteen to twenty good flowers each, many on 24-inch stems and some even longer.

E. E. Cummings, of Woburn, has six fine houses of cucumbers. He grows a hybrid of his own raising, containing some Telegraph blood. These average sixty-four fruits per bushel box. He follows cucumbers with single violets. Red spider has been troublesome on these during the summer.

A. A. Pembroke, of North Beverly, never had his big carnation houses in finer condition. Matchless looks superb; so do Pink Delight, Gorgeous and other varieties. A good many flowers are already being marketed.

The annual exhibition of products of children's gardens took place at Horticultural hall September 5 and 6 and was a splendid one, filling two halls.

The Boston Cut Flower Co. has increased the size of its office and is making considerable additional improvements in the rear of its store.

Do not forget the meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club, September 15. In lieu of a regular lecture there will be convention echoes, and the experiences of several members lately back from the war zone in Europe.

The Shepard Norwell Co. is the most recent of the big Boston dry goods stores to open a plant and cut flower department. The store is only a few doors from Silverman's, on Winter street.

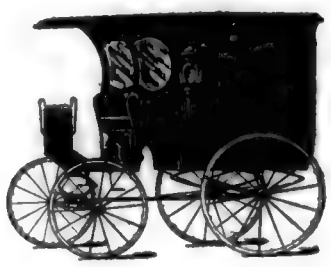
Edward MacMulkin was in a front seat of the automobile which was hit by a passing electric car in North Weymouth August 27, resulting in the death of John A. The party was on its way to the Marshfield fair, where Mr. McCall was to make a campaign speech, when the accident occurred. Mr. MacMulkin was not hurt.



VISITING BERKSHIRE ESTATES.

By invitation of the Lenox Horticultural Society, the committee on gardens of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society spent two days recently visiting fourteen of the notable estates at Lenox and Stockbridge, Mass.

The Allen Winden Farm, an estate of 200 acres, owned by Charles Lanier, was the first place seen. A. H. Wingett is superintendent here, a position which requires a high degree of horticultural skill and knowledge.

Elm Court, the residence of William D. Sloane, was next on the list. This is an estate of 1,000 acres, two of which are devoted to flower gardens. Frederic Heeremans has charge of the grounds and greenhouses.

High Lawn, the residence of W. B. O. Field, came next. George Foulsham is the superintendent in charge. Adjoining this estate is that of George Westinghouse, Edward J. Norman, superintendent.

McCRAY

Florists' Display Refrigerator

The McCray keeps flowers fresh longer than any other. Its system of refrigeration maintains an even temperature of the proper degree for the preservation of cut flowers and entirely eliminates the great loss that is caused by imperfect refrigeration.

The McCray is built to permit an attractive and inviting display of your flowers, its various compartments being of different sizes to accommodate the different lengths of cut flowers.

The interior linings are of either opal glass, bevel plate mirror or white enamel and are very handsome and easy to clean. The exterior may be of any finish desired to match the interior of your woodwork or other fixtures.

The handsome appearance of the McCray is an improvement to any store and is a great stimulant for increased sales and pleased customers. Investigate the McCray and ascertain why they are the best for florists.

White Lodge, occupied by A. R. Shattuck, is an estate comprising 125 acres, a good deal of it in woodland. The extensive grounds are well planned and arranged with great artistic effect. Alexander McLeod has charge.

Bellefontaine Gardens, the home of Giraud Foster, is an estate of about 200 acres, in charge of Edwin Jenkins.

Next came Wyndhurst, the estate of William E. S. Griswold, comprising 400 acres. Alfred Loveless is superintendent.

Blantyre, the residence of R. W. Patterson, is an estate of 250 acres, in charge of Thomas Proctor. It presents a beautiful example of landscape gardening, with well-arranged groupings of trees.

The estate of Miss Adele Kneeland, of twelve acres, showed the hand of an enthusiastic expert in flower gardening. Alfred Etherington is head gardener.

The visiting committee consisted of J. K. M. L. Farquhar, president of the society and chairman of the garden committee; William P. Rich, secretary; William J. Stewart, Jackson Dawson, William Nicholson, A. H. Fewkes, D. R. Craig, T. D. Hatfield, Robert Cameron, Charles W. Parker and M. H. Norton. The visitors were hospitably entertained by the Lenox Horticultural Society, several of whose officers acted as guides to the various estates.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

Benedict Gibbs asserts that the dahlias that have reached the market during the last six weeks are unseasonably early. They keep poorly in hot weather, but now, with cooler nights, the flowers are improving and better things are expected. Asters are mainly of good quality. With the really splendid gladioli and roses the market is supplied with a tempting assortment of staples as well as with a variety of other flowers.

The close of the first week of September was disappointing. The second week opened a little better, despite the generally observed Labor day half holiday. Prices are low and irregular, about what might be expected with hot weather and many flower buyers still absent from home.

Dahlias.

Leo Niessen paid a visit to the Peacock Dahlia Farm at Williamstown Junction, N. J., recently. He found fifty acres of dahlias under cultivation, all in splendid shape. The crops have been timed to come in heavily next week, continuing until the end of the season. The facilities for handling the cut blooms have been improved by the addition of a packing shed and room for hardening the blooms to the extent

The Floral Calendar.

William G. Stephen always began to tell about the umpteen dozen Beauties he was selling during the second week of September, so that seems an appropriate time to give the floral calendar for the coming season. The importance of this calendar can not be exaggerated, for a crop of flowers or plants that is too late is a serious loss and several of them may mean ruin.

Myers & Samtman, of Chestnut Hill, have installed one new boiler, 5½x18 feet, making seven boilers in one battery. They have added fifteen feet to their smokestacks and displaced their wooden boiler shed with a concrete and steel structure, covered by a steel and asbestos roof.

August Doemling has returned from his visit to his native land, Germany, to his home in Lansdowne, Pa. Mr. Doemling took the precaution of taking his naturalization papers with him. They enabled him to set sail from Rotterdam instead of serving in the Kaiser's great army—a mighty good thing for the roses at Lansdowne, though bad for the Kaiser.

Clarence J. Watson has accepted the position of manager of the Washington branch of the S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co.

Andalusia is sending a showy assortment of perennials to grace the windows of the Henry F. Michell Co.

C. D. Mills, of Jacksonville, Fla., passed through this city on his way to New Hampshire, from whence he was lately recalled by the sad death of his brother.

The vice-president of the St. Louis Seed Co. was here recently. Mr. Hummert saw much of interest in our seed houses.

William Swayne, of Kennett, Pa., is visiting his relatives in California.

Frank P. Gaul returns to this city to take charge of the new venture of Frank M. Ross, on Fifty-second street near Walnut.

J. Otto Thilow has taken his daughter to Yellowstone park.

Sydney H. Bayersdorfer arrived home from Europe September 8, one week earlier than expected. He came by way of Rotterdam. The tourists in Lucerne chartered a special train to take them from Switzerland through Germany to Holland. Mr. Bayersdorfer says they suffered little discomfort and were most courteously treated in Germany.

Wm. P. Craig left for the west September 8.

The Market.

Business is still quiet, although apparently there is a firmer tone to it than there was at the last writing. The supply continues greater than the limited market can absorb, and so the crowded condition of the market and the low prices continue.

Good roses are abundant, compared to the limited call for them. The list includes American Beauties, Killarneys, My Maryland, Taft, Shawyer, Sunburst, Ward, Ivory and Richmond. Maryland, Taft, Shawyer, Sunburst and Ivory are the best, so far as quality is concerned, the last named being the best white in the market at this time.

Carnation receipts are a little heavier than they were a fortnight ago. The best blooms are those from the new cut under glass. Some fair cuts from the field, too, are offered. Lilies continue plentiful and of the best quality. Rubrums are also abundant. Valley has a limited call.

Asters and gladioli are both in larger supply than is necessary for market needs. Some fine stock in each of them is coming into the market. Other offerings include orchids, dahlias, tuberoses and a small quantity of early cosmos. The supply of greens is adequate.

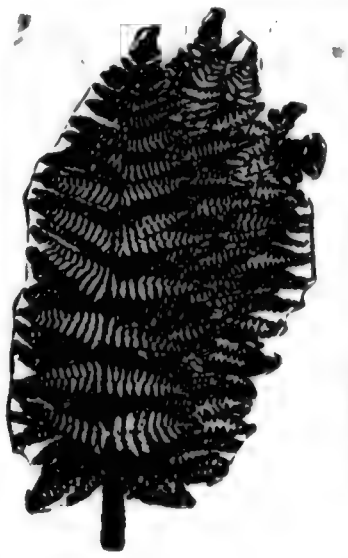
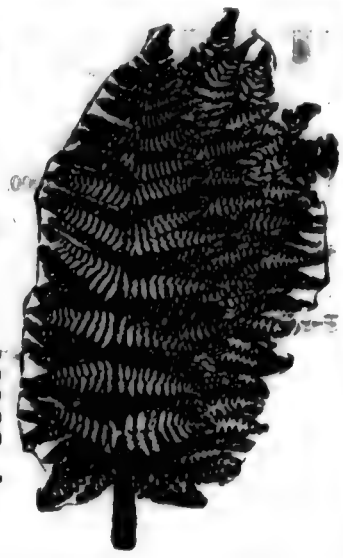
The Market.



There has been a marked change in the temperature and it is hoped that the cooler weather will stimulate trade. Business has been exceptionally quiet, as funeral work has been quite slack. The supply of gladioli is decreasing, but there still are far more of these flowers than the market will absorb. There is also quite an overproduction of asters. Carnations of the new crop are of good quality and the next few days should find these in fine shape. There is little or no demand for gardenias or orchids, as these are distinctly society flowers and the season has not as yet opened. Roses are plentiful and fairly good, but they are in little demand in better than the 2-cent grade. A large quantity of Easter lilies poured into the market last week, offered at low prices.

Mr. Schmid Entertains.



Fully 150 florists and members of the Kallipolis Grotto, Mystic Order of the Enchanted Realm, a Masonic organization, were the guests of Edward S. Schmid, September 1, at the crab feast annually tendered by him. This was the most successful feature on the calendar of the Florists' Club and, as said by William F. Gude during the hour devoted to speech-making, these affairs do much toward bringing the florists closer together and promoting a general good-fellowship. There were all the crabs that the guests could eat, together with the fixin's and liquid refreshments. The ball was started by President George H. Cooke, when, with a few well chosen words, he turned the gavel over to Mr. Schmid and that gentleman bade the guests to fall to.

The repast was given in the spacious conservatory at the store of Fred H. Kramer. A long line of tables occupied the center of the conservatory, decorated with large vases of roses. In one corner of the room a piano was placed and this was worked overtime while the florists sang popular songs and those representative of the southland. M. C. Ebel delivered an able lecture. Mr. Gude spoke of the gratifying way in which the florists throughout the country are coming to the support of the Smith memorial project, stating that his committee has already received cash contributions to the extent of $1,750, with pledges amounting to more than $2,000. Richard Vincent, Jr., of White Marsh, also a member of the committee, asked the support of all in this work.

There was amateur and professional vaudeville, but the climax was reached late in the evening when the entire troupe of players from one of the local theaters entered the doors.

Various Notes.

Hardy Pritchard, with Gude Bros. Co., made the trip to New York last week with the Washington American League Baseball Club, being one of a party of about thirty players and guests. Mr. Pritchard is an ardent baseball fan and has made other trips with the club.

Frank P. Gall spent the week end in Philadelphia, his old home town, where Mrs. Gall is spending her vacation.

Mr. Firth, of Boston, was a visitor here last week.

The store of Leapley & Meyer, on G street, northwest, will take on an attractive appearance following the completion of the general overhauling under which it is now going. This firm is planning to increase its retail seed business. They report their asters coming along in fine shape.

In connection with a scarehead advertisement in the daily papers, F. H. Kramer last week had an appropriate "war" window display. Bulbs in their original packages and cases, with a large photograph of the steamship in which they were transported from abroad, were featured.

October 1 has been selected as the day on which the members of the Florists' Club will visit the annual dahlia and canna show held by Richard Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co., at White Marsh, Md. Mr. Vincent has informed the club that a special train will be run by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad for the convenience of the members direct to the show. This train will leave the Union Station in Washington at 11 o'clock. President George H. Cooke is sending out a notice to all members

THIS department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

Florists' Review,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:-

During the SIX MONTHS from March 4 to September 4 I have received from other Florists, by mail, telegraph or cable, orders to the amount of $513.25 as a result of my advertisement in the Retailers' department of The Review. With the allowance to senders the record for SIX MONTHS is:

Value of orders received----------	$513.25
Less 20% allowed senders--------	102.60
Net value of orders for SIX MONTHS--	410.65

It should be noted that this showing covers the DULL SUMMER MONTHS, when any addition to a Florists's business is decidedly welcome.

Retail Florists not advertising in The Review should profit by this letter.

Respectfully,

The Market.

There was plenty of rain last week; in fact, there is too much of it now, as it is too late to be of much benefit. Funeral work is about all the retailers have. At the wholesale houses, large consignments of seasonable stock are coming in. Roses are coming in daily in such large quantities that many are left unsold. Only first-grade stock brings a good price. Russells and Beauties of good quality have the call. Killarneys in all varieties comprise the bulk of the rose stock and these are sold in thousand lots at low prices. Carnations have greatly improved of late and some really good stock is seen. An abundance of asters are still arriving daily from local and outside growers. White and purple sell best, bringing $4 per hundred for the fancy stock. Tuberose stalks are not so plentiful as they were and the prices asked on these are $4 per hundred. Gladioli are still crowding the market, with Augusta and America as the best sellers. Easter lilies are of fine quality and in good demand. Valley is somewhat scarce. There is a good general supply of greens, but green magnolia leaves are out of the market.

Various Notes.

The Retail Florists' Association will start holding regular monthly meetings September 21, at the Washington hotel. Secretary Geranios will send out the usual notices to the members and President Harry Young is looking for a large attendance.

The park department and the city forester's offices, which were combined when the new charter went into effect, will be moved from the city hall to larger quarters in the Municipal Courts building, at Fourteenth and Market streets.

W. H. Powell, landscape gardener, who recently came here from Duluth, Minn., has been appointed as head of the Walhalla cemetery, on the St. Charles Rock road. Mr. Powell has already taken hold of his new position.

Henry Ostertag reports that he has had an unusually good summer trade, although the bulk of it was funeral work. He has booked a good number of decorations for fall openings for the latter part of this month.

The wholesale houses of Kuehn, Berning, Smith, Windler and Angermueller have now completed their improvements and renovations and are in good shape for a busy season. Large consignments of good stock from the local growers are looked for from now on.

Frank Gorly, of Grimm & Gorly, has returned from his eastern trip. After the convention, he visited some of the large eastern cities and combined business with pleasure.

The celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the board of directors of the Missouri Botanical Garden will take place October 15 and 16. Some notables from abroad have been invited to attend this celebration. The board was organized under Henry Shaw, September 10, 1889.

to Seattle recently. He spent most of his time at the Missouri Botanical Garden, as a guest of Dr. Moore.

George Waldbart spent most of the summer months at his country house in Clayton, finding much pleasure in looking after his outdoor stock. The cut from this stock was sent daily to his Grand avenue store, where A. Hoffmann was boss in his absence.

The Kelley Floral Co., at Eighteenth and Olive street, had a good run on goldfish this summer, and cut flower trade was about as usual during the hot months.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Weber have returned home after a month's trip in the east. Mr. Weber is glad he did not make his contemplated trip to Europe this summer and that he is on this side of the big pond.

Adolph Rolloff, director of the State Botanical Garden in Tiflis, Russia, spent a few days here recently. He was a guest of the directors of the Missouri Botanical Garden.

Mrs. Louisa Krite, the Cass avenue florist, left September 5 for Louisville, Ky., to spend a week visiting a number of friends there.

John Nyflot, who runs an extensive place on North Florissant avenue, near the big cemeteries, says he had an unusually busy summer with cemetery work. He has his houses in good shape for the winter months.

All the wholesale houses closed half a day September 7, Labor day. This made three half holidays in succession for the employees in the wholesale district.

Phil Goebel, Jr., of Webster Groves, is contemplating buying a large auto truck, to bring in all the consignments of the county growers every morning to the wholesale market. This would be a move in the right direction, as it would save a great deal of time.

Henry Berning had large consignments of fine roses, asters and gladioli last week. Among the roses, some exceptionally fine Russells and Beauties were seen, as well as Killarneys in all varieties.

Among the suburban florists who visited the wholesale district last week were: Hugo Werner, W. J. Pilcher, J. F. Ammann, A. Meyer, E. Denker, A. Ahner, J. Himmer, F. Vennemann, H. Emunds, Wm. Winter, Paul Scheider, A. Cerny, W. A. Rowe and Phil J. Goebel, Jr. J. J. B.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

For the first time in weeks the New York cut flower market on Saturday began to "sit up and take notice." The hot wave of the week passed on, the delightful September weather was inspiring, the quality of the roses showed improvement and, most encouraging of all, the enterprise of the retailers was in evidence, and preparations for the fall season everywhere manifest. Neglected windows were again made attractive. The stocking of the stores with palms and ferns has begun, the outlook is again optimistic, and the war has been "talked to death." Some of the wholesalers have signs in their windows, "Can the war talk! We are neutral."

The rose supply in the wholesale market is increasing daily. Nearly all the new varieties are now arriving regularly and abundantly. Most of the stock is small and short-stemmed. Prices have not yet advanced, but the cleanups are more satisfactory, and the selected stock of Beauties, Russell, Ward, Shawyer, Double Killarney, Ophelia and Sunburst is absorbed early by the first-class stores. American Beauties manifest an upward tendency.

Carnation arrivals are improving daily in size of flower and length of stem. There will be plenty of the new stock, but not new varieties. The novelties are few. It is too early to announce the favorites. There will be nothing better than the favored few of last season.

Valley was the sensation of the week, the price at times rising to $4 per hundred and occasionally touching $5. On Saturday good stock could be had for $3. A few of the large growers around New York are fortunately well supplied with pips, and no exorbitant prices are anticipated. Longiflorum lilies are the surprise of the year up to date. Nothing seems to affect them favorably. Nowhere was the quotation higher than $2 per hundred Saturday, and this was top all the week, with thousands disposed of at half that figure. One wholesale house received in the six days nearly 20,000 blooms. Several thousand were still unsold Saturday afternoon.

It was different with orchids. The best gigas rose to $50 per hundred and the market was milked dry on Saturday. Oncidiums, however, seem to have lost prestige. A year ago retail windows were brilliant with the beautiful sprays. A scarcity of cattleyas, however, is likely to make higher values this week.

The gladiolus flood has receded. In fact, this week they cease to be a factor in the market. There seems yet to be no diminution in the aster shipments, and the quality of the late arrivals is excellent. Prices are abnormally low, however, and great quantities are left unsold. Many of the windows now display Golden Glow mums and tritomas. Dahlias are expected in immense numbers in another week. There is a great abundance of Hydrangea paniculata grandiflora.

Various Notes.

The New York Florists' Club's meeting Monday evening, September 14, promises to be interesting. Several of the club's members are back from Europe, Japan and Australia. The Boston convention should furnish topics of value, and several exhibits of the newer roses and the usual refreshments by the house committee will add to the enjoyment of this first meeting of the new season.

J. K. Allen and Mrs. Allen ended their vacation experiences with an enjoyable week at Asbury Park, N. J.

Much sympathy is expressed by the trade for the family of Hiram T. Jones, the nurseryman, of Elizabeth, N. J., who died a few days ago. The business will be continued by his wife and daughter. Arrangements have been made with the MacNiff Horticultural Co. for the sale of a quantity of the nursery stock at auction. The writer enjoyed a friendship of a quarter century with Mr. Jones, dating from the time both were in the nursery business in Rochester and Geneva. For over twenty years he has lived in Elizabeth. No man stood higher in the respect of the community.

Carroll Elliott, Peter McDonald and Henry Miller have returned from ten days' outing at Point Lookout, L. I. Mr. Elliott is now enjoying his week ends at Asbury Park, N. J.

Philip Shaeffer, formerly of the firm of Reisner & Shaeffer, at Lexington avenue and Eighty-fourth street, is now with Thos. F. Galvin. Mr. Galvin will be in the city after October 1.

Mr. Russin, of Russin & Hanfling, is back from Europe, having reached New York Tuesday, September 1, via the steamer Ryndam, of the Holland-America line. Mr. Russin was offered $500 for his return ticket, but was so anxious to get back that he refused it. He anticipates an early end of the war and the late shipment of American florists' supply orders.

James Coyle says he will maintain a plant department during the coming season.

The Horticultural Society of New York, in coöperation with the New York Botanical Garden, will hold a dahlia exhibition Saturday and Sunday, September 26 and 27, in the Museum building, at the New York Botanical Garden, Bronx park. Schedules of classes and premiums are now ready and will be sent on application to the secretary, George V. Nash, New York Botanical Garden, Bronx park. A symposium on the dahlia will be held Saturday, September 26, at 2:30 p. m., in the lecture hall of the Museum building.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

Eliminate the funeral work and most of the downtown stores would be forced to close; as there is not enough other business to pay rent and help. It will be fully a month before much change in this respect is to be expected, but with the opening of the social season it is expected that the florists will enjoy something like a boom, as there are said to be an unusually large number of prominent functions being arranged for the coming winter. With the great increase in glass that has been constructed during the last few months, it is probable that the offerings will exceed anything this market has ever experienced. Asters and roses still hold sway, with many gladioli on call.

Various Notes.

Henry Patry is with friends at Block Island for a couple of weeks.

W. A. Bowers, with Macnair, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

Joseph Solomon, who has the flower stand in the S. Kresge 5 and 10-cent store, is to conduct the flower stand in the new Arcade Market, corner of Weybosset and Hay streets, which will be conducted in connection with his other store.

Max Villers, with Thomas E. Galvin, of Boston, and formerly employed in this city, was a visitor in town last week.

Samuel Resnick made a business trip through the state last week in the interests of J. Koppelman, with good results.

Arthur Hassard is having a new greenhouse erected. He left last week on an automobile trip to New York.

Edgar L. Nock, of the Miltonia Conservatories, has purchased a large farm, about four miles from this city. It is his intention to erect at once six houses, each 50x200 feet, to be planted exclusively to roses and carnations. Several smaller houses will be built for orchid culture.

J. A. Budlong & Son Co., of Auburn, is shipping large quantities of fine roses to the Boston market, including Cardinal, Killarney Queen, Sunburst and others.

Walter Sword's new greenhouses at Valley Falls are nearly completed.

S. S. Sidelsky, of Philadelphia, was a business visitor in this city last week.

The Lakewood Dahlia Gardens, S. R. Astle, proprietor, at Lakewood, is holding daily exhibitions of dahlias in the field.

Among the corporations, firms and individuals in this city who are taxed on $50,000 or more of property, according to the report of the board of tax assessors just filed with the city treasurer, are the W. E. Barrett Co., $68,000; James A. Foster, of Warwick, $248,700; Elizabeth O'Connor, wife of Timothy O'Connor, $131,040; Frederick S. Peck,

...THE...
Chrysanthemum
By Arthur Herrington
Formerly president Chrysanthemum Society of America.

The most complete and comprehensive work on the cultivation of the chrysanthemum that has yet been published in America. Its scope and character may be gleaned from the list of contents, which comprises chapters on composts; planting; benches, boxes or pots; general cultural details; crown and terminal buds; feeding, its object and application; care of the buds; exhibition and judging; specimen plants, plants in pots; raising from seed and hybridizing; sports; hardy chrysanthemums; chrysanthemums for south and west; insect pests and diseases; classification and selection of varieties for special purposes; history of the chrysanthemum, etc. The book will be welcomed for the lucid, comprehensive, as well as the practical character of its contents. Handsomely illustrated. 168 pages, 5x7 inches. Price 50c postpaid.

Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, Lester L. Morse, San Francisco, Cal.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O. Thirty-third annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., June, 1915.

THE eastern and southern growers of turnip are not an enthusiastic lot.

THE mails continue to bring quantities of the less bulky European seeds.

SEEDSMEN will be interested in the article, "Who Must Bear the Loss?" in the Nursery Department of this week's issue.

E. O. PIEPER, manager of the Braslan Seed Growers' Co., San Jose, Cal., has returned to his desk after an absence of three weeks.

APPARENTLY the European war is to have even more effect on the market for grass and clover seeds than on vegetable and flower seeds.

LECHNER BROS., Webster Groves, Mo., are the American agents for John Rosenkrantz & Son, bulb growers and seedsmen at Heemstede, Holland.

THE seed trade as a whole has found collections slow this summer. More than the usual persistence has been necessary to keep up to the usual records.

A CROP report mailed by Conrad Appel, Darmstadt, Germany, July 30, reached The Review September 7. It was the first German mail in a month.

THE autumn bulb catalogues coming to hand show little change from other years. Either the books were too far along to permit change or else the effect of the war is not feared.

JULES KAISER, European representative of the Braslan Seed Growers' Co., San Jose, Cal., is an officer in the Swiss reserves and has notified his house that he has been called to the colors.

CHARLES N. PAGE, of the Iowa Seed Co., Des Moines, while able to be about after the operation performed some weeks ago at Rochester, Minn., still is weak and not able to give his usual close attention to business.

GERMANY is completely isolated by the war—there is no German mail of recent date, so that it is impossible to tell what is happening at the seed-growing centers, but it is assumed, from cable reports covering general conditions, that the women and old men are saving the crops.

NOT many of the fall bulb catalogues had been printed, but most of them were in type July 31, when the European war broke out. One by one the books have appeared, practically without change from the original plans and prices. Evidently the trade has come to the conclusion that the unusual conditions will have little effect on the retail bulb business.

AN indication of the haste with which the Holland exporters have filled their bulb orders is seen in the number of substitutions and items filled only in part. Enclosed with the invoices of some of the exporters are mimeographed apologies for the irregular manner in which the orders have been filled. Evidently the shippers did not have time to get around and pick up the stock to fill the orders as given, but filled them as far as they could with the stock on hand.

IT will soon be possible to tell with some degree of exactness what the supply of sweet peas will be. The work of the aphis left the fields so spotty that nothing short of sacking the seed will tell what the supply of any one variety will be.

AMONG the Americans crowding the boats from Europe have been a number of Dutch bulb salesmen returning to this country to try to work off some of the bulbs left on exporters' hands by the cancellation of orders in England, Germany and France.

AN English trade paper states: "There is a rumor that export of seed from England is to be prohibited, but this may allude to cereals and vegetable seeds only. So far as seed is concerned, it is all too obvious that no crops will be forthcoming from the continent, and unless there are big reserves in hand at the present time, there are serious times in store."

JAPAN'S LILY BULB EXPORTS.

Consul General Seidmore, at Yokohama, has made the following report to the State Department on the export of lily bulbs from Japan:

"Last year (1913) the United States imported 9,653,805 bulbs, valued at $202,401. The following table shows the exports during the last five years:

Year	Bulbs	Value
1909	15,529,928	$324,140
1910	17,174,084	367,429
1911	18,322,666	370,767
1912	22,091,135	480,808

BULB MARKET RECOVERING.

The bulb markets are recovering from the unsettlement which followed the first shock of the declaration of war in Europe. Possibly nothing has so greatly contributed to the restoration of the equanimity of the Holland exporters as has the reopening of communication with England and with Germany. Another strong factor, no doubt, has been the realization that any act that would seriously depress the values of bulbs would react on themselves through the effect it would have on orders already booked in America and other countries. It seems that the upsetting of the market that was a feature of the situation in the United States in August was due to the thoughtlessness of agents who sent letters, principally to the other fellow's customers, couched in language they have since come to regret, as it had more effect on orders already booked than it did in securing new business to take up the surplus. The drastic cutting of prices received a sharp check when buyers notified the shippers that, while they would let their orders stand, they would expect New York prices at date of delivery to govern instead of the prices at which the orders had been booked. "What is the use of forcing the surplus if thereby the sales already made are reduced as much as the new business would amount to?" With this question before him the Hollander called a halt. On second consideration he decided that it were

PREPARATION

We may widely differ as to the methods of preparation for a certain thing but surely we must all agree that a strong state of preparedness must exist if we would accomplish anything. By reading the daily press you can see what big things can happen when we are prepared. Whether it is making war or growing flowers the successful principles are the same. We must prepare early and well to reap a full measure of reward. Sow seed of my original Silver Pink Snapdragon at once for spring blossoms and a bumper Memorial crop. Remember that Memorial is the biggest flower day of the whole year. We can't get enough stock then and when your people get a taste of S. P. Snaps you won't have enough. The blossoms are beautiful and sell themselves. Better order seed today. We have new crop at $1.00 per pkt.; 3 for $2.50; 7 for $5.00, postpaid.

You can let your plant orders come. We will begin shipping September 14, and will fill all orders as rapidly as we can pack them. Plenty of stocky, branched plants at only $4.00 per 100; $35.00 per 1000. Less than 100, 5c each. Free cultural directions; all orders cash.

better to protect his orders rather than sacrifice his surplus just now.

The result has been that the cut prices have, in most instances, been withdrawn. There still are plenty of bulbs to be had at some concession, but the popular sorts are being held quite firmly, considering the circumstances, and it seems likely that the fall trade in the United States will be done much as usual.

IN CALIFORNIA.

It is developing from day to day, as the seed is reaching the bags, that crop estimates just previous to harvest time in the San Juan valley were in most instances too high. This is particularly true of lettuce. Furthermore, conditions vary so much with each grower that one would not care to offer a general opinion except as stated above in regard to lettuce, which is generally conceded among the growers to be falling down.

California seed growers have had only brief information from their foreign representatives, from which they deduce that credits will be entirely upset in Germany and France and that it will be out of the question to expect any export or import business into those countries for at least six months to come.

Inquiries go to point that an increased demand has set in for California grown radish, carrot and such other items as Europe regularly supplies to the American trade in large quantities. With a limited acreage planted this year, and with crop yields apparently less than average, it would seem that California growers will unquestionably find themselves short of the demand that must of necessity result from the demands created by failure to receive delivery from European sources.

ANOTHER PURE SEED BILL.

Representative Cullop, of Indiana, has introduced in the House of Representatives a bill to make it unlawful to ship in commerce between the states any grain or seed for the purposes of sale or barter for use in agriculture which is falsely labeled or branded or falsely represented, and to fix a penalty therefor. The bill makes it unlawful for any firm, person, corporation or association of individuals to ship, mail or otherwise convey in commerce between the states for the purposes of sale or barter any seed or grain falsely labeled or branded or falsely represented as to grade, character or name. Violation of the act will be punishable by a fine of not less than $

HE CAME OUT ALL RIGHT—YOU WILL, TOO

JUST keep on working—plug away like a good fellow, and you will come out all right. And be sure and LAUGH as much as you can. Laughter is the best dope for glum-gloomers. Doc Crane says a good laugh is equal to a dose of salts, two cocktails, a bromo-seltzer and a spoonful of quinine. It is the best defense against the world's burdens. Besides, we are not at war—we are merely a little befuddled because the Europeans are scrapping. Old England's gone dry, and our bankers, who have been sucking her tits for the last century, are up against it. They will soon be weaned, however, and then our finances will be in order. So before long we ought to be going full blast to help support the scrapping element abroad. Are you prepared for the prosperous times to come? Have you enough stock planted? Better get some more lilies—Formosum planted now will flower all winter long. We have some fine bulbs, too, and prices are lower than early in the year, due to an oversupply. You can have them immediately or later. NOW is the time to buy.

MORE DUTCH BULBS.

The third large shipment of Dutch bulbs came to port September 1, when the steamer Ryndam, from Rotterdam, arrived at New York with 5,093 cases of bulbs on board. The Hollanders have evidently gone on the principle that the more bulbs they get to this side of the ocean while there is nothing to interfere is so much the more to their profit, and every ship from Rotterdam carries a heavy shipment. The receipts are considerably ahead of this time last year, and no one has predicted the end.

The consignments on board the steamer Ryndam were as follows:

CONDITIONS IN HOLLAND.

From Enkhuizen, Holland, comes the report that conditions are so nearly normal that J. Sluis, of Sluis Bros., is preparing to make his usual autumn trip through the United States. It is stated that contracts will for the most part be filled in full, with some good surpluses from which the Holland growers expect to reap a measure of recompense for the troubles the war has made them. The ordinary terms of payment can no longer be offered, say the exporters, because of the war conditions, but the general trade has not been seriously influenced by the war, or, if so, is gradually recovering. Shipments are expected to go out almost on time.

Sluis Bros. state that "beets, sugar beets, mangels and Swiss chard promise a medium crop, but stocks will not be large, as the acreage has not been extensive on account of the low prices. Cabbage, kale, sprouts, collards and cauliflower have done well. Cabbage and kale give a medium crop of best quality, owing to the fine weather conditions of the last few weeks. The plants for 1915 crop are suffering by drought, but would recover if we get more rainfall in the next days. Cress is good. Common dill will not be abundantly harvested, although the stand is good, but Mammoth dill will give a fine crop. Of mustard a fine crop is being harvested. The acreage of onion is not large, owing to the high prices paid last fall for the bulbs, but a good yield is in prospect. All curled varieties of parsley are short this season, but all varieties of parsnips promise a good crop. The acreage of peas is not extensive, but the crop, just harvested, is of good quality. The radish crop will be fairly good but not abundant. All varieties of spinach have been harvested under favorable conditions, but the acreage has not been large. A good crop of the leading varieties of turnip has been harvested.

"The biennial and perennial flower seeds have been harvested under favorable conditions and the yield of almost all kinds may be called satisfactory. Annuals promise well, owing to the fine weather just in the ripening period. Asters are free flowering and the stand is excellent. Nasturtiums promise well. Candytuft, carnations, campanula, chrysanthemums, etc., are doing well and are promising good crops all over the line, with a few exceptions."

Under date of August 20, Sluis & Groot, of Enkhuizen, state that they expect the Holland-America line to maintain its weekly service Rotterdam to New York, with seed shipments going out promptly. They report the crops generally as of good quality, having been harvested under favorable weather conditions.

My Original Winter-flowering Orchid or Spencer Sweet Pea

revolutionized the cut flower market last winter. It has brought higher prices than the best carnation, from the start to finish. They will be more sought for this year.

On account of the War, I will not take any chances to ship many of my foreign orders. This will enable me to send all American orders in full of the following varieties, besides having some to spare:

Pink and White Orchid, White Orchid, Mrs. A. A. Skach (clear pink), Orchid Beauty (dark rose), Venus (white, pink blush), Mrs. M. Spanolin (white), Mrs. Jos. Manda (light pink), all, 1 oz., $4.00.
Lavender Nora, the best and largest clear lavender in cultivation. 1 oz., $1.50.

Winter-flowering Spencer Mixture.

This consists only of the best light pink, pink, white, salmon, lavender and very few dark. Every commercial grower should plant at least one house of these, and he will be taking no risk. 1 oz., $3.00; 4 oz., $10.00; 1 lb., $30.00. Ask for special prices on 10 lbs. or more.

Vegetable Forcing

ONIONS FOR FORCING.

Can you tell me what kind of onion is best for forcing? A. B.

Usually the white sets are used for forcing, as they start a little quicker and make bottoms earlier than the yellow ones. C. W.

CYANIDE ON CUKES.

In the issue for August 13 we noted an article, "Spray for Tarnish Bugs," and quote the last paragraph, as follows: "It should be remembered that, inasmuch as cyanide of potassium is so deadly a poison, it should not be used on vegetables, or any crop that may be used as food, for the leaves will contain enough poison to cause the death of the consumer."

How about cucumbers in the early period of the vine growth? It has been our experience that these bugs only attack cucumber vines when such vines are getting ready to blossom. At this time the bug stings these plants on the side of the cluster, before the blossom appears, in which case the entire cluster withers and dies. Would it not be safe to use this potassium spray at this time? We cannot see that enough of the poison would be absorbed by the plant to affect the cuke, as it is some time before the cuke appears. Your opinion on this point, and the experience of any who have used this spray, would be appreciated and of value to us and all growers of cukes.

H. A. S.

It is my opinion that it would be perfectly safe to spray cucumber vines with a solution of cyanide of potassium while the plants are in the blossom stage, especially if the fruits are carefully washed before shipping. I do not agree with the writer of the article referred to, printed August 13, in which the idea is conveyed that the poison is absorbed by the plant and thus kills insects that suck its juices, my idea being that the insects are killed by eating the syrupy concoction adhering to the surface of the leaves and stems. If this were washed off, the plants would be safe, I think, for food, but cyanide of potassium is too deadly to take any chances with. H. O.

[Cyanide of potassium as a spray is coming into such frequent use that The Review will be pleased to hear from those who know its effects.—Ed.]

BODDINGTON'S GIGANTIC PANSIES

Can be produced only from the giant strains. Our CHALLENGE PANSY seed contains only the giant self-colors, the giant striped and variegated and the giant blotched, etc., all carefully mixed in proportion. You could not buy better seed if you paid $100 per ounce. Our Challenge Pansy seed during the past season gave unprecedented satisfaction, and every order booked last year was duplicated and increased this year. All the testimonials received mentioned specially the high grade of flowers—color, form and size of the individual blossoms. This year, by adding improved types, intending customers can absolutely rely on a duplication of this season's success with increased satisfaction. Our "mark" for this strain is "Challenge," and it is all the word denotes.

TACOMA, WASH.

The Market.

Tacoma and the northwest have been experiencing one of the driest summers ever known, there having been seventy days without rain. Despite this lack of rainfall, the outdoor stock has made a good growth, carnations especially lifting unusually well. Outdoor cut stock is somewhat scarce, asters, gladioli and sweet peas being the ones most shown. Most of the growers are planted up, the crops grown being about as in former years.

Various Notes.

Walter Hinze has opened a flower store in the K street market under the name of the Fern Florist.

Gus Gulberg has started construction on three new houses at Parkland. These will be devoted to vegetables.

A. A. Hinze has a fine lot of ferns of the different varieties. This establishment is looking well, under the care of Mr. Sanford.

A. G. Seamons, of the Hayden-Watson store, has been spending a week in Aberdeen, where they have interests in the trade. He reports everything in good shape at their establishment there.

The Florists' Club met September 3 and various subjects of interest to the trade were brought up for discussion. The club meets on the first Thursday night of each month. J. L. S.

LOS ANGELES.

The Market.

A decided improvement is again manifest this week, and on several days stock at the wholesalers' has been cleaned up well early in the day. There is not much that is new in the way of stock, except some early white chrysanthemums, which are especially good for the season. Golden Glow is not a startling success here; the earliest flowers are always soft, lacking in texture and lasting properties, while the later ones bring so low a price that they are not remunerative to the grower, or satisfactory to the wholesaler or retailer. Asters keep up well and carnations are improving. Centaureas are fine and there is a large variety of hardy outdoor flowers. Indoor roses are good, some of the newer ones taking the place of the old favorites. Orchids and valley are about equal to the demand, which is not great.

Various Notes.

Fred Hills is sending in remarkably good Whitmani in the smaller and medium sizes.

H. W. Turner keeps his new delivery car working full time in handling his stock. He has more of the novelties than any other grower around town and his place is especially interesting now. September Morn, of course, caps the list, and the more I see of this grand rose the better I like it. The color is perfect, a delightful pink, while the petalage and foliage leave nothing to be desired. The flower stands up remarkably well, owing to the stiff stem. Francis Scott Key is also in splendid shape here; it is a beautiful and telling red, likely to run D'Arenberg hard. Olivia and Willowmere are both winners, and the Daily Mail special, Herriott, is quite distinct in color from anything else. Carnegie is not a favorite, proving rather soft, though extra free blooming. A look through the houses here is mighty interesting now.

The H. N. Gage Co. reports a good week, with stock cleaning up well daily. Congratulations are in order to Albert Burchatt, Mr. Gage's bookkeeper, who was married August 28 to Miss Blanche Le Valley.

Fred Sperry, of the Los Angeles Flower Market, took a week off last week, spending his time on side trips with his automobile.

S. Murata & Co. report an extra busy week, large quantities of the best class of stock being cleaned up daily.

Howard & Smith maintain an elegant show at the store at Ninth and Olive streets. Funeral work has been plentiful here.

Speakman & Dille have their place in fine shape this year, having made some alterations in the heating and the houses, while the place has been parked, giving it a particularly neat appearance. A good cut of Shawyer has been taken and is still coming, while Radiance is coming on rapidly. Beauties look fine.

Albert Beverley, of Santa Barbara, was in the city last week on business about the Pacific sprinkler and looking up stock for his nursery.

The sudden death of Ernst Wagner, a horticultural chemist well known to the trade here, cast quite a gloom over those who had known him. Mr. Wagner was of German birth and of a peculiarly sensitive disposition and he felt the war news keenly, so much so that when it was announced that his dead body had been found at San Pedro his friends for a time feared he had taken his own life. But those fears proved groundless, for he had evidently sat down to rest and succumbed to heart failure. Several of the late gentleman's formulæ are well known here and in use by the horticultural commission and the trade. He was of a gentle disposition and much liked by all with whom he came in contact. I have not been able to ascertain his exact age, but he was well along in years.

John Gordon, manager for Wolfskills' & Morris Goldenson, is back from his vacation at Balboa and reports a fine time. Walter Garbett, of Darling's Flower Shop, who was with Mr. Gor-

SPOKANE, WASH.

The Market.

The cooler weather of the last week has had a decidedly beneficial effect upon the quality of stock, especially in asters, which, while good, have not been up to the usual high standard.

Roses are coming on in fine shape now, the supply really exceeding the demand, which will continue to be the case until a hard frost puts the outdoor flowers out of commission.

A visit to several of the growers' places showed stock in nearly every department considerably above the average. An especially noticeable feature is the entire absence of stem-rot in the carnation benches. In four places visited not a single case of stem-rot could be found.

Various Notes.

The aster will receive proper recognition at the Spokane interstate fair next week, several fine silver cups and other prizes having been offered by the Spokane Ad Club for asters entered in competition. Monday, September 14, the opening day of the fair, is to be known as Aster day, and is in charge of the Ad Club.

P. Leavy, who has added three houses this summer, claims the early mum honors with Golden Glow, with October Frost almost ready. His Golden Glow were especially fine and at least three weeks ahead of his nearest rival.

Burnette Bros. are especially proud of their cyclamens and primulas, and with good reason. Their carnations are also especially good.

The Spokane Greenhouse Co. has, during the last week, been called upon to fill one of the largest, if not the largest, single orders for palms and other decorative plants ever given in Spokane. Over 300 palms, ferns and aspidistras were ordered, to be used

NEW SWEET PEA
MONROVIA

For several years this has been the best seller on the Los Angeles and other local markets, and I have decided to offer it to the trade as long as the stock lasts at $5.00 per ounce.

Monrovia begins to flower when only about one foot high and continues to bloom profusely until it reaches 8 feet high outdoors. It will make a splendid greenhouse variety, as the buds do not drop under any conditions. The color is a deep purple outside, inside heliotrope, and it is unquestionably the finest winter-blooming purple in existence. The seed has been carefully reselected from large pods only. It was gathered in April and May in the foothill section, and is consequently mature and of high germinating power. It is an exceptionally stout grower and throws long stemmed flowers all through the season, four to six flowers to the stem. This offer will be withdrawn as soon as present stock is exhausted.

in the lobby, corridors and parlors of the new Davenport hotel, which opened its doors to the public Tuesday, September 1. Special credit is due the Spokane Greenhouse Co. because of the fact that the order was not placed until the Saturday night preceding the day of the opening.

Visitors at the greenhouses and grounds of Olsson & Bernson are permitted to see one of the finest collections of dahlias in the northwest. They are planning an extensive display of these flowers at the interstate fair, with a view to booking orders for spring delivery.

The Spokane Spokesman-Review, in the edition of Sunday, August 30, devoted one entire section to the description of the beauties and conveniences of the new Davenport hotel, which was opened September 1 and which has been erected at a cost of two and a quarter million dollars. The flower shop to be opened in the hotel is given the following notice: "The flower shop in the Davenport hotel, entrance on Sprague avenue, and opening onto the main lobby, will be conducted by the Spokane Florist Co., and by its arrangement will add to the beauty of that public room. The general effect of the show room will be an arbor with trellis work, the many flowers harmonizing beautifully with the French gray fixtures. The store will be conducted as a branch of the Riverside avenue store of the Spokane Florist Co. C. T. Kipp, president, says one of the best decorators will be placed in charge, and while the choicest blooms of the season will be always on hand, the new store will pay particular attention to corsages of flowers for the various dancing parties, teas and banquets, as well as dinner parties. Some of the latest accessories for this line of trade have been ordered, while a general business will be done in cut flowers and plants."

The Market.

There is not much complaint over business this week. Quite a little funeral work and general sales have helped to keep the stores busy. Stock, of almost everything but roses, is fairly abundant. Asters are now at their best and, considering everything, there are some fine blooms on sale, with large numbers of the inferior grades. Carnations are improving in quality, but the majority of the blooms are still coming from held-over plants. In another couple of weeks there will be some flowers coming from young stock. Orchids are scarce. Gladioli and lilies are here in quantity. Ferns and palms are selling well and of these there are plenty to more than supply local demands.

Various Notes.

J. H. Lewis has installed an oil burner in his boiler at Brighton. It is one of the Apex make and he figures it to be more economical than the use of coal. Probably if it is a success more growers will adopt the same plan.

A meeting of the retail florists was held August 29 in the Hollywood Gardens store. The business of the meeting was primarily to consider what steps could be taken to put a stop to the practice of soliciting orders for funeral flowers. After discussion it was re-

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

GREENHOUSES to the value of $3,000 have been added by the El Paso Nursery Co., at its establishment at Alameda and Estrella streets, El Paso, Tex.

HIRAM T. JONES, Elizabeth, N. J., whose ill health and business difficulties recently were reported in this column, died August 12 and was interred at Rochester.

IN the Nursery Trade Department of The Review, the up-to-date nurseryman's paper, was published the only account to date of the annual convention of the Southern Nurserymen's Association, August 26 to 28. Those whose interest holds that long will have an opportunity to read a 6-weeks-old report in an October monthly.

ENGLAND STILL BUSY.

A large English house, disproving the assertion that war is putting an end to business in the nursery trade, has sent the following letter to a number of American firms, under date of August 27:

"For many years there has been a large importation of roses from Germany, France and Belgium, and owing to the war these sources of supply will be shut to American buyers. We venture the assertion that it is England's opportunity to offer a far superior and hardier rose to our American cousins.

"Tell us the names and quantities of roses you are wanting and we will give you low prices for same. You will probably want us to send about mid-March, in which case we shall be happy to reserve you first selected trees, and to enter forward to supply."

PHOENIX RECEIVER REPORTS.

John Y. Chisholm, receiver for the Phoenix Nursery Co., of Bloomington, Ill., has issued a statement showing receipts and disbursements from September 10, 1913, to August 25, 1914, the estimated assets of the concern now on hand and the liabilities under the receivership yet unpaid.

In summary the report shows: Cash receipts from all sources, $56,441.60; cash disbursements, $43,677.15; cash on hand, $12,764.45.

The total assets, which include nursery stock, greenhouse stock, horses, mules, harness, implements, corn in field, office fixtures, rent, bills receivable, accounts receivable and cash in bank, are $36,249.59. The largest item is the nursery stock on hand, the value of which is estimated at the lowest wholesale price to be $18,304.60. The total liabilities are $14,970.31. The net assets over liabilities are $21,279.31.

In addition to the above net assets, the company owns about sixty-seven acres of land, all lying within the corporate limits of the town of Normal, appraised at from $350 to $1,000 per acre, according to the location. The report further shows that the company has a complete equipment of buildings, in fair condition, including packing sheds, frost-proof cellars, barns, offices, machine sheds and nine greenhouses, three of which are 30x225 feet.

The report shows that in additional liabilities the company will have between $57,000 and $60,000 in claims, there still being a few claims to hear before the special master before the exact amount can be ascertained.

As the report of Receiver Chisholm last January showed the cash receipts to be $16,376.24 and the total cash disbursements $16,068.43, leaving $307.81 as the cash on hand at that time, it will readily be seen that the present showing is the result of the spring sales of nursery stock.

WHO MUST BEAR THE LOSS?

If Shipments Are Ordered Destroyed.

When a shipment of trees, plants, decorative foliage or other stock of a nurseryman or florist is destroyed by public authorities, who must bear the loss, as between the seller and the buyer? For example, California has an extremely strict horticultural law. Under it the state authorities immediately destroy such stock when it is found to be infested with certain injurious diseases or insects. On the other hand, other states have laws which prohibit a railway company or other common carrier accepting for transportation any shipments of trees or plants which do not bear a copy of such states' certificates of inspection, showing that the stock is free from insects and diseases. It frequently has happened that a shipment would be destroyed by the California authorities when it bore the certificate of some other state showing it to be free from infestation. Then results a legal complication. The question arises as to who shall stand the loss, one state having certified that the stock is clean and the other that it is infested.

Although the writer has been unable to find any case in which an appellate court has directly answered this question, the decisions of the courts on analogous points furnish authority for the statements made below.

When Does Buyer Become Owner?

Whether the loss falls primarily upon the seller or the buyer must depend upon the question as to whether ownership of the shipment has passed to the buyer at the time the stock is confiscated and destroyed. And, in turn, this question depends upon the terms of the contract of sale. Accordingly, if the stock is sold for delivery at the place of shipment, title there vests in the buyer, and the seller is released from all further liability concerning the shipment. But, on the other hand, if the contract of sale calls for delivery at the destination in California, and the shipment is destroyed by the authorities there before title has passed to the buyer by his acceptance of delivery, the loss must fall upon the seller, since he has not made such delivery to the buyer as will sustain recovery of the agreed price of the stock.

But, although the loss may fall upon the buyer primarily, through the fact that he has become the owner of the stock before its confiscation and destruction, he is entitled to recover any payment which he has made on the price, or defend a claim by the seller for the amount of the price, if he can establish the fact that the stock was not of the quality contracted for. On this point, it may appear that the seller has expressly or impliedly warranted that the stock was not infested, in which case the loss would necessarily fall upon the seller as a result of his breach of contract. On the other hand, if it appears that the seller has made no warranty, express or implied, as to the stock's freedom from infestation, or that he has expressly disclaimed any such warranty, the loss must remain with the buyer.

As Generally Understood.

On the question as to whether title passes to the buyer at the place of shipment or at the destination, difficulty frequently arises on account of silence in the contract as to the intention of the parties. But, ordinarily, delivery to the carrier is deemed a delivery to the buyer at the place of shipment, especially if the buyer has designated a particular road over which the shipment is to be forwarded.

In a case where title has passed to the buyer at the place of shipment and the stock is found to be infested on its arrival at its destination, that fact would be evidence in the buyer's favor that the stock was infested when shipped, but, of course, it would be open to the seller to show that the infestation arose in the course of transportation. If the contract required delivery of uninfested stock at the destination, then it would be immaterial whether it became infested before or after delivery to the carrier.

When Doctors—or States—Disagree.

Now, as to the conflict between the certificate of the authorities in the state of shipment to the effect that the stock was clean and the finding of the authorities in California that the stock was infested, the question which governs, as between the buyer and the seller, must depend upon whether title passed to the buyer at the place of shipment or remained in the seller at the time the stock was destroyed. If ownership passed to the buyer in the state of shipment, the finding of the California authorities would not affect the seller's rights, and the certificate of the authorities in his state would be strong, though probably not conclusive evidence, that the stock was all right when delivered to the carrier as the buyer's agent. And, if the stock was destroyed in California before title passed to the buyer, the buyer would not be affected by the question whether the California authorities acted properly or not, since the goods contracted for were never delivered to him. But, if title passed to the buyer at the destination before the shipment was destroyed, and he should sue to recover any money paid on the price or defend a suit brought by the seller to recover the price, I believe that the conflicting certificates would neutralize each other in effect as legal evidence, leaving the

Where Is His Araucaria?

Where are his Araucarias? In his greenhouse growing,
Tier after tier, in lustrous beauty clothed;
Shining with blue tints, or delightfully glowing
As green sea waves on which the sunshine flowed.

Is there another touch as nice as Aschmann shows?
Another who has learned so well to call their best
Up into charming form, whose beauty glows
Before our eyes in gracious radiance dressed?

ARAUCARIA
OUR SPECIALTY

WAR ABROAD will make the Araucarias scarce this fall and winter. But look, it won't affect Godfrey Aschmann. Why? We were not afraid to invest thousands of dollars in importing the plants in the spring of 1914, hence we do not care for the war, and are prepared to fill all orders—4 houses are filled with the choice ARAUCARIA EXCELSA. We are again able to fill all orders. 5½ and 6-inch pots, 2, 3, 4, 5 years old, 14, 15, 20 to 25 in. high, well established, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50. EXCELSA GLAUCA and ROBUSTA COMPACTA, large plants, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00.

PALMS.

BELMOREANA and FORSTERIANA, bushy, stocky plants, new importation, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50. K. BELMOREANA, single plants, bushy, 5½-inch pots, 50c, 60c and 75c; made up of three plants, bushy, 5½ and 6-inch pots, 50c, 60c and 75c. FORSTERIANA, single and made up, 5½-inch pots, 50c, 60c and 75c.

case open to outside proof as to whether the stock was actually infested at the time of its delivery to the buyer.

As bearing on this question, it will be noted that the Georgia Supreme Court has held that a certificate of an inspector of fertilizer is not conclusive against the buyer's claim that it was worthless, unless the buyer has expressly agreed to abide by the certificate of inspection. (61 Georgia Supreme Court Reports, 364.)

A State's Right to Destroy Stock.

Under the court decisions on analogous points, it is quite clear that a state has power to destroy infected property imported into the state. It has been decided that, although a state is without power to unreasonably interfere with interstate commerce, authority to regulate which is vested in Congress, a state has ample power to enact laws reasonably designed and having a tendency to secure protection against the importation and spread of contagious diseases among trees, plants, etc., whether such stock is grown and sold within the state or is raised in foreign states and imported for use in the state. (South Dakota Supreme Court, ex parte Hawley, 115 Northwestern Reporter 93.)

The right of a state to destroy infected or infested plants, trees or fruit is sustained by the decision of the Washington Supreme Court in a case reported on page 270, 95 Pacific Reporter.

But whether the loss of stock destroyed by state authorities falls primarily upon the seller or the buyer, as between themselves, it would seem clear that the loser could enforce a claim against the authorities as individuals, by showing that they acted unreasonably and that the stock was not actually infested. This principle has been applied by the courts of Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey and Wisconsin to cases where live stock has been wrongfully destroyed by sanitary officers. S.

PITTSBURGH.

The Market.

The vacation season is about over and nearly all the boys are home and ready for business. But, whether it is due to the war agitation or some other cause, trade shows no improvement over that of last month. Optimism is prevalent, however, and one firm reports seven wedding orders booked for this month. A week or two will find the trade moving along satisfactorily. Stock of all kinds is plentiful. Gladioli and asters are more than abundant, with everything else in quantity and good. Chrysanthemums are promised about the middle of the month, so there is not likely to be much shortage of stock this fall.

Various Notes.

The McCulloch Drug Co. is adding cut flower departments to two of its stores. Another retail store is promised for the east side district, so there are still those who have faith in the business.

There is a rumor that another of our local growers is considering opening a wholesale house here, to sell his output.

Phil Langhans and family made a trip by automobile to Bedford Springs on Labor day.

The Florists' Club met last week and had an enthusiastic meeting. Among other things, all the dead wood was trimmed out. The club now is large enough and has enough good, active members so that it is not considered wise to carry any who have not enough interest to keep up their dues. The subject for discussion was the gladiolus. There were also some reports from the convention. I am not sure whether it was such a good convention or such a good trip, but all were pleased and made good reports.

John Jones, of Schenley park, has just returned from his vacation, most of which was spent in the east. All of his time was spent in looking up what the other fellow is doing, which helps to account for some of the good things we see at Schenley park.

George McCallum has been enjoying a vacation. There were just three things necessary for him to have a good time and he had them—time, his Saxon and a light haired girl!

The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. reports the sale of carnation plants as exceptionally good, with shipments going to both coasts. Clarke.

LEXINGTON, KY.

The Market.

Business during the last two weeks has been only fair. A little funeral work now and then is about the only outlet for flowers. Stock has been in fair supply, consisting principally of roses, asters and gladioli. The abundance of rain last month has made vegetation look better than at any time this summer.

Various Notes.

Honaker, the Florist, has lately made a grand display of gladioli in his two windows. A fine lot of roses are cut daily by this firm.

Miss Fannie White has removed her store to West Short street, where she has more room and splendid show windows, as well as a better location.

The Michler Bros. Co. is getting on splendidly with the new show house, which, when completed, will be a valuable addition to the establishment. A Kroeschell boiler, which has just been installed, completes the improvements.

Kelley & Current are cutting a fine lot of lilies and gladioli. Chrysanthemums, roses and carnations are coming along nicely.

Stock at the John A. Keller Estate looks well, especially the roses and mums. A house of late asters, just showing bud, should be a profitable crop.

Theodore Keller, a brother of John F. and James P. Keller, of this city, and a marine in the United States service at Norfolk, has been sent to Vera Cruz, Mexico.

Frank McMullen, foreman for Miss Fannie White, is much improved, following an attack of appendicitis. Little hope was given for his recovery for over a week.

Miss Margaret Hofey, with Honaker, the Florist, has returned after a six weeks' vacation in the east.

Misses Josephine and Mary Keller have returned from a two weeks' trip to Olympia Springs, Ky.

FIELD-GROWN CARNATION PLANTS.

We grow carnations, nothing but carnations. Our stock is of that quality, as can only be produced by a specialist. By sending out only such plants as we would be willing to bench ourselves, we have built up a trade in field plants second only in importance to the growing of cut flowers. By growing our stock on the same piece of ground but two years in succession, and by liming our field lightly each year, we have practically eliminated stem rot and other diseases on our place.

We dig carefully, give liberal count, and pack to ship anywhere in the United States. Large, strong plants. 250 at 1000 rate.

PANSIES.

PANSY PARK PERFECTION is the most thoroughbred strain of giant show and fancy pansies, the flowers of largest size and most perfect form. I have made growing of pansy seeds and plants a specialty for 40 years, and it is the result of many years of breeding and selection. It also contains every variety introduced by foreign growers up to date. One of many reports: "The pansy plants all look good, healthy, stocky plants, and we feel will come up to all expectations." Henry J. Hass & Son, Newport, R. I. An immense stock of fine field-grown plants from seed sown thinly, broadcast, so that each plant has plenty of room to grow stocky and strong, with extra good roots. Over 75 varieties mixed, the reds, bronzes and best fancy sorts in large proportion, 1000, $3.00; 500, $1.75; 5000, $14.00; 10,000, $27.00. Ready after Sept. 25th. Cash.

MATERIAL FOR SMOKESTACK.

I should like to have the opinion of some of the growers as to what is the best kind of smokestack to erect. Steel stacks are all right as long as they last, but they do not seem to be durable. Sewer tile has been recommended to me for the purpose and I should like to hear, through the columns of The Review, from anyone who has had experience with the tile. J. W. I.

In selecting the material for a smokestack, a good deal will depend upon the size of stack to be built. For large stacks, with an inside diameter of three feet and upwards, I would generally use reinforced concrete and it might also be used for stacks considerably smaller.

While sewer pipe might be used for the upper part of the stack, if less than sixteen inches in diameter, I would build up a base either of brick or concrete, to the height of four to six feet above the point where the smoke pipe will enter. If a steel stack is used, its life will be prolonged if a similar base is provided. Whether steel, brick or sewer pipe is used for small stacks would depend upon the relative cost at a given point. The so-called non-corroding steel should be used if it can be obtained.

A SMALL OHIO RANGE.

Enclosed you will find a sketch of our greenhouses and I wish you would give me plain directions as to how to pipe them so as to maintain a temperature of at least 60 degrees in this Ohio climate. We have been growing a general line of bedding stock during the last three seasons and have been heating the houses with four stoves, but now we intend to put in a boiler. The three houses are all connected, with no partitions between them. They run east and west, with the boiler shed at the east end, and they cover a space 41x52 feet, exclusive of the boiler room. The houses are six feet high at the sides and are sunk about four feet in the ground. The walls are all solid except the one at the south side. The north house is 17x52 and the other two are each 12x52. The south house contains two solid beds, with a walk in the center; in the other houses most of the benches are raised.

We have purchased a boiler which is supposed to have a capacity of fifteen or twenty horse-power. It is eight feet eleven inches long, over all, and three feet in diameter. It contains twenty-two 3-inch flues. Please let us know the real capacity of the boiler. We have a lot of 1¼-inch pipe on hand and should like to use it if we can. What will be the best and easiest way to pipe the houses? G. T. M.

The boiler described can easily be rated as fifteen horse-power, and will

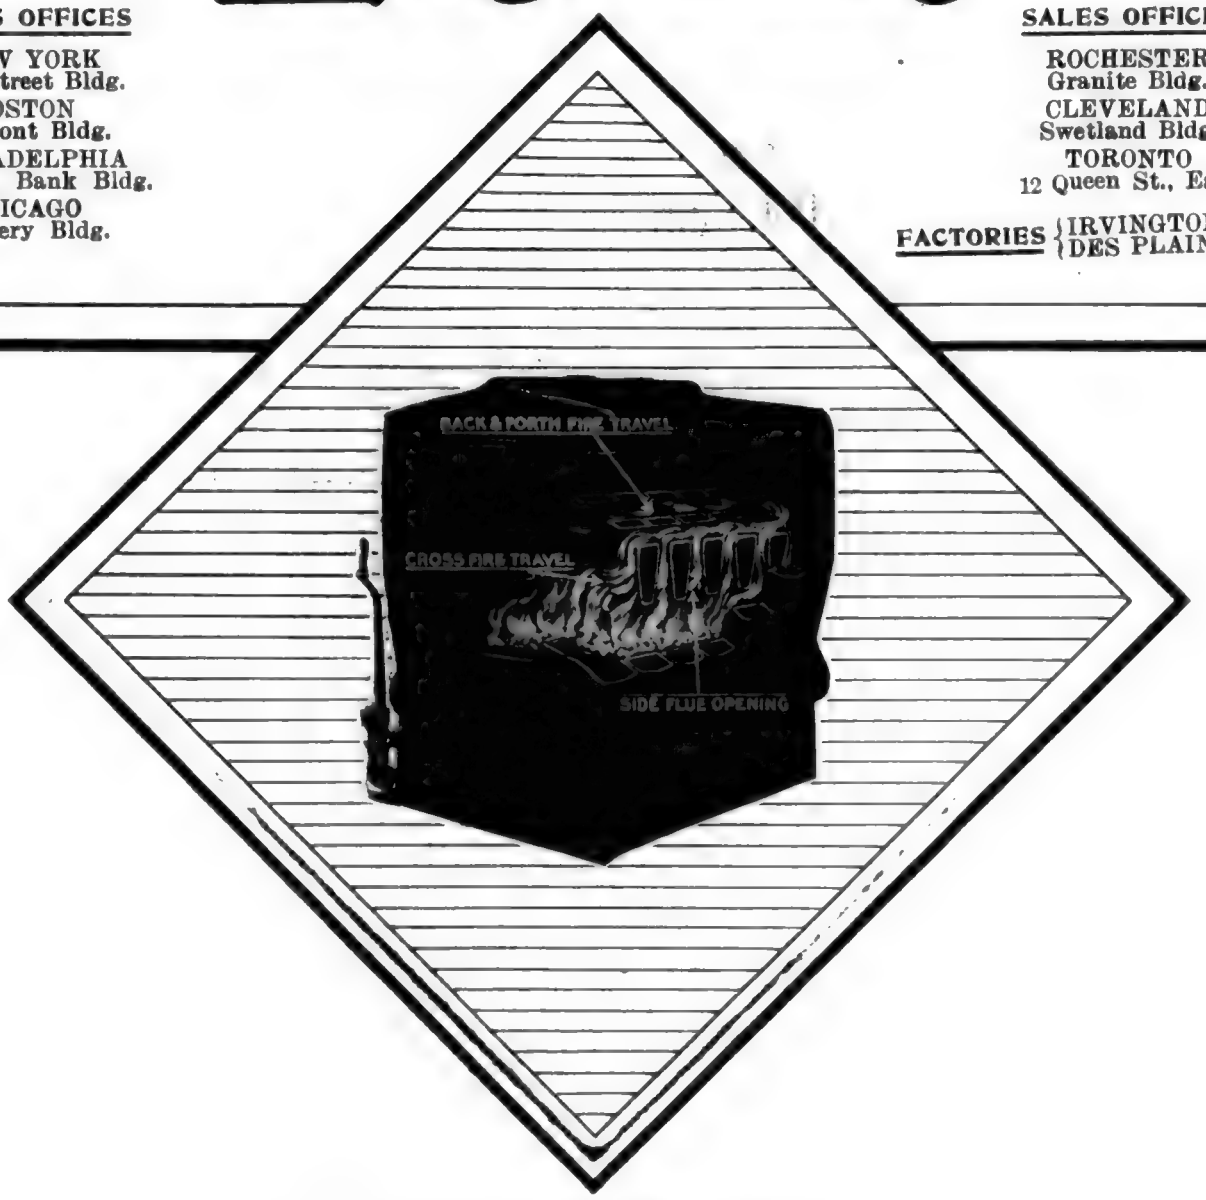
40 Years of Burnham Boiler Making: How It Concerns Your Pocketbook

WHEN a concern has a poor or faulty article, they must make all haste and try and improve it. The complaints of users generally induce them to put improvements on the market before they have really been thoroughly proven to be improvements.

As a result, you and the other fellow do the experimenting that the maker couldn't afford to wait to do. You become the experimental department for them. It's a cheap way for them to find out, but is generally rather expensive for you.

Now take a concern like the Lord & Burnham Company—thoroughly established, with forty years of boiler-making experience and a line of boilers that for years and years have been giving splendid satisfaction. Having a splendid boiler as a basis, we don't have to hustle through any half-thought-out improvements and ask you to try them out for us. We are in a position to spend months, and often years, on an improvement. Today we believe, and we have had many customers who believe likewise, that the Burnham Boiler is the best cast-iron boiler made.

That's the reason why, when you buy a Burnham Boiler, every part works the way we say it will work. That's why it heats as much radiation and as economically as we say it will. That's why it can be erected so easily. That's why the repairs are so few. That's why the Burnham Boiler is the successful greenhouse boiler it is.



If this is the kind of safe and sure boiler you want, we can ship it the same day your order is received. If in a particular hurry, wire at our expense.

readily care for 800 to 1,000 square feet of steam radiation, while the amount required in the present house will be only 400 feet. Though I would prefer to use hot water for greenhouses that cover an area of only 41x52 feet, it would not be best to put in 1¼-inch pipe for hot water unless a generator is used. Whether for steam or hot water, the top of the boiler should be below the level of the return pipes.

For heating the houses with steam, I would run a 1½-inch flow pipe under the ridge of each house, and use four 1¼-inch returns in each of the 12-foot houses and six returns in the 17-foot house. The returns should be distributed under the benches.

PIPES CLOGGED WITH WATER.

I am enclosing a sketch of the heating system of seven houses of which I am foreman, and should like to have you criticise the arrangement and suggest the best way to improve it. The piping has not been giving satisfaction. Last winter, with twenty pounds of steam at the boiler, it was impossible to keep a proper temperature. I should like to make just as few changes as are necessary to bring the system up to a fair degree of service. The houses belong to the vegetable department of a well known firm of growers in southwestern Pennsylvania, who also have a range of flower houses in connection. A steam heating system is used and the water is returned by gravity.

The houses do not run exactly east and west, but for the sake of clearness of description I will suppose that they do. The boiler is near the southeast corner of the range. Beginning at the south side of the range, houses No. 1, 2 and 3 are each 18x180, five feet to the gutter and ten feet to the ridge. They are three-quarter span, with 11-foot south rafters and 9-foot north rafters. Houses No. 4, 5, 6 and 7 are each 16x 90, extending only half as far west as the other houses. The smaller houses are the same height as the larger ones and are also three-quarter span. The houses are on a hillside, with No. 1 at the lowest part of the slope.

The distance from the boiler to the point where the flow pipe enters the houses is about sixty feet. After entering the house, the 3-inch flow pipe is laid on the ground, sloping gradually uphill to the end of house No. 1; then uphill across Nos. 1, 2 and 3; then halfway back on No. 3, continuing uphill; then crossing the ends of Nos. 4, 5, 6 and 7. The branch lines are taken from this and distributed through the houses, two under each gutter and the rest suspended from the roof. All the branch lines slope back toward the boiler and connect at the east end of the houses with the 2-inch return.

Each branch line is fitted with a globe valve of the same size as the pipe, at the west end, and with a ¾-inch check valve at the east end. Is a ¾-inch check valve large enough for pipes of this length?

The crops are grown on ground beds: Lettuce is grown in fall and winter. In the spring Nos. 1, 2 and 3 are in tomatoes; Nos. 4, 5, 6 and 7 are in cucumbers. A temperature of 50 degrees in zero weather is desired for Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6, and 60 degrees for No. 7, in which the cucumbers and tomatoes are started. There is a partition between Nos. 3 and 4 and another between Nos. 6 and 7. The houses are the old wood-frame style, moderately exposed and not in first-class repair. From twenty to twenty-five pounds of steam are carried at the boiler during severe weather; yet at times the system clogs completely with water.

It seems to me that a ¾-inch check valve is too small for the branch lines, particularly as several feet of ¾-inch pipe are used in connection. I have thought of changing these to 1-inch check valves and adding two 1¼-inch pipes to each house, placing them under the gutters. Kindly advise me at your earliest convenience. V. S. G.

The sketch shows three 1¼-inch pipes in houses No. 4, 5 and 6, which are sixteen feet wide, and a varying number in the other houses, which provide about the same relative radiation, except in house No. 1, which has a 3-inch main in addition to three returns, and house No. 7, where there are two 2-inch and three 1¼-inch returns.

It is evident at the start that most of the houses are deficient in radiating surface, but this would be corrected by the addition of two 1¼-inch pipes in each house, as proposed. This, of course, would not prevent the backing up of the water in the pipes, but the substitution of 1-inch check valves would undoubtedly help this to some extent, although a ¾-inch valve is large enough to carry the drip water from a 1½-inch pipe 180 feet long. I would prefer to put in globe valves in place of the check valves and would leave them out entirely in case of the pipes to be added to the houses, unless some of them are to be unused for considerable periods in the winter.

I believe this would correct the difficulty, provided the water level in the boiler is six feet below the coils—and possibly a difference of four feet in-

WHEN YOU BUY—GET A KROESCHELL
"THE BOILER OF UNEQUALED FUEL ECONOMY"

You will never be disappointed with a KROESCHELL Boiler. Read what others say who have used different kinds.

Get the Kroeschell First

Several years ago Mr. Ponting corresponded with us in regard to the Kroeschell Hot Water Boiler, but was persuaded to install two sectional cast iron boilers which were claimed to be superior to the Kroeschell.

In the meantime we placed a number of Kroeschell Boilers in the immediate vicinity of Mr. Ponting, and he could not help but notice their great efficiency, and last year, while at the convention, he placed his order for his first Kroeschell. The following letter speaks for itself:

"We like the Kroeschell Boiler very much. It gives entire satisfaction, and it is so easy to fire. I will trade you the two cast iron sectional boilers for another like the Kroeschell I have."
July 16, 1913, Cleveland, Ohio. (Signed) FRED PONTING.

Kroeschell Replaces 4 Cast Iron Boilers

Previous to 1909, Mr. Schultz, of Menominee, Mich., heated his entire plant with cast iron boilers. It had been claimed that cast iron boilers are superior to the Kroeschell. Mr. Schultz is now heating 18,000 sq. ft. of glass with the Kroeschell which was installed in 1909, and they are required to fire same only twice a night. The following letter speaks for itself:

"We do not have the least trouble to maintain about 60 degrees in the coldest weather. Your Kroeschell Boiler is the best I ever had. Before I heard about your boiler I had four cast iron boilers, and I would not part with the Kroeschell for a hundred cast iron boilers now."
(Signed) CHARLES SCHULTZ.
July 21, 1913, Menominee, Mich.

Kroeschell Replaces 2 Cast Iron Boilers

The Marysville Floral Co., of Marysville, O., installed a No. 4 Kroeschell Boiler in 1905. Previous to this time they used cast iron boilers. The following letter speaks for itself:

"Has the Kroeschell given entire satisfaction? YES! We had two cast iron boilers, but yours proved by far the best. Your boiler has already outlasted the two cast iron boilers by five years, and all the expense that we have been put to was a smoke dome."
(Signed) MARYSVILLE FLORAL CO.
July 21, 1913, Marysville, O.

Kroeschell Replaces Cast Iron

The range of C. Peterson & Son, at Escanaba, Mich., was formerly heated by cast iron boilers. Last season this firm installed their first Kroeschell, a No. 6, which is now heating 13,000 to 14,000 sq. ft. of glass. They state that they fire these boilers three to four times during the night in zero weather. Under date of June 28, 1913, they write as follows:

"The Kroeschell Boiler has given better satisfaction than any other boiler we have ever had. For years we have fired many different boilers, and really never could get one that we might say was entirely satisfactory—there was always something wrong—but now since we have tried the Kroeschell, we have solved our boiler proposition. We have a (—— ——) cast iron sectional boiler here, only used two years, and we wish we could get rid of it and put in another Kroeschell in its place."
Escanaba, Mich., June 28, 1913. (Signed) C. PETERSON & SON.

stead of six might suffice—but unless this is the case I would put in a steam trap or pump, for returning the water to the boiler. By using a 4-inch flow pipe to where house No. 3 is supplied, it should be possible to heat the houses with less than five pounds of steam in mild weather, and the change would be desirable even though a pressure of twenty pounds is carried.

horse-power of boiler will handle these houses safely in this locality, the southwestern part of New York state? One end of the greenhouses is protected across their entire width by the boiler house. The temperature outside often drops to 15 degrees below zero. The piping will be brought up to requirements. L. F.

Three of the houses shown in the sketch are each 110 feet long. No. 1 is twenty-one feet wide, with thirty inches of glass in the outer wall. No. 2 is sixteen feet wide and is located between houses 1 and 3. The latter is twenty-one feet wide, with the exposed wall double-boarded and papered. House No. 4 is built across one end of Nos. 1, 2 and 3 and is twelve feet wide, with walls eight feet high, of which five feet are glass. The boiler is located at the other end of the main houses.

While a twenty-five horse-power boiler would heat these houses, one of thirty-five horse-power would be more economical in severe weather, and if the range is to be enlarged it might be well to put in a fifty horse-power boiler, which would answer for twice the present glass area.

The temperature desired is not stated, but for 60 degrees I would run a 2½-inch main overhead through house No. 1, and extend it as a 1½-inch main to connect directly with the coils in house No. 4. For house No. 1 nine 1¼-inch returns would be required, or seven returns for 50 degrees. In house No. 2 use one 2-inch overhead flow pipe and six returns for 60 degrees or five returns for 50 degrees. House No. 3 should have a 2-inch overhead flow and nine 1¼-inch returns for 60 degrees, although eight might answer if the house is in a sheltered location. Seven returns would suffice for 50 degrees. In house No. 4, connect the flow pipe brought in from house No. 1 directly with the returns, of which there should be eight for 60 degrees or six for 50 degrees. A 1¼-inch pipe for the drip should be carried through house No. 3. If the boiler is at the end of house No. 3, the main in that house should be 2½-inch and a 1½-inch pipe should be extended to supply the coils in house No. 4.

RANDO HOSE

The abuse, strain, wear and tear are all resisted—all due to the way RANDO HOSE is made.

Dragging and kinking the hose on cement and gravel walks between greenhouse benches, jerked around bench posts and supports, around sharp corners—takes some hose. The water pressure is its least strain—it's the way hose is handled by the user.

Not necessary to describe how it is made.

It does the work and it's worth the price by the YEARS IT WILL LAST.

Business has not improved much during the last week. Judging from the reports given out from the downtown stores, it appears that the European war is causing a considerable depression in trade, and some have felt it seriously in the last two weeks. Business is not at all settled, and while some have had little to do, others have been quite busy. Few weddings are taking place, but funeral work has been plentiful. This has given us a good chance to use a lot of outdoor-grown flowers. There is a glut of asters, and street venders are offering good stock at ridiculously low figures. Gladioli are not so good as they have been, but a lot of them remain on the market. Carnations are improving. The color of the Enchantress is good and they sell fairly well. There are plenty of roses. Large consignments of Killarney and White Killarney are handled daily. Kaiserin, Cardinal, Sunburst and Mrs. Taft are probably the best sellers. Easter lilies are of good quality and sell freely. Sweet peas are not overplentiful, but their quality is good. The call for valley is not extra large. Cosmos and zinnias are arranged in small baskets and sell readily. Early yellow chrysanthemums sell readily, but the supply is not large. The supply of green goods fills all requirements. The bulb season has started at some stores, but the majority of stores are not showing them as yet.

Various Notes.

George T. Boucher experienced three or four exceedingly busy days last week. Funeral work was heavy and counter trade was good.

Jacob Thomann & Sons have been successful again in securing prizes at the New York state fair, held at Syracuse. Their Rochester White gladiolus is still in good condition.

Charles W. Curtis' new greenhouse, which is being erected by the Lord & Burnham Co., will be completed in a short time. H. J. H.

Lancaster, Pa.—In addition to his florists' business, B. F. Barr conducts general agricultural work at Avondale farm. When the local florists' club held its recent outing there a big field of tobacco nearly ready for the harvest was one of the interesting sights.

Another Skinner Improvement

THIS TIME IT'S ON THE UNION

This new screw cap has a much longer shoulder and you can "get a hold" on it with a wrench.

Our turning union has always done the work we said it would do, exactly the way we said it would do it. It has grown from the simple idea of a Tee fitting and pipe handle into its present effective construction.

You see what a short shoulder the old screw cap had, and that there was no way to get a grip on it with a wrench.

But it's the Skinner System's system to continually ask its users to suggest anything they think would improve the apparatus. As a result we are continually receiving highly valuable points and helps from our thousands of users.

This Spring one of these customers said that he thought if the screw cap that held the brass nipple to the strainer bulb was made longer, that it would always hold the nipple in the one position of fitting squarely against the packing and prevent all possibility of leaking, no matter how badly the line itself might be out of true.

The same man also suggested that if another screw cap was made with flat faces on, instead of round, so that a wrench could get a grip to screw or unscrew it, that it would be an improvement. So we promptly made the shoulder of the cap much longer and so a wrench could fit on it.

So now we have a better union and a more convenient one. The cost will be just the same as for the old one.

Complete Portable Line for $11.75

For those of you who want to test out the Skinner System before investing in it extensively, this complete 50-foot portable line is just the thing.

We will send the entire equipment to you with nozzles all in the pipe and ready to connect up at once, for so small a price as $11.75, and pay the freight east of the Mississippi in the bargain—if cash accompanies order.

Order one now and try out this Fall so you will know exactly what to do next Spring.

The Market.

Business continues dull in most of the flower stores. Some few are occasionally busy with funeral work and a decoration sometimes gives a little stimulus, but trade on the whole is quiet. Carnations are not procurable. Roses are getting a little better and the demand for them is good. A few Easter lilies are coming in and find a ready market. Last week there were some cool nights, the temperature one night going down to 39 degrees.

Various Notes.

J. A. Sked, formerly with the Park Floral Co., has gone to Colorado Springs to take a position as foreman with Frank Crump.

Charles McCord and Miss Ina Whittaker, of the Park Floral Co., and Miss Edna McCord have gone to the mountains on a two weeks' fishing trip. They are camping at the foot of Mount Evans.

David Bengley, for the last three years foreman at the Elitch-Long Greenhouses, has resigned his position. He is now foreman at the Harmon place of the Mauff Floral Co. Mr. McNamara has taken Mr. Bengley's place at the Elitch-Long Greenhouses.

The Market.

We have been favored during the last week with some cool weather, which is a relief from the torrid days experienced during the summer, but, in spite of the favorable weather, business continues to drag along. The general run of stock is up to the average, with plenty in sight for all demands. Roses remain a drug in nearly all colors, except good whites, which are in active demand, with only a limited supply. The smaller grades of asters have decreased in quantity and are moving slowly. A few good asters are coming in and are selling well at fair prices. Gladioli are nearly over for the season; a few found their way to market last week, but the prices were low. Dahlias have begun to arrive in quantity, but the quality is rather below the average and the stems are short, owing to the dry summer. Carnations of fair size are coming in, but are short-stemmed and only suitable for funeral work, in which they come in competition with asters, with the choice in favor of the latter. The wholesale buyers have plenty of choice in the market at this time and are making the best of the opportunity, only purchasing the better grades at the prices of second-rate stock. A few mums are seen, but are not selling, as it is a little too early in the season for any marked demand in this line.

Various Notes.

Mrs. James Glass, who has been seriously ill for some time, is slowly improving, although not yet out of danger.

Hugo Walther has a fine lot of Crego asters in pots in all colors. They are finding a ready sale.

Mrs. H. J. Quick, who was recently operated on for appendicitis, has recovered sufficiently to come to market again, being at her stall on Saturday, September 5, for the first time in some weeks.

C. E. Akehurst & Son, of White Marsh, are making extensive preparations to disseminate their new seedling carnation, Mrs. C. Edward Akehurst, during the spring of 1915, through the Pennock-Meehan Co. They have four houses planted with this variety, for which many large orders have already been booked.

The next meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club will be held September 14. At this meeting final action on the matter of extending an invitation to the American Rose Society to hold its next annual meeting and exhibition in this city will be taken and a large attendance is hoped for, so that the matter may be thoroughly discussed.

J. J. Cummings has on exhibition in his store window a large American flag and a large shield composed of red, white and blue immortelles. These pieces are appropriate for the coming "star-spangled banner" celebration and are quite attractive. W. F. E.

LINCOLN, NEB.

Chapin Bros. have been making large additions and improvements to their range, which lies in one of the prettiest suburbs of Lincoln. Two semi-iron houses, 30x150; and one, 10x150; a brick boiler room, an 85-foot smokestack, two large Kewanee boilers and a completely new heating system are among the additions already completed. An office and a garage are now being built.

Frey & Frey have just finished rebuilding a large section of glass. Their greenhouses, situated in the heart of the city, are looking fine.

C. H. Frey and family have returned home from Lake Pelican, Minn.

GABLE INTERIOR OF BEAL'S GREENHOUSE.

Hitchings' Gables.

THERE is lots of chance to skimp on a greenhouse gable. It's one of the first things we look at, in going into a competitor's house. It's a lot cheaper to use more wood and less iron.

Such gables look strong enough. If they were strong enough, you wouldn't see so many of them heavily back braced by the owner. The gable framework on our iron frame houses is just as completely an iron frame as the roof.

In this gable view of J. W. Beal's house at Hanover, Mass., we have darkened the iron parts so you can get a distinct idea of all the iron members we use. Note that the iron and uprights run all the way up from the ground to the rafter, and that there are iron uprights on both sides of the door and filling sash.

If you will take the time to go with us, to see one of our houses, and look carefully at our construction and the careful, finished way we do everything, right down to the smallest detail, it will open your eyes. Let us give you a standing invitation to be our guest on such a trip of investigation. Let us know when you are ready and we will gladly arrange for it.

The Market.

There has been considerable rain lately, which has improved the outdoor stock, but the demand has been only fair. Asters, gladioli, cosmos and dahlias are good. In the greenhouses the roses and carnations are improving with the cooler weather. Roses are plentiful, but carnations are still scarce. Funerals have lately been few, and as this is about the only business to be had at this season, there have necessarily been quiet times.

Various Notes.

The Wm. Blackman Floral Co. is cutting plenty of roses, but reports rather a small demand. The firm is beginning to cut some carnations. The greenhouses probably look better now than in any previous year at this time. George Blackman and family went to Atlantic City last month, Mr. Blackman going on to Boston to attend the convention, while his family remained at the resort.

Julius Niednagel & Sons have their place in excellent shape. Everything is looking extra well. Their outdoor grounds are producing plenty of stock, including asters, cosmos, etc.

Last week was an unusually busy one, especially in funeral work. Trade, on the whole, made a good showing for August; what September has in store for us remains to be seen. Generally the quality of cut flowers in this market is good for this season of the year. Roses and lilies are abundant. Gladioli are equal to the demand, but asters were about ruined by the recent heavy rains.

ALWAYS MENTION THE FLORISTS' REVIEW WHEN WRITING ADVERTISERS

PLANNING THE CAMPAIGN FOR TELEGRAPH ORDERS

NOW IS THE TIME

MORE business is the continual aim of the florist who looks for his balance on the profits side of the ledger. The line which presents the greatest possibilities for development is the one which receives most of his attention. In the field of the retail florist the telegraph delivery of flowers of all kinds for all occasions has come to assume this position of importance, and the enterprising ones are devoting their energies to boosting this department of their business. Now, as the fall business begins to open up, these are laying their plans along this line for the coming season.

Inside the Trade.

The articles on the subject of telegraph delivery which have appeared from time to time in The Review and the work done to promote this branch of the business by "F. T. D." Pochelon and his associates have pretty thoroughly familiarized the members of the trade with the facilities and customs of this service. As a result, the organization inside the trade is fairly well perfected. The Review's index of retail florists is the leading directory for consultation by those sending orders, both in regard to the number included and the number who use it for reference; its list of over 230 names covers 150 cities of this country and Canada. Mr. Pochelon recently celebrated when his association passed the 200 mark in membership, as an event marking the progress of this branch of the trade. The progress is still going on, and the business grows as each retailer puts forth more energy in its behalf. But the energy that increases the profits in this line is that which is devoted to pushing the telegraph delivery of flowers with the general public. They are the ones we must interest to develop the business to its utmost. Upon their knowledge and use of this service depends the future of this branch of the trade.

In this particular matter, knowledge on the part of the public is of great importance. Not only must the regular patrons of the florist be educated to the more general use of this facility, but the large number of occasional patrons must be told of the service open to them. There are few persons who make more than infrequent use of the telegraph delivery. The greater part of the public makes no use of the service, although there are a large number whose material condition and manner of living would mark them as most likely to take advantage of this facility.

To reach these must be the endeavor of the retailer who is alive to the possibilities of this branch of the trade. His aim must be not only to tell them that there is such a service at hand for their use, but also to instruct them how and to what extent they may take advantage of it.

The Possibilities.

Telegraph delivery of flowers means more today than ever before. The beginning and early growth of the business was largely in connection with orders for the delivery of flowers to passengers on outgoing ocean steamers. Now this is only one of the many ways in which this service may be used to great advantage.

The spread of the business follows the increase in the variety of ways in which the telegraph delivery is put to use. It is up to the florist to suggest to his patrons, and to his possible patrons, what these many ways are. Steamer orders, funeral wreaths and long distance remembrances of the young man to his young lady do not and should not limit the extent to which wire orders may be utilized. Make it plain to the general public that flowers may be sent to friends and relatives in distant cities as cheaply as and more easily than gifts by parcel post, and a tremendous field is opened to this business. Once let the public know with what little bother they may remember their friends in distant parts, and a large and steady business in this line is assured. Wedding gifts, birthday remembrances, anniversary tokens, etc., can be of flowers, and these are much more easily sent by telegraph delivery than are other articles by parcel post or express.

How to Tell Them.

Of course all this must be told the public by means of advertising of one form or another. There are a number of ways, but some recommend themselves more to this use than others. In making his plans for boosting this business the coming season, each florist must consider his own patrons and the best way to impress them with this matter. He must keep in mind at the same time, however, that more general advertising will add to his list of regular customers.

First-prize Decorative Group of H. G. Dillemuth at the Toronto Exhibition Last Week.

Postcards, circulars or folders can be got up by the individual florist for his own use, or purchased, ready to mail, from publicity concerns, with the exclusive circulation of them in his own town. In getting up his own, the retailer must remember that this is a superior line of business and, to attract the people who are most likely to be interested, demands a superior grade of work. Handbills or dodgers, therefore, will not be effective. But a neatly printed folder, or booklet, telling in a detailed way of the organization of the service and the many different occasions on which it may be used, is bound to have attention. These can be slipped into the envelopes carrying bills, etc., to patrons, without necessitating additional postage.

Occasional, well arranged display advertisements in the daily newspapers, or preferably in one good newspaper of the town, are a good investment for the retailer who draws his trade from a wide area. With proper care as to the wording, so that a clear, understandable statement of the service is given, such advertisements should prove the means of drawing considerable trade. The statement should be a full and detailed one, however; the brief phrases such as "Telegraph delivery our specialty," or "We deliver flowers by telegraph anywhere," are quite clear to one who knows the whole story, but to one who is in ignorance of this facility they convey nothing. Much has been said in these columns of the steps that should be taken to determine which of his local papers is the best for the florist's use; particular care should be exercised in this instance, for the business can be made to pay only by drawing a high-class patronage. When this is secured the returns are handsome.

Billboards and Windows.

Billboards are fast coming into general use among retailers, although the aristocratic florist of ten years ago would have held up his hands in horror at the idea. The illustration on the preceding page shows a billboard used by a Cleveland firm to push the telegraph business. Similar ones have been made use of by retailers in other cities, to good advantage. Given a good lay-out, which it should not be hard for the ingenious florist to supply, a good sign-painter can make an artistic showing that will draw people's attention and consideration. If one makes use of this form of advertising, he should see to it that the position of his sign is a good one. There are two extremes to be avoided, one as bad as the other: The billboard should not be in an out-of-the-way place, where it will not attract the notice of the passer-by, but, on the other hand, it should not be directly alongside the sidewalk, so close to the pedestrian that he cannot read it, and only a blur to the passenger on the passing car. To be effective, the board should be in such a position that it can all be taken in at a glance.

A more and more popular form of advertisement is the window display. The florists who have put the telegraph idea into a window decoration have proved its value and others are fast learning of it. The popularity of the several telegraph delivery windows which have been described in The Review from time to time has been attested by the number of notices of similar windows which appear in the news-letters of cities in various parts of the country. Each florist adds something of his own, and here and there an ingenious decorator will transform one of the displays into something quite different but equally effective.

At flower shows, county and state fairs, in floral parades, etc., retailers are taking advantage of the opportunity to push the telegraph delivery of flowers with the general public. Energetic and ingenious members of the trade are using the means which seems to them best for this purpose. Space has only permitted a few suggestions along this line, to show what the enterprising florist can do during the coming season, if he will begin to lay his plans now. The field is a large one and the opportunities great; there are handsome returns in sight for the retailer who will do his part in its development.

Part of Work Furnished by George Rye for Funeral of a Fort Smith Banker.

AT THE TORONTO EXHIBITION.

One of the largest exhibitors at the Toronto exhibition held last week, the report of which appears on page 76 of this issue, was H. G. Dillemuth, of Toronto. Out of sixteen entries he received thirteen first prizes, one second, one third and one first which was disqualified. The illustration on page 10 shows his decorative group, which took the blue ribbon in its class.

RYE'S FUNERAL PIECES.

September 8 was a busy day for George Rye, of Fort Smith, Ark., whom his letterhead designates as "Some Florist." On that day, during the afternoon, he turned out ten set pieces for the funeral of a prominent banker of the city. The work was commenced at 12:30 and the photograph reproduced on page 10 was taken at 5:30. The failing light necessitated the taking of the photograph before the finishing touches had been put on the pieces that are shown therein, and two more designs do not appear, as they were not yet completed. The work was all finished up in Mr. Rye's usual style, however, before it was sent to the funeral. Out of the seventeen pieces among the floral remembrances, ten were of Mr. Rye's making. In addition, he furnished twenty-four bunches of flowers.

CRABB & HUNTER'S WREATH.

The big contest in the floral department of the West Michigan State Fair is for the blue ribbon in the design class, and this year competition was exceedingly strong. As is to be supposed, therefore, the piece which won the first prize was of high class in conception and workmanship. This was a wreath, the work of the Crabb & Hunter Floral Co., of Grand Rapids, Mich., trimmed mainly with red roses. The base was entirely of red roses and adiantum fern, and the wreath, of magnolia leaves, was trimmed with roses, valley and adiantum. The accompanying illustration gives a view of the wreath as it appeared before the eyes of the judges, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert L. Vincent, of Ionia, Mich.

PLANTS FOR AQUATIC POOL.

Will you kindly give me some information in regard to aquatics? I have built a cement tank in one of the ground beds in the greenhouse and intend growing aquatics. I will also have some goldfish, principally as an attraction for visitors. I would like to know what plants, etc., are suitable for such a place, their time of bloom, whether any of them are injurious to the fish, etc.; in fact, any suggestions which you could make that would add to the attractiveness of the place. The tank is 4x12 feet and about two feet deep and is located where it gets sunlight all day.

C. D. S.

You can grow two or three nymphæas, varieties which are not too robust in habit. They can be planted in tubs or half barrels submerged about six inches. Use swamp muck and cow manure for compost. Cover this with a good layer of sand to hold the compost down and prevent the water being so much discolored. Better grow some of the hardier varieties, such as Nymphæa Marliacea albida, white; N. Marliacea rosea, rose pink; N. Marliacea carnea, soft pink; or N. Marliacea chromatella, yellow. The foregoing are free and continuous bloomers. A few robust plants submerged, such as Sagittaria natans, or arrowhead; Vallisneria spiralis and Cabomba viridifolia, will aërify the water and keep it pure. They will grow well at a depth of twelve to twenty-four inches.

One or two other desirable aquatics for you to grow are: Limnocharis Humboldtii, or water poppy, yellow, poppy-like flowers, a continuous bloomer; Myriophyllum proserpinacoides, or parrot's feather, delicate foliage; Eichhornia crassipes major, or water hyacinth, hyacinth-like spikes of flowers; Cyperus alternifolius; Trapa natans, or water chestnut; Calla Æthiopica and Limnanthemum nymphoides, water lily-like leaves and yellow flowers. Your tank will not hold all the varieties named, but you can make a selection from them. I would not try to grow more than two or at most three nymphæas. Use pots or tubs for the various plants, elevating some which may need to come near the surface of the water. None of the aquatics are harmful, quite the reverse.

C. W.

HOW FAR GLASS SHOULD LAP.

How far should glass be lapped in glazing greenhouses?

E. C.

For panes twenty-four inches or less in length, three-sixteenths of an inch will be found a desirable lap, but for larger panes one-fourth of an inch will be better. When the lap is one-half inch or more, soot and other dirt collect between the panes and obstruct the light, and if ice forms there is danger that the glass will be cracked.

Occasional, well arranged display advertisements in the daily newspapers, or preferably in one good newspaper of the town, are a good investment for the retailer who draws his trade from a wide area. With proper care as to the wording, so that a clear, understandable statement of the service is given, such advertisements should prove the means of drawing considerable trade. The statement should be a full and detailed one, however; the brief phrases such as "Telegraph delivery our specialty," or "We deliver flowers by telegraph anywhere," are quite clear to one who knows the whole story, but to one who is in ignorance of this facility they convey nothing. Much has been said in these columns of the steps that should be taken to determine which of his local papers is the best for the florist's use; particular care should be exercised in this instance, for the business can be made to pay only by drawing a high-class patronage. When this is secured the returns are handsome.

Billboards and Windows.

Billboards are fast coming into general use among retailers, although the aristocratic florist of ten years ago would have held up his hands in horror at the idea. The illustration on the preceding page shows a billboard used by a Cleveland firm to push the telegraph business. Similar ones have been made use of by retailers in other cities, to good advantage. Given a good lay-out, which it should not be hard for the ingenious florist to supply, a good sign painter can make an artistic showing that will draw people's attention and consideration. If one makes use of this form of advertising, he should see to it that the position of his sign is a good one. There are two extremes to be avoided, one as bad as the other: The billboard should not be in an out-of way place, where it will not attract notice of the passer-by, but, on the o hand, it should not be directly al side the sidewalk, so close to the pe trian that he cannot read it, and on blur to the passenger on the passing To be effective, the board should b such a position that it can all be ta in at a glance.

A more and more popular form of vertisement is the window display. florists who have put the telegraph into a window decoration have pr its value and others are fast learn of it. The popularity of the sev telegraph delivery windows which been described in The Review from to time has been attested by the n ber of notices of similar windows wh appear in the news-letters of cities various parts of the country. Each rist adds something of his own, here and there an ingenious decor will transform one of the displays something quite different but equa effective.

At flower shows, county and st fairs, in floral parades, etc., retailers taking advantage of the opportunity push the telegraph delivery of flow with the general public. Energetic ingenious members of the trade using the means which seems to t best for this purpose. Space has permitted a few suggestions along line, to show what the enterprising rist can do during the coming season he will begin to lay his plans now. field is a large one and the opport ties great; there are handsome ret in sight for the retailer who will do part in its development.

A few robust plants sub merged, such as Sagittaria natans, or arrowhead; Vallisneria spiralis and Cabomba viridifolia, will aërify the water and keep it pure. They will grow well at a depth of twelve to twenty four inches.

One or two other desirable aquatics for you to grow are: Limnocharis Humboldtii, or water poppy, yellow, poppy like flowers, a continuous bloomer; Myriophyllum proserpinacoides, or parrot's feather, delicate foliage; Eichhornia crassipes major, or water hyacinth, hyacinth-like spikes of flowers; Cyperus alternifolius; Trapa natans, or water chestnut; Calla Æthiopica and Limnanthemum nymphoides, water lily-like leaves and yellow flowers. Your tank will not hold all the varieties named, but you can make a selection from them. I would not try to grow more than two or at most three nymphaeas. Use pots or tubs for the various plants, elevating some which may need to come near the surface of the water. None of the aquatics are harmful, quite the reverse.

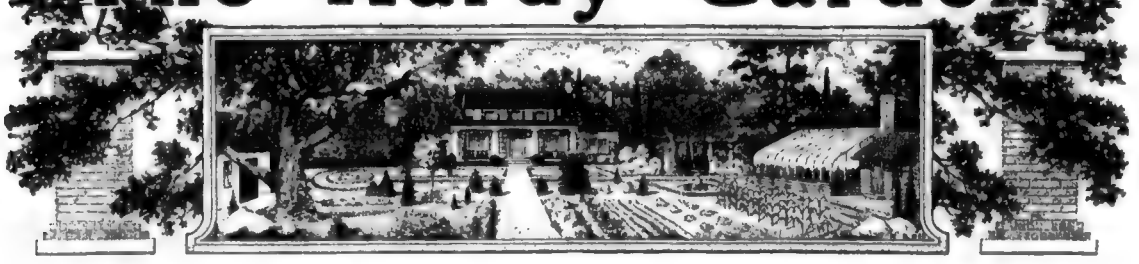
HOW FAR GLASS SHOULD LAP.

How far should glass be lapped in glazing greenhouses?



E. C.

For panes twenty-four inches or less in length, three-sixteenths of an inch will be found a desirable lap, but for larger panes one fourth of an inch will be better. When the lap is one half inch or more, soot and other dirt collect between the panes and obstruct the light, and if ice forms there is danger that the glass will be cracked.

The Hardy Garden

THE HARDY PERENNIAL GARDEN.

Hardy Chrysanthemums.

One or two varieties of hardy chrysanthemums are already flowering. Of these Seven Oaks, double yellow, has been in bloom over a month. Rosy Gem, with light pink, single, daisy-like flowers, an introduction from Korea, is graceful; so, also, is Autumn Glory, pure white. Many of the small pompon varieties are in bud, but it will be October before these commence to make a show.

Artemisia lactiflora, with its light, airy looking, pure white panicles of flowers, scented like a cratægus, is splendid for cutting. Our plants are five feet high and attract the attention of all visitors. The only campanulas left are a few C. pyramidalis, now nearly over, and the little dwarf C. Carpatica, or Carpathian bellflower. The latter blooms all summer long and is one of the best plants for edgings and rock work that we have. Another border or rock plant never without flowers in summer or fall is Viola cornuta. The varieties V. alba and V. atropurpurea, or G. Wermig, are the best. These violas are easily propagated from cuttings. Cut some of the blooming plants and they will soon give a great crop of nice, stocky, succulent cuttings. These violas do not come true from seed.

Three Good Montbretias.

Montbretias are not usually treated as border plants; many do not class them as hardy. With a good covering of leaves and with well drained ground, 25 degrees below zero will not harm them. A fine trio of sorts are Germania, G. Davidson and Prometheus.

Of the funkias, F. lanceolata, with blue flowers, is now open. F. subcordata grandiflora, with its large, handsome leaves and spikes of pure white flowers, is a little on the wane. In the way of bright colored flowers, Geum coccineum Mrs. Bradshaw, double scarlet, flowers persistently, and is one of the best of late novelties. Lysimachia elethroides, with its long, dense, recurved spikes of white flowers, is a fine florists' perennial. It lasts remarkably well in water.

Excellent for Cutting.

Boltonia asteroides, white, and B. latisquama, pink, are two robust plants now in flower, excellent for cutting, and each grows from five to seven feet high. There is a dwarf pink variety, B. latisquama nana, which I have found extremely useful. The hardy larkspurs, or delphiniums, are giving a nice second crop of flowers now. Early spring-sown seedlings of these are also blooming finely, D. Chinensis being a mass of flowers.

A useful perennial for cutting is Pyrethrum (Chrysanthemum) uliginosum. Some years the tarnished plant bug raises havoc with it; otherwise it makes a wonderful show. It is best to divide it every second year.

Other Marketable Flowers.

Stokesia cyanea and S. c. alba are still full of their large, cornflower-like flowers. Centaurea montana and C. dealbata are also flowering freely. Cimicifuga simplex, Monarda didyma, M. didyma rosea, Eupatorium ageratoides, E. cœlestinum and other useful plants are still flowering.

Physostegia Virginica and P. V. alba are fine perennials for any florist to grow and increasing numbers are seen in the markets each year. The plants are now at their best and are five feet in height. Rudbeckia maxima, four feet in height, with large yellow flowers with black centers, and R. Herbstone, six feet in height, are the two best rudbeckias at this season.

No one should fail to plant some of the beautiful Thalictrum dipterocarpum. The flowers are lilac-mauve, with yellow stamens. The plants are four to five feet high. It is grand for cutting, perfectly hardy and is easily raised from seed.

Showy and Effective.

Sedum spectabile, with its light foliage and immense rosy heads, is exceedingly effective now. The variety Brilliant is of a specially rich color. Lobelia cardinalis, usually associated with swamps, makes a grand border plant. To increase stock, I would advise anyone growing it to save his own seed and sow in January; then practically every seed will start. Most of the seed sold has no germinating properties left. We still have some few veronicas. For the backs of borders, the robust ironweeds, or vernonias, now in flower, are worthy of note. Lepachys pinnata, with finely divided leaves and yellow flowers with a black cone, is quite effective.

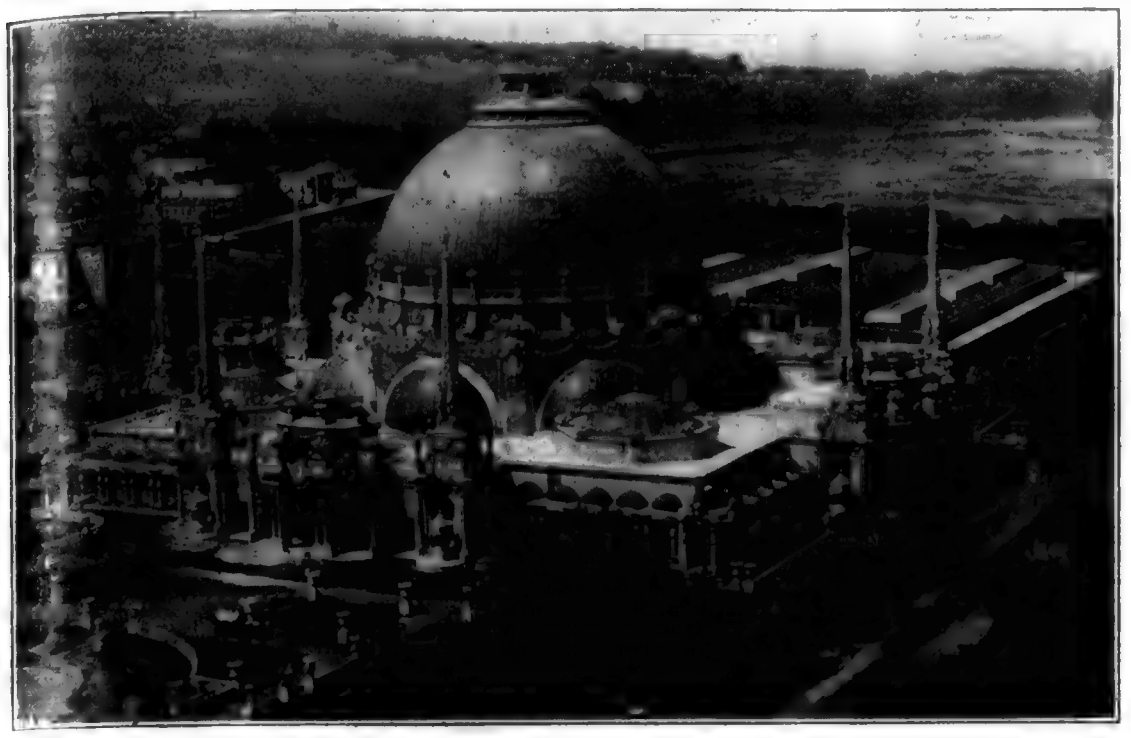
This does not by any means exhaust the host of September flowers and I have not named lilies. Among these the various forms of Lilium speciosum are now making a grand show. L. auratum, L. superbum and L. tigrinum each help to make the hardy garden attractive at this season. And here and there I note a few of the colchicums, or autumn crocuses, coming through the soil, a sure sign that summer is nearing its end.

CARNATIONS

LOWER LEAVES DYING.

There is something wrong with our carnation plants. The trouble looks to me like a blight, if there is such a thing as carnation blight. The leaves turn brown and die, usually the lower ones, but sometimes one or more farther up. So far, no plants have really died. The plants left in the field are affected almost as badly as those in the house. The white varieties are affected much worse than the pink or red ones. We are now spraying with Bordeaux. Is there anything else we can do? Will the plants outgrow it?

K. & S.



You do not give enough data on which to base an opinion and so I can only surmise what may be attacking your carnations. Sometimes the drying up of the lower leaves is the result of a lack of nourishment, in cases where the roots refuse to take hold of the new soil readily. When a plant is lifted, it contains enough vitality to support the foliage a few days without nourishment supplied through the roots, and if the roots become reëstablished within a few days, nothing more than a slight cessation of growth takes place. But if this break in the supply of nourishment from the roots is prolonged, the leaves begin to die for lack of it.

Another common cause of dying foliage on newly planted carnations is what is commonly known as leaf-spot. You will readily recognize this disease by the round, dark colored spots on the leaves. Fairy ring acts in a similar way, but differs in appearance in that it produces a dark colored ring instead of a solid spot. For both of these the Bordeaux mixture is the proper remedy. Pick off the affected leaves and continue the use of the Bordeaux about once in ten days. If the plants are not too badly affected, they will outgrow it, but if they have been severely checked, it might pay you better to replant with healthy stock. A. F. J. B.

DEPTH OF SOIL IN BENCH.

My carnations have been in the bench for one month and, as the soil was not extra heavy, it has settled down from the top of the side-boards. Would it be advisable to put some more soil on top to fill up the bench, using the same kind of soil as that in which they were planted? F. M.

It would not be advisable to add more soil to your carnation beds, as you suggest. Any soil, whether light or heavy, will settle down below the level of the edge-boards after a few waterings. If you started with four inches of soil, or thereabouts, you need not worry about not having enough depth after the settling has taken place. We have seen the finest carnations produced on soil that was not more than two and one-half inches deep when the plants were taken out after the season was over. We saw, on a prominent and successful grower's place, a bench of as fine Lawsons as we have ever seen, growing in soil that was only three inches deep at planting time. They were planted from 2½-inch pots and there was scarcely enough soil to cover the balls when they were set out, practically on the bottom of the bench. This instance proved that if the proper amount of food is supplied, in the form of liquid manure or top-dressings, it matters little how deep the soil is. We advocate four inches at planting time, because in that depth one is able to arrange the roots properly and to set the plant deep enough to make it stand up properly without having the roots lying on the bottom of the bench. A. F. J. B.

AN ANTIQUATED FUMIGANT.

Is fumigation with tobacco stems considered advisable for carnations, mums and general stock? Is not this considered an antiquated method of keeping down pests? Should nicotine be sprayed on carnations late in the evening—that is, late enough to leave the plants wet all night?

T. N.

Fumigating with tobacco stems is certainly an antiquated method of destroying greenhouse pests. Not only is it less effective than the more modern methods, but it is less convenient and is more injurious to the plants and blooms. While growers differ somewhat as to the best way to use the nicotine liquids for destroying aphis, thrips, etc., there is no question as to the superiority of the liquids over either the stems or the dust. Some growers use the tobacco paper, which is simply paper saturated with the liquid. Others fill the houses with fumes by pouring the liquid on the hot steam pipes. Others, again, ourselves among them, spray the plants by means of compressed air sprayers.

We usually spray in the afternoon and frequently do not finish until 6 o'clock. We do not consider that the plants get wet enough to cause any trouble, as a fine, mist-like spray is used. Besides, it is applied only about once each week and would not be likely to start trouble, even if the plants got considerably wetter than they do.

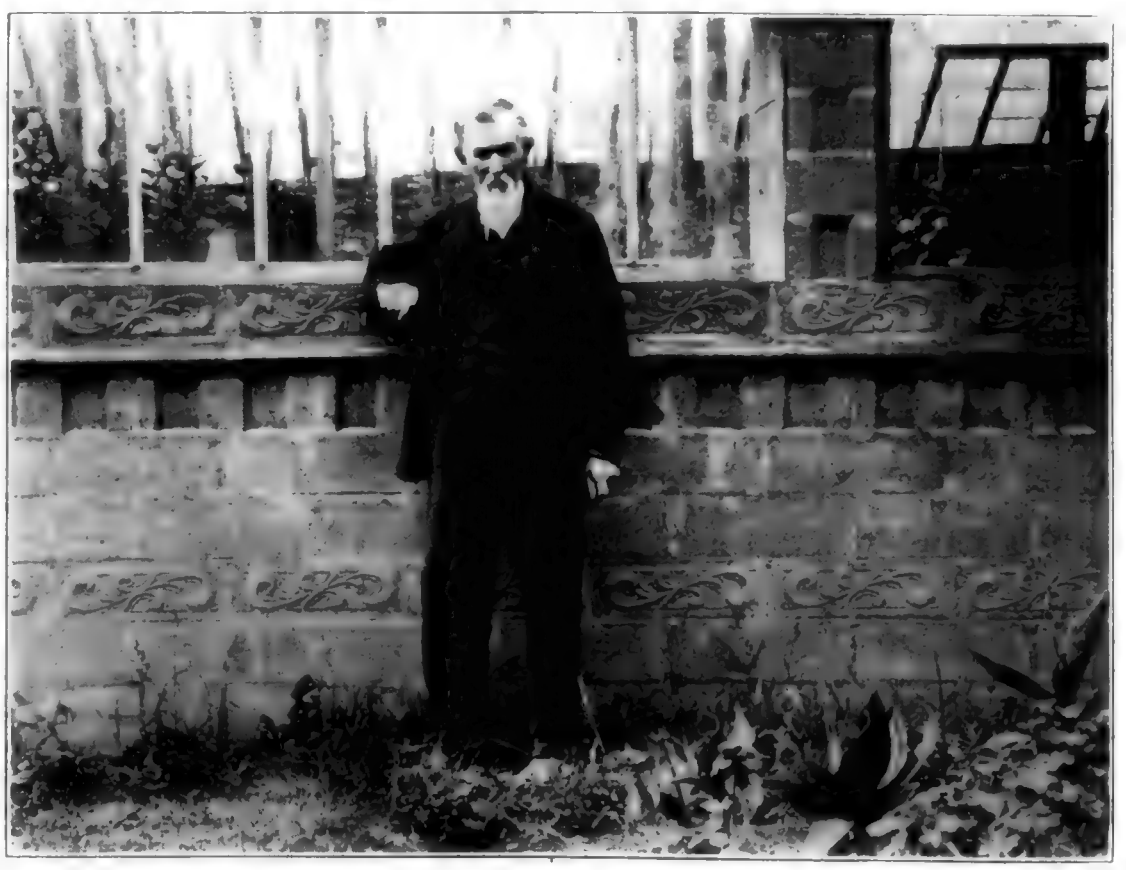
THE PALACE OF HORTICULTURE.



The building which is to house the displays of flowers, plants, etc., at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, at San Francisco next year, is completed, and is said to be one of the most beautiful and noteworthy structures on the grounds. The building itself is 300x600 feet. The glass dome in the center is 186 feet high and 152 feet in diameter, and is said to be a remarkable piece of architecture. According to the exposition architects, the domes and minarets of the Palace of Horticulture resemble in architecture those of the mosque of Sultan Ahmed I, at Constantinople, while the details of the facades, spires and other decorations are in the eighteenth century French renaissance style. Present plans are to have colored searchlights play upon the glass from within at night, giving an illuminative effect not unlike that of a great soap-bubble. The accompanying illustration gives a view of the Horticultural Palace as it is seen from a point 125 feet from the ground, in the Tower of Jewels, which is 435 feet in height.

A LOOK IS A TONIC.

"If by any chance you feel you are getting old, take a look at this cheerful optimist of 86 busy summers, and figure out how many useful years you have ahead of you," is the advice of F. A. Norton, of Ypsilanti, Mich., accompanying the photograph of Lucius C. Pierce, of Saline, Mich., which is reproduced herewith. In spite of the fact that he has added nearly another score of years to the allotted three score and ten, Mr. Pierce is still active and energetic. To keep his greenhouse establishment up-to-date, he has spent a busy summer putting in city water, installing concrete work and adding other improvements. The glimpse of his greenhouses given in the illustration serves to show the neatness of the whole place.

In addition to his ability as a florist, Mr. Pierce has considerable talent as a painter. He uses the former to keep up the appearance of his home outside, for he is one of those who believe that a florist's home grounds should be the show place of the community. The inside of his residence is not a whit behind, for this he has filled with oil and water-color paintings. Many of these are of the Civil war, through which Mr. Pierce served as a member of the Eleventh Michigan Infantry, and during most of the hot day on which this photograph was taken he was engaged in painting a picture of war times. His optimism, his energy and his talents, in addition to the experiences of his many years, make Mr. Pierce one of the most interesting members of the trade in his part of the state.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

Dutch Bulbs.

Dutch bulbs are arriving extra early this season and they appear to be of unusually good quality. The thrifty Hollanders probably anticipated this war and made shipments earlier than usual on that account. All fears of any bulb shortage are proving to be groundless; in fact, it is likely that more Dutch bulbs will arrive than ever before and low prices for them seem probable. Every country florist needs a good supply of these bulbs and now is the time to purchase if orders were not given earlier.

Unpack all bulbs on arrival, open the bags and spread out the bulbs on the floor or on shelves of a cool room. There are complaints each year of many bulbs failing to flower. This is often due to their becoming heated in transit. Certain narcissi, such as Victoria, Horsfieldii, ornatus and Emperor, are liable to be damaged in this way. If in doubt about their condition, cut one or two of the bulbs through with a sharp knife. If the embryo flower is fresh, the bulbs are all right; if it is brown, they are useless.

Get a good pile of compost ready for the bulbs. The sooner they are in the soil, the better flowers they will give you. Avoid all fresh manure. Use two parts well decayed fibrous loam and one part spent mushroom manure, hotbed manure or old cow manure. The manure should be passed through a ¾-inch screen. Also add some sharp sand. A few shovelfuls of soot also make a good addition, but do not use any chemical manures, as they would do more harm than good. If your loam is naturally stiff and retentive, one-fourth leaf-mold, not too well decayed, will be found good. Do not accept anyone's dictum that any old, discarded soil is good enough for bulbs. If you want to prove the truth or otherwise of this old fable, try a few flats in your old bench soil and compare the results with those obtained in properly prepared compost. Have a good supply of flats and pans in readiness; too often growers find they have a shortage and fail to order any until planting time arrives.

Stevias.

Frost often arrives in the northern states quite early in September and it is well, therefore, to keep careful watch on all naturally tender plants. One of these plants is the stevia, which is of great value to the majority of florists. Even a light freeze will spoil these plants, and, while it is not advisable to house them any earlier than is absolutely necessary, the plants should be stood where temporary protection can be afforded them on cold nights.

Solanum Capsicastrum.

If the Jerusalem cherries are not yet potted, lift them at once. The plants are now sure to be full of fruit and will need 5-inch or 6-inch pots, according to their size. After potting, soak the plants well and stand them where they can be given some shade on hot days, and where they will be within easy reach of the hose, so that they can be freely syringed. Plants lifted from the open are vastly superior to such as are pot-grown. The latter may ripen fruit a trifle earlier, but are much smaller and do not fruit as freely as the planted-out stock. Some growers still propagate from cuttings; such plants always ripen fruit early, but it is impossible to get nice, bushy plants by this method. A light freezing will not hurt solanums; they are much less delicate than stevias.

Mignonette.

The earliest sowing of mignonette is now coming along rapidly. Before the plants get too large, be sure to pull out all weak and useless plants. Keep the surface soil loosened and weeds pulled out. The ventilators must be open night and day, as mignonette will simply not tolerate any coddling. Of the several pests which occasionally attack mignonette, the one most to be feared is the larva of the white butterfly, which at this season deposits its eggs on mignonette, cinerarias, calceolarias and all members of the brassica family, to mention only a few plants. Kill all the butterflies you can reach; look over the plants carefully and hand-pick any caterpillars found on them.

Hard-wooded Plants.

It seems to be a foregone conclusion that we shall have to worry along without azaleas from Belgium the coming season, and left-over stock is likely to be worth good money. It is a fact that carried-over plants, if they have been well supplied with water, will bud more freely and flower decidedly earlier than the imported plants, and it seems too bad to see many left-over plants thrown away each season.

Azaleas, ericas, camellias and other hard-wooded plants prefer a somewhat peaty soil, but all succeed well in loam, especially when some leaf-mold and sand are added to it. Reduce the balls as much as possible, in order to get them into pots of moderate size, and firm the soil thoroughly, being particularly careful to press it well around the sides of the pots. The plants can stand outdoors until frost threatens, when they should be stored in some frost-proof pit or frame. Use the hose freely on them during bright weather.

Primulas.

All the primulas are now making rapid growth. The best place for them for some time yet is a coldframe. The plants will be much stockier there than in any greenhouse. P. Sinensis and P. obconica, if wanted for Thanksgiving and Christmas, should now go into their flowering pots, which should be of the 5-inch or 6-inch size. They prefer a light but fairly rich soil.

P. Kewensis, with its golden yellow flowers, is an exceedingly decorative variety and worthy of the increased attention of florists. Its leaves are brittle and more care is necessary when repotting it than in the case of other varieties. P. malacoides has jumped wonderfully to the front. It is far the most decorative of all the primulas and last winter it made a lot of headway commercially. The mistake was often made of sowing this variety too early. Huge plants resulted, which rotted badly in midwinter, owing to the foliage being densely packed on the plants. When seed sowing is postponed until about July 1, plants of adequate size can be had and there is little likelihood of their centers rotting if the hose is kept off them and the plants are given a light, sunny, airy house.

THE GLADIOLUS

FORCING GLADIOLI.

Will America and Augusta gladioli, which were planted this spring and flowers cut from them, force this winter? When should the bulbs be taken up and planted in the house? How long before they will bloom again? A. F. C.

They will flower, but not so satisfactorily as new bulbs. If you have been forcing them under glass I would not attempt to force them, as failure is sure to result. Bulbs, if outdoors, can be taken up from the middle to the end of October. America and Augusta can be planted indoors as early as January. It is not advisable to start them earlier, or a large proportion will grow well but will not flower. Better keep your bulbs and plant them outdoors any time after frost has left the ground. Gladioli planted indoors in January will bloom in April. Those planted in February will flower in May and early in June.

C. W.

VARIEGATED GLADIOLI.

I want to find out if I have a new departure in gladioli, a seedling of Mrs. Frank Pendleton, having similar flowers but smaller. This is its first bloom. It has fine variegated leaves, with a distinct white edging, which makes the growing plant handsome, instead of dull and stiff in appearance as is the usual growth. It is something like the aspidistra. If it is new, it is worth working up. M. P.

Gladioli with variegated foliage crop up occasionally. Usually the variegation is not perpetuated, however, and it is more than likely that stock from your variegated plant will come green in another season. However, if the variegation is sufficiently pronounced to be distinct, it would be well to save all bulblets and increase your stock.

FLORICULTURE AS A PROFESSION.

Its Possibilities.

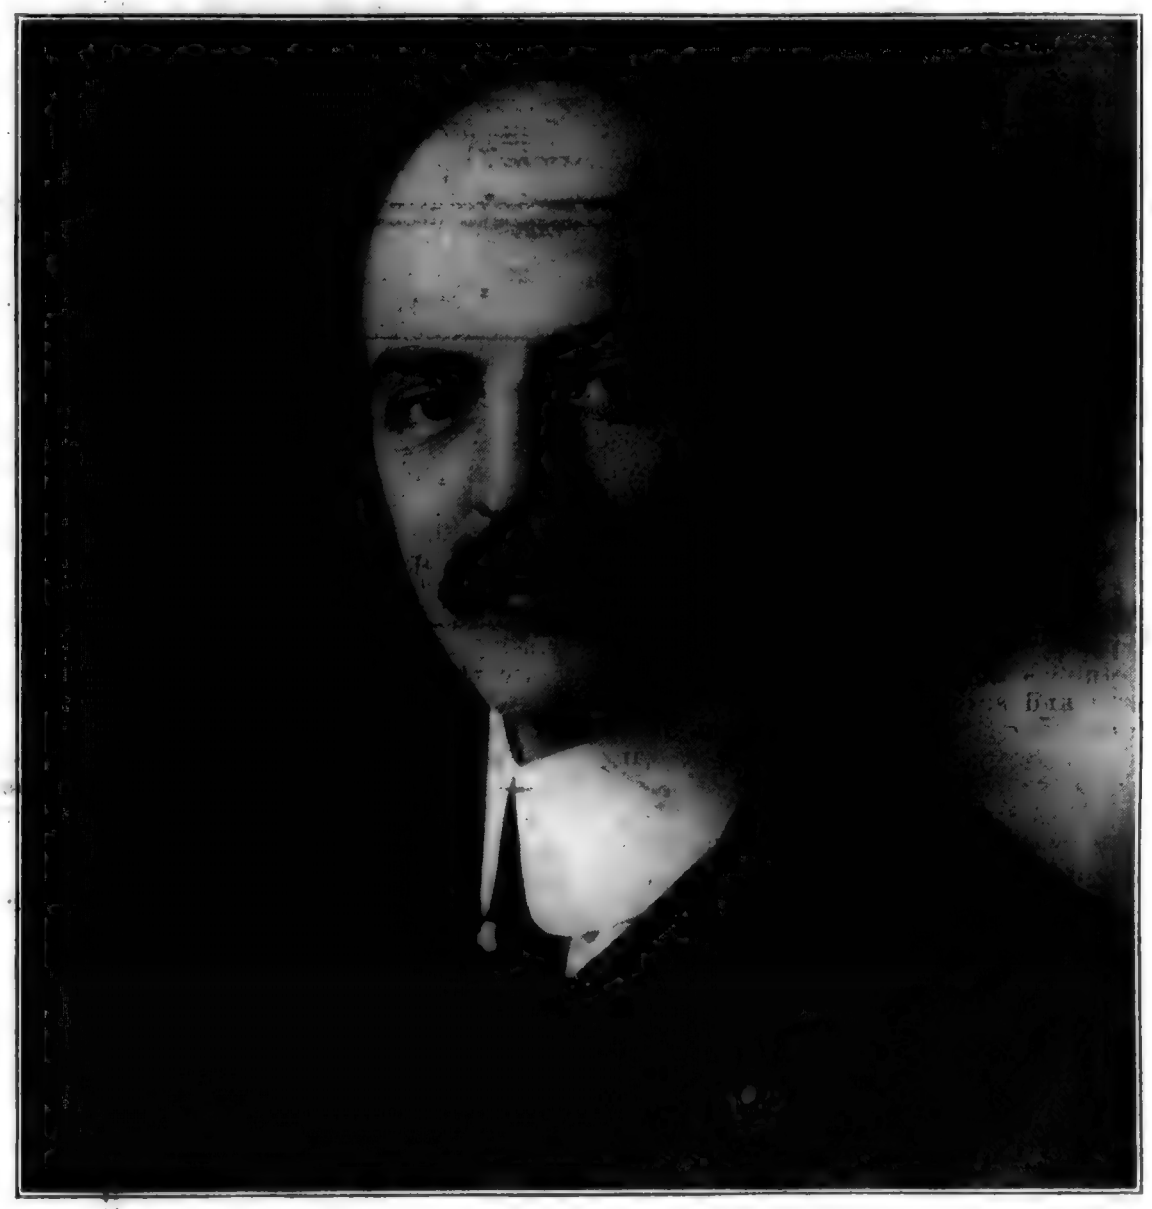
A pamphlet just issued by the department of floriculture of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, at Amherst, presents, in addition to information in regard to the instruction, equipment, etc., of the department, a brief survey of the field and its possibilities and opportunities for one taking up floriculture as a profession. In this regard, the pamphlet reads:

"The growth of the cut flower industry during the last twenty-five years has been phenomenal. The last decade has also witnessed great advances in the production of ornamental plants. In fact, the growing of flowers and plants under glass, which was originally a luxury of the wealthy, has developed into a profession which here in New England is one of the most important of agricultural specialties.

"In commercial floriculture, the east, particularly New England, owing to its nearness to market, has made wonderful progress. In this section the industry is still in its infancy and destined to undergo still greater development and more radical changes. We have by no means reached the limit of improvement and we have reason to expect as much advancement in the future as has occurred in the past.

"Floriculture is now a profession based on scientific knowledge. It is no longer in an experimental stage; it has assumed immense proportions, and is upon a safe basis. Granting that the production of flowers and plants is an important industry and that the number of conservatories in public parks is increasing, the question naturally arises: 'What are the opportunities for scientifically trained men and women in floricultural work?'

Opportunities.



"The opportunities for trained men and women may be classed under four heads, (1) commercial work, (2) private estate work, (3) park and cemetery work and (4) instructional and experimental work. Commercial work is mentioned first, because it undoubtedly offers the largest opportunities. One who has sufficient capital, and who has had practical experience, so necessary to success in conducting a business, may either go into business for himself or buy a small establishment which with a little individual effort may be put on a paying basis. Should the funds not be available, there are many chances where the young man or woman can find employment on one of the larger established places. This is also probably the best plan for those who have not sufficient practical experience. In the larger establishments one man cannot possibly oversee all the work, so the plant is divided into sections, each section being in charge of an expert grower. One must not lose sight of the fact that experience is a valuable asset in all lines of horticultural work and for this reason it is always a good plan to round out one's education by working in some progressive establishment.

"In private garden work there are opportunities equally attractive and numerous. There are many private estates in this country, all in charge of superintendents or gardeners, in which positions a knowledge of floriculture and other subjects related to estate management is essential. The only difference between this type of work and commercial floriculture is that salaries are fixed and income is not dependent upon a fluctuating flower market.

"In parks and cemeteries there are always good openings for men with a thorough knowledge of floricultural subjects. Every park in our larger cities has a conservatory where plants valued for botanical and ornamental purposes are housed. A modern cemetery must also have a glass range of sufficient size for the growing of the many bedding plants that are used from year to year. The man in charge of a public conservatory or cemetery range works under essentially the same conditions as one on a private estate.

"At the present time many excellent opportunities are found in instructional and experimental work. Here we have a field practically unexplored. A prominent investigator not long ago made the statement that this work offered the broadest field for investigational work within the domain of agriculture. Although the field is large and the problems numerous, there are but three states having proper facilities for experimental work. Floriculture is a new subject from the standpoint of education. The growing demand for trained men has been strong and the more progressive state institutions have met this demand by the establishment of more or less complete courses in floriculture and others will follow as soon as money and men are available. The opportunities, therefore, are excellent along this line.''

THE MEN YOU MEET

ANGELO J. ROSSI.

AMONG the men you will meet when you attend the San Francisco convention of the S. A. F. next August will be Angelo J. Rossi, one of the partners in the wide-awake retail concern of Pelicano, Rossi & Co., and one of the active workers in all undertakings affecting the trade welfare. Mr. Rossi, conducting a high-class retail store, appreciates the business value of flower shows and always is one of the leaders in the San Francisco exhibitions, giving his services in the management and also figuring as an exhibitor, for the full publicity value of a flower show goes only to those who are exhibitors. When the San Franciscans organize for the convention work they will put a goodly share of the responsibility on Angelo J. Rossi, who will, as the saying goes, "be there with the goods."

NEW YORK.

The Market.

The coldest week for fifty years in early September is over. The mercury was down to far below 50 degrees here, and at no great distance from New York there were frosts, and in the mountains snow. This week opened with a rising temperature, and the usual fall weather for six or seven weeks may now be depended on. The cold snap was a godsend to the cut flower market, lessening the receipts and losses considerably, and so steadying prices, even though no increase in value was evident.

The shipments of asters and gladioli have materially decreased, but there still arrive more than the market can profitably digest. Prices remain low, at about the same level as last week's quotations. Another week and there will be but the few stragglers remaining. Following closely on the retreat of these come the dahlias and chrysanthemums. Some good Golden Glow may already be seen in the display windows of the wholesalers. There will be other varieties of mums before the week is over, and more than enough dahlias for the market's needs.

Tritomas now are abundant and of splendid size and quality. The same may be said of Clematis paniculata and hydrangeas. Valley maintains its improved values and longiflorum lilies have at last begun their climb to more respectable quotations. In orchids, cattleyas hold well at last week's level, but oncidiums are hard to move.

Few good carnations are received and these seldom bring over $1 per hundred. The improvement of the shipments, both in quantity and quality, should be evident before the week ends.

Tremendous shipments of roses have continued through the week, great quantities of them too small and short-stemmed for use. There should be speedy improvement. Low rates still prevail for American Beauties. For the selected roses of all varieties the demand is growing daily.

Club Meeting.

An attendance of about 100 reopened the season at the initial meeting of the Florists' Club Monday evening, September 14, President Duckham in the chair.

Chairman Traendly reported, for the transportation committee, an expenditure of $98.81 for the entertainment of the club and its guests on the boat from New York to Boston on the occasion of the S. A. F. convention. Many of those present said it was one of the pleasantest evenings in their experience. W. F. Sheridan, M. C. Ford, Traendly & Schenck and the Growers' Cut Flower Co. were thanked for contributions of flowers.

H. Wessel, M. Daly and G. Clark were elected to membership, and Jos. J. Lane was nominated.

John Young spoke in behalf of the flower show next March and announced a guarantee fund of $5,000 and $4,000 worth of space contracted for.

Reference was made to the new plan of affiliation with the S. A. F. whereby any florists' club with 100 or more members of the society in its ranks is entitled to representation on the board of directors of the S. A. F. The club having 156 of its members also members of the S. A. F., the secretary was instructed to notify the S. A. F. the club desires to be represented on the board of directors.

C. H. Totty thanked the club for its loyalty to him. Addresses also were made by J. G. Esler, W. E. Marshall, H. A. Bunyard, John Donaldson, F. H. Traendly, J. H. Pepper and P. O'Mara.

John Donaldson, captain of the victorious bowling team, got a rousing reception as he unfolded his tactful plan of battle and conquest. Notwithstanding having made this year the highest 5-man score ever made in the S. A. F. contest, he said the triumph of the club at Minneapolis, where they won every first prize, was the crowning record of its career.

A vote of thanks was tendered the Boston club for its splendid entertainment.

Julius Roehrs, back from the war zone, gave an interesting address. ''No place like the U. S.,'' was his conclusion. He thinks there will be great shortages for some time.

The exhibits of the evening were a vase of Firebird cannas, from Bobbink & Atkins, of Rutherford, and a vase of Buddleia variabilis magnifica from Wm. Tricker, of Arlington, N. J., each of which received a vote of thanks. Mr. Bunyard thought the canna worthy of a preliminary certificate.

Max Schling made a ringing speech in behalf of general improvement in all branches of the trade by legitimate and persistent publicity.

Various Notes.

Wm. Plumb, superintendent of floriculture at the San Francisco exposition, is in the city, after a thorough canvass of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New England. He says he has been greatly encouraged by prospective and secured exhibitors. Among others he refers to Wm. Tricker's aquatic exhibit, to occupy many thousand feet of space, outside and inside, contracted for by A. T. Boddington, and the certainty of the erection of a large greenhouse by one of our leading firms. He thinks ''the war will help the fair,'' and anticipates leaving for San Francisco in November.

Alfred Scheider, partner of Max Schling, and Mrs. Scheider are back from a month's holiday at New England resorts. Business, they say, is already booming.

T. J. McDonough, formerly in business in Cleveland, is now in New York, where he expects to remain permanently.

The big show windows of the Stumpp & Walter Co. are centers of display. Every novelty and staple for the suburbanite is attractively featured. All the leading seed houses make their window decorations novel and attractive.

The plant and bulk auctions began Tuesday, September 15. It will be December before they close. Every Tuesday and Friday is the program, with special sales for Christmas. The MacNiff Horticultural Co. has a million bulbs to dispose of.

Frank Cuthbertson, of C. C. Morse & Co., is in the city, having returned from Europe September 12.

H. A. Bunyard will continue to occupy his Patchogue home until November. He reports a large demand for sweet pea seed.

Maurice Fuld drew a $7,000 house last week at Gloucester, in behalf of the Red Cross Society. His lecture was ''Gardening.'' September 17 he lectures on ''Bulbs'' at Lawrence, L. I.

M. C. Ebel, of Madison, N. J., has purchased the Gardeners' Chronicle.

It is said the new store at the corner of Sixth avenue and Twenty-eighth street will be the headquarters of Guttman & Raynor.

Chas. Millang and family returned September 14 from their summer at Stamford, Conn.

B. S. Slinn, Jr., says violets will appear in the market next week.

Wm. A. Hanft has applied for a patent on a system of construction of a circular wreath, in the making of which anything can be used adapted to florists' use and at much less expense than regular immortelle wreaths are now made.

The MacNiff Horticultural Co. has on exhibition a cantaloupe weighing twenty-eight pounds, a variety of its own introduction, known as NacNiff's Mammoth. J. Austin Shaw.

The contract S. Jacobs & Sons have received from the Department of Parks is for greenhouses to be built in Prospect park, Brooklyn. It is to be a range of semi-iron greenhouses 20x133 and 25x133, furnished with patented combination steel and iron gutter and ventilated with the Jacobs ventilating apparatus. The benches will be iron-pipe-frame, and the houses will be heated by hot water. There will be, also, a full iron-frame, bent-eave greenhouse fifty feet wide.

CONSERVATORIES NOT READY.

According to Supt. Nussbaumer, St. Paul's $58,825 greenhouses at Como will not be finished September 30, according to contract. The contract bound the King Construction Co., of Tonawanda, N. Y., to have the houses finished by August 31 and the palm and show houses finished by September 30, ''if the foundation work were sufficiently finished'' by June. The growing houses are not finished and the palm and show houses cannot be finished by September 30, it is said. According to Fred. Nussbaumer, superintendent of parks, the foundations were finished in time to have the rest of the houses completed as specified. But the construction company may smile, for when the contract was made by the old park board no penalty for failure to complete the buildings on time was included.

NITRATE OF SODA.

Can you give us a little information in regard to using nitrate of soda on geraniums? We have a couple of benches of Poitevine we ran over from last year. They are well rooted in the beds, but do not seem to show any inclination to produce new wood. We would like to try feeding nitrate of soda, but as we have never used any we do not know just how to prepare it.

W. T. B. C.

Use one pound of nitrate of soda diluted in a 50-gallon barrel of water. Be careful not to apply any stronger. If the plants need it, give them a second dose three weeks later, but do not apply any more, as nitrate of soda produces a soft growth. Fine bone scratched into the soil also is good. I consider it preferable to the soda, as it does not produce soft growth. C. W.

BALTIMORE.

The Market.

During the last week the "star spangled centennial" celebration was the chief attraction, to the utter disruption of the local flower market. Little business outside of funeral work is being done, although plenty of stock of all kinds is available. Roses of all varieties are abundant and are becoming of better quality, but the demand is poor, except for whites, which sell fairly well. Asters continue to produce some good flowers, although plenty of smaller ones are in evidence and the wholesale houses unload vast numbers on the street boys, who are offering them at ridiculously low figures. With cool weather, dahlias are improving and are selling fairly well. Gladioli have greatly decreased in numbers, although a few are still seen. Carnations are a little longer in stem, but are still in poor demand. A few chrysanthemums are seen, but the demand is limited, as outdoor stock must be over before they will find much of a market.

Various Notes.

The floral auto parade of September 8 was a disappointment to the majority of florists, as only a few cars were decorated by florists and the rest were done at home by the owners, chiefly with artificial flowers. A number of florists decorated their own cars and entered them and two were prize-winners. Forthuber Bros. entered a large touring car, well decorated with asters, gladioli and greens, and it won a silver loving cup. R. L. Graham's car was artistically arranged with red gladioli and asters and he received a valuable touring outfit for his efforts. Charles Hochstedt had his car entirely covered with plumosus and outlined with red, white and blue asters, with a dove, composed of white asters, over the hood. George Lurssen also had a machine in line, well decorated with hydrangeas, asters and gladioli.

Chris. Gregorius, of Pimlico, is sending some excellent asters to the Leo Niessen Co.

Samuel Feast & Sons had the decoration at the Fifth Regiment armory for the military and naval ball held there September 11. The building was artistically decorated with flags, bunting, laurel wreathing, palms and ferns. Only a few cut flowers were used. This was one of the gala nights of the celebration and was a great success.

The Leo Niessen Co. is handling large quantities of asters. On some days last week as many as 15,000 were moved.

W. F. E.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

The last two weeks have been cool. Everything is growing well and from the looks of the stock we are to see a nice cut of mums before the month is out. Business has been dull, except for a heavy run of funeral work that lasted most of last week. There are few surplus flowers at present. Roses are rather plentiful and are of good quality. Maryland and Kaiserin are the two that are most in evidence. There are a few carnations on the earlier benched stock and some of them are quite good. In some quarters there is an abundance of snaps. Valley is the scarcest we remember having seen it in this city. The growers have a pretty good supply in cold storage pits, but they mean to keep them there until later in the season. Dahlias are coming in slowly, but we have some good ones. Gladioli are plentiful and of the best quality of the season.

Various Notes.

The Dutch bulbs are coming in, at least one firm having received all of theirs and others a part. The quality is better than it was last year. There will be fewer French bulbs grown here than there have been for years, not because they cannot be had, but because they are too expensive. There are several things being planted to take their place, but sweet peas seem to be the favorite substitute. It is safe to say that there will be more peas grown here this season than ever before.

FLORISTS' PUBLISHING CO.
530-60 Caxton Bldg. Chicago

I venture a guess that more people have stopped in front of the window of the Joy Floral Co. this week than in the whole year before. The reason is not far to seek. The window has a real living picture of a stream of water, a mill, a mill pond, ducklings, a boy fishing, a snake sunning himself on the bank, and a lighthouse with two boats. The effect is irresistible. I do not know how many of the people go in, but they certainly stop, look and then send their children.

Floyd Bralliar has just returned from a business trip in the gulf states. He reports things as rather unsettled in most of the extreme south, as a result of the lack of a market for the cotton. Some of the florists are cheerful and look for things to be back to normal soon, while others are pretty pessimistic. On the whole, there is little if any extension of business at present. Collections are much slower than they have been for a long time.

Geny Bros. are having a good sale on bulbs. Thus far they have had things pretty much their own way, as no one else seemed to have any to offer.

We are told that Mr. Green has his houses in good shape for the fall business. He has been here but one season, but he means to get his part of the business this fall.

The Haury houses are looking the best we ever have seen them. They bid fair to have the best cut of flowers this season that they ever have had. The early mums are looking well, and will be in as soon as they are needed.

F. B.

ST. PAUL, MINN.

The Market.

Conditions during the last week have been quite satisfactory to the florists. Last week was state fair week and this is fashion show week. On account of these, most of the retailers are doing more than their ordinary run of business.

State Fair Flower Show.

At the state fair last week $1,308 was distributed in prizes to florists. The plant stock exhibited this year was of about the same quality as that shown in previous years. The cut flower exhibits, however, brought out some exceptionally fine stock. The best of stock was used in making the special pieces, as well as a high grade of workmanship. Outside of the gladiolus classes the prizes were divided among four firms, two of Minneapolis and two of St. Paul. The Minneapolis Floral Co. and John Vasatka represented the former city, while Holm & Olson and the Riverside Greenhouse Co. upheld the standard of the latter. The complete awards were as follows:

Decorative plants, covering 100 square feet—Holm & Olson, first; Minneapolis Floral Co., second; John Vasatka, third.

Decorative plants, covering fifty square feet—Holm & Olson, first; Minneapolis Floral Co., second; John Vasatka, third.

Decorative plants, covering twenty-five square feet—Holm & Olson, first; Minneapolis Floral Co., second; John Vasatka, third.

Gladioli, twelve yellow—George Long, first; D. W. C. Ruff, second; Riverside Greenhouse Co., third.

Wreath on easel—Holm & Olson, first; Riverside Greenhouse Co., second; Minneapolis Floral Co., third.

Basket of cut flowers—Minneapolis Floral Co., first; Holm & Olson, second; Riverside Greenhouse Co., third.

August S. Swanson, the veteran St. Paul florist, acted as judge. W. H. Bofferding, of Minneapolis, assistant superintendent of the fair, had charge of the flower exhibits.

State Florists' Association.

The regular meeting of the Minnesota State Florists' Association was held at Holm & Olson's store, September 9. The annual election of officers took place at that time. All officers, with the exception of the members of the executive committee, were reëlected, as follows: President, O. J. Olson; vice-president, W. D. Desmond; secretary, Gust. Malmquist; treasurer, E. P. Holm; executive committee, Theodore Wirth, C. N. Ruedlinger, L. R. Cady and S. D. Dysinger.

Theodore Wirth entertained the association with an interesting talk on the Boston convention.

The association decided on an afternoon and evening meeting, to be held in Minneapolis, Thursday, November 12. It was also decided to affiliate with the Minnesota Horticultural Society at its annual meeting in December.

Various Notes.

The St. Paul Florists' Club started its regular meetings Tuesday, September 15. The annual election of officers will take place at the October meeting. This club anticipates a rousing good season, and all the members seem to be enthusiastic.

Mr. Sherman, of Charles City, Ia., was a recent visitor, as was also P. Clausen, of Albert Lea, Minn. C. R. F.

HARTFORD, CONN.

The Market.

The supply of outdoor flowers is still heavy, with little demand. There are no carnations in the market as yet. The supply of roses is light and they move at fair prices. Greens are scarce.

Various Notes.

Louis L. Barton has his entire place in fine shape. Part of the roses have been replanted and are coming along nicely. He does considerable farming on the side.

John Ahlquist, of Plainville, reports that he has his houses all planted and that business is excellent for a beginner.

W. R. Pierson is on a hunting trip in Maine.

Martin Ribsam has returned to Trenton, N. J., to join his father's force, after spending nearly four years in the employ of A. N. Pierson, Inc.

Alex. Cummings, Jr., is wearing a smile; another son arrived at his home September 6.

At the Connecticut fair, at Charter Oak park, the trade took but little interest this year. In the line of table decorations and floral designs the Bon Ton Flower Shop practically had the field to itself. Among those having exhibits were Miss Whiting, W. W. Hunt & Co. and A. N. Pierson, Inc. The private gardeners made a good display; they were the backbone of the floral department. R. C. S.

DES MOINES, IA.

State Fair Flower Show.

In the classes open to professional florists at the Iowa state fair, which ended September 4, the prizes outside of the gladiolus classes were divided among the Iowa Seed Co., the Wilson Floral Co. and Wm. Trillow, all of Des Moines. In the gladiolus classes G. D. Black & Co., of Independence, Ia., and George S. Woodruff, of the same town, won places on the list of awards. The table decorations made by the Des Moines firms won particular praise, especially that of the Iowa Seed Co., which won first prize in the luncheon table class. The complete list of awards is as follows:

Blooming plants, not less than twenty-five varieties—Iowa Seed Co., first; Wilson Floral Co., second; Wm. Trillow, third.

Decorative plants, not less than twenty varieties—Iowa Seed Co., first; Wilson Floral Co., second; Wm. Trillow, third.

Twenty-five yellow roses—Iowa Seed Co., first; Wilson Floral Co., second; Wm. Trillow, third.

Twenty-five white roses—Iowa Seed Co., first; Wilson Floral Co., second; Wm. Trillow, third.

Table decoration for dinner—Wilson Floral Co., first; Wm. Trillow, second; Iowa Seed Co., third.

Table decoration for luncheon—Iowa Seed Co., first; Wilson Floral Co., second; Wm. Trillow, third.

CLEVELAND.

The Market.

The local market is gradually righting itself and stock moves better than for the last two months. A few good asters are to be seen. Gladioli still are plentiful. Dahlias are offered in quantity. Roses are much better in quality. Only a few carnations are to be had. Valley and giganteum lilies have been scarce.

Various Notes.

Dutch bulbs are now coming in fast. Several of the large growers have expressed themselves as not being in favor of increasing their supply at war prices. Buying an extra lot of bulbs at so-called bargains would only tend to overload this market and hurt the sale of their regular stock. While there seems to be no sale limit to the amount of roses and carnations that can be grown during the winter months, bulbous stock soon becomes a glut when grown in abundance.

Leonard Utzinger, Sr., has just returned from Germany and has an interesting story to tell of his experiences in getting out of the war zone.

At the regular meeting of the Florists' Club the annual election of officers was held, with the following result: H. P. Knoble, president; Fred C. Witthuhn, first vice-president; George Bate, second vice-president; Frank A. Friedley, secretary; George W. Smith, treasurer.

The Chrysanthemum Society of America in November, 1915, and the Society of American Florists in August, 1916, are both wanted for Cleveland. Committees have been appointed to do all in their power to secure these conventions for Cleveland in the years named. F. A. F.

Moundsville, W. Va.—Extensive improvements and a large addition are being made at the range of Mr. Snedeker, on Twelfth street. Increasing business makes the larger glass area necessary.

Montgomery, Ala.—No diminution in business on account of the European war is looked for by W. B. Paterson, proprietor of the Rosemont Gardens, and he is prepared for the biggest year's record in his concern's history. The addition of two houses, 35x400 feet, duplicating those erected in 1912, has made possible the growing of 20,000 more carnation plants, 5,000 more chrysanthemums and 5,000 more roses. The concern is sending out post cards giving a view of the newly erected range.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Los Angeles, Cal.—The Los Angeles Flower Market, Inc., filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy September 15. The concern conducted a wholesale and retail business at 822 South Broadway. The business was started some years ago by Charles E. Morton, fresh from Chicago, where he had been in the retail end of the trade. Later he was joined by Frederick Sperry, who had for some years been in the wholesale commission business in Chicago. Charles E. Morton is now president of the corporation and Frederick Sperry its secretary. No statement of the assets and liabilities is yet available.

Toledo, O.—Friedman, Taylor & Foster, attorneys in the Ohio building, have notified the creditors of the Art Floral & Decorating Co., 315 St. Clair street, that "the company is hopelessly in debt," offering a settlement of 25 cents on the dollar, stating that "unless we can get the creditors to accept this amount the company will be forced to go into bankruptcy." It is said the majority of the creditors have signified their acceptance of the settlement.

Alvin, Tex.—Acting on receivership proceedings against the Alvin Japanese Nursery Co., instituted in the Eleventh district court September 10 by nine creditors, Judge A. R. Homblen appointed S. B. Brown receiver and fixed his bond at $25,000. In answer to the petition, the company admitted all allegations in the petition. The creditors suing are W. S. Stevens, Northrup & Clark Saddlery Co., Reichardt & Schulte Co., Texas Co., M. F. Montgomery, South Texas Implement & Vehicle Co., Citizens State Bank of Alvin, S. J. Daugherty and K. Kishi. According to their petition, the Alvin Japanese Nursery Co. has assets of approximately $200,000 and liabilities of $111,000. Although perfectly solvent, the creditors feared that property of the company might be attached by some one creditor. They maintain that it is to the public interest to continue the business and that a receiver is needed to do so. Among the assets is said to be a fine crop of rice, worth between $20,000 and $25,000, and a crop of oranges worth from $3,000 to $4,000. The petitioners claim $39,100 is due them.

Santa Cruz, Cal.—R. O. Lincoln, auditor, states that the Leedham Bulb Co., of this city, has ceased operations and "its affairs are being closed by the directors under the stockholders' liability." The company was organized a number of years ago by the late E. Leedham, who died in 1908. The present officers are: President, G. H. Norwood; secretary, O. J. Lincoln; treasurer, Henry Willey; manager, J. H. Willey. Caifornia bulbs were the organization's specialty.

Peoria, Ill.—W. I. Slemmons, attorney for Susan M. K. Murray, executrix of the estate of James C. Murray, states that the estate is insolvent, the final report of the executrix showing that a final dividend of eleven and three-fourths per cent will be declared to the creditors upon the approval of the report, set for hearing in the Probate court September 26.

Detroit, Mich.—Charles Keller finds business good and constantly increasing, and so he is adding three houses, 30x190, and building a brick store and a nine-room dwelling.

OBITUARY

Peter Bohlender.

Peter Bohlender, one of the best known nurserymen in this country and head of the firm of Peter Bohlender & Sons, proprietors of the Spring Hill Nurseries, at Tippecanoe City, O., died of general infirmities at his home in Tippecanoe City, Tuesday afternoon, September 8, at the age of 78. Mr. Bohlender had not been active of late in connection with the nurseries which he founded, leaving the management to his son, W. F. Bohlender, and his son-in-law, Harry N. Kyle.

He was born in Allenbaugh, Bavaria, Germany, in 1837, of a family of gardeners. He came to Ohio at the age of 6 and by the time he was in his teens he was in the employ of a nurseryman near Dayton. He established the Spring Hill Nurseries and built up a large business. The land at Tippecanoe City comprises forty-five acres, and there are nearly 600 acres held by the firm in Oklahoma and Missouri. As a founder and promoter of Arbor day, Mr. Bohlender did some good work. He is survived by four sons, Dr. E. E. Bohlender and Howard Bohlender, of Dayton; W. F. Bohlender, in charge of the nurseries at Tippecanoe City, and P. L. Bohlender, in the management of extensive orchards in central California; and by three daughters, two of whom, Ida Bohlender and Mrs. H. N. Kyle, reside at Tippecanoe City. Funeral services were held at the family residence in Tippecanoe City Thursday afternoon, September 10, and burial was in the cemetery at that place.

John E. McMichael.

John E. McMichael, of Louisville, Ky., died on his forty-fifth birthday at Waverly Hill Tuberculosis hospital September 8, following an illness of several years. He was connected with the establishment of C. B. Thompson Co., at Louisville, thirty years. He was removed to the hospital six weeks ago from his home, 1437 Hazel street. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Augusta McMichael, his mother and three brothers. Funeral services were held at St. John's Evangelical church, September 10, burial being in Cave Hill cemetery. There was a large attendance and many flowers.

Harry C. Cook.

Found by his wife, unconscious from gas flowing from an open jet through a tube to his mouth, Harry C. Cook, of Philadelphia, did not revive September 10, although a pulmotor brought to the house from the Hahnemann hospital was pressed into use. According to Mrs. Cook, her husband had been acting queerly for some time. She awakened at 4 o'clock that morning and found her husband all right. Later it is supposed that he arose, dressed and went to the third floor, where he ended his life. Mrs. Cook missed him at seven o'clock and, detecting the odor of gas, traced it to the room where she found his unconscious form.

Mr. Cook for many years had been a florist in South Philadelphia. He took an active interest in Republican politics and was a member of the Twenty-sixth Ward Republican Club. He also was a member of Potter Lodge, No. 441, F. and A. M.; Osage Tribe, No. 113, I. O. R. M., and a number of other social and secret organizations. A widow and two daughters survive. The funeral was held at the home at 1208 South Broad street September 14, many in the trade attending.

Thomas Edward Towerson.

Thomas Edward Towerson, aged 45, died at Woodburn Park, Spring Station, Ky., at 1:45 Tuesday morning, September 1, from injuries received when his horse kicked him Sunday, August 30. His skull was fractured in two places and he received internal injuries as well.

Mr. Towerson was a native of Millfield, Keswick, Cumberland, England. He was in the employ of Dr. A. J. A. Alexander, of Woodburn Park, Spring Station, Ky., and was highly esteemed as an upright and valuable man. He is survived by his wife. He was a member of the Church of England. Services were held at St. John's church, Versailles, and burial was in the Versailles cemetery September 3.

Cromwell, Conn.—Wallace R. Pierson, secretary and assistant treasurer of A. N. Pierson, Inc., has started on his annual vacation, which will run into October. He has, as usual, taken to the woods.

West Hanover, Mass.—Alpheus Packard, who has been in the florists' business for more than a quarter of a century, has sold his greenhouses to Edwards Bros., who will move them to their place on Whiting street.

Tampa, Fla.—F. A. Knull, of the Knull Floral Co., has returned from a good summer vacation and is prepared for an excellent season's business. It has been a dull summer, as usual in this section, but there has been improvement in September and prospects are not at all bad.

St. Joseph, Mo.—A hail storm September 7 caused about $1,000 damage at the range of George R. Butchart. About 5,800 square feet of glass were broken and many plants destroyed. Fred Luecht, who grows vegetables under glass, suffered a loss of $400 from broken lights.

Mansfield, O.—Paul Kopanka and E. M. Lintott, proprietors of the Mansfield Floral Co., have bought out the Berno Floral Co. Edward Berno and his son, Lee Berno, expect to leave for Florida shortly and make their home there. Less than a year ago Mr. Kopanka and Mr. Lintott came here and purchased the greenhouses of the Berno Floral Co., operating them under the name of the Mansfield Floral Co., and now they have acquired the retail store of the concern, which they will conduct in connection with their greenhouses.

Springfield, Mass.—Mark Aitken is opening a branch store on Main street, which will be known as the Aitken cash branch. It will be run in connection with the main store at 484 Main street, but on a different policy. Mr. Aitken says that the business done there will all be done on a cash basis, and special sales will be a feature. To do away with the heavy expense of special deliveries, two regular deliveries are to be made each day, one at 11 a. m. and one late in the afternoon. Mr. Aitken says that through the cash policy and new system of delivery he will be able to make a ten per cent discount on regular prices.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

Incorporated by Act of Congress, March 4, 1901.

Officers for 1914: President, Theodore Wirth, Minneapolis; vice-president, Patrick Welch, Boston; secretary, John Young, 53 W. 28th St., New York City; treasurer, W. F. Kasting, Buffalo.

Officers for 1915: President, Patrick Welch, Boston; vice-president, Daniel MacRorie, San Francisco; secretary, John Young, 53 W. 28th St., New York City; treasurer, W. F. Kasting, Buffalo.

Thirty-first annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., August 17 to 20, 1915.

RESULTS.

We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

ALREADY plans are being made for next spring. The supply of bedding stock that will be worked up will break all records.

EFFICIENCY in the management of a florist's business lies in the avoidance of waste—in securing the maximum result at the minimum expense.

THIS is the season of the state and county fairs and the trade is taking advantage of them about as usual—not nearly so many exhibitors as we would like to see.

UNLESS all signs fail, there soon will be tremendous quantities of mums to be disposed of, with unprecedented quantities of winter sweet peas coming along a little later.

BUSINESS is steadily settling down to something like normal conditions in those parts of Europe not within the theaters of war and it begins to look as though most of the trade staples will get across the Atlantic one way or another. Even the German stock is likely to move, it now is thought.

IN recent years the trade has grown more rapidly in the middle west than in any other part of the country and at present the middle west is the one section of the trade that is filled with optimism. The big crops and their record-breaking farm values give the middle western florists basis for anticipating the best season yet.

SOME members of the trade are worrying about the supply of Manetti stocks, on which depends the supply of grafted rose plants for spring sales. From all appearances, the English Manetti will come along as usual, with the probability that the French crop also will be shipped, perhaps with some delay. Cost no doubt will be higher than usual.

HONORABLE MENTION.

Not a few subscribers save themselves the bother of annual renewal by sending The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper. Among those who have this week enrolled themselves for more than one year in advance are:

TWO YEARS.

Copeland, Mrs. E. R., Monroe, Wis.
Cowey, S. R., Walpole, N. H.
Humfeld-Orear Floral Co., Kansas City, Mo.
Pieser, George, Chicago.

The Review stops coming when the subscription runs out. The new green notice with the last copy tells the story; no bills are run up; no duns sent.

TRADE NEWS WANTED.

The Review would like to print the trade news from all centers not now regularly represented in its columns; such cities as:

Minneapolis,	Utica,
Omaha,	Albany,
Louisville,	Toledo,
Memphis,	Houston,
Syracuse,	San Francisco.

and any others that are not given the showing they ought to have.

Don't wait to write to The Review about it. Start right in—send a letter for publication in next week's issue. Show the trade what you can do.

SOME AZALEAS COMING.

Conditions in Belgium may not be so bad as the newspaper reports and the absence of direct advices would lead one to believe. At least a part of the azaleas are coming, as Ralph M. Ward & Co., New York, report having received, September 14, the papers for a shipment of azaleas from C. Petrick, of Ghent. The plants are on their way, having been shipped via Rotterdam and the Holland-America line. The plants are due on the next boat. Mr. Ward expects further consignments via the same route. Word also has reached Philadelphia houses that their azaleas will come, via Rotterdam.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

The principal change in the last week was a general shortening of the rose supply. In the ordinary course of the crops the cuts were due to be lighter and the weather was such as to reduce supplies. Where the market has for two or three months had more than the usual number of roses, in the last few days the receipts have been below the normal for this time of year. But there has been no scarcity. The demand has been light. For some reason not yet apparent the call for roses is not so strong as it usually is in September. The general report is that the net results of the business are about as usual, so that about as much stock as ever is being consumed, but the demand is better for other flowers than for roses. If the demand were normal the prices of roses would be much higher, with the moderate supply, than is the case at present. The wholesalers expect the advance at any moment and are watching for the signs that the turn has come. In a general way the roses are of a quality that justifies the growers in expecting more money than they have been receiving; the stock would be good value at considerably higher prices. The weather this week is such as to accelerate the cuts.

The supply of Beauties decreased along with the general cut of roses, but it still is impossible to clean up without bargain sales.

Carnations are selling well and there is an increase in the supply of good, clean stock from the plants indoors. The quality of the best grade has justified adding another 50 cents to the quotation. The arrival of large quantities of asters from western New York has served to weaken the prices in this department. The really good asters sell well, but there continue to be quantities of asters so poor that they scarcely are worth express charges. Gladioli are approaching the end of their season.

Giganteum lilies continue overplentiful; efforts to add a little something to the prices, which have been unprofitable, have resulted in sending buyers elsewhere Indeed, the prices tend to fall rather than advance. Valley, on the other hand, continues scarce; it has become difficult for one wholesaler to buy it from another. Cattleyas are in light supply and an occasional order for more than a dozen or two causes considerable scurrying around to fill it.

Chrysanthemums are beginning to be a factor. There now are enough yellow so that most of the wholesale houses have them on hand all the time. White is much less plentiful, but is to be had on early orders. The quality of the Golden Glow varies greatly. The grade that brings $2 to $2.50 per dozen is in greatest request, but it is easier to sell the best stock at $3 than it is the poorest at $1. Indeed, considerable stock is seen with so many browned petals that few buyers will make an offer. Such flowers never should be sent to market.

A few dahlias are seen. The Century and other singles are used by a few of the good stores, but only a limited quantity can be sold. Tritomas are plentiful and make good window decorations.

There is no change in greens; everything can be had in about the usual quantities.

Wholesale and Retail Florists

Terms of Sale: 40% on Subscription, 30% on Jan. 1, 1915, 30% on April 1, 1915

Bankers: ROYAL BANK OF CANADA, Grand Forks, B. C.

With the proceeds of the sale of shares we propose at once to erect an additional large range of greenhouses.

The present business is well established (since 1902) and has paid in the past 12% on the investment.

The market for the produce such as we grow is practically unlimited, situated as we are in the center of southern B. C.; with three railways entering, our shipping facilities are unexcelled, and the climate is ideal for a business of this nature.

This affords an opportunity for the small investor to invest in what is probably the most profitable business in Canada today.

We will allow, as a commission, 10% to anyone securing subscriptions.

Do it now, as this ad will not appear many times, and you may lose an opportunity that may not be offered you again in a lifetime.

Remember, you have until April 1915 to pay.

Frache Bros., Ltd., is the largest greenhouse concern in the interior of B. C.

Field The Florist.

What may develop to be the most important news of the season, so far as the retailers of Chicago are concerned, is the announcement that Marshall Field & Co. will open two flower sections within the next few days.

Richard G. Kootz, until a few months ago with the Fleischman Floral Co., has been engaged as buyer and florist. Two sections are being fitted up. The more elaborate of these is on the third floor, center building, State street side, adjoining a new and extensive confectionery section. A long but not deep display refrigerator is being installed, with artificial refrigeration. There will be no workroom facilities in connection, merely display and selling space. Another section, less expensively installed, is being established in the basement.

Early in the present year The Review reported that Field would go into the cut flower business, but this is the first definite news of the plans. Much success was had last spring with violet sales of the 19-cent variety, nearly 100,000 flowers being sold on single days, and it was generally admitted that Field, with the great store's unequaled facilities, could do a wonderful flower business with a fully equipped and capably manned department. Those familiar with the facilities of the best flower stores will not call the present Field flower sections fully equipped, although they no doubt have the facilities to do a large business along certain lines. At the start it is said the general store rules will apply, no Sunday deliveries, etc., but there is a possibility this will be changed later.

In addition to cut flowers and plants, Field's will handle, in separate sections, seeds, bulbs and garden tools.

Club Meeting.

The most interesting feature of the meeting of the Chicago Florists' Club at the Bismarck, September 10, was the vote to invite the American Rose Society to hold its Lenten exhibition and convention of 1915 in Chicago. President French anticipates that the club will be able to coöperate most effectively and that an even better show than the successful one of 1908 will result. The Rose Society has indicated that an invitation to Chicago undoubtedly will be accepted.

The following new members were elected: Joe Hoss, Morton Grove, Ill.; Nic Hansen, 5433 North Seeley avenue; Felix Reichling, 5627 North Ashland avenue; Jerry P. Jorgenson, Elmhurst, Ill.

Mr. Reinberg's Success.

The Democratic voters of Chicago gave Peter Reinberg a splendid indorsement in the primaries September 9. With six candidates in the field, seeking the nomination for president of the board of county commissioners, Mr. Reinberg received 36,878 votes against 26,436 for the highest of his five competitors. It was necessary for Mr. Reinberg also to secure a nomination for one of the ten vacancies as member of the board and it was here that he received the finest testimonial, as he re-celved 27,729 votes, heading the list, the next of the nine other successful candidates receiving only 20,282 votes. Mr. Reinberg's success was all the more striking from the fact that there were 148 candidates for the ten places and the florist's vote is remarkable from the fact that his name was away down in the middle of the list, where he would catch none of the chance votes. There promises to be a hot election, as the Republican-Progressive had in the primary 38,124 votes for president of the board, Mr. Reinberg having 36,878.

At the same primary Joseph A. Mendel, who runs two retail stores on the west side, sought the Democratic nomination for sheriff. Out of six candidates he ran second, receiving 25,792 votes against 50,215 for the winner.

Various Notes.

Frank J. Potocka, who recently has been with the J. B. Deamud Co. and for a number of years employed by various houses in the market, states that he will open a wholesale cut flower establishment September 19 at 179 to 183 North Wabash avenue, the southeast corner of Lake street, where fixtures are now being installed. The name under which the business will be conducted will be the Frank Florist Co.

Fred Klingel, of Erne & Klingel, has got the better of the stomach trouble that spoiled his summer. He says he did it principally by will power.

The Fleischman Floral Co. reports that steamer business is opening up again. This has been an important item of the summer business. For instance, orders aggregating $500 had been transmitted to New York for the Vaterland for the sailing next after the declaration of war. As the Vaterland still is tied up at New York, the business was lost. Quite a few orders were sent last week for the Mauretania.

After a stay at Excelsior Springs, Mo., Arnold Ringier returned home September 14. He has recovered from the attack of inflammatory rheumatism and neuritis which for four weeks kept him in bed with a trained nurse in attendance, but the return of his strength is slow. Also, his vest now goes at least once and a half way around.

John Kruchten was a visitor at Milwaukee last week.

A. L. Vaughan says his firm had the largest receipts of asters September 12 of any day this season.

George V. Wienhoeber is receiving congratulations on the arrival last week of a little daughter.

After two weeks of rest, Fred Ottenbacher returned to the market September 14 and the staff of Zech & Mann is complete for the season.

A fortnight's term of jury service was begun September 14 by A. C. Spencer, with Kyle & Foerster.

Three houses of Ophelia at Peter Reinberg's establishment are among the things in which Emil Reichling takes most pride this season. He says it is an exceptionally fine grower, and his brother, Felix, at the store, says it sells well. The Reinberg motor truck is resplendent in a new coat of paint.

O. A. Tonner has been figuring up the carnation cuts of last season. The general impression is that the production was light, but the records show that the cuts were almost exactly the same as the year before. One grower with nearly 40,000 plants had a difference of only 500 flowers in the number cut in two years.

According to Gus Alles, with Wietor Bros., Killarney Brilliant already has proved its right to a place at the head of the list of pink roses.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. has been using emptied orange boxes for plant shipments this spring, and Guy W. French says much success has attended their use.

bankruptcy September 15. The corporation was owned and conducted by two former Chicago florists, Charles E. Morton and Frederick Sperry.

A. T. Pyfer says the call for carnations has increased to a notable extent in the last seven days and is rather better than usual at this time of the year.

H. N. Bruns has received word that his brother at Hamburg, who looks after the Chicagoan's valley interests there, has been called to the colors, but that valley pips probably can be shipped as ordinary freight on the boats from Rotterdam or Copenhagen. Mr. Bruns does not feel like taking the chance and has directed that his stock be placed in cold storage at Hamburg until such time as steamers with cold storage facilities are available.

The sale of prepared foliage this year is far ahead of any previous year, according to Theodore Kirchen, manager for Oscar Leistner. Everything in this line seems to be in greater demand than ever before.

The old N. P. Miller plant at Wilmette was taken over September 1 by Ernest Rober, who will use it as a cold range for the storage of spring stock. It is being filled this week. Mr. Miller now has no interests outside of his duties with Kennicott Bros. Co. and the presidency of the Cook County Florists' Association.

The sales force of L. Baumann & Co. is making preparations to start out on its holiday selling campaign. This concern is fortunate in having received considerable imported stock prior to the war.

Six of the houses at the J. A. Budlong range formerly used for carnations have been plantel with Ophelia, Killarney Brilliant and Mrs. Charles Russell roses this season.

Miss Martha C. Gunterberg arrived home September 15 after a month's outing in the east. After attending the convention at Boston, the rest of the time was spent in northern Maine.

A. E. Hunt and wife have returned from a two weeks' vacation in the north woods of Wisconsin.

The death of Mrs. Emilie Wienhoeber occurred September 12, the funeral being held in private September 14. She was 82 years of age, the mother of Ernst Wienhoeber and the grandmother of William Wienhoeber, the latter being absent at the time on a motor trip in Wisconsin with his wife and her parents. Mrs. Wienhoeber also was the grandmother of George V. Wienhoeber, of the Fleischman Floral Co.

The Cook County Florists' Association will hold its monthly meeting tonight, September 17, at The Tavern.

Capt. A. I. Simmons, whose predilections are military, says there is so much war news these days he scarcely has time to wait on trade.

After spending the earlier days of the week at Indianapolis, Richmond and Cleveland, John Michelsen, of the E. C. Amling Co., is at New York, his principal purpose being to make his annual call on the violet growers at Rhinebeck.

Two big shipments of Dutch bulbs reached Winterson's Seed Store September 10 and 11, since which time all hands have been busy shipping.

companied by Anton Then. They expect to be absent about three weeks.

Since his return from his vacation J. T. Schouten has been doing the buying for the E. Wienhoeber Co., relieving Frank Pasternick, whose store duties recently have occupied all his time.

Eugene Kurowski and Elizabeth Kurowski, his wife, are reported as among the Americans who had registered prior to August 29 at the United States embassy at Berlin.

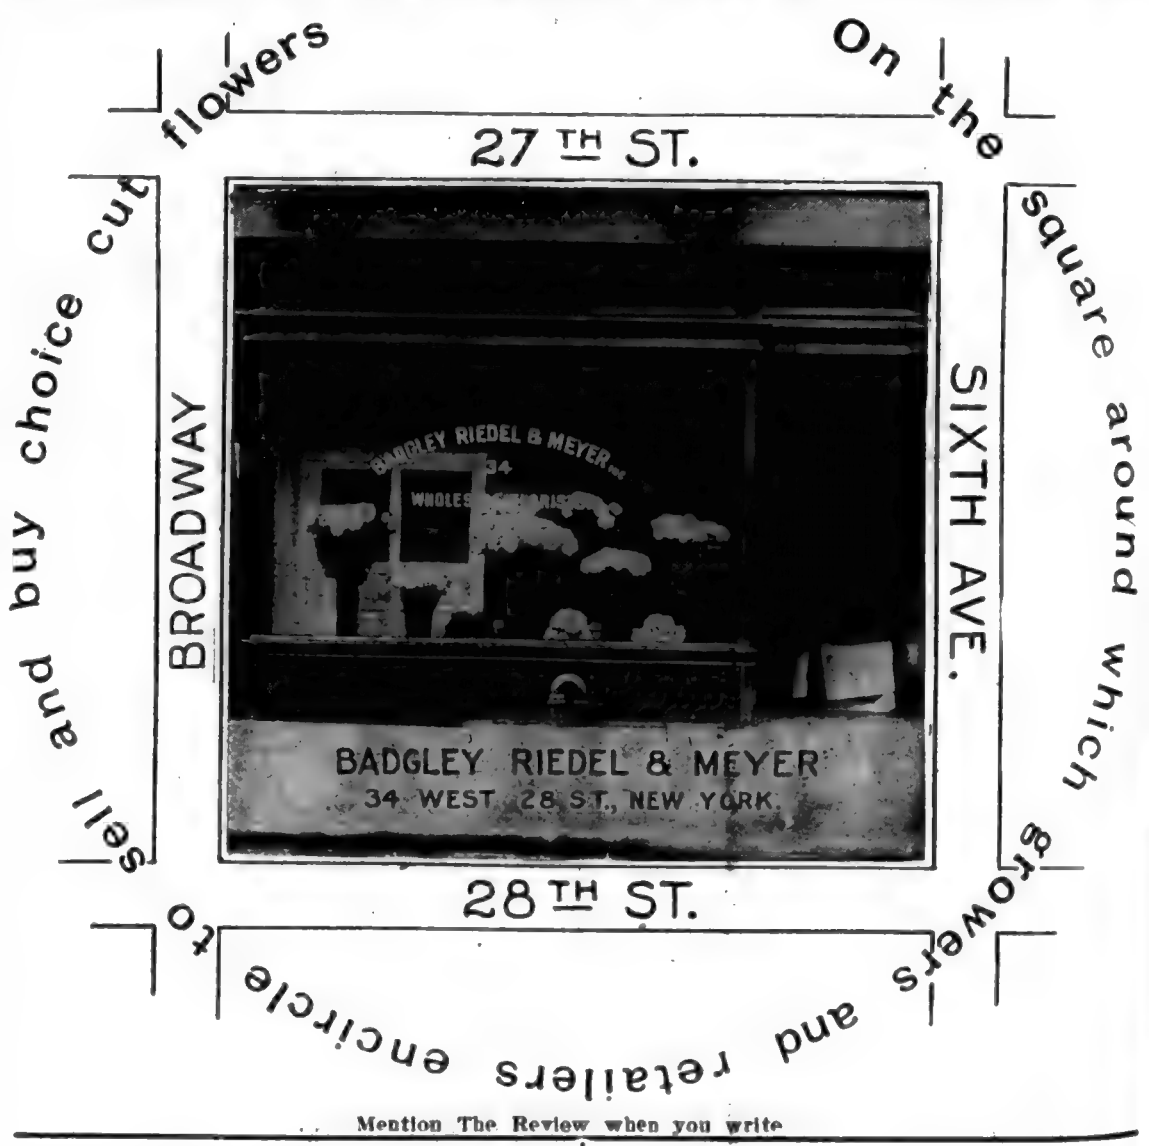
Out at 5329 South Rockwell street John Leshyn is working up a prosperous wholesale plant trade. He bought the place about a year ago and now has four houses, each 20x100, well stocked. He is a good plantsman and looks forward with confidence to a prosperous season.

After having spent twenty-three years with W. J. Smyth, Wm. McCormick has decided not to return to Chicago for the present. He was called to Slingerlands, N. Y., early in the summer by the illness of his octogenarian mother and will remain.

That the Christmas plant trade this year will break all records is the belief of G. C. Anderson, of Poehlmann Bros. Co., who reports a big demand for young stock for growing on and who is busy shifting the plants he will hold to flower.

The first mums of the season were cut this week by the Albert T. Hey Floral Co. Mr. Hey says he looks forward to an excellent season, considering his stock to look better than it has at this date in any year since he located at Maywood. A few cattleyas are all that have been cut in recent weeks.

A catalogue in full color is soon to be issued by the A. L. Randall Co., showing its line of artificial material for window decorators. A large business has been worked up in this department, principally with department stores.



In four years C. W. McKellar ran his first Winton 60,000 miles, but in the year he has had the second car he has traveled only 10,000 miles. He says that after one has motored a distance equal to nearly three times around the world one doesn't drive quite so hard as at the start.

The decorations for the dressmakers' convention, held at the Auditorium and Congress hotels this week, were furnished by M. Weiland, of Evanston.

George Perdikas reopened his store in the basement at 37 East Van Buren street September 12. It was closed during July and August.

The retail store of Ed. Palmen, 746 North Trumbull avenue, will soon undergo remodeling. A new, attractive front will be built and the interior will be redecorated.

J. J. Mohrle recently purchased the retail store at 2052 West Chicago avenue from H. E. Scheffler. Mr. Mohrle was formerly connected with C. Frauenfelder.

Visitors.

One of last week's visitors to The Review and to many of the local growers was William E. Tricker, of Madison, N. J. Mr. Tricker is the son of the widely known water lily specialist and is himself in charge of the growing department for Charles H. Totty. He was on a vacation trip, spent visiting florists. Mr. Tricker says he considers business conditions much better in the west than in the east.

A visitor last week, at the office of The Review and at many other trade centers, was Frank H. Ensign, of Toledo, vice-president of the Maumee Greenhouse Co., of Maumee, O. The establishment there has consisted of two greenhouses each 30x150, but it is being doubled this fall and next spring will be doubled again, making a growth of 300 per cent in a few months.

The supply house salesmen are beginning to get busy again. Martin Reukauf, with Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, has been in town for several days.

Wilbur J. Gullett, of Lincoln, Ill., was in town September 14 buying supplies. He said the second of their new houses, each 60x500, will be completed this week.

Calling on supply dealers was James H. Reeves, of Savannah, Ga., president and manager of the Natural Foliage Co.

Edward Siebrecht, of Terre Haute, Ind., has been here ordering supplies for a new retail store to be opened under the name of the Rosery by the Terre Haute Rose & Carnation Co.

BEAUTIES

—in fact, as fine as can be obtained in this or any other market. There are no better Beauties, and no larger supply. We are not making this assertion as a boast, but as a simple statement of fact. We have the stock; it will speak for itself if you will send a trial order.

ALSO, WE ARE STRONG ON ROSES, ALL THE POPULAR VARIETIES

You will find our Carnations as good as you ever saw them at this time of year—and we have everything else in season.

We have built up our big shipping trade, North, East, South and West, by handling first-class stock and large quantities of it.

J. J. Karins, representing Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, is here. He reports good business in the middle west.

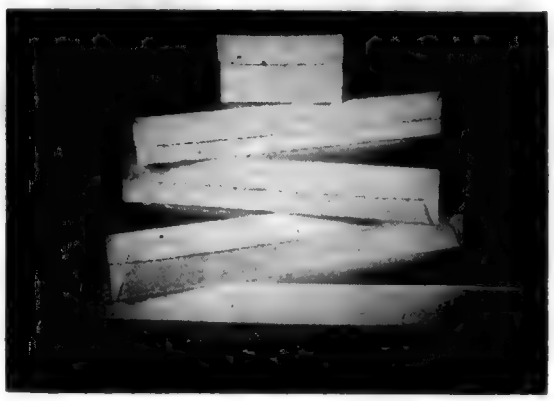
H. W. Buckbee, of Rockford, and Edward Amerpohl, of Janesville, were here last week on their periodical visits.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

Business is far from what it should be, but the last week has shown some slight improvement. The supply of flowers is good. The demand is not heavy, but is generally sufficient to dispose of the best stock; there is difficulty in getting rid of the rest. The most important flowers in the market now are the asters; some of these are fine, but most of them are of the middle grade. Gladioli are plentiful, especially in the darker shades. The retail prices of these are and 75 cents per dozen, but many of the darker shades are unsalable. There will be plenty for another two or three weeks, providing frosts do not come. Dahlias are not overplentiful and do not sell fast. There is a good supply of Japanese lilies, which always find ready sales. Easter lilies are plentiful and of good quality. Some fine valley arrives daily. Orchids are scarce. Roses are arriving in large shipments, especially Killarneys, which the street venders are selling at extremely low prices. Fine Kaiserin roses arrive daily. Tafts and Wards also find their way here and are sold freely. Carnations are poor. A few good ones are seen, but most of them are small and sell cheaply. Sweet peas are few. There has been a good call for yellow chrysanthemums, which arrive in good condition. Shasta daisies do not move fast. Cosmos and sweet alyssum are used frequently for basket work, for which there seems to be a growing demand. Funeral work has been rather slack during the week, but counter trade is really improving. There are plenty of ferns, smilax and asparagus to meet all demands.

Various Notes.



Among recent visitors were Stephen Green, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia; Thomas Cogger, of N. F. McCarthy & Co., Boston; the representative of S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia, and James J. Karins, of Henry H. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia.

Salter Bros. displayed a pretty arrangement of Buddleia Veitchiana, or Butterfly hardy shrub, in the window of their East Main street store last week, and attracted considerable attention.

H. E. Wilson received a large shipment of fancy baskets, vases and other supplies from Philadelphia last week, and also his usual large shipment of Dutch bulbs.

James Vick's Sons are cutting an immense quantity of gladioli and Japanese lilies. Their trial grounds, of which seventy-five acres have been used for asters alone, have presented a wonderful picture for the last two or three weeks. The grounds have been one large carpet of many colors and have attracted thousands of visitors. Although the season was somewhat late and work was much hindered, the plants have done well and everything points to a favorable seed year.

The Rochester Floral Co. had an attractive window decoration in yellow and lavender shades. Miniature sunflowers and cosmos were used, with yellow mats in the bottom of the window. The scheme was pretty and well arranged. This firm's business is increasing.

Horace J. Head has returned to work, after being away from the store for two months on account of illness.

A meeting of the entertainment committee of the Rochester Florists' Association was held last week, with Charles W. Crosman, chairman, presiding. As no picnic or outing has been held during the summer, it was decided to hold a clambake shortly. The place and time had not been decided at the time of writing.

The beautiful display of ferns exhibited by the F. R. Pierson Co., of Tarrytown-on-Hudson, at the New York state fair, has been purchased by Salter Bros. and they, in turn, are exhibiting the collection at the Rochester Industrial Exposition, September 7 to 19.

The Market.

The cool weather has improved business considerably. Funeral work forms the bulk of the work, however, for transient trade has not begun in earnest. There have been a few sales at the various stores, of Boston ferns, ferneries, roses and gladioli, but they lack the real snap which is characteristic of winter sales. There is a big glut in asters of all kinds and colors and they are almost given away. The same was true of roses and gladioli during the last week. Even Beauties were bringing little or nothing. The fall varieties of gladioli are beautiful in the red, buff, salmon, orange and deep pink shades, which blend perfectly with autumn foliage of varied hues. Stunning baskets of gladioli and colored foliage are finding favor thus early in autumn.

Roses are excellent. Francis Scott Key is in splendid condition and sells well. Tafts could not be better. Marylands are good. Mrs. Aaron Wards are again rich in color, having the genuine copper tone. Killarney is much improved, but White Killarney seems small and off crop. Irish Fireflame and Bon Silene are quite scarce, but soon will be plentiful again. Sunburst is good, but the supply is not strong. Few Milady are seen. American Beauties are excellent.

Snapdragons, cosmos, calendulas, montbretias and globe amaranths are among the outdoor flowers to be had. Lilies of the valley and Easter lilies are good, and the supply unlimited.

Various Notes.

The Pickleman Co., on Genesee street, had a Boston fern sale last week, selling $1.50 Boston ferns for 98 cents.

Fred Brown, of the J. M. Gasser Co., Cleveland, was a visitor in this city recently. He was on his way home from the fair in Toronto.

Peter Stroh has returned after a vacation of two months and the force at S. A. Anderson's was glad to see him back.

The decoration for the fall opening of J. N. Adams' department store was done by A. J. Reichert, of Jefferson street, and consisted largely of palms and ferns. There were also huge vases of gladioli.

Geo. Kramer and Geo. Hart, of Rochester, were visitors in town Thursday, September 10.

W. A. Adams and family spent Labor day and the week end preceding at Toronto and other Canadian points of interest.

Andrew Jensen is making a specialty of chrysanthemums this fall. He is planning to cut the first of his crop about October 20 and will continue cutting through October and November.

Adam, Meldrum & Anderson's department store decoration was done by S. A. Anderson. Large quantities of palms and ferns were used and several thousand gladioli, as well as tritomas, and autumn foliage in beech and oak.

September weddings are quite popular this fall. There are several large weddings booked and scarcely a day passes without several bride's bouquets and wedding bunches of all kinds, with or without house or church decorations, as the occasion may demand.

There are a few Golden Glow chrysanthemums coming into the market now. It is too early, however, to have much of a demand for them and the price is rather high. They are used almost exclusively for decorations.

The window display at the Lenox Flower Shop last week was most seasonable. Red and brown oak leaves formed the background, upon which were shown vases of red and yellow gladioli and smaller vases of asters and calendulas. Suspended in the center was a vase of

The Market.

There is a perceptible change in the flowers coming into the market this week, a change that is due to the cool nights and to the long drought. The outdoor flowers that have dominated the market for the last two months are on the down grade, while the indoor flowers are improving, and to their number has been added the gardenia and several choice orchids. There are fine asters in the market and the dahlias are good and will be much better when it rains, but there are also lots of poor asters and the general run of outdoor stock is retrograding, while the gladioli are fast disappearing. Cosmos is an exception, as its season is just commencing.

The wealth of choice stock now coming in hardly finds a suitable response in the demand. While there is more business than a fortnight ago, it is not nearly so much more as the supply warrants, and prices are low except on small quantities of the choice stock.

He found many Americans there and intended spending four or five days before leaving. When the war broke out Switzerland was practically isolated. French outpost on one side and German outpost on the other declined to allow the Americans to go back or forward. No news came except an occasional meager dispatch from Berne. Papers and letters there were none; a single cablegram from his father came through. Finally, after three weeks, a committee of two Americans permitted to pass the outpost secured the consent of the four governments necessary—Austria, Germany, Holland and the Swiss republic—for a train to run from Lucerne to Rotterdam to carry the Americans to the seacoast. It was the only train de luxe run. It consisted of sixteen cars, including two baggage cars, and carried 250 Americans. It was decorated with American flags and the passengers were allowed to alight at German stations and were treated with great courtesy. Only when crossing the border into Holland was there danger; the car windows were ordered closed and precaution taken to prevent accidentally springing the Dutch mines intended to blow up the levees and flood Holland should the Germans attempt to enter. Double fare was charged to take the train back to Switzerland when empty, and a handsome contribution was made to aid the Red Cross of Germany and also of Austria-Hungary.

Various Notes.

Our visitors include Samuel McClements, of Randolph & McClements, and Harvey Sheaf, with Mrs. E. A. Williams, both of Pittsburgh; George E. M. Stumpp, Fred Fleischman, Mrs. Fleischman and the Malandre brothers, of New York; Leo Engel, of the Shepard Co., Providence, R. I.; Charles F. Edgar, with B. F. Barr, Lancaster, Pa., and the proprietor of the Greensboro Floral Co., Greensboro, N. C., accompanied by his wife and son, whose names I have unhappily mislaid.

John P. Habermehl says that seventy-five debutantes will make their bows this season.

Charles Henry Fox and Mrs. Fox returned on the steamer Finland September 13. They went to Ocean City, where they spent two days, arriving here September 16.

William P. Craig was recalled from the west by a death in his family September 12. He left to resume his trip September 14.

Mrs. Drew-Bear, manager of the London Flower Shop, is ill. Her many friends hope for a speedy recovery.

The Germantown Horticultural Society opened the fall season at the Friends' library in Vernon Park September 14. Prof. Stewardson Brown spoke on "Our Vanishing Wild Flowers." Among the liberal premiums offered was the Sarah Taggart Jellett prize for the best collection of wild flowers.

Walter Davis has returned from his vacation in the pink of condition for the coming season.

Herbert W. Johnson, Jr., is motoring through New York state.

Lewis Ker, 19 years of age, an employee of Pennock Bros., died in the University hospital last week of lockjaw, believed to be the result of using rusty violet wire for a toothpick.

Stuart H. Miller is away on his vacation.

Paul F. Richter reports that the Henry F. Michell Co. is busily engaged in filling bulb orders.

Harry C. Cook, a well-known South Broad street florist who was suffering from ill health, took his life last week. He was about 50 years of age and leaves a wife and two children. Among his pallbearers September 14 were Charles H. Grakelow and Edward Dornheim.

The outdoor flower and vegetable show of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society was held in Horticultural hall on the afternoon and evening of September 15. The extremely dry weather was a disadvantage.

William C. Harry has returned from the south.

OUR SUCCESSFUL BATTLE

We have been waging a fierce battle all over Europe to capture the goods you want for your fall and winter work. We have spared no expense in cabling, and we have our own Philadelphia representative in Germany now. The result is that we shall have goods for you. Not at the old prices, that is impossible in these war times, but at prices as moderate as we can make them. Better order early—first come, first served.

BOSTON.

The Market.

It is pleasing to be able to report some improvement in business. We had a spell of remarkably cold weather, with frosts in many places, and the crops of asters and gladioli are daily growing smaller. Prices show a little advance all around and the outlook is distinctly brighter. Roses, which have been a veritable glut, have shortened up materially, owing to the cold weather, and prices September 12 averaged 200 per cent better than a week previous. Good White Killarney is scarce, but there is a good supply of Russell, Mock, Sunburst, Taft, Ward and Killarney. With the exception of one or two days, Double White Killarney sold consistently well all through the slump period. Killarney Brilliant is not yet selling specially well, while most of the Hadleys are somewhat small.

Carnations are a little more abundant, but as yet are small and they are hardly wanted when superb asters in quantity are procurable. The top price on asters is 50 cents per hundred, a low figure for grand flowers. Gladioli are smaller and poorer, with prices higher. Growers of these have had a bad season and are discouraged. Bachelor's buttons still sell fairly well. Valley is inclined to sell higher. We shall have to face a valley famine in the near future if no imports are possible. Lilies are abundant, good and move better. Some yellow marguerites are seen, quite small as yet. Salpiglossis is a popular annual this season. Dahlias never cut much figure here. Strange to say, some growers' crops already are frozen.

There is a complete dearth of cattleyas. September 12 a prominent retailer could not get a flower from any local trade growers. The labiata crop soon will be in, however. A small number of gardenias are seen. Pot plant trade is excessively dull. The growers report few sales, but I look for an improvement soon. About all have given up hope of receiving any azaleas this season.

Dahlia Exhibition.

The annual dahlia and fruit show of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, September 12 and 13, was somewhat smaller than usual, but the quality of the flowers was excellent. It was noted that the peony-flowered, cactus and decorative types seem to attract the public the most, but singles are gaining in favor. These, cut with long stems, were in some cases remarkably fine, and it is surprising to see so few at local florists' stores.

Some of the largest exhibitors and prize-winners were Fottler, Fiske, Rawson Co., George H. Walker, George L. Stillman, Westerly, R. I.; Mrs. L. A. Towle, Mrs. E. M. Gill, George B. Gill, W. D. Hathaway, P. A. Mansfield & Son, F. L. Tinkham, E. W. Ela, W. H. Symonds, E. W. Dwyer, Sisson & Thurston, Miss Fanny Foster, Thomas M. Proctor and W. C. Winter.

Fottler, Fiske, Rawson Co. had an imposing show of gladioli as well as dahlias. Of such gladioli as Mrs. Frank Pendleton, Elizabeth Kurtz, Dora Krais, Dazzler, Hohenstaufen, Sans Pareille and Dawn they had a splendid showing. They also had a grand assortment of dahlias of every known type.

The following cactus varieties were the best exhibited: Fascination, Empress, Crystal, F. W. Fellowes, Golden Crown, Mrs. H. Randle, Suzanne Cayeux, Extase, Olympic, Marathon, Dorothy Hawes, John Riding, Mrs. F. Jeffries, Country Girl, Wm. Marshall, Conquest and Mrs. Douglas Fleming.

In the shows and fancies some of the best were: Estelle, Christy, Duchess of Albany, Eric Fisher, Dreer's White, General Miles, Gloire de Paris, Le Colosse, Alice Emily, H. W. Rawson and Captain Black.

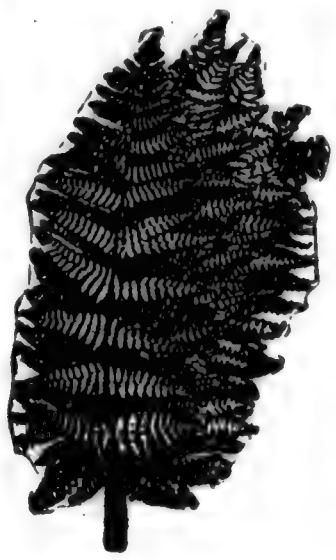
The increasingly popular peony-flowered type are more numerous each year. The following showed up particularly well: Geisha, Governor General, Milady, Queen Esther, Osceola, John Williams, Bertha von Suttner, J. B. Walker, Excelsior, Queen Emma, Dr. Perry, an immense crimson, and King Philip.

Prominent among the decorative varieties were: Dorothy Flint, Souv. de Gustav Doazon, Santa Cruz, Yellow Colosse, Mrs. Alice Longworth, Le Grand Manitou, Jeanne Charmet, Royal Purple and D. M. Moore.

Some of the remarkably fine singles were: Newport Pink, Beach Bluff, White Cloud, Coquette, Dauntless, Odin, Newport Cheer, Newport Dandy, Gladys and Woburn.

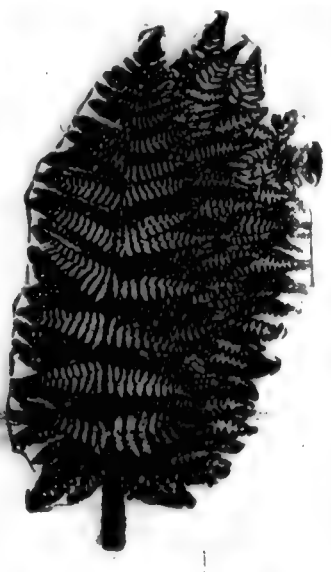
Pompons do not enjoy the same popularity as the larger varieties, yet as bedding plants they are superior, and nearly all throw the flowers well above the foliage. One or two of the best at the Boston show were: Red Indian, Lady Blanche, Ariel, Rachel, Apple Blossom, Belle of Springfield, Alwyn and Bobby. Honorable mention was given to displays of seedling dahlias from Thomas M. Proctor, of the Wrentham Dahlia Farm, Wrentham, and George L. Stillman. Special mention should be made of the superb blooms on long stems from George B. Gill, of Medford, the finest in the hall. Such flowers as he showed of Bertha von Suttner, Geisha, Delice, Mrs. E. M. Gill, and some high grade seedlings were a revelation to many and showed their possibilities as cut flowers.

Wm. Nicholson secured a certificate of merit for a fine show of buddleias. What other shrub have we which equals this for cut flower purposes, also for persistency in blooming?



Eastern Nurseries secured first prize for the finest display of hardy herbaceous flowers. Thomas N. Cook and A. W. Preston, J. L. Smith, gardener, divided the prizes for hybrid tea roses. M. Sullivan, gardener to W. Whitman, showed a fine lot of perennials, annuals and gladioli. There was a good competition for native plants. There was an excellent display of seasonable fruits.

Club Meeting.



Nearly 100 members attended the club meeting September 15. There was a long discussion on S. A. F. convention matters, participated in by many members. Julius Heurlin gave an interesting talk on European horticulture. Three new members were elected. The club voted to have the usual landscape classes started again this fall. The exhibits included fine gladioli from William Sim and excellent Golden Glow chrysanthemums from W. W. Edgar Co.

neral orders, there are now a number of weddings, but the more important of these will come a little later. A window of Gladiolus America with Oncidium Rogersii and the Mexican poppy, Hunnemannia fumariæfolia, made a pretty picture. They continue their fine aquatic displays.

H. M. Robinson & Co. report their August business as normal and they are full of optimism as to the future.

The West Street Greenhouses, of Reading, are starting to pick a nice crop of such carnations as Beacon, Pink Delight, Benora, Mrs. Ward, Fenn, White Wonder and the old Queen. They also have some fine seedlings. They are sending in some superior asters and bachelor's buttons.

Recent callers included: W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J.; David Smith, of Thomas Smith & Son, Stranraer, Scotland; H. A. Barnard, of Stuart, Low & Co., Enfield, England; Ernest Bockman, of Bassett & Washburn, Hinsdale, Ill., and Maurice Fuld, New York. The last named delivered a couple of floricultural lectures at Gloucester, Mass., for the benefit of the American Red Cross Society.

Harry Quint reports business at his new store as satisfactory. He will make considerable improvement in it within the next few weeks. While away on his vacation he spent a few days in Montreal and was wonderfully impressed with the business possibilities there.

Peirce Bros., of Waltham, have nearly their whole establishment devoted to roses. They are cutting nice crops of Ophelia, Taft, Sunburst, Killarney Queen and Mme. Cecile Brunner. They also have a fine lot of adiantum.

The attendance at the children's garden show at Horticultural hall, September 5 and 6, broke all records, showing the wonderfully increased interest manifested in this phase of horticulture.

The W. W. Edgar Co. reports Cincinnati and Lorraine begonias, cyclamens and poinsettias never looked better. They are busy now potting and tubbing hydrangeas. They are hopeful of receiving some azalea shipments via Rotterdam, but the freight will be much heavier and long delays are more than probable.

Mann Bros. have a large part of their Dutch bulbs already in the soil. Among other flowers they are now getting some extra nice yellow statices, montbretias, lilies in variety and chrysanthemums.

The finest display of children's cut flowers the writer has seen was that given by the Waltham Home Garden Association in the high school of that city, September 12. It easily surpassed that of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society. The exhibits were well staged and all were neatly labeled. Great credit is due the energetic lady instructor, Miss Louise Fay, for such a splendid showing at the ninth exhibition given by the children of the watch city. Premiums here are given in the form of framed certificates, books and sets of tools. It was quite inspiring to see over 800 people here, adults and children, listen to a floricultural talk and show no signs of restlessness.

A. E. E. Koch, of Nobscot, is already in the market with yellow marguerites. He also has bachelor's buttons, asters and snapdragons. Mr. Koch, in common with some other growers, lost some glass during a severe hail storm in July.

McAlpine & McDonald have wonderfully improved their salesrooms at 260 Devonshire street.

Welch Bros. Co. says business might be much worse and they are going ahead, hopeful for the future.

Wax Bros. say that since September came in they have had many wedding orders and business is picking up finely.

The convention garden is now at its best. Particularly fine are the Conard & Jones and Boddington canna displays, Farquhar's buddleias and Japanese garden, Dreer's and Tricker's aquatics, Sam Goddard's Chatelaine begonias and A.

The J. A. Budlong & Sons Co., Auburn, R. I., will start cutting Beauty roses in a few days. They planted 6,000 this season. Among particularly good roses with them just now, J. L. Mock, Stanley, Russell and Sunburst are worthy of note. Double White Killarney is getting short and Killarney Brilliant is not yet selling specially well.

Duncan Finlayson, W. N. Craig and E. B. Wilder judged the grange exhibits at the Wakefield and Reading fair September 16. Competition was keen and in one class where $700 was awarded for the finest grange exhibit the display was a superb one.

The Boston Flower Exchange reports a satisfactory rental of stalls for the coming season. The Boston Coöperative Market has few stalls unsold; its last auction sale broke all records.

H. W. Vose, of Hyde Park, has the finest salpiglossis seen at the wholesale markets. It is sold, in most cases, before being unpacked.

The annual fruit and vegetable show of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society will be held October 3 and 4. The chrysanthemum show comes November 5 to 8. W. N. Craig.

GREENWICH, CONN.

There was a fine attendance at the monthly meeting of the Westchester and Fairfield Horticultural Society, held in Doran's hall, September 11, President Robert Williamson in the chair. Two new members were elected and several proposals were received.

The committee in charge of the fall show reported that the schedule will be issued shortly. Several additional offers of prizes were received.

This society was probably more largely represented at the recent S. A. F. convention than any other. Our party was royally entertained by the New York Florists' Club and it was voted to extend the thanks of the society for this hospitality.

A feature of the meeting was the competition for the prizes offered by Andrew Kennedy for the best three vases of outdoor flowers. The tables were filled to overflowing with a splendid display. The prize-winning lot were staged by P. W. Popp, who had hydrangea, helianthus and cosmos. The second prize went to Fred Lagerstam. Among the non-competitive exhibits James Linane was highly commended for a fine vase of gladioli; a vote of thanks went to A. Whitelaw for a specimen cantaloupe, Marvin, and a cultural certificate was awarded to P. W. Popp for a display of thirty-two named sorts of gladioli.

DENVER.

The Market.

As colder weather is setting in, trade is improving satisfactorily. Several funerals in the last few days enabled most of the stores to clean up on all available stock daily. A few carnations are coming in now and are eagerly sought after. Roses are improving, but there are not enough of them to supply the demand. Blooming plants are beginning to come in and they find a ready sale. The writer noticed some fine plants of cyclamen, Begonia luminosa and B. Prima Donna.

Various Notes.

George Cooper has purchased another Ford car.

The Alpha Floral Co. has moved into the new store at 432 Sixteenth street, a few doors from their old location.

Alphonse Hoyer, formerly with the Park Floral Co., is now with N. A. Benson. R. S.

PAGES OF RETAILERS' CARDS

THIS department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

Florists' Review,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:-

During the SIX MONTHS from March 4 to September 4 I have received from other Florists, by mail, telegraph or cable, orders to the amount of $513.25 as a result of my advertisement in the Retailers' department of The Review. With the allowance to senders the record for SIX MONTHS is:

Value of orders received----------	$513.25
Less 20% allowed senders--------	102.60
Net value of orders for SIX MONTHS--	410.65

It should be noted that this showing covers the DULL SUMMER MONTHS, when any addition to a Florists's business is decidedly welcome.

Retail Florists not advertising in The Review should profit by this letter.

Respectfully,
F. H. Weber

The Market.

Business has been exceedingly good for the time of year, and the quality of stock on the market has been excellent. There has been a ready sale for Beauties, as a number of openings of new stores required flowers of that nature. Short and medium length Beauties have also been of fine quality and sell well. The supply and quality of roses has been good. To fill the requirements for numerous weddings, the call for white roses has been heavy. Valley is also in good demand.

Dahlias are just now arriving in quantities, and if the pleasant weather continues, no doubt the market will be well taken care of with this beautiful fall flower. This has been a good season for asters and but few of inferior quality have been seen on the market, while the supply of good stock has been plentiful but not more than the demand.

Club Meeting.

The writer made an error in giving Mr. Kolbe's name as the Detroit Florists' Club's librarian. E. A. Scribner has been appointed by our president.

At the last meeting Frank Danzer gave an interesting talk on his experiences and observations during his stay in Europe, giving in detail the conditions in Germany when hostilities were begun. He also told of the beautiful floriculture seen in many cities of Europe.

ness partner of Sidney Beard, was elected a member of the club. At the next meeting, Monday, September 21, the new officers will be installed and Mr. Scribner will give his observations of the Boston convention.

Various Notes.

J. F. Sullivan is now cutting a splendid crop of dahlias, and if the present fine weather continues, Mr. Sullivan will no doubt reap a nice sum from his dahlia fields.

Ernest Sullivan will join the benedicts September 22, the wedding taking place in Windsor, Ont.

An extensive exhibition of flowers and plants was made at the Michigan state fair, which has been running for two weeks. W. B. Brown won first prizes for the best display of palms and specimen palm, and first prizes for floral design and bride's bouquets. Beard Bros. won first prize for the best display of house plants, ferns, hanging baskets and window boxes, and second on floral design and bride's bouquets.

Albert Pochelon, of the Bemb Floral Co., is now driving a new Hudson "Six" and will take no one's dust.

E. A. Fetters' store has been entirely redecorated and is in spick-and-span shape for business.

The annual exhibition of the Garden Club of Michigan was held in the beautiful store of the L. Bemb Floral Co. Wednesday, September 9. Dahlias, asters and gladioli were the principal flowers shown. The Garden Club of Michigan is a branch of the national organization and was organized November 11, 1911. Mrs. Francis King, of Alma, Mich., is president. The cut flowers were judged by Mrs. M. ST. LOUIS.

The Market.

The expected revival of business in the cut flower market did not show itself. Labor day, the opening of schools and the return of summer travelers, which generally start the fall season, failed to bring the usual amount of business to the florists. Large consignments came in daily, with a demand for only about one-third of the stock. Only first-quality stock brought anything like a fair price. Left-overs were sold for any price. The growers are complaining of the low prices their stock is bringing, but there is no way out of it with the present business conditions.

Roses are more plentiful than ever, but most of them are short-stemmed. Killarneys in all varieties form the bulk of the rose supply. Some extra fine Russells and Beauties were seen, as well as some fine Richmonds and Marylands. Carnations are more plentiful, but as yet the stems are short and the flowers small. A nice lot of Golden Glow chrysanthemums were noticed in the market last week. There still are lots of asters. Gladioli and tuberoses are coming in daily; the recent heavy rains and cool nights improved their quality. Valley seems scarce. In Easter lilies the supply more than equals the demand. Wild smilax was in great demand for fall openings. Other greens are plentiful.

Club Meeting.

The St. Louis Florists' Club held its regular monthly meeting September 10, on the grounds of the Sanders Nurseries, in St. Louis county. It proved to be one of the most enthusiastic meetings the club has ever held. The attendance was by far the largest of the year. Ten automobiles, filled with members, arrived at the grounds and were met by the host, C. C. Sanders, who took them on an inspection tour of the grounds and the houses. Everything was found to be in tiptop shape.

The meeting place was in the large automobile garage. President Pilcher opened the meeting, with all of his staff of officers present. The committees made final reports and were discharged with thanks. R. J. Windler, state vice-president of the S. A. F., gave a report of the Boston convention. The members showed great interest, especially in the affiliation question, which was explained by Mr. Windler.

Marion Uhlschmitt, of East St. Louis, Ill., was elected to membership. The following made application for membership: Geo. H. Pring, W. W. Ohlweiler and C. W. Garrett, all connected with the Missouri Botanical Garden. Action on these applications will be taken at the October meeting.

The installation of the new officers then took place. Ex-presidents R. J. Windler and John Connon were the installing officers. They installed Jules Bourdet, president; W. S. Wells, vice-president; J. J. Beneke, secretary; W. C. Smith, treasurer, and W. A. Rowe, trustee. President Pilcher, on leaving the chair, made a few well pointed remarks, expressing the hope that the members would help the new officers as they have in the past. Jules Bourdet, on taking the chair, thanked the members for the honor conferred on him and proceeded with the meeting like an old-timer.

Several members were called upon for talks on the recent S. A. F. convention. Discussions on questions left with the secretary were next in order. The next meeting will be held October 8.

After the meeting adjourned, the members were again taken in hand by Mr. Sanders, who escorted them to his home, where a fine lunch and refreshments were served. Piano selections by Mr. Sanders' charming daughters, Misses Laura and Jessie, were also greatly enjoyed. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs.

Sanders. The meeting was pronounced one of the best the club has held and will long be remembered by those present.

Various Notes.

The Lady Florists' Home Circle will be the guests of Mrs. F. W. Bruenig, at Columbia, Ill., September 23. All members are requested to meet at the bridge at 8:45 a. m. and proceed to Columbia on a trolley car, which will be in waiting.

Arthur J. Ellison, who was a member of the Ellison Floral Co., and recently with F. J. Foster, reports that he has accepted a position with O'Leary, the Florist, at Grand and Lucas avenues.

E. Strehle, superintendent of public parks, who attended the convention of park superintendents at Newburgh, N. Y., returned by way of Chicago, September 10. Mr. Strehle says that while in Chicago he promised to attend the meeting of the Chicago Florists' Club at the Bismarck, September 10, for a talk, but that important business at home prevented him from keeping his promise.

Robert Holm, of New York, where he was employed by Alex. McConnell, is in the city looking for an opening as a designer.

The Cherokee street carnival, which is in progress this week, should bring good business to florists. Messrs. Schaad, Meyer, Kruse, Walther and Sedivec, who have stores along the fair route, are making splendid decorations.

The Belleville pageant will be in full blast this week. Messrs. Fehr, Ogle and Grossart, the florists of Belleville who came to the meeting last week, extended an invitation to attend and promised a touch of high life in Belleville.

Ed. Kalisch, of the Kalisch Bros. Floral Co., says that since his return from his vacation the firm has been quite busy with funeral work. The large show house and store are in fine shape for the fall season.

W. J. Pilcher, of Kirkwood, has started cutting from his new rose house. The young stock gives great promise of a large crop of extra-quality roses. His Mazzura violet houses, too, are in splendid shape. These also promise a large crop this fall and winter.

The park department has entered a team in the Municipal Bowling League, which will be under the leadership of Superintendent Strehle, who, they say, has quite a reputation as a crack bowler. Commissioner Davis, too, might take a hand in the game.

The rose consignments from the Milliken greenhouses, at Crescent, to the W. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co., have been large and of extra good quality. George Schmidt, who has charge of the rose houses, expects a large cut daily from now on.

The Bentzen Floral Co. and Tower, Florist, on North Grand avenue, say they have had a splendid run of trade so far this month. A number of improvements were noted at both places, which give them a handsome appearance.

Sam Seligman, of Wertheimer Bros., New York, and Frank J. Farney, of M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, called on the trade last week. Both report a good business trip so far and expect it to continue good throughout.

The members of the Florists' Club greatly missed their legal advisers, E. W. Guy, Fred Ammann and W. C. Young. It is the first time these three have all missed attending a meeting.

On the twenty-fifth anniversary of the death of Henry Shaw, founder of what is now known as the Missouri Botanical Garden, the Mullanphy Flower Co. held a flower show August 28 at the store, at Seventh and Locust streets, which stands on the spot occupied by the home of Henry Shaw. In the windows were displayed photographs showing the body of Mr. Shaw as it lay in state for a week, and paintings loaned by A. D. Cunningham, one of the trustees of the Shaw estate.

David Geddis had a large force of men working all night September 12, decorating the Vandervoort store for its fall opening, September 14. Fifty large cibotiums, direct from Dreer's place at Riverton, N. J., featured the decorations and caused great admiration from the large crowds attending the opening. J. J. B.

INDIANAPOLIS.

The Market.

Trade has shown a slight improvement since the first of the month. However, there is room for improvement yet. The opening of the schools and numerous store openings enlivened things a little last week. Stock has been plentiful and has not been cleaned up daily. Some first-class asters have been coming in daily. Dahlias are making their appearance. Short-stemmed Beauties have been about the best values among the cut flowers. There have been some first-class Russell and Shawyer roses on the market lately. Carnations are improving, but the stems are still short. Some fair Golden Glow mums are available, but the demand is slight.

The State Fair.

At the state fair this year there was not a large entry list, but some highly creditable exhibits were to be seen. Fred Dorner, of La Fayette, acted as judge. The awards were as follows:

Plants, covering 100 square feet—Pahud Floral Co., first; Roepke Floral Co., second; E. Rieman, third.

Ferns—Pahud Floral Co., first; Reinken Floral Co., second; E. Rieman, third.

Various plants—Pahud Floral Co., first; Reinken Floral Co., second; Roepke Floral Co., third.

Various Notes.

John Michelsen, of the E. C. Amling Co., Chicago, spent a few hours in this city this week. He was looking at the prospects among several growers and incidentally calling on a few of the store men.

The September meeting of the State Florists' Association was held at the Washington hotel, September 10, with a good attendance. President Coles managed to spare a little time from the chicken and horse show at the state fair and attended the meeting. Owing to the coming flower show, there was considerable business before the meeting. An entertainment committee, composed of Homer Wiegand, Oliver Steinkamp and Len Elder, was appointed to look after the welfare of the visiting florists at the flower show. The next meeting of the association is to be held with President Coles, at Kokomo, October 6.

The committee in charge of the flower show, composed of Harry White, W. W. Coles, Fred Dorner, W. J. Vesey, Jr., E. G. Hill, Irwin Bertermann, Adolph Baur, O. Steinkamp and Homer Wiegand, met at the Washington hotel, September 10. Much business was transacted. The final premium list was completed and will go to press immediately. Matters are progressing nicely and indications point to a highly successful show.

John Heidenreich has purchased a new delivery car for his ever increasing business. He is just back from a motoring trip through the northern part of the state.

A. Wiegand's Sons Co. was quite busy with store decorations last week.

...THE...
Chrysanthemum
By Arthur Herrington
Formerly president Chrysanthemum Society of America.

The most complete and comprehensive work on the cultivation of the chrysanthemum that has yet been published in America. Its scope and character may be gleaned from the list of contents, which comprises chapters on composts; planting; benches, boxes or pots; general cultural details; crown and terminal buds; feeding, its object and application; care of the buds; exhibition and judging; specimen plants, plants in pots; raising from seed and hybridizing; sports; hardy chrysanthemums; chrysanthemums for south and west; insect pests and diseases; classification and selection of varieties for special purposes; history of the chrysanthemum, etc. The book will be welcomed for the lucid, comprehensive, as well as the practical character of its contents. Handsomely illustrated. 169 pages, 5x7 inches. Price 50c postpaid.

Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, Lester L. Morse, San Francisco, Cal.; Secretary-Treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O. Thirty-third annual convention, San Francisco, Cal., June, 1915.

AN increase of capital stock from $25,000 to $50,000 has been registered by the Milwaukee Seed Co., of Milwaukee, Wis.

ONE of the reports from Holland says that in certain cases bulb warehouses have been emptied and are used as barracks for the Dutch army.

AMERICA can grow practically every variety of seed that is grown in Europe. All that is necessary is care and continuity of effort. The only advantage Europe has is in cheaper labor.

ARNOLD RINGIER, of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, has returned from Excelsior Springs, Mo., where he has been convalescing from his recent severe illness. He still is weak and has lost much weight.

THE custom house records show that importations of seeds are unusually numerous for this date and it appears that, in the aggregate, considerable quantities of grass, clover, vegetable and flower seeds are arriving.

IT begins to look as though, after all, the German valley pips will get across, perhaps with some little delay. This will call for a revision of plans on the part of many who had jumped to the conclusion that valley would be an impossibility.

INCORPORATION papers have been issued to L. K. Elsberry & Co., of Geneseo, Ill., for "growing, maturing, marketing and dealing in all kinds of seed." The capital stock is $10,000, and the incorporators are G. D. Sutton, Lois E. Sutton and L. K. Elsberry.

REPORTS to hand since last issue indicate that mails to and from Germany are getting through and that the German crops have been or are being harvested. The exporters are feeling around for transportation and the chances appear to be good they will find it.

MAINE farmers have devoted 128,000 acres to potatoes this year, and the United States crop reporting board estimates that the crop will be 27,085,000 bushels. That means more than 211 bushels to the acre. If the prediction holds true, Maine will have increased her yield 16.8 per cent in two years.

THE larger Holland bulb exporting houses now maintain permanent representatives not only in America but in other bulb consuming countries. For instance, Van Waveren & Kruijff, whose headquarters are at Sassenheim, Holland, have branches in the United States, Germany, Brazil, Russia and Sweden.

THE 136-page volume which carries the proceedings of the thirty-second annual convention of the American Seed Trade Association, held at Washington June 23 to 25, is well arranged and neatly bound in the usual style of the association's proceedings. The 136 pages only include the association's material; there are twenty-four more in the insert entitled "The Legal Aspect," which contains a baker's dozen articles on the laws affecting seedsmen, reprinted from The Review. copies of these valuable articles led to their being included in this volume, where they will be at hand every time the seedsman wishes to refer to them.

FRENCH BULBS STILL COMING.

The S. S. Patria, of the Fabre line, which sailed from Marseilles September 3, arrived at New York September 14 with a considerable quantity of French bulbs as an addition to those received earlier in the season, before the war broke out. That the shipment of bulbs is not without its difficulties is shown by the report to Ralph M. Ward & Co., New York, whose French grower writes that the Paper Whites on the Patria had to be hauled from Ollioules to Marseilles with horses and wagons, a distance of about thirty miles by road, the railroad refusing to take the bulbs as freight. It is said that 500 more cases of Paper Whites for Ward & Co., to come by the next steamer, the Sant' Ana, will have to be got to the seaport by the same means.

FRENCH SEEDS COMING.

Although there has been some delay, the French seeds now seem to be arriving, but in how complete supply cannot at present be told. On the steamer Rochambeau, from Havre, which arrived at New York September 8, there were several good sized consignments to American seedsmen. Of seed there were 200 bags for J. Bolgiano & Son; fifty-nine bags for I. N. Simon & Son, and 150 bags for P. Henderson & Co. There were also on the same boat thirteen cases of plants for P. Henderson & Co. and seventy-three cases for Vaughan's Seed Store. Importing houses, also, received several hundred bags of seed on this steamer.

SEED'S UNFITNESS NOT PROVED.

Iowa Court Acquits Wholesaler.

When a retail dealer in seeds sues a wholesaler for damages claimed to have resulted from inferiority of a shipment, the mere fact that ultimate consumers complained of the quality of seeds bought by them is not legal proof of defective quality, according to the decision of the Iowa Supreme Court in the case of Natchez Drug Co., of Natchez, Miss., against the Ratekin Seed House, of Shenandoah, Ia. (146 Northwestern Reporter 865). There must be direct proof of the unfitness of the seeds.

It was further decided in the same case that the mere fact that a wholesale seedsman, on receiving a claim on account of inferiority of seeds, agrees to allow it, if the customer will consent to the claim being carried over to the next year's account, does not constitute an admission of liability, being merely an offer to compromise the claim, rather than fight it. But the court holds that where the wholesaler, on receiving such a claim, instructs the retailer to sell the seed at the best possible advantage, promising to reimburse the latter, the retailer is entitled to recover the excess of the purchase price paid above the price obtained on the resale.

Lack of Legal Proof.

The subject of controversy in this case was a shipment of seed corn. Part of the opinion reads:

"There were 770 bushels received by the plaintiff in this shipment from the defendant. All of this was sold except 130 bushels. Of the corn sold complaint was made by the purchasers of but sixty-three bushels. There is no evidence in this record that any portion of the sixty-three bushels was not, in fact, fit for seed. To recover under an implied warranty that the seed was unfit for the purpose for which it was sold, there should be substantive evidence that it was not, in fact, fit for the purpose for which it was sold. A mere complaint that it was unfit does not establish its unfitness. It would be a harsh rule that required wholesale seed houses to refund to their customers the purchase price of seed corn upon mere complaint that the seed corn was not fit for the purposes for which it was sold. To hold such a rule would leave the wholesaler absolutely at the mercy of the purchasers of the retailer, who, for the purpose of protecting his own trade, was willing to refund to his purchasers, upon mere complaint, the amount paid for the corn, at the expense of the wholesaler."

It is to be noted that no disclaimer of warranty appears to have been made by the wholesale seed house in this instance. S.

20,000 Florists in the United States are Losing Millions Annually because they do not create a demand for their flowers. There is only one way to do it—advertise. There is $180,000,000.00 WORTH OF ICE CREAM consumed yearly in the U. S. A., or about 1½ gallons per capita. Most of this money is spent in the summer. The business has increased 500% in the last ten years—due to advertising. Suppose, instead of ice cream, there were 1½ dozen lilies consumed per capita. It would require 1800 million lilies to supply the demand, whereas the present annual consumption in America is a measly 40 million. The whole world's crop of white lilies is only about 90 million flowers, which at 20 cents each is a mere 18 million dollars—only one-tenth the value of the ice cream sold. Everyone won't buy lilies, and everyone won't buy ice cream, but there should be as many buyers of lilies as there are of ice cream, if the proper demand is created. This is only one instance showing the flower business is in its infancy. The future is up to you, Mr. Florist—you will have to advertise more. There is money in the lily business if modern methods are used and good bulbs secured. When a successful grower talks of lily bulbs he thinks automatically of Horseshoe Brand, because they are responsible for more success in the lily business than any brand ever produced. Those who buy any old brand or no brand at all, are, in time, necessarily slated for the greased chute. Get Horseshoe Brand lily bulbs—money-makers.

8 respectively, added nearly 7,000 cases of Holland bulbs to the season's total imports. These two boatloads made the total so far imported this season through the port of New York 23,160 cases. A comparison of these figures with those of the total Dutch bulb imports through this port in the last two years shows that we have received practically the season's supply. Whatever additional shipments are received from now on may be counted as surplus. Of the size of this, advance notices have given no definite information, although it is well understood that this season's crop is a good one and cancellations of European orders have been numerous.

SHIPMENTS FROM ENGLAND.

Shipments of seeds from England are not likely to be held up by the European war, at least not for the present. British concerns are advertising the continuation of business as before, and the steamers from English ports arrive each day carrying as much freight as ever. Among it are consignments of seeds to the American trade. The Cedric, the Kroonland and the Philadelphia, from Liverpool, and the Minnetonka, from London, which arrived between September 5 and 7, carried

NEW SWEET PEA
MARGARET ATLEE
THE SPENCER SUPREME

MARGARET ATLEE.
Life size as grown for exhibition by special culture. Electros of this at $1.75 each.

The largest and finest Sweet Pea yet introduced. First Prize American Sweet Pea Society. Silver Medal National Sweet Pea Society of Great Britain, London, July, 1914.

MARGARET ATLEE is a rosy-salmon pink on a creamy-buff ground; a rich, soft color, and extremely attractive, both as individual flowers and in the bunch. The standard is large and wavy and inclined to double under favorable conditions. The wings are equally large, wavy and well set. It runs almost uniformly four blossoms to the stem; well poised and graceful. In all respects, it is the grandest Sweet Pea we have ever grown, either from foreign introductions or American varieties.

MARGARET ATLEE has finally yielded us sufficient seed to warrant our adopting a unique method of exploiting it. We are confident that America does not half appreciate real SPENCER SWEET PEAS, and we propose to use MARGARET ATLEE as a missionary in the hope that it will invade every home garden where Sweet Peas can be grown.

MARGARET ATLEE was introduced in 1912, but a short crop that year and the year following prevented our offering it to the trade, and it has not yet appeared in our Contract Lists.

Messrs. Lowe & Shawyer, the largest flower growers in Great Britain, simply insisted on having some of it last season and we let them have a pound out of our planting stock, to be used for growing cut flowers for the Covent Garden Market. They had a packet of it the year previous and considered it the very finest thing they had ever seen in Sweet Peas. With them it is a leader as a florist flower.

Ever so many people who have seen bouquets of Margaret Atlee have exclaimed, "Are those really Sweet Peas?"

Under ordinary culture they are delicate and refined to a degree. Under special culture for exhibition flowers they produce unusually large thick petals and enormous stems and leaves. It is not uncommon to see stems 22 inches long, ¼ inch thick and leaves 5½ inches across.

MARGARET ATLEE.
Life size as grown by ordinary culture. Electros of this at $1.00 each.

MARGARET ATLEE will be put up in inside white packets, 2x3½ inches, simply printed thus:

There will also be an outside packet in salmon pink, 2⅞x4½ inches, printed thus:

several that may be noted. The first two boats from Liverpool each brought 100 bags of grass seed to the Nungesser-Dickinson Seed Co., and the third twelve cases of onion seed to Wells, Fargo & Co. On the steamer from London were 200 bags of clover seed, consigned to the American Transportation Co., twenty-two bags of seed for J. M. Thorburn & Co. and twenty sacks of grass seed on order. On board the Kroonland and the Philadelphia were three consignments of bulbs, of thirty-five, four and fifty-two cases, consigned respectively to W. S. Stern, V. L. Larzelere & Co. and Maltus & Ware.

CRIMSON CLOVER SEED.

Since November 1, 1913, there have been imported into the United States 3,329,883 pounds of crimson clover seed. This seed comes mostly from France and Austria, where the harvest season is practically the same as in this country. The time for seeding follows the harvest season so closely that only a part of the imported seed is received in time to be sown the year it is raised. If the conditions of storage are not the best the seed may lose materially in vitality between the time of harvest and that of seeding the next year.

New seed of good quality is free from any brownish color, but old seed shows varying degrees of brown according to age and conditions under which it has been stored. The brownish color is an indication of poor germination—the darker the color the poorer the germination. According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, seed which shows a slight brownish color should be tested for germination before sowing, and no brown seed should be used unless a germination test shows it will grow well.

Germination tests of the 119 lots of crimson clover seed imported in the last eight months show an average of eighty per cent of live seeds. The germination varied from forty per cent for the poorest lot to ninety-seven per cent for the best lot.

THE WAR AND THE SEED TRADE.

"We have received several letters as to the position of the seed trade with regard to advance orders," says the Horticultural Advertiser (British). "Members of the trade recently returned from the continent report that there is an almost certain shortage of many lines of seed grown in France and Germany. Apart from the fact that no trade is possible at present with Germany, and that in some parts of France the crops may be ruined by the war, we have to face the position that pretty well every able-bodied Frenchman is under arms and that the harvest this year must be gathered largely by old men and boys. Foodstuffs will probably have the preference, so that the seed harvest is bound to suffer.

"The prospect before us is, that as regards seeds wholly or largely produced abroad, there will either be no stocks available or extreme scarcity, and the question arises, what is the position of those who have booked advance orders which they will be unable to fulfill?

"We are advised that a state of war does not alter ordinary laws of commerce, or dissolve engagements entered into, whether before or after its commencement. From the strictly legal standpoint there appears to be no doubt that buyers can enforce agreements and insist upon delivery, or in default sue for the difference in price between the contract and that obtaining in the market at the time of delivery.

"We hope, however, that at a time like the present, when we are engaged in a struggle in which not our honor only,

THE BATTLE DAY.

Memorial is the battle day of the florist, when he is besieged on all sides, and by every method of communication—a perfect rain of orders and customers. He then needs blossoms, and lots of them. He needs something that he can quickly serve to the thronging crowd; something that will please customer and be profitable to seller. There is nothing that will beat seedling Silver Pink Snaps for this purpose. Have them in sight and they sell themselves. They require no "making up," are easy to pack, and your trouble is soon over. This talk doesn't come through our hat, but from actual experience. A crop of Snap blossoms at Memorial means more than we can tell you. Sow seed any time now. They will flower throughout spring and come with a double header for the greatest of flower days—Memorial. Price of new crop seed, $1.00 per trade packet; 3 for $2.50; 7 for $5.00, postpaid. Free cultural directions.

If you want blossoms from Christmas on buy plants which are now ready. They are fine, healthy stock, and the price is only $4.00 per 100; $35.00 per 1000. Less than 100, 5c each. Also have plants of a good white at same price, and of Crimson Gem, a stunning new one, at only $6.00. All orders cash.

I also have fresh seed of Buxton's and Nelrose Snaps at 35c per packet of several thousand seeds; 3 packets for $1.00. Can furnish cuttings and plants of these varieties for later delivery at very low prices.

The Snapdragon is a specialty with us. Tell us your needs.

but even our national existence may be involved, there will be a better spirit among us than that of mere legalism.

"It is absolutely necessary for the good of every branch of our trade that there should be some reasonable spirit of give and take among us, and not too much insistence on the actual letter of the law, when such insistence would entail hardship and injustice to anyone concerned.

"Our own view of the case is that in those instances where there is merely a rise in market value, the early buyer is entitled to claim the result of his foresight, but where the whole or a large proportion of the stock of any seed is grown on the continent and full delivery is manifestly impossible, due allowance should be made, and a disposition shown to accept the best arrangement which is possible under the circumstances.

"It goes without saying that sellers will do the utmost that lies in their power in the interests of their customers, and we hope these will meet them in a proper spirit. A large compensation for the terrible evils of war is the finer spirit of patriotism evoked and the deepened feeling of brotherliness and charity to all around us, and we hope that this will not only be shown in all public and national matters, but reflected also in all our private and business concerns."
